INTRODUCTION.

AFTER sixteen years of preparation on the part of the undersigned the present volume is issued from the press. Information relating to the early male members, and to many of the female lines of that period, has been derived chiefly from public records, in manuscript, of States, counties, towns, churches, etc. In the libraries of several different cities hundreds of town histories and other valuable books were carefully examined in the early stages of the work, and certain facts were thereby gained, but it was the plan to find, when possible, the sources of previous writers' statements and deductions, in the old public records, and to draw from the latter exactly as if the items had not been read by others. Because of this, and because details pertaining to the family which have previously been printed constitute but a small fraction of the whole, it may be said that the authorities for the statements of this work are the original records. When it has been found impossible to learn whence a previous writer derived his information, he has been credited with the statement at the point where it appears in these pages.

All possible care has been used to make individual connections and the biographical sketches of early members accurate. As to dates taken from old town and church records, it is hoped that, in making copies, slips of the pen have been avoided. In the reports of living members, concerning more recent events, errors of date have appeared which were so noticeable that they were at once detected and, upon request, were corrected by the senders; but it would be surprising if there were not others which could not be detected, and which, consequently, are incorporated in these pages. The responsibility of this volume as to comparatively modern dates which have been received by mail must be disclaimed.

The list of soldiers of the Rebellion, on page 36, should include the names of Nathaniel J. Manning, 1561*a*, John S. Manning, 1561*d*, Isaac S. Manning, 1561*e*, and Thomas W. Manning, 1561*f.* The omission is regretted, but the list was in print before their records were received.

Having been sole publisher of this volume the compiler hopes that the general appearance thereof, and the arrangement of records, will be satisfactory to subscribers. To them he will say that, while the arrangement is his own, the outline plan is common to all genealogical works. These, however, differ widely in many particulars, and, adopting what has been considered the best features of all, he has sought to present these records in a form whereby simplicity, clearness, and facility of examination should be secured.

During the preparation of the genealogy, letters were received from individuals of the name of Manning who did not belong to the family, and, in some cases, from those whose early ancestry could not be determined. Believing that these reports will, in the future, be useful to some one who undertakes a similar work relating to the Manning families of the Middle and Southern States, an abstract of the letters will be made in a manuscript book and placed in the library of the Long Island Historical Society, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and, if the letters are destroyed, the abstract will contain every item and clew to be found in the letters. A few branches of the two families dealt with in this volume have not been traced, and the writer will be glad, at any time, to hear from those who can give information concerning them, and especially from representatives of said branches. The compiler's present address is not a permanent residence, and if, after a few years, correspondents find it impossible to reach him thus, by mail, they are requested to address him at "Manning Manse," North Billerica, Mass. Also, it is suggested that, in the future, all members keep as closely as possible in touch with the Manning Association, as mentioned on page 75, and that all births, marriages and deaths be reported and recorded at the family headquarters at North Billerica. A limited number of extra copies of this volume have been printed, and may be secured while they last. For a short time the price will remain unchanged, but, as advance subscribers were given the benefit of a reduced rate, the price will, in due time, be raised to the regular rates for such works.

WILLIAM H. MANNING.

THE EARLIEST MANNINGS KNOWN TO HISTORY.

THE ancestors of the present members of the Manning families early founded in this country were from England, where representatives of the general family had long been numerous. It is claimed that British records, published by order of Parliament, show that the name occurred in twenty-two counties in that kingdom as early as the year 1272. The predecessors of these early inhabitants went to England from what is now Germany. All Englishmen of the present time make this statement. The name is now common in Ireland, and by some of its possessors is supposed to be purely Irish, but in the course of an extensive correspondence the writer has found that all highly educated Irishmen agree on two points; first, that the name was there introduced by emigrants from England, and secondly, that at a more remote period the family was of the same origin as has been mentioned above. These accounts differ slightly as to the particular Continental province whence their ancestors came, but nine-tenths of them unite in saying that the family was of Saxon origin. Fortunately, we have something more definite and of a previous date to aid us. In Hasted's Kent (County of Kent, England), published in 1797, occurs the following reference to the Mannings: "They are said to be descended from an ancient and noble family which took its name from Manning, a town in Saxony, whence they came to England before the Conquest."

Simon de Manning was the earliest representative of the family mentioned by Hasted, and of him there is now general knowledge in England. His home was at Downe, County Kent.

He lived in the time of King Richard I, who reigned A.D. 1189–1199, and “was the first of the English barons to take up the cross and go with King Richard to the Holy Wars” in the Second Crusade, when he was knighted. This was considerably later than the Conquest, but in a subsequent part of this article will be found a statement tending to bridge this gap.

After the time of the above Simon the family steadily increased in numbers, and when this country was settled, it was, as before stated, numerous in England. Wills and other valuable papers are on record there, and the admirable work of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, in having abstracts thereof made and printed in their “Register,” makes it possible to learn of many different persons of the Manning name who lived and died prior to 1700. None of the ancient wills thus far examined mentions relatives in America, and until something of the kind is discovered it can only be said that we know the general race from which we have descended. The connection exists, but the connecting link has not been found. Despite this fact it is believed that interest will be felt in an account which mentions some of these early Mannings, and that, instead of resorting to selections from different publications, it may be well to quote what is said by Hasted. His mention of the family has the merit of age, and nowhere else has anything been found that is at once so connected and comprehensive. It here follows :

DOWNE. — John Manning was of Cowdham, and died in the 14th year of King Henry IV [A.D. 1412], “leaving John Manning, his son, who by Juliana, daughter and heir of Richard Broekhill, had Hugh Manning of St. Mary’s Cray, who married the daughter of Sir William Brandon, by whom he had two sons, of whom Richard, the youngest, settled at St. Mary’s Cray, where his posterity continued until within these few years;” and John, the eldest, married Agnes, daughter of John Petley, of Downe, “who, on the division of the inheritance of the Petley heirs became entitled to the manor of Downe-court. He died possessed of it in the 35th year of King Henry VIII [1543], and lies buried with Agnes his wife in this church. His descendant, Peter Manning, Esq., of Trowmer, in the reign of King James I [1603–1625] alienated this manor, and in 1657 it was in possession of John Palmer;” but “the seat itself, since called Downe Court, was by his son, Henry Manning, Esq., of Greenwich, separated from the manor and sold to Sir Francis Carew. Downe is within the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the diocese of Rochester. It is a peculiar of the archbishop of Canterbury, and as such is in the deanery of Shoreham. In the great chancel of the church, on the south side of the altar, is a gravestone and brass plate with inscription in black letter for John Manning and Agnes his wife; he died in 1543; above, a shield of arms, being a cross flory between four cinquefoils impaling two bends ingrailed and a canton. On the south side, a gravestone and memorial for Edward Manning, once of Prince Charles' household, youngest son of Peter Manning, Esq., of Trowmer, and Elizabeth his wife, daughter and coheir of Jacob Verzelini, lord of the manor of Downe, obt. 1622, æt. 20."

COWDHAM.—"Richard de Chersholt had property in the hamlet of Bertrey, or Bettred, and held the reeveship of the manor of Bertrey under Geoffrey de Say, who discharged him from this office in the 15th year of King Edward II [A. D. 1316]. He died without male issue, and his daughter and heir carried the estate, which he held in it, in marriage to William de Manning who died in the 17th year of King Edward III [A. D. 1343]. He was the son of Stephen de Manning, of whom there is mention in old deeds of the time of King Edward I [A. D. 1272-1302], who descended from Simon de Manning to whom John Silvester, of Westerham, demised land by deed in the 14th year of King Richard I [A. D. 1202], and who was engaged in the holy war against the Saracens under that king. They are said to be descended from an ancient and noble family which took its name from Manning, a town in Saxony, whence they came to England before the Conquest, and some of them are said to have settled in Friesland. They bore for their arms, Gules, a cross potence, or flory, between four cinquefoils or. From him it descended to Hugh Manning who settled at St. Mary's Cray and left two sons, of whom John, the elder, was of Downe, and Richard, the younger, of Kevington in St. Mary's Cray, where his posterity remained until within these few years. Kevington was for some generations the residence of the Mannings. In the reign of King Henry IV [A. D. 1399-1413] John Manning was settled in the parish of Cowdham. His son of the same name was also of that parish, and died 14 Henry VI [A. D. 1435], leaving by Juliana, his wife, daughter of Richard Brockhill, one son, Hugh Manning, who was of St. Mary's Cray and married the daughter of Sir William Brandon, kinswoman to Charles, duke of Suffolk, by whom he had two sons—John, who settled at Downe, from whom descended the Mannings of Downe, Halsted and Westerham; and Richard, who continued at St. Mary's Cray and had three sons; of whom Richard,* son of Thomas, the eldest, is said in his epitaph to have been of Manning's Hall, the old family seat. He lies buried in this church with the rest of his family. The Heraldic Visitations of Kent, 1619, gives the arms of Manning—Gules, a cross potence between four cinquefoils or. Notwithstanding which it appears by their monuments and gravestones in this church, which was the burial place of the family for many generations, that the Mannings of this parish bore the cinquefoils in their coat of arms flipt; those of Westerham bore, a chevron between three cinquefoils flipt. John Manning, youngest son of Richard above mentioned, was of Kevington, and had two sons, Edward, who was bred to the law, and Richard; the former of whom succeeded to this manor in 1640. Edward Manning, great grandson of Edward, the youngest son of Edward above mentioned, succeeded at length to Kevington and married Anne, only daughter of Sir Henry Onslow. He died in 1703 and was buried in this church; on which Richard Manning, Esq., their eldest surviving son, succeeded to the manor and resided at Kevington, where he died 1753 without issue."

CHURCH AT ST. MARY'S CRAY. — "In the great chancel, within the rails of the altar, a mural monument for one of the Manning family, the arms at the top are defaced; on the south side, within the rails, an altar tomb, on which are the figures of a gentleman and lady finely engraved in brass, and over them an inscription for Richard, son of John Manning, gent., who married Rachael, one of the daughters and coheirs of William White of Hempsted, in Middlesex, with whom he lived thirty-nine years, and died in 1604, æt. 63, without issue, leaving her surviving; above are the arms of Manning, Gules, a cross potence between four cinquefoils flipt or, a cross for difference. On the north side, within the rails, opposite the above, is an altar tomb with a brass plate, with an inscription for Richard, son of Tho. Manning, who dwelt and died at Manning's Hall, the old homestead of the family. He died in 1605, æt. 72. On a gravestone without the rails, * This sentence lacks clearness, but the meaning seems to be that the second Richard was son of Thomas, and that the latter was "the eldest son" of the first Richard.

a memorial for Edward, son of Edward Manning, Esq., who married the only daughter of Sir Henry Onslow of Drungwick, in Sussex, by whom he had fifteen children, nine of whom are here buried, and Thomas was then living, ob. 1703, æt. 49; above are these arms, quarterly. 1st, Manning, as above; 2d, a cross between twelve croslets fitchee impaling a fess between six rooks. A memorial for Edward, son of Edw. Manning, Esq., and Anne his wife, daughter of Geff. Nightingale, Esq., of Newport Pond, in Essex. He died in 1640, æt. 65; she died in 1659, æt. 79. Richard Manning, Esq., died in 1753, æt. 54; above are these arms, quarterly; 1st and 4th, Manning; 2d, a bend counter-changed; 3d, a cross between twelve cross croslet, fitchee; at the bottom, in a lozenge, the arms of Manning impaling per pale ermine a rose. On the hatchment against the screen, on the north side, are the arms of Manning, a crescent for difference, and over them an inscription shewing, that under a stone in this chancel lies buried Thomas Manning, of the exchequer office, gent. of Clifford's inn, second son of Edw. Manning, Esq., of this parish. He died unmarried in 1704. On the north side of the altar is a boarded pannel, shewing that the same was erected by Stephen Parker and Anne, his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Onslow, to the memory of her three children, Edward, Elizabeth and Anne Manning, who lie buried in this church by their father, Edward Manning, Esq."

THE HUNDRED OF WESTERHAM. — Hill Park, in the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's reign became the property of "Jacob Verzelini, Esq., of Downe, in this county, a Venetian born, and he died possessed of it in the 5th of King James I [A.D. 1607]. By his daughter Elizabeth it went in marriage to Peter Manning, Esq., of Trowmer, in the parish of Downe, one of whose descendants, in the next reign of Charles I, passed it away to Mr. Raulph Manning of London, a branch of them, who bore for their arms, Argent, a chevron gules, between three cinquefoils of the second, in whose family it remained till the year 1718, when it was alienated." . . . "Westerham is in the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the diocese of Rochester, and deanery of Malling." In the church "is an inscription to Nicholas Manning, gent., obt. 1723, and Mary his wife, daughter of Samuel Missenden, Esq.," and also the altar tombs of "Thomas Manning, Esq., of Valence, obt. 1695, and for Susan, his wife, daughter of Sir Thomas Dacas, obt. 1654."

Of the extracts here given from Hasted's Kent that relating to Downe has here been slightly recast, and the article on the Hundred of Westerham is abridged, while the accounts of Cowdham and the Church of St. Mary's Cray are given without any change.

Ten years ago an American gentleman sent an English photographer to the church, and the report of the latter is here given:

“We visited the church of St. Mary's Cray, Kent, on August 11, 1891, for the purpose of photographing the monuments which covered the walls of the church to various members of the Manning family from 1100 to 1640. Finding the walls of the church quite clear of memorial stones, etc., we made inquiries of the verger, who told us that the present church was rebuilt about 1650, and since that date has been restored several times. The monuments from 1100 to 1640 appear to have been destroyed at the time of building the present church in the year 1650. Nothing which referred to the Mannings could be found in the present church, except two monuments of slate with bronze figures on the floor of the sanctuary, one either side of the altar, and these being right in the corner of the church, it was impossible to take a photograph. The following are exact copies: ‘Here Richard Manning lies, Son of Thomas Manning, he dwelt & died at Mannings' Hall. He departed Sept<sup>r</sup> 22nd A.D. 1605 in the 72nd year of his age.’ The second read: ‘Here lyeth buried the body of Richard Manning, Son of John Manning Gent. Who tooke to wife Rachael one of ‘y Daughters & Co heyres of W<sup>m</sup> White of Hamsteed in Middlesex with whome having happily lyved to the service of God, & relief of the poore 39 years, in the 63<sup>d</sup> year of his age he dyed without issue the 18 Jan<sup>y</sup> 1604 his wife yet surviving purposeth by God's permission to be here, interred by him at her death in whose fellowship she enjoyed ‘y comfort of her life.’”

These two stones are mentioned by Hasted. To one who has followed the evidence thus far several questions naturally arise, with a desire to have a confusion of statements removed. As it cannot now be done, the matter will not be enlarged upon here.

Cardinal Manning wrote, in 1884, as follows: “As to the family in England there were three branches, one in Kent, a second in Sussex, and a third in Norfolk, all bearing the same shield, a cross with four trefoils, the crests slightly varying, an eagle's head on a crown, with either two feathers or two palm branches; the motto the same in all cases I know of except one, viz, Malo mori quam foedari " [I would rather die than be disgraced].

It has been shown that the family name was at one time De Manning, but that the prefix was finally dropped. Mark Antony Lower, M.A., F.S.A., in his " Dictionary of the Family Names of the United Kingdom," showing the derivation of surnames, says :

" MANNING. An ancient personal name, still seen in Manningham, Mannington, Manningtree, etc. Mr. Ferguson derives it from the O. Norse manningi, a brave or valiant man."

About the year 1860 there was an English traveler in this country who passed under the name of Colonel St. George, but who, in private, declared himself to be a younger brother of Cardinal Manning. To several Americans whom he met he gave written accounts of the early English Mannings. Certain statements in these accounts cannot be accepted, but in the main they agree so well with what has been quoted from Hasted that it seems well to give an extract from his manuscript relating to an earlier date than appears in the preceding :

"The family of Manning came into England from Mannheim, Germany, of which Ranulph de Mannheim was Count Palatine, in the year 940. He married Elgida, aunt to King Harold, and had large grants of land in the county of Kent, which included the towns of Downe, Cowdham, St. Mary's Cray, Crayford and Toots Cray." In another of this traveler's accounts there was a variation (unless some one misread his writing) whereby the above name was made " Rudolph de Manning, or Mannheim," and the year of emigration, 970. This second account states that Rudolph was grandfather of Simon de Manning; the same Simon mentioned by Hasted. The present writer has not found reference to Rudolph, otherwise Ranulph, in any old English work; perhaps it has been overlooked. In the lack of such corroboration the statements of this paragraph are given without comment.

It will be noticed that Hasted says that the Mannings went to England from " Manning, a town in Saxony." The present Mannheim, in Germany, however, lies some forty miles southwest of Frankfort, and considerably removed from the bounds of the Saxony of the year 1000. In view of this conflict of facts it may be useless to say more of the present Mannheim, yet two items will be given. It (Mannheim) is one of the comparatively modern cities of Germany, and it is only since the 17th century that it has been of any importance, while its early history is told in a German Encyclopedia thus: "On the site of Mannheim there lay since the 8th century, in the neighborhood of a former Roman settlement, the Villa Manniheim, belonging to the monastery of Larsch." The German word Mannheim is of two parts, Mann being the same as the English "man," and heim meaning "home," but, in the opinion of a German scholar, this does not appear to be a likely explanation of the name. He believes, rather, that "Mann" is merely the termination of some old German tribal name ending in — manni, as, for instance, the Alemanni.

The last three paragraphs are given for what they are worth.

THE EARLY MANNINGS OF AMERICA.

The first settlements in what is now the United States had not long been made when our family name was introduced here by settlers of the name of Manning. Here their descendants have remained ever since, increasing in numbers until they are now to be found by the thousands. Almost from the first planting of the Colonies they had part in the development and conduct of the country. They have been represented in almost every line of endeavor, manual, business and professional. For one hundred years they took part in the Colonial wars, and they fought in the Revolution, the war of 1812, the Rebellion and the war with Spain. It is believed that they performed their full proportionate part in these wars. They have been numerous in the North, and, it would seem equally so in the South. Maryland and Virginia have been liberally peopled by them, and perhaps the other Southern states had as large a representation. As this compilation has dealt with another section it cannot be here stated from whom the Mannings of the South descended, although settlers bearing the name early went to Virginia. In the North there were two families early founded in Massachusetts which have been continued to the present time, and one in New Jersey; and later came other settlers. In due place in this volume more extended information will be given of these settlers, but a brief chronological table bearing upon the subject may be introduced here.

1623. Portsmouth, N. H., settled.

1628. Salem, Mass., settled.

1629. The charter of Massachusetts was granted, and Charlestown, Lynn and Weymouth were settled.

1630. Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury, Watertown and Medford were settled.

1634. William Manning, ancestor of the large Cambridge family, located about this time at Cambridge.

1634. John Manning was at Ipswich, and, 1636, Thomas Manning appeared in the same town. It cannot be asserted that their families were long continued in the male line.

1653. George Manning was at Boston. Probably all his sons died unmarried.

1662. Nicholas Manning settled at Salem as early as this date, and being followed from England, in 1679, by his mother, brothers and sisters, these brothers became the ancestors of the present Salem-Ipswich family.

1676. Jeffrey Manning settled, as early as this year, in Piscataway township, New Jersey, and was the ancestor of the large and important New Jersey family, of which President James Manning, of Brown College, was a representative.

SERVICE OF THE MANNINGS IN THE EARLY WARS.

From the time when there was the first need of their aid to the present day the Manning families have been represented in the wars of the Colonies and the Republic, and, it is believed, generously represented in proportion to their numbers. They have taken part in every war unless that with Mexico was an exception; of that period there is no report. In this volume each member's service is entered in his individual sketch, and furthermore, a list of the names of all soldiers of all our wars appears, grouped, just before the genealogical records of each family. The present section is not in any sense a complete history of the service of any known member; such a history appears only in his individual sketch. This article is a summary of what has been found on the official rolls of the wars before 1800 (not after), and is merely a list for convenient reference. In the early wars there was service rendered, and entered on the rolls, which cannot now be allotted with certainty to any particular person. These cases appear here, together with service that is understood. When the identity of the soldier is known his individual number will be given in parenthesis immediately after his name, while the unallotted service will be placed in form where others can study the respective instances at their leisure. The scarcity of names of Connecticut soldiers of the Colonial wars is due to the fact that there are, as yet, but few rolls in the possession of the State. These are being augmented by acquisitions from towns and private individuals, and the next ten years will doubtless see large additions of rolls and a corresponding increase of Manning names. Unfortunately, this work must go to press without these names, for no one knows where to find the scattered rolls, which come to light only through the force of circumstances. The abbreviations which follow, other than those in common use, refer to the families dealt with in this volume. "Camb." means, a member of the Cambridge family; "S. I.," the Salem-Ipswich family; "Mis.," the miscellaneous families at the end of the book. Index numbers refer to the original volumes. No effort has been made to include any service but that rendered with the troops of the New England States.

COLONIAL WARS.

ABNER MANNING (Camb. 186). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Wm. Flint and Col. Ichabod Plaisted, 1756; at Fort Edward, July 26; age 21, born at Billerica; again, roll of Oct. 11, dated at Ft. William Henry; Abner reported deceased. Index, 94-197, 348, 502.

BENJAMIN MANNING (Camb. 38). Mass. troops. Residence, Billerica; served 1725, May 29 to July 1, under Capt. Eleazer Tyng; again, 1725, July 2 to Oct. 28, under Capt. Josiah Willard. Index, 91-190½, 194.

BENJAMIN MANNING (Camb. 160). Mass. troops. Muster list, 1756, May 7, Capt. Jonathan Butterfield's Co.; again, in same Co. at Ft. Edward, 1756, July 26, age 22, born Billerica; again, reported sick in muster roll of Oct. 11; again, roll of 1757, Mch. 18, residence Billerica, served 1756, Apr. 22 to Nov. 7, reported deceased. Index, 94-185, 325, 458 and 95-85.

BENJAMIN MANNING (Camb. 183). Mass. troops. Residence, Cambridge, under Capt. Ebenezer Newell and Col. Ruggles, served 1755, Apr. 4 to Oct. 31, expedition against Crown Point; again, served 1756, Mch.

19, to 1757, Jan. 9, under Capt. Thos. Lord and Col. Richard Gridley; age 25, born Cambridge, residence do., joined from Charlestown, expedition against Crown Point; again, in Col. John Kingsbury's Co. of carpenters at Lake George, 1757, Feb. 7; again, sergeant under Capt. Thos. Cheever, expedition against Crown Point; residence "probably Charlestown;" served 1757, Feb. 22 to Oct 23; again, 1758, Mch. 29 to Nov. 10, under Capt. Wm. Angier and Col. Jos. Williams; again, 1760, for the reduction of Canada; again, 1760, May 17 to Dec. 4; residence, Cambridge; under Capt. John Small. Index, 94-87, 124, 328, 442, and 95-199, 200, 225, and 96-53, 64, 104, 104*a*, 267, 341, and 98-31, 346.

DANIEL MANNING (Mis. 94). Mass. troops. Born New Hampshire, residence, "Hampshire," enlisted from Ipswich; in Crown Point expedition 1756, Mch. 18 to Dec., under Capt. Israel Davis and Col. Jonathan Bagley. Index, 94-386, 477, 520, and 95-116.

DAVID MANNING (Camb. 121). Conn. troops. Served 1758, June 3 to Oct. 27 under Capt. Samuel Elmer [Elmore?]. Residence not given; probably Litchfield Co. Not indexed.

GEORGE MANNING (Mis. 12). Mass. troops. Residence, Boston; in King Philip's war under Capt. Samuel Mosely, 1675-6, Jan. 25, and in garrison at Westfield, Sept. 23 after.

JAMES MANNING (Camb. 233). Mass. troops. Residence, Charlestown; served under Capt. John Taplin from 1759, Apr. 2 to Sep. 1760(?); again, under same captain, Colonel Frye's regt.; in service in Nova Scotia, 1760, Jan. 1 and paid to Sep. 5. Index, 98-342, 443.

JOEL MANNING (Camb. 178). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Jonathan Butterfield, expedition against Canada; enlisted 1758, Apr. 11; paid to May 27. Index, 96-134.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 12). Mass. troops. Under Sir William Phipps in the expedition against Canada in 1690. No rolls are known to exist. See Mass. Archives 115-684, 685; Cumberland Co., Me., deed 12-512; Boston Gazette, 1772, Aug. 8, adv., etc.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 29 or 34). Mass. troops. Residence, Cambridge; under Capt. Samuel Wheelwright, 1723, Oct. 23, to 1724, June 2; again, under the same, 1724 or 1725, June 2 to Nov. 16. Nearly all men were residents of Maine; only John was from Cambridge. Index, 91-112, 209.

JOHN MANNING (Mis. 44). Surgeon in Louisburg expedition from Mass., 1745. Whether he was a resident of Mass. is unknown.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 152). Mass. troops. Residence, Lancaster. Served 1755, Apr. 7 to Nov. 6, under Capt. Benj. Ballard; again, 1755, Dec. 17 to 1756, Mch. 29, under the same, both services Crown Point expedition; again, under the same, 1756, Mch. 29 to Oct. 9. Index, 94-123, and 95-17 (two).

JOHN MANNING (Service not allotted. Perhaps the same as previous John). Mass. troops. Residence, Boston; under Capt. David White and Col. Jos. Williams, 1758, Apr. 27 to Nov. 23. Index, 96-489, and 97-24.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 157). Mass. troops. In expedition against Canada, 1758, Apr. 27 to May 28, under Capt. Samuel Glover. Index, 97-73.

JOHN MANNING (S. I. 76). Mass. troops. Residence, Ipswich; "father or master," John Manning; under Capt. Israel Herrick, 1760, Mch. 4 to Dec. 6. Index, 98-276.

JOSEPH MANNING (Camb. 122). Conn. troops. Drummer, 1761, Apr. 1 to Dec. 4, under Capt. John Spaulding, 12th Co., 1st Regt., General Lyman. Not indexed.

MICHAEL MANNING (Unknown). Mass. troops. Residence, Boston; in expedition against Canada, 1760, June 16 to Dec. 6, under Capt. John Gray. Index, 98-331, 410.

NICHOLAS MANNING (S. I. 2). Mass. troops. Residence, Salem; in King Philip's war under Capt. Nicholas Paige; again, was captain of a company in that service.

PATRICK MANNING (Mis. 54). Mass. troops. Of the alarm list, Berwick (now in Maine), about 1755-60; no record showing that he actually served. Index, 95-370.

PHINEAS MANNING (Camb. 127). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Benj. Lee and Col. Elisha Williams, 1746, June 16 to 1747, Oct. 25, in a regiment that perhaps saw no service; again, 1755, Sep. 1 to Nov. 3, under Capt. Eliphalet Dyer; again, 1756, Apr. 9 to Oct. 16, under Capt. John Payson; again, 1761, under Capt. Wolcott. Not indexed.

RICHARD MANNING (S. I. 32). Mass. troops. Captain of a "troop of Horse" under Col. Daniel Appleton, 1757, which marched from Ipswich to Springfield in Aug. Index, 95-551.

ROBERT MANNING (S. I. 94). Mass. troops. Residence, Oxford; under Capt. Aaron Willard, 1760, Mch. 29 to Dec. 8; again, 1761, May 18 to Dec. 2, under Capt. Thomas Cowdin; again, under the same, 1762, Mch. 15 to Nov. 13; "father or master," Samuel Manning. Index, 98-389 and 99-113, 227.

SAMUEL MANNING (S. I. 92). Mass. troops. Residence, Oxford; age 17, born Salem; in camp at Lake George, 1756, Sep. 19, under Capt. Ebenezer Larned and Col. Timothy Ruggles; again, on muster roll of said company, 1756, Oct. 12; again, under Capt. Samuel Davis and, later, Capt. John Larned, 1757, Aug., for the relief of Ft. William Henry; again, in 1758, May, under Capt. James Johnson and Col. Ruggles; again, billeting roll of the same; again, 1759, May 7 to Dec. 11, under Capt. Jeremiah Larned, expedition against Crown Point; Samuel a sergeant; called "Jr.," because of his grandfather of the same name; "father or master" (in this case, master) Samuel Manning. Index, 94-214, 412, 492, and 95-536, 96-127, 154, and 97-339. It is believed that the two items which follow relate to the same man, though the multiplicity of captains causes confusion and a slight degree of uncertainty.

SAMUEL MANNING (probably the same as previous). Mass. troops. On billeting roll dated Petersham, 1758, Nov. 10, of men on their march from Lake George in Nov. "Capt. Pomroy's Co. in Col. Partridge's regt." Index 96-188.

SAMUEL MANNING (probably the same as second previous). Mass. troops. In expedition of 1758; enlisted 1758, Apr. 5; roll made to May 21 after; under Capt. John Fry and Col. Timothy Ruggles. Index 96-105.

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 175). Mass. militia; of Capt. John Stevens' Co., Townsend, which was supplied with bayonets. Index 97-294.

THOMAS MANNING (Mis. 90). Mass. troops. In King Philip's war under Capt. Lothrop, and was of the number massacred at Bloody Brook, Deerfield, 1675, Sep. 18, by Indians. Residence, Ipswich.

THOMAS MANNING (Mis. 78a). Mass. troops. In Crown Point expedition under Capt. John Taplin and Col. Jonathan Bagley 1756, Apr. 22 to Nov. 30; age in 1756, 17; born Sudbury; residence, Grafton, where he enlisted; again, 1757, Mch. 25, was on training band list, Grafton. Index 94-387, 469, and 95-108, 222.

THOMAS MANNING (Mis. 78b). Mass. troops. Residence, Halifax; under Capt. James Reed, 1762, Aug. 4 to Nov. 1. Index 99-223.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 36). Mass. troops. Under Capt. John Wainwright 1721, May 5 to Aug. 24. Index 91-26.

WILLIAM MANNING (Mis. 117). N. H. troops. Under Capt. John Goffe, 1745.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 49). Mass. troops. Residence, Billerica; lieutenant of a company under Capt. Thos. Flint, 1757, Aug. Index 95-501, 502.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 94). Conn. troops. Sergeant under Capt. Israel Putnam, 1755, Nov. 25, to 1756, May 30; at Ft. Edward 1755, Dec. 5; again, 1756, sergeant under Capt. Samuel Gaylord, it seems; again, 1757, under Capt. John Carpenter.

WILLIAM MANNING (Mis. 117). Mass. troops. Under Capt. John Nixon and Col. Timothy Ruggles in the Crown Point expedition, 1756, Feb. 20 to Dec.; served as Corporal to Sep. 16, and then as clerk thereafter. Residence, Marlboro; born Gloucester; age 29. Index 95-118, 250, 274, and 96-57, and 94-275, 401, 473, 495.

WILLIAM MANNING (believed to be the same as previous, despite discrepancy of reported age, while the difference of commanders on two following rolls, which do not give exact period of service, may have been caused by a transfer, something then not uncommon). Mass. troops. In expedition against Crown Point, 1756, in Maj. Samuel Thaxter's Co., Col. Richard Gridley's Regiment. Residence, Marlboro; age given as 32 in second roll below, which is undated, but seems to be of the 1756 period. Index 94-167, 331.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

In this war there is a good deal of service which cannot be allotted positively. It may be accepted that very little of it was performed by individuals who are strangers to us; it was almost wholly performed by members who are duly mentioned here in the genealogies of the various families, but where there were several men of the same name, all of an age to render them fit for service, it is sometimes impossible to decide which one rendered the service. When the State of Massachusetts has completed the publication of its Rolls something more may be learned by comparing the Manning soldiers with their captains. Had the plan of the publication by the State been to print all Rolls precisely as they appear on the original papers, instead of presenting the soldiers in alphabetical order from A to Z, it would, when they are issued from the press, have been far easier to identify soldiers. By the plan adopted each soldier will be detached from his command, and search to learn who a certain soldier's company comrades were will be a task of stupendous difficulty. Connecticut has printed its Rolls in their original form, for which all who have occasion to investigate that period have cause to be thankful. The Manning soldiers of New England follow here. Index numbers cannot be given.

ANDREW MANNING (Camb. 413). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Obadiah Johnson and Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 19 to Dec. 15: again, in Mass. troops, 1778, July 31 to Sep. 1, under Capt. Allen McLane and Lt. Col. John Parke. On the Conn. Roll he was entered as "Andrus" Manning, but his later pension papers serve to correct the mistake.

BILLY MANNING (Camb. 302). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Amos Paine, 1776; again, drummer, under Capt. Wm. Manning and Col. Charles Webb; enlisted 1778, Mch. 1, for three years, but discharged Dec. 21 after.

CHARLES MANNING (see Camb. 166). Mass. troops. Of Dighton; under Capt. Peter Pitts and Col. Timothy Walker 1775, May 2 to Oct. 1, when he died; son of Thos. Manning.

CYRUS MANNING (Camb. 356). Conn. troops. Of Windham: in service 1775, Apr.: again, on Mass. Rolls in 1776, but under Capt. James Stedman, of Windham.

DAN MANNING (Camb. 404). Conn. troops. Under Capt. John Kingsley, 1775; again, 1778, Mch. 3 to 1779, Jan. 1, under Capt. Wills Clift and Col. Samuel Wyllys.

DAVID MANNING (Camb. 397). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Samuel Elnore and Col. Benj. Heman, 1775, in Northern Dept.: again, 1776, under Capt. David Downs and Col. Charles Burrell; captured May 19 at the Cedars; again, for long service in Mass. troops, his name appearing sixteen times on the Rolls, unless there is an error in allotting all this service to the same man (but if all was not rendered by him, where do we find another David of that period?). At all times his colonel was Jos. Vose; his company commander was first Capt. Moses Ashley and later, Major Cogswell; served from 1777, Jan. 1. to 1781, Jan. One roll gives his residence as Oxford [Mass.] and another as Sharon [Ct.]. The former may have been a temporary residence; the latter was his old home.

DIAM MANNING (Camb. 425). Conn. troops. Drummer, 1775, July 10 to Dec. 16, under Capt. Asa Kingsbury and Col. Jedediah Huntington; again, drummer in Washington's Life Guards, to which he was transferred; again, 1781, Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, under Capt. Paul Brigham and Col. Isaac Sherman.

EDWARD MANNING (Camb. 156 or 479). Mass. troops. Of Boston; corporal; under Capt. Edward Croft and Col. Richard Gridley, 1775, for eight months.

ELISHA MANNING (Camb. 362). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Jedediah Hyde and Col. John Durkee 1777, May 26, to 1778, Jan. 1.

ELIPHALET MANNING (Camb. 343). Mass. troops. Of Tewksbury; under Capt. John Trull and Col. Ebenezer Bridge, 1775, Apr.; again, 1775, Apr. to Oct., under Capt. Benj. Walker and Col. Bridge; again, 1776, Feb. 5 to Apr., under Capt. John Ford and Col. Robinson; again, in N. H. troops; of Dunstable; in 1776 under Capt. Amos Emerson; again, 1777, Apr. 1 to 1781, Dec., 1st N. H. Regt., Col. Jos. Cilley, Capt. Moses Nichols and Josiah Munroe. Nearly seven years in service.

ELIPHALET MANNING (Camb. 409). Conn. troops. In service Apr., 1775.

EMERAIM MANNING (Camb. 93). Conn. troops. Captain of the Woodstock Co., 1775, Apr.; again, a captain under Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 1 to Dec. 19; again, 1776, under Col. John Durkee; "re-entered service 1777," but no roll thereof.

FREDERICK MANNING (Camb. 435). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Andrew Lathrop and Maj. Backus, 1776, Sep. 4 to Nov. 2.

INCREASE MANNING (Camb. 365). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Nathaniel Wales and Col. Jeremiah Mason 1776 (?) Sep. 13 to Oct. 17. [Printed as "Trierse (?)" Manning by State of Conn.]

ISAAC MANNING (Camb. 342). Mass. troops. Under Capt. John Trull and Col. Ebenezer Bridge, 1775, Apr.; again, he a fifer; of Tewksbury; under Capt. Benj. Walker and Col. Bridge 1775, Apr. 28 to Oct.; again, fifer, 1777, Jan. 1 to 1780, May 22, in Washington's Life Guards under Maj. Caleb Gibbs; again, throughout 1780, fifer, in the Guards.

ISAAC MANNING, Conn. troops; fifer; pensioner, act of 1818, residing in Mass. Same man as previous Isaac. Appears on printed Conn. rolls because his commander was from that State.

ISRAEL MANNING (Camb. 470). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Samuel Sawyer and Lt. Col. John Whitecomb 1775, Apr.; again, same year, under Captain Richardson and Colonel Whitecomb; again, 1777, Apr. 1, to 1780, Apr. 1, under Capt. Jos. Hodgkins and Manassah Sawyer.

JACOB MANNING (Camb. 205). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Solomon Pollard and Col. Green, 1775, Apr.

JACOB MANNING (Camb. 403). Conn. troops. Of Windham; under Capt. Wm. Warner 1775, Apr.

JESSE MANNING (Camb. 208). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Solomon Pollard and Col. Green, 1775, Apr.

JOEL MANNING (Camb. 405). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Jediah Hyde and Col. John Durkee, 4th Regt., 1777, Apr. 22, to 1778, Jan. 1; again, under Capt. Nathaniel Wales and Col. Jeremiah Mason in a regiment raised in spring of 1780.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 339). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Leonard Butterfield and Col. Ebenezer Bridge, 1775, Apr.; again, in N. H. troops, Col. Jos. Cilley's 1st N. H. Regt., 1776, he of Dunstable; again, sergeant in same regt. 1777, Apr. 1, to 1781, and probably later, as he enlisted for the war; was captured at Ticonderoga, but retaken.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 494). Mass. troops. Under Capt. James Hosley and Col. Wm. Prescott 1775, Apr., he of Townsend; again, same year, 98 days under Capt. Henry Farwell and Col. Prescott; again, under Capt. James Hosley and Col. Jonathan Reed 1777, Sep. 26 to Nov. 9. Perhaps rendered some of the unallotted service of third or fourth section below.

JOHN MANNING (Camb. 469). Mass. troops. Of Lancaster; under Capt. Wm. Warner and Col. Josiah Whitney 1776, May 30, to Nov. 1.

JOHN MANNING (S. I. 76). Mass. troops. Of Ipswich; under Capt. Thos. Burnham 1775, Apr.; again, sergeant under Capt. David Low and Maj. Charles Smith 1777, Sep. 30 to Nov. 7; again, 1781, July 13 to Dec. 1, under Capt. John Robinson and Col. Wm. Turner.

JOHN MANNING (unallotted service, but probably in part, or all, belonging to John, Camb. 339). Mass. troops. 1st, order for bounty coat for 8 mos. service in 1775 under Capt. Jonas Richardson and Col. James Frye. Dated Cambridge, 1775, Dec. 22. 2d, list of men acting as main guard under Lt. Col. L. Baldwin, 1775, June 25. 3d, bounty coat; no date; in camp at Boston under Capt. Baneroft and Colonel Bridges. 4th, receipt dated Ticonderoga 1776, Oct. 2, for money due; received of Capt. John Ford. 5th, same as last previous. 6th, pay to men of Capt. Jos. Pierce's Co. 7th, enlisted 1775, Apr. 29; transferred to carpenters' corps of artificers; under Capt. Jonas Richardson and Col. James Frye (see "1st" above). Perhaps these seven cases all refer to the same man, but it is just as likely that they do not. (Compare "4th" with service of Eliphalet Manning, Camb. 343.)

JOHN MANNING (unallotted service). Mass. troops. Corporal under Capt. John Nutting and Col. Wm. McIntosh, Gen. Lovell's Brigade, 1778, July 30 to Sep. 12; service in R. I.

JOHN MANNING (unallotted service). Mass. troops. He appears in a list of men, dated Becket, 1781, Sep. 11, who were raised by Becket for three years by resolve of 1780, Dec. 2.

JOHN MANNING (probably Camb. 412). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Allen McLane and Lt. Col. John Parke, 1778, July 31 to Sep. 1.

JONATHAN MANNING (Camb. 292). N. H. troops. Of Dunstable; under Capt. Ebenezer Frye, 1st N. H. Regt., 1777, Apr.

JOSEPH MANNING (Camb. 109). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Ephraim Manning and Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 19 to Dec. 15.

JOSEPH MANNING (Camb. 406). A native of Windham, Conn.; later of Vt. A pensioner, and, according to report from Pension Office, "his pension was allowed for eleven months actual service as a private in the Vermont troops; a part of the time he was under Captain Rudd and Colonel Ledyard. He enlisted at Windham, Ct."

LUTHER MANNING (Camb. 367). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Obadiah Johnson and Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 19 to Nov. 11.

NATHANIEL MANNING (Camb. 372). Conn. troops. Of Windham; under Capt. Nathaniel Wales and Col. Jonathan Latimer, 1777, Apr. 24 to Nov. 5; again, under Capt. Jonathan Rudd and Col. Samuel Chapman, 1778, Aug. 2 to Sep. 12.

PETER MANNING (Camb. 471). Mass. troops. Under Capt. William Warner and Col. Whitney, 1776, Aug. 1 to Nov. 1; again, under Capt. John White and Col. Job Cushing, 1777, July 28 to Sep. 5; again, under Capt. Andrew Haskell and Col. Asa Whitecomb, of which service we have three rolls, all undated.

PHINEAS MANNING (Camb. 127). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Charles Ellsworth, 5th Co., 8th Regt., Col. Jedediah Huntington, 1775, July 10 to an ungiven date; again, under Capt. Amos Walbridge and Col. Charles Webb, 1777, Jan. 29, to 1780, Jan. 25.

PHINEAS MANNING (Camb. 447). Mass. troops. Of Chesterfield. His name appears on twelve rolls. Of these, one, not dated, gives his age as 19, which, if correct, places the service in 1775 or '76. March, 1777, he enlisted for the war, and was still in service in 1781, Jan. He was at all times in Col. John Bailey's regiment; his captains were Ephraim Burr and Abner Hayward.

RICHARD MANNING (probably S. I. 81). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Goodwin and Griswold and Col. Jos. Prime, from 1780, May 19; term of enlistment, eight months.

ROCKWELL MANNING (Camb. 436). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Abner Robinson and Col. Samuel McLellan; enlisted, 1778, July 1, for one year. Also under Colonel Ely. Name improperly appears on old rolls as "Roswell" Manning; evidently an error of enrolling officer.

ROBERT MANNING (S. I. 94). Mass. troops. Of Charlton. Under Capt. John Towne and Capt. Samuel Curtis, 1775, Apr. 19 to Oct. 26; again, under Capt. John Nichols and Col. Jonathan Holmes, 1777; again, under Capt. Tucker and Wiley; was in Col. Michael Jackson's Regt. for nine months preceding 1780, Feb. 3.

ROGER MANNING (Camb. 424). Conn. troops. Under Capt. John Durkee and Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 5 to Dec. 10, a drummer; again, enlisted 1777, Feb. 19, for the war, in Col. Jedediah Huntington's Regt.; transferred to Washington's Life Guards.

ROSWELL MANNING: see Rockwell Manning.

SAMUEL MANNING (S. I. 92). Mass. troops. Served as sergeant under Capt. John Town, 1775, Apr.; again, as first lieutenant, under Capt. Jeremiah Ballard and Lt. Col. Samuel Williams, 1776, May 10, to 1778, Dec. 30, and probably later; "residence" given as Montague, but should probably be enlisted at Montague, residence New Salem; again, name on two other rolls, both undated, perhaps later.

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 125). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Asa Kingsbury and Col. Jedediah Huntington, 1775, July 22 to Nov. 27.

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 120). Conn. troops. "Of Greenwich;" more properly, it would seem, enlisted at Greenwich, residence Stratford; under Capt. Abraham Mead, 1775, Apr.; again, under Capt. Thos. Hobby and Col. David Waterbury, 1775, May 10 to Dec. 5.

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 390). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Samuel Granger and Col. Charles Webb, 2d Regt., and, later, Capt. Roger Wells and Col. Samuel B. Webb, 3d Regt.; Samuel enlisted in 1778, Feb. 1, for the war, and was killed at the battle of Yorktown, 1781, Oct. 15.

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 341). Mass. troops. His name appears on nineteen rolls. Under Capt. John Trull and Col. Ebenezer Bridge, 1775, Apr.; again, of Tewksbury, under Capt. John Harnden and Col. Bridge, 1775, May 29 to as late as Dec. 28 of that year; again, enlisted 1777, June 14, for three years; promoted sergeant 1777, Sep. 15; was in Col. Henry Jackson's Regt. from 1777, June, to 1779, Nov. 1, with his company commanders, Samuel Trescott, John Langdon and Thomas H. Condy, at various times. Some of the unallotted service below, especially the first case, may apply to him.

SAMUEL MANNING (not allotted; perhaps the same man as previous). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Brown and Col. Henry Jackson, 1777, June 22; Samuel had enlisted for three years.

SAMUEL MANNING (see Mis. 54). Mass. troops. Of Berwick, Me.; under Capt. Samuel Grant and Col. Jonathan Titecomb, 2d York Co. Regt., 1777, May 17 to July 18, and perhaps later. See next.

SAMUEL MANNING (not allotted, but see final sentences of this section). Mass. troops. On four rolls, in all cases appearing under Capt. Thomas Hodsdon and Col. Thomas Poor; served 1778, June 11, to 1779, Feb. 17. The last of these rolls was dated at Berwick. Does this mean that Samuel was probably of that town, and the same man as the Samuel of preceding section?

SAMUEL MANNING (Camb. 167). Mass. troops. His name "is on a list of men that served in the Canadian expedition, credited to the town of Cambridge one term of service." Dated 1776, July; officers not given. Whether either service of the next two sections was performed by him is unknown.

SAMUEL MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Under Lt. Capt. Ebenezer Goodale and Col. David Wells 1777, Sep. 24 to Oct. 18; marched to join Northern army.

SAMUEL MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Under Capt. John Porter and Col. Cyprian How 1780, July 25 to Oct. 30; service in R. I.

SEABURY MANNING (Camb. 416). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Moses Branch and Col. Obadiah Johnson 1778, from Jan. 8; again, in 4th Regt. 1780, July 12 to Oct. 10.

SOLOMON MANNING (Camb. 204). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Jonathan Stiekney and Col. Bridge 1775, Apr.

STEPHEN MANNING (Camb. 442). N. H. troops. In Capt. Josiah Russell's company of rangers 1776, Oct. 2 to two months later; enlisted from Lebanon "for the State of N. Y." in which State further service by him is recorded.

THADDEUS MANNING (Mis. 65). Conn. troops. Of Sharon: of the 3d Troop, Col. Elisha Sheldon 1777, Jan. 18, to 1780, Aug. 18, or Aug. 17, when he was killed; promoted corporal 1778, May, and was a captain when killed, though the Rolls do not give that fact.

THOMAS MANNING (Camb. 450). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Asahel Hodge and Col. Isaac Sherman 1781, Feb. 2 to Dec. 31.

THOMAS MANNING (Camb. 355). Mass. troops. Of Tewksbury. Under Capt. Jonathan Brown and Col. David Green 1775, Apr. Whether any of the numerous service under the name of Thomas Manning, not allotted, belonged to him cannot be told now.

THOMAS MANNING (probably Camb. 239). Mass. troops. [It is believed that this service is correctly allotted, despite the coincidence presented by the occurrence of the word "matross" in this section and that immediately following. See formal sketch of No. 239.] Thomas was of Charlestown; age 19; enlisted 1775, May 15 in Col. Richard Gridley's Regt. of artillery. Capt. Joshua (or ? Joseph) Chadwick; was in service Sep. 30 after. Another roll of the same company shows Thomas to have been a matross.

THOMAS MANNING (an unknown; confidently believed not to have been same as previous; Mis. 82). Mass. troops. Served as a matross in Col. John Crane's regiment of artillery from 1777, Mch. 20; had enlisted for three years, but was killed at the battle of Monmouth 1778, June 28. His captain was David Allen and, later, ——— Wells. There are eight rolls referring to him; residence given as both Boston and Dedham: one roll credits him to Boston, but he enlisted to the credit of Dedham.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Sergeant under Capt. Abner Cranson and Col. Asa Whitcomb, 23d Regt., eight months' service in 1775. Three rolls relating to his service. Probably the same Thomas who, according to another roll, gave a receipt, dated Medford, 1778, June 5, for payment by the town of Medford for eight months' service, though the period of the service is not stated.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Corporal under Capt. Edward Richardson and Col. Thomas Poor 1778, Aug. 31 to Oct. 1; roll dated West Point; probably served longer; name on a second roll, undated.

THOMAS MANNING (perhaps same as previous). Mass. troops. Corporal; officers not given; service performed at North River, N. Y., 1778, June 11, to 1779, Feb. 24. Another roll, same as previous, dated King's Ferry 1779, Jan. 22.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Private under Capt. Fuller and Col. Bullard 1777, Aug. 20 to Nov. 29; service at Stillwater. See next.

THOMAS MANNING (perhaps same as previous). Mass. troops. Private under Capt. Joseph Fellows and Col. Samuel Bullard 1777, Aug. 20, to Nov. 29. Possibly this is a repetition of previous, despite difference in name of captain.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Private under Capt. Benj. Blaney and Col. Brooks; service given as guard at Cambridge; two rolls of same purport.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. Troops. Private under Capt. Henry Tew and Col. John Hathaway, 1780, Aug. 2 to Aug. 7.

THOMAS MANNING (not allotted). Mass. seaman. Pay roll dated Boston; service 1777, July 31 to Oct. 16, aboard the brigantine Massachusetts, Capt. John Fisk. Several rolls of the same purport, all dated in 1777.

TIMOTHY MANNING (Camb. 203). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Solomon Pollard and Colonel Green, 1775, Apr.; again, in Col. Loammi Baldwin's Regt., with no particulars.

TRIBESE MANNING, Conn. troops; see Increase Manning.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 94). Conn. troops. Lieut. in Col. Andrew Ward's Regt., which was raised 1776, May 4, to serve one year; again, residence, Woodstock; captain in Col. Charles Webb's Regt., 1777 and after. Rolls say he retired from that service 1778, Nov. 15. Attention is invited to his formal sketch in due place.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 448). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Amos Walbridge and Col. Charles Webb, 1777, Mch. 1, to 1780, Mch. 1, a prisoner six months in 1778. See next.

WILLIAM MANNING (not allotted, but may be the same as previous). Conn. troops. Under Capt. Edward Mott and Col. Samuel H. Parsons, 1775, May 9 to Sep. 21.

WILLIAM MANNING (see Mis. 117). Conn. troops. Private under Capt. John Durkee and Col. Israel Putnam, 1775, May 9 to Dec. 15; again, 1777, for three years in Capt. Shumway's Co., Col. Prentice and, later, Col. Starr.

WILLIAM MANNING (possibly Camb. 448). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Thompson J. Skinner and Col. Asa Barnes, Berkshire Co. regiment, 1781, Nov. 1 to Nov. 10. Another roll of Capt. Skinner's command, dated 1784, Mch. 17, may refer to the same service, or may be one of later service.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 496). Mass. troops. Of Townsend; appears on 8 rolls; under Capt. Henry Haskell and Colonel Prescott at some time before 1776, Jan. 13; again, in service 1776, Oct., under Capt. Thomas Warren and Colonel Brooks; again, 1776, Dec. 14, to 1777, Mch. 5, or later, under Capt. John Hartwell and Col. Dike.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 201). Mass. troops. Sergeant under Capt. Solomon Pollard and Col. Greene, 1775, Apr.; again, in Col. Baldwin's Regt., 1775, May 1; again, commissioned 2d Lieut. in Capt. Solomon Kidder's Co., 1776, May 31.

WILLIAM MANNING (Camb. 170). Mass. troops. Under Capt. Samuel Thatcher and Col. Gardner, with no date; again, with a list of men in the expedition to Canada, credited to Cambridge, one turn of service, 1776, July.

WILLIAM MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Private under Capt. Phineas Stearns, 5 days; marched from Watertown to reinforce army in taking possession of Dorchester Heights, 1776, Mch.

WILLIAM MANNING (not allotted). Mass. troops. Private under Capt. Wm. Tucker and Col. Jacob Gerrish, 1778, July 10, to 1779, Jan. 1.

WILLIAM TAYLOR MANNING (Mis. 109). Mass. Troops. A native of Virginia: appears three times on the rolls under his full name, and four times as William T. Manning. Of Beverly, Mass.: generally, perhaps always, a drummer; in Col. Rufus Putnam's Regt.; company commanders, John Williams and Job Whipple. Rolls generally undated, one being of 1779; enlisted for the war; served upwards of 7 years, says his obituary: six years of actual service say his pension papers, which add, served a part of the time under Lt. Cooper.

THE HISTORY OF THE FAMILY HISTORY.

Several members of the Manning family have expressed their surprise that so much could be learned of the early generations. This has led me to think that mention of the chief sources whence the information was obtained would be of interest, and that an account of the compilation of the genealogy might well be added. I have hesitated to introduce such a section, lest it might seem to give my work undue prominence, but, as it is in no sense autobiographical, there seems to be no good reason why it should be omitted, and several reasons why it may well be included. The personal pronoun "I" is not agreeable in print, but only by using it in this section can coherence of statement be maintained.

I began the Manning Genealogical and Biographical History in the year 1885. If I had foreseen that it was to be a task of sixteen years, and one of so many trials as have occurred, the beginning would never have been made. For a few years the way was plain and simple; it was easy, by means of wills and deeds, publicly recorded, to learn in what towns the members of the early generations had been chiefly located, and to search the records of such towns, while the discovery of such living members as were residing in the New England States and adjacent territory was but little more difficult. The result was a very rapid accumulation of records, so that, within the following three years, a total of about 2,000 names had been gathered into my collection. All this, as I have said, was easy—so easy, compared with my later work, that I am led to say that the compilers of the numerous incomplete histories which have been printed of other families do not realize what the experiences are of one who labors long and persistently to gather all members into the fold and discover all the facts of their lives.

As I continued my task I ascertained that several other representatives of the family had become interested in the subject at different dates, and had gathered their own ancestral lines, together with some collateral material; and these collections, to be mentioned below, were placed in my hands and added to my own. In the East various town histories had been printed with family registers as adjuncts, and the above-mentioned members had made copies of the Manning items therein. As I already had these they added nothing to my records, but they represented labor on the part of the copyists which meant something to them. What they had done additionally also repeated my work in many instances, but what was new was valuable and fully appreciated by me. Those to whom I was chiefly indebted will be mentioned here. The late Edward Manning, of the Cambridge family [1778] began, about 1870, the collection of records and continued until forced to abandon the work by lack of time and other obstacles. Himself a descendant of the branch that was established about 1720 at Windham, Ct., his investigation related primarily and principally to certain lines of that branch, and made it unnecessary for me to visit Windham and the adjoining towns, as I should otherwise have done had I not received his notes in 1890. Omitting mention of what has been sent in that repeated what I had previously gathered, and now referring to what was strictly new, his was the largest single contribution I received; and I found him a careful and reliable collector. During the last decade, after the minute plan of this work developed, I have received valuable aid from his son, George E. Manning [2886] in gathering items, previously considered unimportant, from the probate, land and town records of Windham and vicinity. From Warren H. Manning [3330] I received valuable additions to my collection at the same date mentioned above, and for a time, about 1890, we corresponded and exchanged items, but pressure of other business compelled him to abandon genealogical work. I am also indebted in a lesser degree to so many others that they cannot be named here, though their interest and kindness have been fully appreciated. The practice of copying items from town histories has been referred to here. This was one of the first things I did: it was largely done by two of those members here mentioned by name, and in a measure by many others, and these interested friends have sent me the same copies from all parts of the country. Even now, after my sixteen years of application, I occasionally receive such copies. It is a striking tribute to the popularity of such histories.

By 1891 all minor collections had been added to my own, which had become of good size, but all material then gathered had been of the kind found with comparative ease, and the work, despite my six years of application, was only about one-quarter done. The great West had not been canvassed; there were many missing members, and there were serious and troublesome mysteries to solve. Right here lay the deep study and hard labor of the undertaking, and it is a matter of satisfaction that I was able to make a personal investigation of everything, and that ten years of additional work was bestowed by me upon the points just named. Missing members I found chiefly by means of the 300 or more city, county, and state directories in the office of the Trow Directory Co., of N. Y. City; these being descendants of early members who had removed from their native places one hundred or more years before, and had become lost to the knowledge of collateral relatives at the old homes. Of these the greater part were of the Windham, Ct., branch, and included, among others of that branch, Samuel [120], David [121], Phineas [127], Elias [393], David [397], Ripley [399], Dan [404], Joseph [406], Stephen [442], Alfred [868] and Oliver E. Manning [878], and their descendants, all of whom, a numerous army, were found by means of the directories. This source of help enabled me to canvass, in a large degree, the whole United States, and cannot be accorded too much praise.

I perceived that, to solve the mysteries surrounding early members, I must see and minutely examine all State, county, town, church, and court records. A faint idea of what I have done to this end in the last ten years may be gained from the accompanying list, but it will suggest very little of the wearisome application I gave to the many hundreds of volumes in old-style writing, which was often very bad penmanship. It was my wish to discover every instance in which the Manning name appeared on these old volumes, and, as far as possible, I did so. This was the most tiresome part of my task, but the reward was not only the easting of light on the aforesaid mysteries, but the finding of a wealth of material relating to the early members which has served to supply the biographical sketches which appear in this volume. Until this was done very little was known of them in a biographical way.

Printed books to the number of 1,000 or 1,500 have been examined by me, though results have been limited. For eight years I had constant access, through my membership, to one of the best genealogical and historical libraries in the country, namely, the L. I. Historical Society, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Many books without indexes have been examined line by line, and for the time named my application in this field was laborious. I have also freely used the several libraries of New York City, and of Boston, Worcester, and several other cities.

Files of early newspapers have been searched extensively by me in the libraries of Boston and Worcester. The American Antiquarian Society of the latter city has the largest collection of the kind in America, and I had access to its files throughout two winters. Among the papers seen there was the Boston News-Letter, established in 1704, the first permanent newspaper in the country. All other accessible early publications were seen, and the period before 1800 was covered with care, while prolonged attention was given to the period between 1800 and 1840.

Returning to the subject of unprinted public records, a list may be given of what I have examined, almost wholly in the original manuscripts. Certain records searched for me by town clerks, probate clerks, etc., are indicated by statement to that effect and inclosure in brackets. Everything else in this list I have personally seen, copied from and investigated.

State Papers.—Massachusetts Archives up to 1830; Mass. Acts and Resolves to about 1850; Mass. Miscellaneous Papers. [Ct., N. H., and some other states have printed their State Papers.]

Military.—Mass. Colonial Rolls from the earliest date to 1775; Ct. Colonial Rolls; Mass. Revolutionary Rolls. [Ct., N. H., etc., have printed their Revolutionary Rolls.] I also have sundry reports from Washington relative to pensioners.

County Court Records.—In Mass.: Suffolk, Middlesex, Worcester, Essex and Hampshire Counties. In Maine: York Co., the only county in that state prior to 1760. The records here referred to are all of very early date, being those of the old County Court, General Sessions, Common Pleas, etc.

Probate Records.—In Mass.: Middlesex, Suffolk, Essex, Worcester, Norfolk, Bristol, Hampshire, Hampden and Franklin. [By correspondence I have reports on Berkshire, Plymouth and Barnstable counties.] In N. H.: Hillsborough, Rockingham, Merrimack and Cheshire counties. [By correspondence, Strafford and Sullivan counties.] In Me.: York and Cumberland counties. In R. I.: Parts of Providence and Newport counties. In N. Y.: New York, Kings, Westchester, Dutchess, Albany, Rensselaer, Saratoga and Broome counties. [By correspondence, Suffolk, Queens, Rockland, Washington, etc.] Ct., R. I. and Vt. do not have county registries, but have several minor registries to each county. I have visited some twelve of these, where most necessary.

Deeds.—In Mass.: Middlesex, Suffolk, Essex, Norfolk, Bristol, Worcester, Hampden, Hampshire and Franklin counties, and part of Berkshire. [By correspondence, Plymouth, Barnstable and part of Berkshire.] In N. H.: Hillsborough, Rockingham, Merrimack and Cheshire counties. [By correspondence, Grafton and Strafford.] In Me.: York and Cumberland. In N. Y.: New York, Kings, Westchester, Dutchess, Albany, Rensselaer, Saratoga and Broome counties. [By correspondence, ten or more other counties.] In R. I.: Parts of Providence and Newport. Early counties are but few. Maine had but one (York) up to 1760; N. H. had but one registry of deeds and probate office before 1772.

County Records of Births, Marriages and Deaths.—In Mass.: Middlesex, Suffolk, Essex, Worcester and Hampshire. [Other counties have none, or have printed them.]

Town Proceedings.—In Mass.: Cambridge, Billerica, Charlestown, Chelmsford, Townsend, Medford, Tewksbury, Ipswich, and Salem. In N. H.: Portsmouth. In Ct.: Woodstock and Sharon. [In Ct. the following were seen for me by George E. Manning, before mentioned: Windham, Canterbury, Tolland and Coventry.] Several towns have printed records of this kind.

Church Records.—In Mass.: The 13 earliest churches of Boston; Cambridge (2), Billerica, Tewksbury, Townsend, Charlestown, Medford, Brighton, Chelmsford, Lexington, Holden and Sutton. In N. H.: Portsmouth. In Ct.: Woodstock, Sharon and Stafford. [The following have been examined for me: In Mass.: Waltham, New Salem, Lancaster, Sterling, Great Barrington, Sheffield, Gloucester, Essex, etc. In Ct.: Ashford, Canterbury, Windham, Lisbon, Coventry, Norwich, Franklin, and Lebanon. Of the last eight nearly all were seen by Edward Manning or George E. Manning].

Town Records of Births, Marriages and Deaths.—In Mass.: Cambridge, Billerica, Townsend, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Medford, Ashby, Bedford, Newton, Andover, Brighton, Boston, Chelsea, Concord, Lexington, Lowell, Fitchburg, Charlestown, Waltham, Pepperell, Sutton, Holden, Worcester, Ipswich, Salem, Marblehead and Lynn. In N. H.: Portsmouth and Keene. In Ct.: Woodstock, Stafford, Sharon, Salisbury, Greenwich. Of these towns two had printed their records, but I searched them personally. Those of Boston, of early date, are in print. Some of the above have since printed what I saw in manuscript. [I have a list of 72 other towns, the records of which, of this kind, have been examined for me, chiefly by town clerks. The list is not complete, and the total would be over 100. It need not be printed here.]

Proprietors' Records of Towns.—In Mass.: Cambridge, Billerica, Townsend, Ipswich. [Some towns have printed such records, but they are not common, being generally lost.]

College Records.—The Archives of Harvard.

Miscellaneous Papers.—Cambridge, Charlestown, etc. Such records are not common.

Gravestone Inscriptions.—In Mass.: Cambridge, Billerica, Townsend, Tewksbury, Andover, Chelmsford, Ashby, Bedford, Lexington, Concord, Littleton, Lunenburg, Pepperell, Holden, Sutton, Salem, Ipswich. In N. H.: Portsmouth, Keene. In Ct.: Sharon, Woodstock, Stafford. In Vt.: Andover, Ludlow. In R. I.: Newport. [Others have seen for me Lancaster (since printed), New Salem, and others in Mass. In Ct. a like examination was made by Edward Manning (1778) of Windham, Lebanon, Lisbon, Coventry, Canterbury, and perhaps others.]

All of the foregoing, except what is in brackets, I saw in person, and the whole list combined, serves to answer the question

so often asked of me, "Where do you get information concerning the early members of the family?"

It may be added that I have a summary, personally made, of every deed wherein a Manning appears that was recorded in Middlesex Co., Mass., prior to 1824. They number 394. I also have abstracts of all Worcester Co. deeds concerning Mannings before 1840; all Hillsborough, N. H., deeds before 1825, and enough more of the various county registries to make a total of about 800 deeds that I have read, studied and made abstracts of, personally.

I have followed many single sets of State, county and town records through a period of over 200 years each (as, for instance, the births, marriages and deaths of Cambridge for 235 years; Chelmsford, 200; Medford, 200; Ipswich, 230; Salem, 230, etc.), while those followed for from 100 to 150 years are of even greater number. Imagine all these as one continuous set of records and it would be equivalent to searching such a set through many thousands of years, a time in comparison with which the length of the Christian era becomes short.

My correspondence with town clerks of the less important towns, and with postmasters, clergymen, church clerks, judges and clerks of probate, etc., has been voluminous, while the number of letters written to members of the family is, fortunately, unknown.

During the past fifteen years I have travelled extensively in the seven easternmost states, to examine state, county, town and church records. Some of these journeys were of nearly 500 miles each.

A word as to the future. At some remote time — perhaps forty, perhaps seventy-five years hence, — when this history has become out of date, some member of the family, possibly now unborn, will be impelled to the commendable task of bringing the record of the Manning family down to that date by adding the new generations. He will do a praiseworthy work. If he reviews the early generations he will do so under conditions very different from those that have confronted me. The belief that old public records should be printed is fast gaining ground, but, as yet, the amount of printing actually done is small. The next twenty-five years will see many additions. Instead of searching old manuscript records which are in strange, obscure, obsolete writing, and without an index, and to be found only at one public office, the gene alogist of the future will sit in a library with printed and indexed copies thereof before him. Having these indexes he will doubtless discover items which I, being compelled to rely upon following line after line in manuscript, with no guide but the ability of the eye to catch the word "Manning," have overlooked. He will not know what labor this volume has cost. Some facts here stated in a single line, or less, are the result of more than ten years of investigation. Deductions and connections have been made under study and research for a decade and a half. They have been formed, in some cases, from the direct statement of old public records; from family letters now seventy-five years old, or such a matter; from the limited investigations in their own direct lines of various ones long since gathered to their fathers, and from the statements to the present compiler of living members now of advanced years, but of unimpaired intellect, that, in their younger days, they were told certain things by those then aged but of good memory. Thus, leaving the evidence of public records out of consideration for the moment, my own conclusions have in some instances been confirmed by the statements of those born as early as 1760. Tradition is, as a rule, thoroughly unreliable, but when it is supported by other evidence, apparently trustworthy, it is valuable. As later investigators cannot depend for information upon those who were born between 1800 and 1825, it may here be said that, while far more inclined to distrust than believe tradition (the memory of the best of us is fallible), I have considered that evidence of this kind was reliable when it exactly confirmed the conclusions which one could not help drawing from public records. I have taken nothing for granted; I have given long and careful study to all points, and have made use of all known public sources of information. The result appears here. I extend a welcoming hand to that compiler of the future who may supplement my work.

OLD-TIME PECULIARITIES.

In this volume there will often be found what is termed a "double date," as, to illustrate, Jan. 15, 1725-6. This is because the date so appeared in the original record where, according to the practice of that time, it was correctly given. No double-date appears in any year after March 25. Before 1752, when New Style succeeded Old Style, the legal year was considered to begin with March 25, though the historical year began as now, and the system of double-dating was devised to cover both cases. As, in case instanced above, the preceding month was December, 1725, and the third month after was April, 1726, the first of the double figures in the year should be understood as absent, and the true date Jan. 15, 1726. The double dates are used in works of this kind to avoid confusion. If either was dropped it should be the first. Certain cities and towns that are printing their early records are following the plan of dropping, not the first, but the second year, and the result is absurd. Suppose a man drew his will Dec. 15, 1725, and died Jan. 15, 1725-6. Drop the last year here and print the date Jan. 15, 1725, and the amazing assertion is made that the deceased signed his will eleven months after he died. These double dates were sometimes written 172<sup>5</sup>/<sub>6</sub>, 17<sup>25</sup>/<sub>6</sub>, 17<sup>25</sup>/<sub>26</sub>, etc.

Another old way of writing a date was 15 : 10 : 1725 ; or 15, 10ber, 1725 ; or 15, 10th mo. 1725, these three forms being different ways of writing the same date, namely, Dec. 15, 1725. Those who learn a little of this system, but do not master it in full, usually make a mistake of just two months in rendering a date into modern form. Understanding that they have to deal with the 15th day of the 10th month, they count January as the first month, and so, in this case, would make the date Oct. 15. In the early days months were as well known by number as by name, and then, according to the system formally adopted, March was called the first month. Hence, 15, 10th mo. 1725 would be Dec. 15, 1725.

The money in use in the Colonies in those days was mainly that of England—pounds, shillings and pence. Sometimes, for instance, persons wrote £15, 8*sh.* 3*d.*, and sometimes simply £15, 8, 3. The meaning was the same. Inventories of old estates that are printed in this volume present some features which are puzzling to the uninitiated. "Looking glass, 3/" means that the article named was appraised at 3 shillings; and "Cane 7/6" was an appraisement at 7 shillings and 6 pence.

In this volume will be found wills and land-grants in which the word "Item" occurs. This will sometimes be found as "Jtem." This was because I and J were used interchangeably; as were "v" and "u," also, from which we often have "every" instead of "every," and other words after the same fashion. The word "the" was more often written "y<sup>e</sup>," perhaps to save time; "that" was often "y<sup>t</sup>," and "their," sometimes "y<sup>r</sup>." If some of the old documents quoted in these pages seem to prove that men of that day were not correct spellers, and many of them certainly were not. It should also be borne in mind that faultless spelling of that period was not the same, in many cases, as that now in use.

NUMBER OF MEMBERS INCLUDED IN THIS VOLUME.

THE WILLIAM MANNING FAMILY OF CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

GENERAL MENTION.

William Manning, the ancestor of this extensive family came to America about the year 1634. He first settled at Roxbury, Mass., then the southern boundary town of Boston, but now a part of that city by annexation in 1867. There his stay was one of only a few weeks; he removed to Cambridge, on the opposite side of Boston, where his descendants were long represented. About 1662 his grandson, Samuel Manning, removed to Billerica, where the male line has been represented continuously ever since. Samuel's seven sons had no sooner reached their majority than they began the process of removal which has been going on to the present time.

Samuel, the eldest of these sons, went to Cambridge about 1694, and thence to Windham, Ct., before 1720. From this branch, in later years, other towns received settlers in this manner: Samuel Manning [120] settled in Stratford, Ct., in 1743; David Manning [121] in Sharon, Ct., about 1751; Samuel Manning [125] in Norwich Town, Ct., before 1747; Josiah Manning [126] in Norwich, about 1750; Phineas Manning [127] in Stafford, Ct., in 1760; Eleazer Manning [359] in Lebanon, Ct., before 1775; Calvin Manning [366] in Coventry, Ct., before 1774; Luther Manning [367] in Lisbon, Ct., before 1786; Elias Manning [393] in Milton, N. Y., about 1794, and thence went to Edinburgh; David Manning [397] in Stockbridge, Mass., after the Revolution and, in 1795, removed to Lisle, Broome Co., N. Y.; Ripley Manning [399] in Stockbridge about 1791 and, in 1798, went to Union, N. Y.; Dan Manning [404] in Poultney, Vt., in 1783; Joseph Manning [406] in Poultney about 1786-90; Andrew Manning [413] in Tolland, Ct., before 1784; Barnabas Manning [418] in Berkshire, N. Y., at an early date; Stephen Manning [442] in New York State shortly after the Revolution; Phineas Manning [447] in Goshen, Mass., about 1775; William Manning [448] in Fort Ann, N. Y., as early as 1818, and, later, in Benson, Vt., and Thomas Manning [450] in Clermont Co., Ohio, early in the nineteenth century.

John Manning, the second son, settled in Cambridge about 1697, and lived and died there. His immediate descendants were not of a migratory nature, and removals were not numerous for some generations. Samuel Manning [37] settled in Townsend, Mass., about 1728; John Manning [152] in Lancaster, Mass., before 1755; Edward Manning [156] in Roxbury, about 1748; Joseph Manning [169] in Providence, R. I., before 1767; Israel Manning [470] in Sterling, Mass., at an early date and, about 1799, in Holden; Peter Manning [471] in Townsend in 1785; Artemas Manning [474] in Mason, N. H., about 1792 and, in 1816, in Washington in that State; Joseph Manning [475] in Royalston, Mass., before 1793; Samuel Manning, M.D., [481] in Westford, Billerica, Harvard and Lancaster, Mass., early in the nineteenth century; John Manning [494] in Ashby, Mass., before 1783; Samuel Manning [499], Joel Manning [500], Joseph Manning [503] and Benjamin Manning [504] in Andover, Vt., 1790 or soon after, and Levi Manning [501] in Cavendish, Vt., before 1792.

William Manning, the third son, remained on his father's farm in Billerica, but, in time, his descendants scattered. Jonathan Manning [202] settled in Chelmsford, Mass., before 1775; Timothy Manning [203] in the same town; Solomon Manning [204] in Ashburnham, Mass., in 1794; Jacob Manning [205] in Lyndeboro, N. H., about 1806; Thomas Manning [209] in Andover, Mass., about 1769; Jonathan Manning [539] in Littleton, Mass., about 1802; Salathiel Manning [542] in New Ipswich, N. H., before 1809; and Samuel Manning [561] in Dover, N. H., before 1829.

Isaac Manning, the fourth son, settled in Cambridge, was living there when 57 years old, and probably died there. Three of his sons, William Manning [79], Daniel Manning [81] and Thomas Manning [84] settled in the adjoining town of Charlestown 1736-40; Isaac Manning [77] in Sutton, Mass., 1733; Caleb Manning [235] in Salem, Mass., about 1789; Thomas Manning [239] in Salem before 1783; John Manning [589] in Salem about 1806;

William Manning [598] in Brunswick, Me., 1795, and, later, in Cornish and Limington, and Aaron Manning [600] in Tunbridge, Vt., about 1800, and, later, in Sharon, and in Dunbarton, N. H., and other places.

Ephraim Manning, the fifth son, removed about 1728 to Woodstock, Ct. Of his descendants Billy Manning [302] settled in Middlebury, Vt., about 1802; Ephraim Manning [307] in Cole-rain, Mass., about 1791; John Manning [310] in Westford, N. Y., about 1816; Abial Manning [625] in Shoreham, Vt., about 1817, and, later, went to Salisbury and Poultney and, finally, to Lake Geneva, Wis., and Ephraim Manning [690] in Charlotte, N. Y.

Timothy Manning, the sixth son, settled first in Reading, Mass., next in Sutton, and, ultimately, in Woodstock, Ct. It is not known that his branch was continued in the male line to the third generation.

Eliphalet Manning, the seventh son, remained in old Billerica, but, when the town was divided, became an inhabitant of Tewks-bury. In his line John Manning [339] settled in Amherst, N. H., about 1785, as did Isaac Manning [342] at about the same time; Enoch Manning [732] in Salem, Mass., about 1808; Abial Man-ning [734] in Providence, R. I., about 1811, and, later, in Shes-hequin, Pa. and Lafayette, Ill.; Ruel G. Manning [751] in Bedford, N. H., and, later, Royalton, Vt.; Joseph Manning [752] and Nathaniel Manning [754] in Bedford, and Thomas Manning [759] in Amherst and Greenfield, N. H.

Other removals preceded some of these, and many followed; the territory of the New England States was passed soon after the Revolution; New York was a chosen home for many, and then, with the setting in of Western emigration, the Mannings moved on. Certain of their number were always among the most ad-vanced and venturesome of settlers in the newly-acquired lands, and this continued until, now, there are representatives all the way from Nova Scotia to the Pacific ocean, and in every Northern State except two, as well as in several of the Southern States. They have had part in the development of nearly all new regions in the country, and their efforts have been directed in nearly all professions, trades and occupations. Moreover, they have fought in all wars of the country, with one possible exception.

The investigation of the compiler has brought him in con-tact with the signs left by the early generations, and certain facts have been brought before him. Court records have been extensively searched for general information, but nothing has been found to show that any one of the aforesaid early representatives was ever accused of a crime, or of dishonesty of any kind, or that any one was regarded as an undesirable citizen. One case of assault upon another man has been found, which was not serious. It is to be hoped that the Manning of this case was slow to enter the quarrel but that, once engaged, he acquitted himself valorously. (It may be added that no crime has been committed by a later member, as far as has been discovered.) The early members were not contentious. The occurrence of the name in the Courts of Common Pleas is almost unknown; only two cases before 1800 are recalled at this writing. It may be added that, in mentioning the "early generations," reference is had to those members who lived all, or the greater part of their lives before 1800.

THE WAR RECORD OF THE WILLIAM MANNING FAMILY IN THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Elsewhere in this volume, both in the individual sketches and in a preceding part of the book, will be found the military record of each soldier in detail. This section is only a grouping of the names. This list is as full as it can now be made, but as the officials of the various States are now and then making additions to their collected Rolls by acquiring other Rolls which have long been in private hands, the list of Mannings in all wars of early date will undoubtedly be increased in the next few years. This is especially the case as to the Colonial soldiers of Connecticut, where Rolls in official possession are few, but are being increased in number. When fully collected several new names will doubtless appear, which should be included in the following list. The term "Colonial" will here be used, instead of making a division into Colonial and Provincial lists according to historical requirements, for the reason that the first term is that in general use.

 INSCRIPTIONS ON OLD GRAVESTONES.

Some of the early members of the family probably never had gravestones, and others which are said to have been in existence a generation or two ago are not now to be found. The greed of gain is stronger with the authorities of some towns and cities than reverence for the dead. It would seem that if any one thing on earth should be safe from sacrilegious molestation it should be burial places, but this is too often not the case. If a new street is wanted, or if it is desired to reduce the cost of a new public building, the old cemetery is sometimes made to furnish the desired accommodations. The earth is large. Why should the dead be begrudged the small space which each one occupies? It is believed that, on the whole, the Manning graves have been fairly free from this evil, and, as a result, many old memorial stones are yet to be found. The compiler of this volume has taken great pains to find all that remain in those towns where, formerly, the family was the most numerous, and the result will be seen here. If this work had been made as full as was desired, all stones to the memory of the first seven generations would be included, but it has not been deemed advisable to make a long journey to some remote town where the Mannings were sparsely represented for a generation or two only, especially as experience in several cases of the kind showed that no stones existed. But all of the towns where the family was numerous have been visited, careful search made, and full copies of inscriptions drawn off. This has been done personally by the compiler in Cambridge, Billerica, Townsend, Andover, Chelmsford, Ashby and Tewksbury, Mass., Woodstock, Ct., and Andover, Vt. (A dozen or more minor Manning towns visited by the compiler to see cemeteries are not mentioned here, as results were meagre.) In making copies great care was taken to do everything so that they might be reproduced in this volume exactly as the old stones are inscribed. The copies here given are thus exact. The division of lines is the same; the punctuation is the same, and each word is here in letters large or small just as on the stones. In brief, copies are as accurate in all respects as they could be made.

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

Overlooking Harvard Square, and only a stone's throw from some of the buildings of Harvard University, is the old cemetery of Cambridge — a "church-yard" in the full sense, since it is directly in the rear of such an edifice. In this inclosure may be found the oldest gravestones of the family of which we have any knowledge. They are those of William Manning of the second generation and his wife Dorothy, who died respectively March 14, 1690-1, and July 26, 1692. These memorials are side by side. They are about twenty inches wide, and of about the same height. They are of a light slate color and remarkably well preserved; indeed, appearances indicate that they will endure for many years to come, and, despite their present age, outlast many of the more modern works of the kind that surround them. The inscriptions are well lettered, though unsymmetrical as to the relative beginning and ending of the lines. Both have a wide border of fancy engraving on the sides, and a narrow border under the inscriptions. Each has near the upper edge a death's-head, a pair of cross-bones and an hour-glass, and that of the husband has a "face" common to old gravestones, of doubtful artistic design, at each of the upper corners. There are footstones which bear their initials, and are of nearly the same size as the headstones. The footstone to Mr. Manning's grave is less than a yard from the head of the horizontal memorial stone of Nathaniel Appleton, D.D., Fellow of the Corporation of Harvard College and for sixty-six years pastor at Cambridge, who died Feb. 9, 1784. The location is not far from the center of the cemetery. On three sides of the graves of William and Dorothy Manning is a considerable extent of ground not marked by any headstone, and now so nearly level as to show no mound; but there, the writer believes, other family members lie in the eternal sleep of earth. There, it may be, rests Susannah, wife of William Manning of the first generation; there, beyond doubt, is John Manning, son of William and Dorothy; there, perhaps, are John and Isaac Manning, of the fourth generation. It would be strange if every foot of this vacant space were not sacred to some one of the family, a theory all the more reasonable because, beyond that space, some twenty feet away, is a group of stones where lie Mannings of a more modern date. Who rest in this group may be learned by the list below. The numbers are those of the members in the records. All inscriptions to the memory of the Mannings now to be found in this cemetery are here mentioned. They are arranged in double columns. Each column is to be read without reference to the other. Thus, if an epitaph is unfinished at the foot of a page, its continuation will be found, not in the other column, but in the same column at the top of the next page.

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT BILLERICA, MASS.

The oldest cemetery in the town, a large inclosure, is south of the Center village, on the road to Bedford. The present writer has been unable to find any gravestone there to the memory of a Manning, and a resident of said town who has copied all inscriptions therein reports that the name does not occur there. The second cemetery was set apart, however, before any adult male of the name died in town, and there rest all the early Mannings who have memorial stones in Billerica. This is a small inclosure north of the Center village, on the road to North Billerica, and some thirty rods from the point where the latter diverges from the main road to Lowell. It is, moreover, in immediate proximity to the modern cemetery of the town. At a distance of a few rods from the end of the lot which borders on the road is the largest group of Manning gravestones in the burial-place. There, side by side, lie Lieut. Wm. Manning (died 1776), the early landlord of the Manning tavern, and his wife Elizabeth. Next, alone, is the grave of Alice, wife of Solomon Manning. Next, side by side, rest Jacob Manning (died 1762) and Martha, his wife, and close at hand is a stone to the joint memory of their three children, Martha, David and Esther. Around this group is a considerable area of ground which presents no stone, but is suggestive of unmarked graves of Mannings. Further up the lot, about four-fifths of the distance from the road to the rear wall, are the graves of Ensign Wm. Manning (died 1764) and Elizabeth, his wife; the oldest Manning graves there that are marked with memorial stones. No other stone to a Manning is near. Diagonally to the left of the ensign's grave is a lot of the Toothaker family, one corner of which touches the ensign's footstone. A burial in this lot was as recent as that of Dr. Samuel A. Toothaker, who died in 1892. At the extreme end of the cemetery, directly opposite the road, is the grave of Samuel Manning (died 1772). When the compiler first saw this inclosure, about 1888, a tree ten or twelve inches in diameter was growing directly from the last-mentioned grave, but since then some kindly-thoughtful care-taker has removed it and restored the mound to excellent condition. This stone stands alone, but by its side undoubtedly lie the father of Samuel (the last-named of whom died so prematurely), and some of Samuel's brothers. No other stones appear in this cemetery, but they are numerous in the more modern ground a few rods distant. These will be mentioned in a section supplementary to this. One inscription in the old burial place, that to the memory of the three children of Jacob Manning before mentioned, is very hard to read. It has become so obscure, in the passage of time, that the compiler has been unable to decipher it in full. Possibly this could be done by means of long application; perhaps not. Except in this one instance all inscriptions are easily read. The following list gives all in the old inclosure, and with exactness:

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT TOWNSEND, MASS.

There are three cemeteries in this town; the early one half a mile east of Townsend Center, the new one immediately at the Center, and one at West Townsend. The earliest group is near the center of the early cemetery, though nearer the south than the north side thereof. The group is about 100 feet from the entrance (the south side), and exactly in line with the entrance, by the side of the path that leads from south to north. There rest Samuel Manning (died 1773) and Elizabeth, his wife. Next in the line is their son Samuel Manning (died 1809) and, beyond, his wife, Abigail. The latter's footstone is within a distance of two feet of the headstone of Rev. Samuel Dix, once her pastor. Near the north side of the inclosure, about midway from east to west, is the grave of Mrs. Mary Manning (died 1782), mother of the Samuel Manning who died at Billerica in 1772. Near her lies her daughter Hannah, and, not far away, another daughter, Mrs. Mary Proctor. Remote from all these graves is that, near the southwest corner of the burying-ground, of Abigail Manning, and, east of the group first mentioned, are those of Cynthia and Luke Manning, three children. The following list includes all that appear in this cemetery.

 The parting scene—the gloomy day.

In the new cemetery at Townsend Center are several Manning gravestones, the majority of which are of such modern date that they do not come within the scope of this work. About 100 feet diagonally from the northwest corner of the inclosure rest William Manning (died 1843) and Hannah, his wife. Further east is a line of graves where lie Deacon Samuel Manning (1061), his wife Margaret, their daughter Mrs. Coburn, their son Charles G. Manning, and the latter's son Arthur H. Still further to the east are the graves of Benjamin Manning (1069) and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eunice C. Manning. Nearer yet to the northwest corner rest Peter Manning (died 1839) and his wife Rebecca, their sons Cyrus and Cephas, and the latter's wife Huldah. The inscriptions to the memory of the early members are :

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT WOODSTOCK, CONN.

There are two groups of headstones to the memory of the Mannings in the cemetery at Woodstock "Hill." Of these what will here be termed the "first" group are not, the compiler is informed on unquestionable evidence, in their original and rightful positions. At a time some years back, these stones were changed from one point to another, and, it is understood, not by a member of the family. Thus, as they now are, they represent the names of certain members but do not show where they were buried. As far as learned, the second group has not suffered from such sacrilegious molestation. The following description refers to the memorial stones as they now are. The aforesaid first group is at the east side of the inclosure, about midway between the north and south ends, and almost opposite the main (western) entrance. Beginning at the east end of a row of stones, the first is that of Capt. Ephraim Manning (died 1792). Next is a stone to the joint memory of Capt. William Manning (died 1807) and Mary, his wife. Next lies Mary, wife of the above Capt. Ephraim, and then Thomas Manning (died 1825) and his wife Sally. The group is completed by a broken, detached stone, which leans against one of the others, and is to the memory of John Parmenter Manning (663), son of John and Lois Manning. The second group is to the memory of Deacon Timothy Manning (died 1735) and his family. Each and all of this second group are in deplorable condition. The stones are falling away in slabs and splinters from the sides thereof, and the decay is so far advanced that the inscriptions have been read with difficulty in all cases, while two of them are already absolutely unreadable, because of the slabs that have fallen away and gone to powder together with the inscribed words. By the time another generation has passed, not only two but perhaps all will be indecipherable. This group is to the south of the first group, described above, and four rows of stones distant therefrom as the cemetery is constructed. Deacon Timothy Manning's headstone is almost exactly south of the grave of Thomas Manning of the first group, and almost precisely sixty feet from Capt. Ephraim Manning's headstone. The first stone at the east end of the row where lie the second group (and there is none whatever further east in the row at present) is that of Deacon Timothy Manning, himself. Next in the row lies his wife Susannah, and next, their daughter Hannah (died 1733-4). The inscription of the succeeding stone is almost wholly gone. The little that remains may be seen in the copies below, where inscriptions will be given in the order in which they occur in the line. Next is a stone upon which appear only three words: "Mrs. Mary Manning" (see copy. below). The last in the row is that of a second Hannah, daughter of Deacon Manning. Apart from this group, and further west, is the headstone of "Mary Morse, wife of Anthony Morse, aged 22 years, deceased June ye 21, 1735." She bears number 86 in this volume. The inscriptions follow :

The order in which the following stones occur in the line before mentioned is, first, Deacon Manning; second, his wife Susanna; third, his daughter Hannah; fourth, the mutilated stone; fifth, Mrs. Mary Manning; sixth, the second Hannah.

(The seriously damaged condition of this stone will now never permit its inscription to be read. Time has carved slices from its face, and words and letters have gone with them, and to powder. What little is here given is believed to have been correctly deciphered. It may be added concerning one imperfect word that the two letters printed above as "rs" were read, when in the cemetery, as "as." but, as this does not seem a correct and logical rendering of the inscription, "rs" has been substituted here. Probably the inscription should read: "* * * * Manning Aged * * Years Deceased * * * * ye 4th * * * * 4." The compiler cannot assert that the figures which appear here are absolutely correct, but he confidently believes they are. The identity of the person who lies under the stone is not certain, but it is worthy of notice that Deacon Timothy Manning had a son Timothy who died April 4, 1734. This date harmonizes with what has been made out of the inscription, and, it may be stated, the inscription was deciphered without any dates at hand to guide the compiler in his interpretation.)

Mary Manning

This stone, standing next in the row, is very perplexing. The name is very distinct. No other word or letter can be found upon it. Absolutely no Mrs. Mary Manning is known in the Woodstock branch of the family further than the two already accounted for above, and, thirdly, Mrs. Mary, wife of Ephraim Manning of the fourth generation (he died in 1750; Mary, his wife, died in 1747). If he ever had a gravestone it is not now to be found. Can this stone be that of his wife? If so, why is it in the row of graves where lie the family of his brother Timothy, with no space where Ephraim, himself, might have been laid to rest? A theory suggests itself. All of Deacon Timothy's children who died young seem to have gravestones except John. Did the latter once have one? Was it broken? Was it carried away by some one? Was the grave of Mrs. Mary Manning near? Did the memorial stone to her grave loosen and fall? Was it, after long lying prostrate, picked up by friendly hands? Did the owner of these hands, seeking for a place to reset it, and failing to find the right one, decide that it must belong with the long row of Mannings? Did he place the stone over the grave of John, whence the proper stone was gone? This may seem a very unlikely case, and the reasoning is certainly complicated, but we have no other Mrs. Mary, and as it is not likely that she would be originally buried between two of Deacon Timothy's children, who had died previously, and where her husband could not be laid by her side, the question arises, if the situation is not explained by this theory, how can it be explained?

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT CHELMSFORD, MASS.

The largest group of graves in the cemetery at Chelmsford Center is that where lie Timothy Manning (died 1836), his wife and their children. This group is about 40 feet from the eastern entrance, and only a few feet from the eastern wall. About the same distance from the same boundary, and perhaps 50 feet from the southeast corner, are the graves of Mrs. Martha Manning (died 1809) and her son Benjamin. At the summit of the rise of land is the lot of Major Joseph Manning, and there he and his wife and several grandchildren are buried. Jonathan Manning (died 1828) and some of his children and grandchildren lie in a tomb, in the iron door of which is set a stone which bears all their names.

This burial place is in the lower row of tombs, and is the third from the south end of the row. The following are the inscriptions :

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT ANDOVER, MASS.

The family graves in this town are in the South Cemetery, in the inclosure at the rear of the Old South church. The oldest group is not far from fifty rods from the church, and comparatively near to where a line would fall if drawn from the church to the north corner of the cemetery. There lie Thomas Manning (died 1832), his wife and his sister Mary. About forty feet further north, and by the cemetery driveway, are the graves of Thomas Manning (died 1849), his wife and their daughter Sarah A. On the northwest slope of the hill is the grave of Rev. John H. Manning (died 1869). On the summit of the hill, only a few rods from the church, Adeline A., second wife of Thomas Manning, is buried in the lot of her father, Asa Abbott. About 100 feet southeast of the group first mentioned is the grave of Mary E., wife of Samuel B. Manning, the only one of her line who rests in this cemetery.

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT ANDOVER, VT.

There is more than one cemetery in this town, but the early Mannings rest in the old burial-place on East Hill. It is a small inclosure, and soon searched. Only six gravestones to the Mannings are there. That of Benjamin Manning, the oldest of all, is close to the fence which separates the cemetery from the public road. Nearer the center lie Rev. Joel Manning, his wife and their daughter in one group, and, not far away, are the graves of Deacon Samuel Manning and his wife. The inscriptions follow :

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT ASHBY, MASS.

In the old cemetery in the village, directly back of the church and near the center of the inclosure, is the grave of John Manning (died 1831), and near him lie his wives, Sarah and Sally. Continuing in a direct line are several of John's children, namely, Sarah, Elizabeth, Abigail, Samuel, Mary, a second Mary, a second Samuel, and Lot. Four stones preserve the memory of these seven children, for the names of Elizabeth, Abigail and the first Samuel appear jointly on one memorial, while another is to the joint memory of the second Mary and the second Samuel. Next in the line lie Sally and Susan W., granddaughters of John Manning, and, just beyond them, their father, John Manning, Jr. In the new cemetery south of the village, on the side opposite to the entrance, is a marble shaft to the joint memory of Asa Manning, brother of John Manning, Jr., and several of his family. It is inscribed on four sides, and with these names: Asa Manning (1052); his three wives, Betsy (Whitcomb), Betsey (Jackson) and Adeline; and his children, Lewis, Benjamin B., Albert, Abigail, Elizabeth and John. Of these Ashby inscriptions only those of the first John and his wives come within the scope of this section. The compiler has copies of the entire number (as he has of all that have been referred to in any town previously), but when at Ashby lack of time compelled him to omit certain lines of poetry on some of the stones, so that, unlike those already given, some of the Ashby inscriptions are incomplete. Whether any poetry was omitted from the following is not remembered.

TOWNS WITHOUT EARLY GRAVES, OR BUT FEW.

There are a few towns where graves of early Mannings must be situated, but where no memorial stones of the early period are to be found. This is especially the case with Tewksbury, where the compiler of this volume has searched carefully, but has found none whatever except four or five to those who have died in the last 60 years, namely, Jonathan Manning (764), Nehemiah Manning (1473), Abra, wife of Jonathan (764) and Miss Rebecca (765). Charlestown should show gravestones, for many of the family were buried there, but information, believed to be trustworthy, is to the effect that there are none. The epitaphs of Lancaster have been printed, and show, of the family, only those of Mrs. Lucy, wife of Dr. Samuel Manning (481) and her daughter Rebecca Pratt Manning. In Holden the compiler found only that of Caroline, daughter of Israel Manning (470); the latter has no gravestone. The epitaphs from Lyndeboro, N. H., have been forwarded to the compiler, but they seem not to be literal, and as there is no way to know the division into lines, the division cannot be indicated. Except for the interpolation of individual numbers they are here given as furnished. Jacob Manning (205) died July 16, 1808, aged 68. Sarah Manning (his wife) died Jan. 21, 1831, aged 89. Asa Manning (566) died June 2, 1853, aged 72. Olive Manning (wife of Asa) died Nov. 24, 1844, aged 64. Certain other "Manning towns" have not been especially visited, and no reports have been received from them; Templeton, Ashburnham and Petersham, Mass., and Amherst, Mont Vernon and Bedford, N. H., may be mentioned.

MISCELLANEOUS GRAVES IN CONNECTICUT.

In this State the compiler examined only the cemeteries of Woodstock, Stafford and Sharon. He regrets that he could not have visited all other towns where the early Mannings were numerous, so that a descriptive article could preface each series, but there never has been opportunity to do this. Hope that the chance would present itself was not abandoned until just before this volume went to press, but abandoned it had to be. However, there can be presented here a set of copies made some years ago by the late Edward Manning (1778). These came to the compiler practically in alphabetical form, and this feature will be retained. George E. Manning (2886), son of Edward Manning, has added the name of the town to each inscription when he felt sure of the location, he having at one time visited a part, or all, of these burial-places. Others might, perhaps, be located with equal certainty, but, beyond giving the individual numbers, the compiler prefers not to venture any additions. It may be explained here that Scotland, Ct., is that part of the old town of Windham which was set off and made into a new town some 40 years ago. The compiler has no information as to how closely the copies below follow the originals in the division of lines, punctuation, use of large and small letters, etc.; hence, it cannot be stated whether, in these respects, the copies are exact.

Among other epitaphs reported from Connecticut, but which do not come within the scope of this volume, are those of Betsey Manning (777), Calvin Manning (779) and Desire, his wife; Eliphalet Manning (see 414), Gurdon Manning (909), Dr. Luther Manning (787) and his wife and their daughter; Mansur Manning (946) and his wife and several of their children; Mary Manning (780), Royal Manning (778) and his wife, and several of more modern birth and death. There has been no report made from Norwich, where other memorial stones would be found. The graves at Lebanon, of which some find record here, are numerous. Deacon John Manning (412), his wives Mary and Irena and children William R. and Mary, lie in the old cemetery on the road from the railroad station to the first church, about sixty feet south of the tomb of Governor Trumbull. In the second burying ground, on the slope of the hill above the mill-pond, west of the church on the road to Colchester, are buried John Manning (898), his wife Lois, his sons Nathaniel W., Benjamin S., Edward and Jabez P. Manning; the latter's wife Mary T. and their son John, and Charles E., grandson of John (898), all lying in a group. In the same ground is a second group, Samuel Manning (900), his wives Temperance and Almira, and their daughters Sarah A. Manning and Mrs. Eliza A. Crane.

THE OLD MANNING HOMESTEAD.

Some persons can look back to a homestead where all their childhood was passed. Perhaps it is yet in the possession of their kindred; perhaps it has been alienated, but, even at that, it has for them a fascination born of old associations and the days when home was to them a place free from the endeavor of maturer years. Others, through the force of circumstances, and especially of frequent removals made by their parents, can turn to no one place and feel that it is the "old home." For all the members of the William Manning family, however, there is an OLD HOMESTEAD in which they may well feel an interest, though they never have seen it. In the north part of Billerica, Mass., about two and one-quarter miles from the Center village, on the south side of the road to Chelmsford, and one-quarter of a mile from the boundary line between the two towns, stands, in the year 1900, an aged house that means much to the Manning family. Erected in the year 1696, it is now over two hundred years old. The builder was Samuel Manning of the third generation (who died in 1711), and as he was the ancestor of all later members of the family, he having neither brother nor uncle who lived to marry, all living members have the same interest in him and the OLD HOMESTEAD. It was for one hundred and seventy-five years the continuous home of a branch of the family, and, though outsiders have at times been tenants during the last generation, has never passed from the control of the family.

Beginning about 1892 the compiler of this book undertook to learn all that was possible of the history of the house. County deeds were studied, and so were the county court records, town records, proprietors' records, and the old account books. The latter will be mentioned in detail later on. But the inquiries of the compiler were especially directed to securing information from aged living persons who had been so situated that they had means of knowing of the history of the house. They were interviewed, generally in person, but sometimes by letter, and all possible information secured. The most important informant was the late Mr. John Shed, of Chelmsford. He was closely related by marriage to the last of the Mannings who lived there; he had been a frequent visitor to the house for many years; he was deeply interested in the investigation, and, though of advanced years, was clear of mind and an intelligent man. From him the compiler secured details of a degree of reliability which could not be secured after his death. From old records and individual testimony the compiler is able to present the following history of the OLD HOMESTEAD.

The land was acquired by Samuel Manning from the town in its early years. His land transactions are mentioned in detail in his individual sketch; here, it may be stated briefly that he acquired one acre and 56 poles "8, 8 mo. 1672," or Oct. 8, 1672, "on the west side of Concord river," presumably near the present old house, and, the next year, 24 acres which, undoubtedly, was the practical beginning of his farm, the area of which was increased by later acquisitions to over 225 acres. Perhaps some kind of a house was at once erected; this point has not been determined; but it was not until 1696 that the present house was built. The new edifice was of good size, as it needed to be in that day of large families, and we may be sure that it was then, and long after, considered a fine house. From the ownership of its builder it passed to his son, Ensign William Manning, of the fourth generation; then to Lt. William Manning of the fifth generation; then to Lt. William Manning of the sixth generation, and last of all to the latter's children, son succeeding father through a period of five generations. There the heads of the families and several children died, and there large families were born. The place has deeper meaning to present survivors of the general family than any other house in America.

Erected in a time of Indian outbreaks and massacres, it was for a time one of the officially appointed "garrison houses," to which an allotted number of families could hasten in time of imminent danger, there to unite and defend themselves from the attack of the enemy. Neither record nor tradition tells us whether this garrison was ever actually attacked, but, as massacres by Indians did not cease in Massachusetts until 1724, we may be sure there were times when the building was filled with frightened fugitives and armed men watched for the coming of the red foe. Tradition tells of loop-holes in the walls, surrounded with brick to stop hostile bullets, but this the present writer always doubted, and the rejuvenation of the house, to be mentioned below, confirmed the doubt. It is well known that, at one time, the north sides of houses, otherwise wooden, were wholly or partly built of brick, to lessen the effect of winter winds, and such was the case at the OLD HOMESTEAD. The loop-holes seem never to have been there. This does not prove that there was no fighting there. The trees and hollows may more than once have sheltered life-seeking Indians, and shots have been exchanged.

The next chapter in the history is of a radically different kind. The proprietor of the farm became a tavern-keeper, and the house, in consequence, was long known as the Manning Tavern. General tradition, which is never very exact, says that the tavern was called into existence by the fact that it was on the line of the stage-route from Boston to New Hampshire, by way of Billerica and Chelmsford, but trustworthy information is that stages first passed through Billerica "about 1795," while the tavern was certainly started over 40 years before that date. The records of the Middlesex County Court show that William Manning [49] was licensed as an innholder in 1752. As no such license has been found in the court records of earlier years this is supposed to show the exact time when this period of history began. In the care of the Billerica Historical Society, and loaned to that Society's museum by the heirs of Miss Lucinda Manning, of whom mention will be made later, are the tavern account books, in which the first dated entries are for 1753. In these records no mention is found of public travel; the accounts are simply those between the landlord and his fellow townsmen. These were the days when nearly every man indulged in drink stronger than water, and ministers did not dream of wrong-doing when they joined their parishioners in such indulgence. The old tavern books have occasional mention of such articles as flour, sugar, hay, etc., but nearly all entries are of liquids, and their names, as given in the books, were "rhum," "cyder," "todda," "flip," "cheary drame," and the like. Sales of quantities in excess of a single drink were uncommon, showing that the beverages were consumed on the premises.

The bar, according to information given to the compiler (though modern members of the family have, and, it would seem, on good authority, expressed doubt on this point), was at the east side of the southeast room, and the huge fireplace was opposite the bar. It requires no vivid imagination to picture the intervening space half filled with men on a winter's night, with warmth on both sides, discussing public and private affairs, and, in the meanwhile, giving attention to "cheary drames" and kindred compounds. This pleasant picture of the imagination is destroyed by the second account, above mentioned, which places the bar in the east end of the lean-to. This account has more adherents than the other, perhaps, and, until more is known, the lean-to should be considered the bar-room.

Some light on the prices that prevailed for sundries between 1753 and 1760 may be gained from the account-book of that period. A pound of sugar was four shillings; one-half bushel of meal 10s; three hundred of hay 15s; one and one-half dozen of pigeons 3s; a quarter of veal 9s and 3d; a quart of molasses 4s and 6d; a pair of shoes 2 pounds and 7s; a day's work at mowing 10s; one-half dozen of eggs 1s and 3d; a quart of rum 6s; one-half pint of brandy 4s; a gallon of cider 6s, and a mug of flip 2s.

In the years 1770 and 1771 there is a gradual change of writing to be seen in the accounts, showing the period when the landlord retired from active work in favor of his son, William Manning [201], within the time of whose management the stages certainly made trips along the road, stopping at the tavern. It has been impossible to learn when the place ceased to be a public house.

In the meanwhile the OLD HOMESTEAD had seen another feature of its diversified existence. A few yards from the west end of the house, at the foot of the largest elm tree, may be seen a small, shallow excavation. It is the cellar of the "salt-peter house." This was a building about 15 feet square where, in the Revolution, salt-peter was made for use as one of the component parts of gun-powder to be used by the patriot troops. It is supposed that its manufacture was conducted by members of the Manning family. At the tavern, too, at one time during the Revolution, a detachment of patriot troops, including, it is said, a general and his staff, stopped and were fed at the tavern. In more modern days the salt-peter house, commonly called "the 'peter house," became the family wash-house, or laundry, and the great kettles, formerly used in the making of saltpeter, were devoted to the boiling of the clothes in washing. Some time after 1880 these kettles were broken up and sold for old iron. It was said by the gentleman who sold them that one of them was five or six feet in diameter at the top, and the iron nearly five inches thick in places. Nothing remains of the saltpeter house but the cellar and a memory.

After the death of William Manning [201] in 1814 the house and farm descended to his children. They were thirteen in number, of whom two died in minority. Of the others only three married, leaving eight to pass more or less of their lives at the old home in single life. They passed away one by one, until the sole survivor was Miss Lucinda [537]. Affairs did not go well with no protector near. Tramps, gipsies and other molesters subjected her to severe annoyances. The gipsies defiantly camped upon her grounds, her cows were driven away and milked, etc. A niece lived with her for a time, but she finally decided that she must leave the old home. By her own direction and at her own expense a house was erected for her near her relatives in Chelmsford village, a few miles distant. When it was completed she left the old home, from which her furniture and other effects had already been removed. When the team came for her, on the day of the change, "she was standing by the dying embers in the old fireplace of an empty room." It was the home where life had begun and ended for many of her nearest kin, and it was to be home no longer. Memory must have been busy then. As she passed out of the house she exclaimed: "I shall never come here again!" And, though she lived more than 15 years thereafter, and was but a few miles away, she never did. She is remembered as "a tall, dignified woman in spotless cap and snowy lace parted on her neck with precision learned in the school-room [she was long a teacher], and remarkable for activity, earnestness, cordiality and hospitality." It is said that she and her sisters remained single from choice. She died Aug. 10, 1880. By will she gave the house and 80 acres of land to trustees who were to lease it and devote the proceeds to "public worship and religious instruction in that part of the town of Billerica which is known as School District Number 4, said instruction to be by teachers of the Baptist, Methodist or orthodox denominations." In the first part of the final decade of the 19th century the income went to the Baptist church of North Billerica.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD entered upon a very different period of its career. It was greatly in need of repairs, and these were not made. Tenants who were prepared to pay well for a place in good repair could find nothing there to invite them; at one time the occupants were colored people. The lack of work to check the effects of time and weather was seen; the great age of the house fell upon it with full force, and it was in a deplorable condition. Above the first floor all beams remained uninjured and, indeed, were of almost iron-like solidity. Below, beams were giving way, floors were warping, clapboards were literally crumbling into dust, and desolation and decay reigned. Once, during this period, a party of young men planned to set fire to the place on a holiday, as a diversion, and were barely prevented from thus completing the destruction.

The surroundings of the house are pleasant. It is a region of moderate hills, but immediately to the east and south is what the founders of Billerica called a plain. This, on the side of the road where the house stands, is a field of some six acres, level and smooth, and extending to a stretch of woods. Close to the house, in part clustering around it and in part lining the driveway, are ten or twelve elm trees the largest of which was, in 1896, 12 feet and 2 inches in circumference at a point four feet from the ground. Another was but four inches less. One who professed ability to judge correctly (not the compiler) estimated their height at 60 or 70 feet. The largest, and several others, are in flourishing condition; others are decaying. Their age is unknown; it must be one hundred years, and is probably considerably in excess of that age. Some 200 feet distant, to the southwest, are the barns and sheds of the place.

The house faces nearly south and, under a plan which now seems peculiar, its rear side is next to the road and its front next to the field; in other words, it faces away from, and not to the road. This is according to an old practice which gave "southern exposure" to the front of a house, no matter where the road was. The main part is 41 feet long and 19 feet and 5 inches wide, but an annex, or "lean-to," increases the width to a total of 30 feet and 7 inches. The roof descends sharply, so that the height of the lean-to at the eaves is but 5 feet and 9 inches. Other dimensions will appear further on. The age of the lean-to is unknown. To all appearances it is as old as the main part, but no evidence as to this exists.

In several ways the construction of the house presents what are novelties to us. The window casings are not set into the walls according to modern style, but, made of four pieces of heavy timber which are mortised together, are fastened to the outer face of the walls by great, hand-made spikes, the heads of which are nearly one inch in diameter. The chimney is of the old-fashioned sort, with a fireplace at three of its sides on the ground floor. As near as this chimney can be measured under existing conditions it is 9 feet and 9 inches by 8 feet and 5 inches square at this point. Where it passes through the roof the chimney is 4 feet and 8 inches wide on one side, but irregular of shape as it narrows rapidly. The adjoining side is slightly narrower. The cellar stairs are of solid logs, hewn square, and are as firm to the tread as if of granite. Through the center of the house from east to west extends a great beam as a part of the foundation of the second floor. Owing to its great size, and after the fashion of that period, it extends below the ceilings of the ground-floor rooms. This beam is 13 inches wide at its larger end, and 12 inches at its smaller end. Its drop below the room-ceilings is from three and one-half to four and one-half inches. The stairs leading to the chambers are of the winding order; the successive steps extend first north, then west, then south. There are no clothes closets. The compiler was informed that, originally, the whole upper floor was devoted to two rooms, separated by the chimney and the small upper hall. When he first saw the place one of these rooms was divided into two by a partition. The statement was that this partition was modern; this has since been questioned. The lean-to has what might of courtesy be termed a chamber, but more properly a garret, fit only for the storage of plain articles. The attic of the main house, which is of considerable size, shows no sign of occupancy, but there, we may be sure, were stored ancient things during the 19th century which would, if preserved, now be of great value to any collector of what was antique, and especially interesting to the Manning family. Partly from information received on good authority, and partly from conjecture, the compiler ventures this suggestion as to the use made of the house when it was not an inn. In the lean-to was the kitchen; also a storage room for articles in daily use in the rougher work. The east room on the lower floor was the living room; there, too, after the fashion of early days, the parents probably slept. There, too, in modern days, Miss Lucinda Manning was fond of sitting by the east window. The west room was the "spare" room; there, no doubt, the "company," or visitors slept. The upper rooms would be divided between the sons and daughters. Possibly some of the latter, when the family was unusually large, slept in the attic and heard the music of the rain on the roof.

The authority for the date of the erection of the house was Miss Lucinda Manning, herself. She was always direct and certain in her statements on this point, and it is difficult to see how she could be mistaken. She was herself born in the house in 1790, and, being one of the youngest of a large family of children, her eldest sister was born there in 1769, as was her father in 1747. This reaches well back to the youth of the house. Moreover, all of her ancestors who resided there lived long lives which overlapped each other widely, and, in view of these facts, it would be a matter of wonder if Miss Lucinda, a bright and educated woman, did not know when the house was built. It is believed that she did know; the authority is believed to be of the best. Several years ago the compiler was told that, somewhere in one of the chambers, Miss Lucinda had long before marked the date "1696" on the wall. In repairing the house in 1899 this date, presumably the one made by her, came to light over the door in the east chamber, whereupon it was made permanent by being carved into the wood.

At various times between 1892 and 1897 the compiler visited the OLD HOMESTEAD, making careful examination of the house and interviewing those who could enlighten him as to its history. Some information was received which was not correct, and, as a result, has no mention here. Unreliable statements have been rejected, and all possible care taken to make the history reliable. On one of three visits made in 1896 the compiler measured the old house from top to bottom, and the results appear below. Comparison of different lines in the accompanying table shows variations of an inch or two where said measurements should, it would seem, agree exactly. This was due to several causes. The displacement of interior walls may have had something to do with it, and, certainly, the fact that the furniture of the tenants obstructed free action, at times, was not conducive to mathematical precision. As these variations are so slight it is believed that they may be considered unimportant. A rough plan of the lower floor of the house is here included. This shows the division into rooms, and the dimensions of each. It has not been thought necessary to have an elaborate and expensive drawing made, photographed and printed, as a simple presentation of the plan will show all that is necessary.

The front door appears in the lower line of the diagram. Passing in, one stands in the entry, with the stairs directly ahead and a large room on each side of the entry. In the lean-to is the kitchen, with the room for storage of rough articles to the west and what was, in 1896, the rear entry to the east. The removal of the partition between this entry and the kitchen some feet further west during the repairs in 1899 has changed the dimensions of the last two rooms, but as this diagram was made in 1896 all is given here as it was then. The great chimney, which occupies the space of an ordinary small room, is in the center of the house. In the table that follows N., E., S. and W. refer to the points of the compass; and the table is the measurement made by the compiler in 1896.

The difference in the height of the lower rooms was probably due to the settling of the outer walls at certain points as the sills decayed, and, in the case of the kitchen, to the eccentric upheaving of the floor. Measurement at present would probably show a uniform height, and one differing an inch or so from what is here given, but the old figures have been retained. Present conditions speak for themselves; these figures tell accurately of the past and will vary but little from the present. It should be added that, while the height of the kitchen has been given as 6 feet and 2 inches, there was one point where the upheaval of the floor made it only 5 feet and 9 inches.

At various times during the earlier stages of the preparation of this volume there was talk of forming a "Manning Association," and of doing something to save the old house. The first project received but little consideration, but as knowledge of the OLD HOMESTEAD spread there was marked interest. Its great age; a rumor that it was to be torn down as something worthless, and the positive knowledge that it was in very bad condition, appealed to more than one member. Several gentlemen wrote the compiler to learn whether it could be purchased either by the family or private individuals, but the fact that the property had been left by will to trustees for specific purposes aroused in all unprofessional minds a doubt whether there was any one who had legal power to alienate it from the control of the trustees. In consequence of this doubt nothing was done for several years. (Legal advice has since been taken.)

In 1898 Warren H. Manning [3330], of Brookline, Mass., commenced practical efforts to save the house and to form the Association. After names had been furnished by the compiler, several members of the family who lived within a fairly convenient distance of the old place, and who, it was believed, would feel an interest in this commendable work, were written to and invited to attend a meeting for consideration of ways and means to accomplish the desired end. On Nov. 12 certain ones of this number visited the old house and made an examination thereof, and, at a second meeting, held in Boston Nov. 19, a committee was chosen to report, at the next meeting, such additional facts as could then be given. Necessary blanks for the charter of the Association were obtained Dec. 7. Several meetings were called in the early part of 1899, but these failed to produce a quorum, and nothing could be done.

In this emergency, with affairs at a standstill, Warren H. Manning personally leased the OLD HOMESTEAD May 31, 1899, and began the making of repairs. He added new sills, floors, clapboards, window casings and windows, pieced down the beams, rebuilt the cellar wall, graded about the house and barn, excavated the old saltpeter-house cellar, rebuilt portions of the chimney of the house, renewed portions of the roof, added a new chimney to the shed at the northwest corner of the house, scraped off the modern paint and paper in the interior of the house proper, replastered the ceiling, etc. In making these repairs two objects were kept in view—first, to do nothing that would give the old house a modern look, and, secondly, to restore to its original appearance, as far as possible, everything where former modern changes had removed original conditions. This done, the lessee made the OLD HOMESTEAD his summer home. (Additional repairs in 1901 were the relaying and painting of floors; the re-hanging of doors and the putting on of wooden latches and the making of new doors for the south and east entrances. Drain-pipes were also laid from the house to a point on the opposite side of the road; the wall of the barn cellar was rebuilt; the frame of the barn drawn together and made fast; posts pieced out and foundations put under them, and the barn generally reconstructed.) The article immediately following the present one will tell of the renewal, in 1900, of the attempt to form a Manning Association, its success, and something of the business proceedings at its meetings. A safe was purchased and placed in the house, and with its acquisition a long-cherished plan of Warren H. Manning became possible and was carried into effect. Objects of interest, of antiquity, and all relating to the family in general,—in brief, furniture, household articles, documents, etc., which had descended through the various branches, were donated to form a collection of what was old and curious. A list of the articles follows, with the names of the donors:

FROM MRS. JOHN SHED, of Chelmsford: Frying-pan used in the old house when it was a tavern.

FROM THE SHED ESTATE: Clothing, books, trunks, furniture, china, desk, etc., etc.

FROM WM. J. STEVENS, Chelmsford: Two chairs, wine-glass, punch-bowl, etc.

FROM MRS. SARAH (PARKHURST) WATSON, Auburn, N. H.: Lucinda Manning's sampler, and sample of carpet once used in the old house.

FROM J. ROLAND PARKHURST, Chelmsford: The original grant of a part of Samuel Manning's farm, in 1674,* and 252 other family papers; portraits of Surviah (Manning) Parkhurst and Lucinda Manning; two leather-bound chests; pewter measure once used in the Manning tavern; four samplers; seven books; walnut chair, a table, etc.

FROM HENRY AND JULIA MANNING, New Boston, N. H.: A desk and chair made by Jacob Manning [205], and eleven papers relating to land transfers by him and his descendants.

FROM SOLOMON MANNING, Bedford, N. H.: Wool spinning-wheel, loom-basket, carpet-bag, blue plate, pewter tea-pot, old kitchen and farming utensils, sun-dial, all formerly possessed by his parents.

FROM MRS. DUDLEY HALL MANNING, Grinnell, Ia.: Sample of cloth, 125 years old, given to her by Mrs. Solomon Manning.

FROM WM. S. MANNING, West Orange, N. J.: Four-post bedstead; pewter flagon.

FROM EBEN J. MANNING, Lake City, Minn.: A sun-glass given to him by Mrs. Solomon Manning; also family photographs.

FROM LEVI F. MANNING, Wilmington, Mass.: An ancient plane, once the property of his great grandfather, Thomas Manning; also a bed-key made by the donor.

FROM WILLIAM MANNING, East Chelmsford, Mass.: Reed-bottomed chair; mortar and pestle; flint-lock gun-barrel cannon, all from the home of his father, Theophilus Manning.

FROM MISS LILLIAN WARREN, Fall River, Mass.: Mahogany four-post bedstead.

FROM MRS. DR. HOWARD, Chelmsford, Mass.: China sugar-bowl.

FROM MRS. JULIA E. WARREN, Chelmsford: Boot-jack used in the Joseph Manning tavern; oak side-bars of rope bedstead; kitchen and farming utensils, etc.

Also, numerous photographs from various members.

The foregoing shows what has thus far been done to gather objects of interest to the Manning family. It is hoped that other relics of bygone days may be added, and any one who is inclined to loan such relics should address Warren H. Manning, at North Billerica, Mass. It is not the intention to make the OLD HOMESTEAD a promiscuous museum, but to place on exhibition there, for the benefit of members of the family who go to see the old place, such antique objects as can be gathered which belonged to the Mannings who have passed away.

It is now the commendable and filial work of our family to save the old home from destruction at the hands of those who see in it only an old house. To us it is something far more; it may almost be termed the cradle of our race. The place is not yet owned by the family, but is held subject to the will of Miss Lucinda Manning, by her trustees. Warren H. Manning still holds the lease thereof, but he cannot be expected to carry the burden alone. The Manning family should possess the place, and the only way to do this is to acquire it by outright purchase. At the reunion of June 17, 1901, a few subscriptions were taken, but these were generally of small amounts, and were accepted merely to complete the formal organization of the Association; hence, this was only a preliminary legal step, and those who, to aid in this step, then subscribed will add to their contributions at a later time. The foundation of the subscriptions is laid; let the good work go on. The capital stock is $3,000, and no one member can hold an undue number of shares. The idea is to make the OLD HOMESTEAD the property, not of a few individuals, but of the whole family. All should have ownership in it. Shares are non-assessable.

If the movement for the acquirement of the place by the family should fail it would be a great misfortune. It is there, firm and slightly, with an age, in 1901, of 205 years. Rare, indeed, are buildings of such great age. Is it not worth saving? Three years ago, while the structure four feet from the ground and upward was in an excellent state of preservation, the lower timbers were far advanced in decay. Now, all that were affected have been replaced with new material (sills, etc.), and, with slight repairs at widely-separated intervals, there seems to be no reason why the house should not stand for hundreds of years to come. Members of the family are not asked to help in saving a dilapidated old building, but to preserve one that is in excellent condition.

The work done by Warren H. Manning cannot be too highly commended. Failing to form the Association as soon as was necessary, and with daily danger that the house would be torn down by the trustees of the will, he went about the work alone. As before stated, he personally took the lease of the place and repaired the house. It was not his, it was not the Association's, but was the property of the lessors. He has not explained how he dared to venture this outlay, but we can understand his desire to save the early home of the family, and he probably had faith that, when it was put in first-class condition, the family would gladly unite to acquire it by purchase. The gratitude of the ancestors and of posterity is due to him.

The house is there. Hundreds of the family have seen it. Hundreds have gathered there at the two annual reunions. It is the intention to hold a family meeting there once in each year, and probably always on June 17, unless it falls on a Sunday. Come and see the old house. Come and meet the members of the family. And what can be done to put the place beyond the danger of destruction? One thing only—its purchase by the family. It would be well worth saving, if only on account of its great age. But it has other claims upon us. It is the OLD HOMESTEAD of the Mannings. By the plan of the Association its control cannot be monopolized by a few; all will have part in it who subscribe, and it is hoped that all will subscribe.

Behold, where yon the ancient homestead stands
 With ever anxious look and outstretched hands!
 What says the voice that comes from out its door?
 "When I was young, in stirring days of yore,
 I sheltered those you loved from heat and cold.
 Who volunteers to save me now I'm old?"

THE MANNING ASSOCIATION, AND THE FAMILY REUNIONS OF 1900 AND 1901.

In the previous article, which should be read in connection with the present section, mention has been made of the efforts to form the Manning Association (being that of the descendants of William Manning, 1634). This was effected in 1900 at the first annual reunion of the family at the OLD HOMESTEAD in Billerica. This reunion was held June 18, on which occasion 102 members registered. It is to be regretted that some of those present did not sign the register. This meeting was called by Warren H. Manning, lessee of the place, by authority of the original committee of organization, and the guests were received and entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Manning. All present enjoyed the day thoroughly, the house and the relics were inspected, and the novelty of the occasion made it far more than a common summer outing. A business meeting was held during the day. This was called to order by Leonard J. Manning, of West Medford, Mass., and Warren H. Manning made a statement of the history of the house, the steps taken to acquire and repair it, as set forth on a former page. Due arrangements were made to effect the incorporation of the Association, and the following officers were elected: President, Charles H. Manning, Manchester, N. H.; Vice President, Sam W. Manning, West Newton, Mass.; Treasurer, Erastus A. Bartlett, East Chelmsford, Mass.; Secretary, Warren H. Manning, Brookline, Mass.; Historian, William H. Manning, temporarily of Ayer, Mass.; Executive Committee, Theodore E. Busfield, Utica, N. Y., James W. Manning, Putnam, Ct., Leonard J. Manning, West Medford, Mass., Prentiss H. Manning, Boston, Mass., Mrs. Emma Manning Walker, Lexington, Mass. (now of Millis); Cleveland P. Manning, Baltimore, Md., and Joseph E. Warren, Chelmsford, Mass. After this meeting the work of organization progressed in due form, and on March 4, 1901, by the aid of Hon. David Manning, of Worcester, State Senator representing his district, an act passed the Legislature which formally incorporated the Association. A year or more before this date a petition for incorporation was signed by members of the family, several of whom resided in other States. At the last moment it was learned that non-residents were ineligible in a matter like this, and the first paper had to be discarded and a new one substituted. Moreover, in the haste which became necessary, the second list of incorporators had to be selected from among those who could be found immediately. As a result, all of the final incorporators were residents in or near Boston. Of these, several were on both lists. Among those who were reluctantly dropped by the discarding of the first petition were Hon. James W. Manning, of Putnam, Ct., Capt. Charles H. Manning, Manchester, N. H., George E. Manning, New London, Ct., and Cleveland P. Manning, Baltimore, Md. The first two names on this list are those of gentlemen who have been identified with the movement from the first, and who have been regular in attendance at meetings and helpful in council. To the knowledge of the present writer Hon. James W. Manning has been interested in the Old Homestead for at least twelve years; he early secured photographs thereof, and he has done much to arouse interest in others, while in the time since the plan of the Association was conceived, he has been second only to Warren H. Manning in interest, attendance and help.

The signers of the second petition, and, consequently, the formal incorporators, were Warren Henry Manning, Brookline, Mass.; Sam Winkley Manning, West Newton, Mass.; William Wayland Manning, Wollaston, Mass., George A. Parkhurst, Chelmsford, Mass.; Joseph E. Warren, Chelmsford, Mass.; Prentiss Hobbs Manning, Boston, Mass., and J. Woodward Manning, Reading, Mass.

Warren H. Manning, as secretary, has kept full records of all proceedings, and can give information that is desired concerning the undertaking.

The second annual reunion of the descendants of William Manning was held June 17, 1901, at the Old Homestead. One hundred and eight members registered. A musical and literary program was given in the forenoon, this having been arranged by Mrs. Emma Manning Walker. The occasion was again highly successful and pleasant. At a meeting of the incorporators the Act of incorporation was adopted. By-laws based upon the Act were adopted. At a subsequent general business meeting the officers of the previous year were re-elected. It is expected that the third annual reunion, in 1902, will be even more largely attended, as interest is spreading. Those present at the past two meetings appear below. All residences are in Massachusetts, unless otherwise indicated.

STATISTICS.

The following details relating to the descendants of William Manning, of Cambridge, may interest several members. They show various conditions in the general family from time to time, and are as near correct as they can be made. All are subject to the limitations of such work. For instance, if all the missing members of the early generations could have been traced, and their descendants included, every table, below, would be changed, and the total increased. Also, a considerable addition would have been made if some of the living members had not failed to send in their family record when requested. The first table is that of large families born to male Mannings. The time and labor necessary to draw off details like these have limited such work to the male lines, though the total children of the females will be given subsequently. There have been thirty-two families of 8 children; thirty-six of 9 children; twenty-three of 10 children; seventeen of 11 children; seven of 12 children; four of 13 children; four of 14 children, and one of 16 children. The following table is arranged so as to show in what generation each of these families appeared. The upper line of figures is the generation numbers; that at the left margin indicates the numerical size of what is here termed a large family, while the other figures show how many times each large family has appeared in each generation.

DEATHS IN MINORITY.

This section shows the number of children who, as far as the compiler's knowledge extends, have died under the age of twenty-one years in the families of the male Mannings from the first settlement in this country to present time. An age division has been made in the count, and two sections formed. The first is composed of those who died under the age of three years; the second, of those who died between two and twenty-one. By "under three" is meant, before the beginning of the third year. The general belief that it is harder to bring a male child safely through the critical period of infancy than a female, is confirmed by these figures, for 165 males died under three and only 124 females. On the other hand, the mortality among females between two and twenty-one was greater than that of the opposite sex, the deaths being 107 males and 129 females. The figures follow:

Males died under three years, - - - -	165
Females died under three years, - - - -	124
Males died between two and twenty-one years, -	107
Females died between two and twenty-one years,	129

TOTAL BIRTHS IN THE FAMILY.

The birth-record of the family is given below. Once more, it will be seen, the female lines received less attention than the males, as their children are given only in the total. If any one would know how much time and labor have been expended to carry this statistical information as far as it extends, there is an excellent opportunity to acquire the information by subjecting the female lines to the same analysis; and it will be easier to do this in printed matter than in manuscript. Such States as are now keeping exhaustive public records find that more male children are annually born than females. The appended table shows the same condition, with a total of 1640 males and 1516 females. The following includes only the children of the male Mannings.

	MALE CHILDREN.	FEMALE CHILDREN.	TOTAL.

The falling off of numbers in the eleventh and twelfth generations is not so alarming as might at first be thought. There are young parents of the ninth generation, and several young men not yet married, while nearly all the parents of the tenth and eleventh generations are young; hence, both the eleventh and twelfth generations will be largely increased in the future. The small excess of the tenth generation over the ninth is an ominous reminder of the changed condition of society by which small families have succeeded large ones; and it was, at first, so surprising to the writer that he made a partial investigation to determine the cause. There were 435 male Mannings in the ninth generation, and only 455 in the tenth. Investigation showed the following facts: Of the 435 in the ninth, 74 died young, 56 never married, and 39 married but had no children. This reduced the 435 to 266, and of these, 30 had but one child each. The cause of the small increase became plainer.

The number of children born to the female Mannings, that can be mentioned here, is nearly 800 fewer than the children of the males. There are several reasons for this, the chief of which is that, of the two sexes, there are far more females who have not been traced. The male lines were largely located by means of their surname, but if a female member of an early generation married, and the marriage was not recorded, there was no clue to her new name. Other females, whose marriages we have, at once left the old home and have not been traced. But for these and other causes, it is probable that the female lines would show as large a birth-rate as the males. The children of the female members follow:

“ “ “	6th “	107

In giving the statistics of the family it cannot be asserted that they show with absolute certainty the exact number in some of these sets of tables. Nothing has been arrived at by estimate, but every number given is the result of laborious counting, yet, information of recent events has constantly been coming to hand, and a variation of a few persons in some tables (from one to five, or more) is almost certain. This pilgrimage into the land of statistics will close with the grouping of the most important facts before mentioned, to which will be added, first, another class of descendants of the female members, being the number of their grandchildren, etc., here included, and, second, the number of persons in the William Manning family now living. This will include only those born heirs to the Manning surname; descendants of other surnames are not mentioned. The number is as near correct as it can be made, but births and deaths are constantly changing the number, and it is approximately correct rather than infallible.

OF CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

NOTE—To find any desired record recourse should be had to the several indexes at the end of the volume. All names are there arranged in alphabetical order, and Christian names are preceded by the date of each member's birth and followed by the surname of the person he or she married, thus making identification easy. Besides this, each member's individual number is given. Turn to the corresponding number in the reading matter and the record will be found. Two sets of numbers extend through the volume, one at the extreme left margin of the page, and the other somewhat indented. Numbers generally appear twice; first, in the marginal column, and, secondly, in the indented space (new paragraph). To find the record of the father of a given member, turn toward the front of the book where the said member's number first appeared. To find the records of the children of a given member, turn toward the end of the volume where the numbers of said children appear for the second time. The Christian names in parenthesis following a member's full name are those of his ancestors in direct line, and the elevated numbers thereto attached show the respective generation of each. When a town is mentioned with no state immediately following, it is understood as being in the same state as the town last mentioned before it in the sketch, unless the town has already appeared therein. To repeat the name of a state constantly would be to question the intelligence of readers and make the text ridiculous. Abbreviations are few except those in common use. "B.," "m." and "d." mean, respectively, born, married and died; "dau.," daughter; "res.," resides or resided. "Bap.," which sometimes follows a child's name, means baptized. It is used only when the date of the member's birth is unknown, and is a substitute therefor. All dates herewith, if from the original records, are Old Style.

FIRST GENERATION.

WILLIAM<sup>1</sup> MANNING, the founder of his family in America, came to the Colony of Massachusetts Bay at an early date. Whence he came has not been learned,* but, as the Mannings had long been a numerous family in England, and as he came contemporaneously with the migration of other emigrants from that country, it is certain that he was from a branch of that ancient family. As to his exact place of residence before the above removal, the only clue is indefinite and may be unreliable. In his church "confession," to be hereafter quoted, he states that his reason for settling where he did in the new Colony was that the Reverend Mr. Hooker was there. The latter was an eminent minister; preached at Chelmsford, County Essex, England; then opened a school at Little Baddow, about five miles from Chelmsford; went within two years to Holland and preached at Delft and Rotterdam, and then came to Massachusetts Bay and was pastor at Cambridge until his removal to Hartford, Ct., 1636, about May. What was called his "flock" when at Cambridge, that is, the members of his congregation, chiefly came from Braintree, County Essex, eleven miles from Chelmsford. When preaching at the latter place his popularity was such that people came from all the surrounding towns to hear him. Now, if William Manning's object in locating in Cambridge was because Mr. Hooker was there, and he says such was his object, it seems that he or his wife must have been among those who heard him preach before the coming to this country. Possibly our ancestor was among those who, to secure the privilege of worshipping God according to the dictates of their own consciences, sought an asylum in Holland and afterward crossed the ocean to the new land. but it is far more likely that it was in England he heard Mr. Hooker preach. It would, then, seem to be almost certain that William Manning's English home was in County Essex, in or near Chelmsford, were it not for the fact that he seems to have taken a new wife after his arrival in America, and it may have been she, not he, who had heard Mr. Hooker and so much admired him. But Mr. Manning appears to have married this new wife soon after the death of his first consort, from which we may, perhaps, infer that she was someone whom he had known in England, and this leads to the belief that both were from the same locality, and that the locality was in County Essex, near Chelmsford. In the absence of proof this reasoning, even if proved faulty by future discoveries, may not be worthy of omission.

* The compiler of this genealogy, having borne the heavy expense of collecting the material given in this volume, has not felt able to incur the additional expense of a search in England to try and learn from what place there the first of our family in America came. A few years ago several members of the family who were interested in the historical memorial met to consider the advisability of making such a search at their joint expense, but no action was taken.

William Manning's own statement is that, on his arrival in the Colony, he lived in Roxbury for nine or ten weeks. This town has since been annexed to and made a part of Boston. He then went to Cambridge, where the first documentary sign of him is found. This early town is separated from Boston only by the Charles River. The date of his arrival in the Colony has not been learned, but it was as early as 1634, and may have been some years before. In 1635, Feb. 8, the authorities of Cambridge made out and recorded a "List of those who have houses in town." The mutilation of the list at one point leaves some of the names to be conjectured. Among them is one of which only the termination remains. It is "ning," and the first "n" is preceded by one-half of another letter of which only a downward stroke has been spared by the mutilation. The stroke is like the last half of an "n," and, assuming, as may confidently be done, that it is such, we have as a surname "—ning." It is said that no other person in the town had a name with a similar ending, so it seems safe to believe that it was that of William Manning. This does not prove that he had then recently arrived in Cambridge. Mr. Hooker was there as early as 1633, and the "list of those who have houses" was not one of late purchases, but of all the householders there at that time. If William went to Cambridge in 1634, and his residence of nine or ten weeks in Roxbury immediately preceded it, the date of his arrival in the Colony can be surmised approximately, but he may have been in Cambridge nearly as early as Mr. Hooker. The dissatisfaction of the pastor's flock there "because of want of accomodation for their cattle and room for new settlers," which led, in 1636, to the removal of so many families and their spiritual head, began in or before May, 1634. It is probable that William Manning joined the "flock" before, rather than after, this deep dissatisfaction began. Either attachment to his new home or the ties of business, or some other consideration, prevented him from accompanying Mr. Hooker and such others as went to Connecticut in 1636. By that time he had become sufficiently grounded so that the pastor's personality did not draw him away from Cambridge.

He had come to a new land.* The settlement of New England was begun by the Mayflower Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1620; the charter of Massachusetts Bay was granted by King Charles of England, in 1629; Boston was settled in 1630. Cambridge was first mentioned in the records of the colony in 1631 as "the new town;" as "Newe Town" in 1632, and was officially named Cambridge in 1638. Very few towns had then been settled, and the whole region was one of wildness, hardship and severe endeavor. It was to such a life as this that our ancestor came. It is not known what calling he followed in Cambridge. In his church confession he states that he was apprenticed when very young, from which it seems he learned some trade; but he further says that he later "took a business lawful and commendable." What this business was is unknown, but it seems probable that, like his son, he was a merchant. An entry in the old Cambridge church book for 1648 reads: "Payd our brother Manninge for a bellope." This was a transaction with a merchant, but whether with William Manning, the father, or with the son, cannot be determined. Taken in connection with the statement that the subject of this sketch engaged at one time in a "business lawful and commendable," it seems, however, quite probable that he was a merchant in England;

* There is a tradition in some branches of the family that our ancestor was one of three brothers who came to this country at about the same time, but this is very improbable. Nearly all the old families, of different surnames, have the same tradition, and it is almost as invariably proved to be without foundation when investigated. The almost universal prevalence of the tradition in other families shows how unreliable it is. As far as it concerns our ancestor the most careful investigation has failed to produce any corroborative evidence. There were other men of the name of Manning in the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, and beyond it, in his day, but nearly all were much younger, and there is no known indication that he was acquainted with them. Neither in the business transactions of the other Mannings nor in his own is there any sign that they or he dealt with each other, or called upon each other for certification of good character or financial responsibility. In brief, as far as can be seen, William Manning was a total stranger to the other Manning settlers, and it seems almost certain that, except for his direct descendants, he had no relatives in this country who bore his family name. The writer is firmly convinced that no attention should be given to this tradition of three brothers.

that he entered into the same business in Cambridge; that he preferred to continue therein rather than accompany his favorite pastor to Connecticut, and that his son ultimately succeeded to the business.

He was the owner of a house and of other lots of lands, but when he bought and sold is not known in full. Deeds of that period are not to be found, for the Middlesex County Registry of Deeds has no entries prior to 1649. Some effort was made in Cambridge to trace the transfers of real estate, and the result is seen in the local Proprietors' Records in the form of a "Register of houses and lands" in 1635, and again in 1642. The items entering therein may be called imperfect deeds. By the latter register the fact is known that William Manning had made purchases of one George Stocking. Comparing the memorandum of this transfer with the boundaries given of E. Goffe and W. Adams in the same book, it will be seen that our ancestor bought as soon as February, 1638, and perhaps considerably earlier; but in the register no chronological arrangement was attempted. In a few cases the dates of transfer were given, and some of the entries preceding William Manning's are subsequent to 1638, and some that follow his are previous to that date, making the particular point at which his purchase was entered of no value as a point from which to determine the date, theoretically, in his case. This real estate acquired from George Stocking was not the same which, according to the "list of those who have houses in town," he occupied 1635, Feb. 8, for Mr. Stocking was its owner in 1635. William Manning does not appear in the "Register" of 1635. Possibly he had owned another place and sold it in 1635, or it may be that the "list," above, was intended for the occupants rather than the owners of houses, and that he was then a tenant. The purchase from Mr. Stocking, made between 1635 and 1638, February, is thus described:

"WILLIAM MANNING. Bought of Georg Stocking one house and Garden. Sabastean Brigham southwest. Crooked lane south East. Robert Sanders northwest.

Jt Bought of him in pine Swampe field fowre Acres of planteing grounde Charles Towne East. Oxe pasture South John Russell north John Mean West.

It At Jones his hill two Acres of Planting ground Gregory Stone west William patten east. Barnaby Lamson North John Champnies south."

In 1645 there was a "division" of unoccupied lands to all inhabitants who held "rights"—that is, of land grants to owners of the original lots—and among others was the following:

"Willm Manninge senr Three Aer & halfe more or lesse Thomas Beale East, Thomas Brigham West Charlestowne lync, north, Comon south."

Of the three lots above one was sold by him in 1645 to his son, who sold it at once to Gilbert Crackbone. William Manning's homestead was at the southwest corner of what is now Mount Auburn and Holyoke streets, but then called Spring and Crooked streets respectively. The location is a short distance south of Harvard square. It has been stated that his son inherited this homestead, but the compiler has failed to find evidence to confirm the statement. In any case, it is probable that it was sold before his death. No record of its sale exists in the form of a deed.

It is interesting to note who his neighbors were, for this shows the manner of men with whom he associated, and the character of the locality in which he resided. Of his four nearest neighbors, three were respectively, John Russell, constable, selectman and clerk of writs; Joseph Cook, selectman, town clerk, magistrate and representative, and John Bridges, deacon, selectman and representative. Not far away resided Hezekiah Usher, three years representative for Billerica; Thomas Marrett, deacon and selectman; Thomas Danforth, selectman, Deputy Governor, Judge of the Superior Court and Treasurer of Harvard College, and Henry Dunster, President of Harvard from 1640 to 1654. Four other gentlemen, less eminent, but doubtless not less honorable, completed the list of families in a neighborhood which surely held high place as to character.

Items of record referring to our ancestor are few outside of real estate matters. He, with others, had been overtaxed at one time, and the result is seen in the action of the town, 1643, Nov. 11, as follows: "Bro. Manning, senior, his rate abated £0.2.00." Some one named William Manning was a member of the jury of the Middlesex County Court in 1652, and again in 1655, but whether it was the subject of this sketch or his son cannot be determined. If it were the son the word "junior" should properly have followed the name, and, according to the usage of that time, would have been used unless accidentally omitted. Theoretically, then, the juryman was the father.

William Mauning was a freeman in 1640, which meant that he was a church member and voter. The founders of the new Colony, taking the first steps in the building of the future nation, took great pains to preserve Government and society from evil. Their Charter provided "That, from henceforth for ever, there shalbe one Governor, one Deputy Governor, and eighteen Assistants of the same Company, to be from tyme to tyme constituted, elected, and chosen out of the freemen of the saide Company," and these above-named persons were to meet at regular intervals to vote upon and enact laws for the Colony. At an early meeting of this body, or the General Court, as it was termed, the germ of our present free government was planted. Under date of 1630, Oct. 19, their proceedings are thus recorded: "For the establishings of the goum<sup>t</sup>. It was ppounded if it were not the best course that the ffreemen should have the power of chusing Assistants when they are to be chosen, & the Assistants from amongst themselves to chuse a Gou<sup>n</sup>r & Deputy Gou<sup>n</sup>r, whoe wth the Assistants should haue the power of making lawes & chusing officers to execute the same. This was fully assented vnto by the ge<sup>n</sup>all vote of the people, & ercecon of hands." Later, 1631, May 18, it was enacted that "to the end the body of the co<sup>m</sup>ons may be perued [preserved] of honest & good men, it was likewise ordered and agreed that for time to come noe man shalbe admitted to the freedome of this body politticke but such as are members of the churches within the lymitts of the same." Again, in 1635, the privilege of the ballot was defined: "It was ordered, that none but freemen shall have any vote in any towne, in any aec<sup>o</sup>n of auctoritie, or necessity, or that belongs to them by vertue of their freedome." In this way did the General Court seek to lessen the influence of such men in the Colony as were idle and not of good character, and if the preeaution did not prove suited to a later time, it certainly was wise and praiseworthy in that generation. To be a freeman meant to be a church member and a voter, but it meant more—it was a certification of good character.

Our ancestor had experienced a religious awakening in England; he was perhaps a member of Mr. Hooker's church at Cambridge, as he certainly was during the pastorate of the latter's successor, Rev. Thomas Shepard. There is now in the library of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, of Boston, a manuscript book in Mr. Shepard's handwriting to which the pastor gave the general caption: "The Confessions of Diverse propounded to be received and were entertained as Members." In this book the "confessions" of his flock are recorded. Mr. Shepard was an able preacher, an author and a learned man, but probably the most obscure penman who has left specimens of his writing in all New England. The ordinary reader, if conversant with the old-fashioned penmanship of that day, can make out isolated words in this book, and sometimes an entire short sentence, if patient enough to pore long over the lines; but to decipher any considerable number of successive sentences is an impossibility except in case of one who combines a natural gift with professional acumen. To any one else the manuscript is unreadable. To add to the confusion Mr. Shepard did not use the graceful and flowing sentences of which he was capable, but jotted down the sense of the subject in short, curtailed, jerky sentences, adding to the current but now obsolete abbreviations of the day a good many of his own (as will be seen below), and writing all in his amazingly puzzling hand. It has been said of his manuscript that it can be read in as many different ways as may be wished, if read at all. A few years ago a gentleman of Boston employed an eminent professional expert who was skilled in reading both the English and Latin of ancient manuscripts to decipher the confession, and the result is herewith given. Previous to this there had been sent to the compiler of this history, by another gentleman, a portion of the said confession. The two versions agree in the main, but differ as to some words. The incomplete version, as far as it goes, reads smoother and more coherently than the complete one. The present writer has compared both with the original Shepard manuscript, and is inclined to believe the incomplete version the more correct of the two. Also, he believes that some words, notably those of but few letters, are incorrectly rendered in the expert's copy, and certain errors committed. However, the compiler admits his own inability to wrestle with the manuscript successfully, and, conceding the skill of the expert, here gives the latter's version without change. Matter in parentheses, below, are interjected notes by the expert, and it need hardly be stated that "qu." is an abbreviation of "question" nor that "sic" means "thus," or "it is so." How closely Mr. Shepard followed William Manning's own words is unknown. Possibly the manuscript is a nearly literal copy of a paper written by our ancestor, himself.

“GOODMAN MANNING’S CONFESSION.

In time past was I when very yong given to prentice, about 14 years of age; I being unfit for that or any other thing I took in have liv’d in a place where it was bad examples, was drawn aside whereas I might have got good but being a prentice: with him 4 years I did grow very loose & rayne & would not be ruled nor governyed by my dame I was left withall; now delightinge in vaine company & vaine bookes & hearinge his woard which circumsised nor uncurcumsised aveyles anything but a new aval (sic—avale = to descend, to fall down, qu.—if not a new birth?) & livyng upon fruits of old & new creat: (sic—qu. creations) I conclude my condition was lamentable.

Yet tho sensible of my condition was a frame to make it known.

Yet looking upon them that liv’d more restraynedly & civilly than I did I thocht I would leave off my bad company & joyne myself to such as they were

Yet I saw that condition was not as it ought (to be) Know ye the tree by the fruit.

Now being acquainted with them that were godly I might have had a hart to get good by them at length I looked upon them that I now perceived were upright I began to cleave to them & it was one of the best evidences I had & have that I saw I did love those which love XT (Christ).

Yet I hearing by the woard that you myght be happy in thefear (sic) by deeds (?); yet I examined myself whether I did love them, by loving them that did excell in vertue; as some ministers the more I saw grow in them the more I did cleave to them.

2: Tho most contemptible yet I did cleave to them. I went on thir (sic) a good while living with them was plainly in inq<sup>n</sup> (sic) of other places: afterward I took a business lawfull & commendable in hand, yet joyning on in it without any wisdom; I afterward coming to a minister’s house where meeting with 2 or 3 of my frends they hearing what I went about fell to examine me; & they told me being a kind of professor tho a weake one they told me I went about that which would scandalize the gospell so that I had much greife & trouble & so was beattun (sic) off from it.

Upon coming home being troubled I could not hide it however my dame perceived it & shee being a carnell woman did rather reproave me for falling off & counselled me to god on & h. (sic. qu. god on high, or only & however) the more I was oppoased the lesse I regarded her yet afterward I felt my hart too ne (sic. qu. be.) inclining to; but I beinge acquainted with them that were godley & they speaking to me of it so that I would wish all that desire communion with god to make their wants known to ministers.

So I did hearken to their counsell & ——— them & the Lord was kept in it:

So many to an honest man in privayt speakinge of the fall of man & the misery man was fallen into before he made an end of popery was much sonken & in annathement (= accursed) & I hold that was my condition fallen in perdition & other sich (sic) vile corruption that I was privy too:

However I was troubled whether it was right or it was not right by the word & I continued 3 or 4 dayes so as I had no hart to praye

Yet feeling the Lord I remember this on, I did rather desire the Lord to be humblie under it thorowly than be delivered for the burden of my sin did ly heavy upon me, now tho I thoght sorely which wrought by the woard yet never so sensible as by his meanes.

But the Lord brought me out of this condition I had some comfort by thinking how the Lord wrought upon some in scripture as Manessa & upon this I had some peace & comfort That whereas I had before a hart to no good now me thought if (the) Lord should call me out to do or (to) suffer I could, & this passed away & then I had a double wayte. 1. wetzher there was a god or his scripture true or noe & beinge grosse I was loth & ashamed to make my condition known; yet the minister gleaning out of Psalms 14: 1, that there was a god by scripture & by reason but faine would I put off these texts. Now I found hardner (sic-qu. harder) unbels (sic. qu. unbeliefs) deadnes to ly very heavy upon my soule; and neither might handle the affrt: (sic = affright) of the soule: the mthl (sic) with my compt. (sic) I was burdened with them in a confused maner & did strive against them with my own strength & not the Lords or else I else I (sic) might have had helpe before; now he shewed how on should get it; the corrupt seele against on at once; for a 6 fold cord would not breake, but if untwisted they might swale (i. e. split) them severally & hence seek ye the Lord for him to come I did find the Lord helped me & those sins being once overcome that (qu. conquered) them upon severall occasions since the Lord did help me opon some of them.

Yet 2 things did burden me much. 1. corruption breaking out. 2. wants & weak vessels. 3 things kept me down—1. my hart was (sic) exceedingly clog'd with woarld with business & awl that when I went to my business the woarld came in sliin (sic. qu. sin?) thick & threefold.

2. I had such a doe to get upp my hart to the Lord being in a wood in the midst of a wood & hence a miste to 3 heads woarldly beinge all things wicked & I saw these kept me vaine & under & loaded my sp: (spirit): & no sooner out of evidence but all god was gone.

3: that when I had godt (sic) up hart it was gone of a sudden & much a doo I had to get my hart in any frame & temper. / & hearing a minister presse to buy the trouble & not to sell it & hearing all corruptions & sins must be cast & sold away & sound motives to the sale settled upon my spirit as the excellency of the sealing of the word 2 to consider the necessity to buy this trouble a matter of life & death: 3. the Profit & gaine which would come by it: no profit to be compared to it: / 4 the great danger in not looking after it: / hearing another served of: 7: marks of repent. (ance); / & I found on great cause why I could not find such signes I held it was for want of care in me that selfe, family, & all others with whom he did compose.

The sin of unbelief still sticks with me; I thought that some (sic) perish (?) & being in doubt whether I should lay hold on a Praup (sic—qu. prop) or noe:/ I thought h: (qu. however) that use some fayth; but yet fainted; yet I thought if the Lord would assist me; I would goe on in the world of the Lord Christ I knew no world more necessary than it bee; where there is not of fayth is sin, & so I was got to seeke (the) Lord in use of means not only to mould fayth to rely upon him for mercy but to live by that fayth; hearing nor ——— 2 things in fayth: 1. that tis not ——— for the soule to lay hold upon Christ but fayth 2 might lay hold upon the soule. fayth purifyeth the soule, & knowing I had many occasions to examine my soule; yet I found that my hart was exceeding corrupted & some sins remayned & came fresh in my mind & much did burden me as pride & vaine glory, which poare creat: (ure) I had as little cause to be trouble(d) with them as with any in the woarld:—

Now continuing these helps I had to come out of this condition; yet having at last thoughts of this place in N(ew) England; my wife & I hearinge some certynty of h: (help) here; I desired to come thither tho I was weake; yet the Lord in mercy made away ready for me: / / / / when (the) Lord brought me to sea I was overcome with a discontented mind; meeting there with hard & sad tryalls; as that Losse of my wife; / then I thought I had not done well in doing this I had done tho' they were but carnall thoughts & would if possible return again; yet the Lord in some meas:(ure) let me see it was a sin so to wish or think, & thoght the Lord would at last bring me higher :

however in sin (?) & meeting with new occasions & new troubles I had these thoughts, tho' the troubles I had were great yet I thought some of the thr (sic) qu. others?) had far greater; looking back upon the condition that ——— ; I thought if I was the Lords, these troubles would come in with in that promise all th:(ose) shall world to g: (sic) & thinking of that call (ing first written & erased) upon me in day of trouble & thou shall glorify me,/ now this discontent I found was more burdensome than all crosses & sorrowes beside: / / at last the Lord broght me higher & I lived at Roxbury 9 or 10 weekes; there meeting with some straits at length; Mr. Hooker being here my wife & I desired to come to this place, yet still had a discontented mind not quite got over it/ but hearinge Mr. Shepard, speaking upon a text to encourage them that newly came to land, that it may be had that which I expected not (tho' troubled) viz: the life of my wife & child, it began to revive me; & then I considered I had forgotten the mercys of old much more those new mercys :

& shewing the great mercies I had that for the present which the whole world had not withall thtr (sic) tho in straits & wants, yet it might support your harts & strength: /

afterward hearing Mr. Cotton for (?) 3. concerning the healing of the creeples; he leapt & prayed the Lord afterward goodnes of them which had not only healed bodies but souls; which I have had thought of since & I wist all to thiald (or thiale) of that one thing, for its woonderfull & admirable that such a poore creat(ure) should be provided for as I am that was so unthankful:—& he shewing that we're ceeple & lame thanksgiving to little purpose: & this lies upon my sp:(irit) the great means in publike & private, tho that not in private that others have, which my sin hath deprived me of, which if (the) Lord now gives I hope I shall ever adore the Lord sufficiently for."

William Manning lost his wife Susannah by death in 1650, and at some later time he removed to Boston, where he united with the First Church. The record reads:

"Willyam Manning was admitted member, 25. 6m<sup>o</sup>, 1664."

It is not certain that the latter date determines the time of his removal. He may have gone earlier than 1664, and, for a time, have kept up his church relations at Cambridge, which, as far as distance was concerned, could have been done easily, but he certainly was a resident of Boston in 1664, Aug. 25, when he became connected with the church there.

The name of the mother of his children is unknown. We have his own statement, above, that she died on the voyage to this country. In a day when family names were generally repeated in each successive generation, her son named his daughters Hannah, Sarah, Abigail and Mary, respectively. Theoretically, the name of the first wife of the elder William Manning should be in this list, and opinion may well dwell strongly upon the first as, perhaps, the proper one. After arriving in the Colony he married (second) Susannah ———, of whom we know no more than that she died in Cambridge 1650, Oct. 16. Whoever she was, it is a reasonable conjecture, as elsewhere mentioned, that he had known her in England. He married (third), perhaps at Boston, Elizabeth ———, who survived him, but her identity is unknown, neither of these marriages being on record.

The will of our ancestor, written by some person unknown, was drawn shortly before his death, and, now on file in the Suffolk County Probate Office, reads as follows:

"The Last will & Testament of Willyam Maninge senior being weak of body but perfect in understanding and memorie blessed be god

I Willyam Maninge of Boston in new england in ye countie of Suffolk: Being weake of bodie but of perfect memorie, doe make & ordaine: This my last Will & Testament: in maner & forme as followeth: Imprimis all my debts & funerall expenses beinge payde by my exeeutrix hereafter named: I doe give & bequeath unto my lovinge wife

Juo Tapping & Edw. Porter depose in Court 28 April 1666 that they subscribed their names to this paper as witnesses that they were present & did hear ye sayd Willyam Maning publish & declare the same to be his last will & Testament & that he was of a sound disposing mind when he so did

EDW. RAWSON, Recordr."

The fact that the testator "made his mark," instead of signing his name, does not prove that he did not know how to write. The compiler of this history has found instances of more modern date where men, after signing documents in handsome penmanship in their younger days, inscribed only their "mark" to their wills. Extreme bodily weakness or a disabled hand was responsible for this, and William Manning may have been under like affliction. No other papers accompany the will, and the amount of his estate cannot be stated, nor is it known when his widow died, or if anything remained at the time of her decease. He had some means, for he was able to purchase a home soon after his arrival in Cambridge, and seems to have believed that what he left at his decease would support his widow throughout her lifetime and leave something for division among his heirs.

The date of his death is unknown, as it is not on record, but it was between the date of his will, 1665, Feb. 17, and the time when the document was proved, 1666, Apr. 28. His age can only be conjectured. As his son was born about 1614, the father's birth was, in all likelihood, as early as 1592, and probably several years prior to that date. It would not be surprising if he had reached his eightieth birthday, and seventy-four years is a more than modest possibility. It would seem that no headstone exists to his grave, and the place of his burial is unknown. A natural desire on his part, perhaps, would be that he might be buried in Cambridge, where he so long resided, but, if such was the case, we might well expect that he would have gravestones, and that they would possibly be in existence now. On the other hand, if his widow was of Boston before he married her, her wishes might prevail and he be laid to rest there. This possibility seems the more likely because the hand of man has not always been sparing of gravestones in places where land was of marked value. The point cannot be settled now. The children of William Manning may have been many or few. That he had only one son who lived to mature years is probable; that he had but one dwelling in this country is next to certain. He may have had daughters. Some may have remained in England. As far as present knowledge goes, however, his descendants of the following generation seem to have been limited to those named below :

2. WILLIAM, b. about 1614, in England.
3. ?HANNAH. In his church "confession" William Manning, senior, refers to his "wife and child," which would seem to imply that he had no other children; but in his will he leaves a bequest to his "grandchild Samuel Walsbie." The use of the term "grandchild" may have been more a matter of convenience than of fact, and Samuel may have been a grandchild, not of William Manning, but of one of his later wives; but it is likely that the expression in the will should be taken exactly as it was used, and that William had a married daughter in the Colony. The family is easily located. David Walsby (also spelled Walsbee and Walsbery) was a freeman in Braintree, Mass., as early as 1651. His wife was named Hannah. At Braintree they had ch. : I. Samuel, b. 1651, Apr. 9; d. 1679, March. He was of suitable age to learn a trade when his grandfather's will was drawn, in 1665. II. David, b. 1655, Sep. 29; probably the David Walsbery who was a soldier of King Philip's war, and in the garrison at Punckapauge, 1676, Aug. 24; not further traced. Hannah, wife of David, d. 1655-6, Feb. 2. He m. (2d) Ruth Bass and had several daughters. Careful search for later descendants of David and Hannah has developed nothing; possibly the son David died in service, or he may have removed to a distance. The history of Billerica (page 58) says: "Goodman Walsley [?] was granted ten acres of land" there, but the grant was later made "null." It will be seen that the historian was in doubt as to the name of the grantee. Should it not be Walsby? If so, it seems that David, senior, contemplated removing to Billerica, a town in which the Manning family then had an interest. This probability adds force to the belief that Hannah, wife of David Walsby, was a daughter of William Manning.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> MANNING (William<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1614, in England, came to the Colony of Massachusetts Bay in, or before, the year 1634, and, settling in the latter year in Cambridge, made that town his home throughout the remainder of his life. He early purchased a homestead and other land, and engaged in business as a merchant; a calling he followed throughout his life. This enterprise was not, however, limited to the mere selling of goods, for he owned a warehouse and boat-house on a canal to which boats had free access. Under date of 1631, June 14. the records say: "Mr. John Maisters hath undertaken to make a passage from Charles River to the New Town, twelve foot broad and seven foot deep; for which the Court promiseth him satisfaction, according as the charges thereof shall amount unto." Mr. Paige, in his history of Cambridge, adds: "This canal still exists on the westerly side of College Wharf, from Charles River nearly to South Street. It was a natural creek, enlarged and deepened thus far, from which point, turning westerly, it extended along the southerly and westerly sides of South and Elliot Streets and crossed Brattle Street, where the town ordered a causeway and foot-bridge to be constructed, Jan. 4, 1635-6." To the warehouse, then, by way of the canal, boats came from Charles river, the wide stream which flows between Cambridge and Boston; but from what point they started does not appear. The history of Cambridge, before quoted, says of Mr. Manning that he was "somewhat concerned in navigation," and there is ample evidence of this fact, but the extent of this branch of his enterprise cannot be ascertained. When he died he owned "half" of a boat which, with the sails and oars, was appraised at £4. This shows that the craft was of sufficient size and importance to be propelled by sails when wind was to be had; the oars, it is to be presumed, being for use when passing through the canal. In this boat merchandise was conveyed, but from what point and for how long a distance has not been learned. He constructed his own wharf by the boat-house. Under date of 1651-2, Jan. 7, the records say: "William Manning is granted liberty by the inhabitants of the town, at a general meeting, to make a wharf out of the head of the creek, towards Mr. Pelham's barn, to come as high as the great pine stump, and range with Mr. Pelham's fence next the high street into town." Again, 1654, Apr. 11, is this record: "The Townsmen do allow William Manning five pound out of ye pnt [present] Town Rate upon condition that he make a Sufficient wharffe from his ware house to ye Lower part of his land that he bath there Ditched in, so as to keep the tide off the highway, and to maintaine the same in like good condition for twenty years next ensuing the date hereof." The warehouse was situated at what is now the southwest corner of Dunster and South streets. Early in life he became one of the most prominent and trusted citizens of the town, and was often called to public offices of trust. He was elected highway surveyor, 1651, and, the same year, "to size casks," or as gauger; constable, 1652, '66, '68, '75 and '79, and selectman, 1652, '66-70, '72, '75-81, '83, or a total of 15 years. The last-named office carried with it the management of the town's business affairs, and that he was so often elected is evidence that his fidelity and sagacity were highly appreciated. He was a member of the grand jury of the Court of Sessions in 1686, and again in 1688, and in 1675 was one of the Jury of Grand Inquest of the County Court. His name frequently appears on committees to view lands and highways and determine what should be done in the several cases. In 1660 the records say: "Edward Oakes & William Manning are chosen to joyne wth the committee formerly chosen, y<sup>e</sup> eighth of Decmr, 1656, for the prosecuting & effecting a Bridge over Charles River." The Acts and Resolves of the State, under date of "11th Sber 1670" have the petition of John Stedman and William Manning, acting for Cambridge, in which they represent said bridge as being in a decaying condition and ask for relief from the General Court, which thereupon allowed a schedule of tolls. In 1669 the town records say: "At a meeting of the Select Men Mr William Manning and petter Towne was appointed to agree with workmen to take downe the Scholehouse and set it up againe and to cary the stones in the cellar to the place whare the house for the minister is to be built." In 1675 "William Manning, Nathaniel Hancock, John Jackson and John Gove are appointed by the selectmen to have inspection into families that there be no by drinking, or any misdemeanor whereby sin is committed, and persons from their houses unseasonably." Eighteen different instances have been found in which Mr. Manning was concerned in the settlement of the estates of his fellow citizens, either as executor, administrator, or in some other capacity. He was one of the appraisers of the estate of Rev. Jonathan Mitchell, the third pastor at Cambridge, 1668, and also, of Rev. Urian Oakes' estate in 1681. The inventory in the latter case is in William's own writing. He was a freeman in 1643; hence, was as early as that date a member of the church. The records of the Cambridge church of that period are meagre and do not record dates of admissions, but a list of members in the time of Rev. Mr. Mitchell has, among other entries, the following: "William Manning and Dorothy his wife both in full communion. Their children, Hannah, Samuel, Sarah, John, Mary, all born and baptized in this church." After Mr. Mitchell's death in 1668 Mr. Manning was selected by the church to go to England and prevail upon Rev. Urian Oakes to come to Cambridge and accept the vacant pastorate, and this mission he performed. The old records say:

"An account of severall providencis of God to the Church of Cambrigd, after the death of that reverant and eminent man Mr. Jonathan Mitchell. pastor of the church, and the actings of the church for supply in the ministry. After sume time of seeking god by prayer, the lord was pleased to guide the Church to make theare application to M<sup>r</sup> Vrian Oakes in old England which to further the same theare was a letter sent from the Church with A mesenger namly M<sup>r</sup> William Maning with a letter alsoe sent by seuerall Magistrates and Ministers to Invite him to come over and be an Officer amongst vs which he after Counsill and advice did Except."

The sickness and death of Mr. Oakes' wife, and his own ill health, delayed his coming until 1671, in which year he was ordained at Cambridge. At this point the record says:

"August the 9th. 1671. Delivered to William Manning sixty pounds in silver to pay toward the transportation of M<sup>r</sup> Vrian Oakes his familie & goods & other disbursements."

From this it will be seen that Mr. Manning continued to be selected by his associates to act in a matter of importance, showing that he had discharged his duties to their full satisfaction. Mr. Oakes not only remained pastor until his death, but was elected President of Harvard College.

In 1670 Mr. Manning was appointed with an associate "to catechise the youth" of the town.

The most important trust of his life was in connection with Harvard College, he having been selected, with Deacon John Cooper as an associate, to replace the old college building with a new one, and to receive and disburse the funds for that purpose. This was in 1672, and as the final accounting was not made until 1684, it will be seen that the work covered many years. The records of the General Court (Legislature) term these two associates stewards, trustees and overseers at various times. The name of William Manning appears oftener than that of Deacon Cooper, and as he received more than two-thirds of the sum allowed to them for their services, it is clear that the greater part of the work, management and responsibility fell upon him. To both it was a momentous trust. The Harvard College of that day was nearer to the hearts of the people and officers of the Colony than any college in this country is likely ever to be again. Established by the General Court, itself, and that, too, only 16 or 17 years after the landing of the Mayflower Pilgrims, it was the pride and hope of a people who had cast their fortunes in a new land. It was the head-center of education, and, moreover, the source whence the several churches must obtain most of their "learned and orthodox" ministers. Further, the connection of the General Court did not end with the establishment of the college; it continued to watch over, scrutinize and govern the seat of learning. Thus, when Mr. Manning and Deacon Cooper were selected to supervise the erection of the most important building in the Colony, and to handle the funds necessary for the undertaking through a long period of years, they became responsible to society, church and state. It was an important trust. The first step toward the establishment of the college had been in 1636, Oct. 28, as appears from this record of the General Court: "The Court agreed to give 400<sup>l</sup> towards a schoale or colledge, whereof 200<sup>l</sup> to be paid next yeare, & 200<sup>l</sup> when the worke is finished, & the next Court to appoint where & w<sup>h</sup> building." The following year Cambridge was chosen as the location, and in 1639 it received its name, Harvard College. For some time previous to 1672 it was seen that the college building was becoming "decayed," and needed to be replaced by a new structure. In this emergency, and in the lack of available funds, the General Court appealed to the citizens of the several towns for subscriptions, and with such success that more than £2,600 was promised, and prosecution of the work was authorized. The following document is from the Archives of Harvard College :

“ At a Meeting of the Overseers June 20, 1672, the following order was made and agreed upon

Whereas the Gen<sup>l</sup> Court having perused and considered the order of the Councill bearing date Sep<sup>r</sup> 12, 1671, to promote a generall Contribution for building a new colledge at Cambridge, of brick or stone, as an addition unto Harvard Colledge, unto w<sup>ch</sup> there hath been a returne from severall townes of considerable summs subscribed for that work w<sup>ch</sup> publicke & pious designe & work the Court hath approved, and by their order bearing date, May 15, 1672, have referred it unto the Overseers of the Colledge to cause the s<sup>d</sup> good work to be prosecuted to effects. In pursuance whereof the Overseers of the Colledge do nominate choose and appoynt Deacon John Cooper and M<sup>r</sup> William Manning of Cambridge, to be Agents & Stewards to manage that work, both in hiring & paying workmen & Artificers, in procuring and purchasing materials & in doing all other matters & things referring to the building and finishing of s<sup>d</sup> Colledge, & for this end they are hereby impowered and authorized joyntly and severally to receive all the contributions that are or shall be given for this work and to give acquittance for the same, and faithfully to dispose what shall be received for the best advantage, keeping exact Acco<sup>t</sup> of all receipts and disbursements, the Overseers of the Colledge reserving for themselves, the selection & appoyntment of the place, matter, forme and directions of this new building: Also do order that if at any time the s<sup>d</sup> Stewards shall meet with any obstruction in this work they shall & may have recourse to the Overseers (or such committee of them as they may appoynt) for advice and Assistance, and when the s<sup>d</sup> work is finished, and faithfull Acco<sup>t</sup> given by the s<sup>d</sup> Stewards, the Overseers do promise that meet recompense and allowance shall be made & give unto the said Stewards for their care & pains therein.”

This paper was signed by Governor Richard Bellingham, Deputy-Governor John Leverett, Simon Bradstreet and twelve other overseers, or, in other words, by the highest officeholders and most eminent men of the Colony. The Stewards soon found that theirs was no easy task. The persons in the various towns who had subscribed to the fund failed to fulfill their financial obligations, and the result is set forth in the following paper, written by William Manning, and to be found in the Massachusetts archives, 58-90 :

“ To the honorable governor and magistrates now assembled in generall Court.

Wee the subscribers being appoynted to take charge & stewardship of the Brick Building that is now erecting at Cambridge as an Addition to Harvard Colledge which through the blessing of god hath hitherto been comfortably caryed on wee having used our utmost care for the gathering in of the contributions made towards the same Doe not as yet see where wee shall obtayne so much as will bee of absolute nesesity for procureing materialls & payment of workmens wages this present summer: and should there bee any demurr or intermision (as some townes have propounded by reason of their inabilityie to make present payments) the lying of the worke open to the raynes & stormes another winter will greatly dammifie if not hazzard the lose of what is or further may be done. It is therefore our humble motion & request that by your wisdome and authoritie so greate a ruine may be prevented and that provision may bee seasonably made for the ende proposed: we are for our parte at all tymes Ready to give cleare & wee hope satisfactory accounts of our Receipts & Disbursements and were the matters not soe greatly above our ability we should not be wanting to Disburse rather than any stop should now be put thereunto. Wee humbly conceive that further is not at present expected by your honord selves from us your worships servants:

WILLIAM MANNING
JOHN COOPER."

The General Court took action on this petition May 12, 1675 (if all dates herein are correct) and in these words:

"Vpon information from Deacon John Cooper & Mr W<sup>m</sup> Manning, (who are betrusted for the colledge worke or ædifice at Cambridge,) that seuerall townes haue returned no subscriptions to this day, as appears by an accompt vnder the said trustees hands, this Court doeth therefore order, that the secretary doe forthwith signify to the townes respectively the pleasure of this Court, which is, that the selectmen in each of the townes (which are behind in their payments according to their subscrip-tions) doe forthwith make such effectuall provision, that the one halfe thereof at least may be speedily brought into the said com̄ittee, & the re-mayning part as soon as may be; as likewise that letters may be sent by the secretary to those townes that yet have not subscribed, requireing the elders or ministers in the said townes to stirr vp the inhabitants to so pious and necessary a worke."

These notifications did not accomplish their object in full. The towns were poor and the task of making their pledged payments difficult, but this did not help the Stewards. Their difficulties continued, and are set forth in another letter written by Mr. Manning to the General Court. This paper, by some chance, is not among the Archives, but in the files of the Supreme Court, at Boston:

"Wee Whose names are herevnto subscribed, being Intrusted & Employed by the Worshipfull & Reuerend gentlemen the overseers of the College at Cambridge as Agents & stewards to mannage the worke of the new building for the Colledge both in hyreing & paying Workmen & Artificers, in procureing & purchasing materials And in doeing all other matters & things Referring to the building & finishing the sayd Colledge, And to Receive all Contributions that are or shall be ginen for this Worke &c.;

Wee haue accordingly through the good hand of our god with vs according to the matter manner form and Dimensions prescribed vnto vs, Disbursed such contributions of moneys corn Cattel & other goods as Wee could procure, & have brought the building on so farr as that the outside Worke is for the most part finished & the liberrary compleatly finished & one chamber, all the rest of the house, for the present vseless, the most of the floores Wants boards, 3 cases of hal pacte* staires to bee made that Will not be done With a little cost, & the greatest part of the house to plaister & siele within side, Wee Want at least 20 tunes of lyme stones, 10 or 12000 foot of bcards besides other materialls, & Wee have nothing or very little to purchase them Withall, the old Colledge is part of it (besides the turret) fallen down, & mens eyes generally vpon vs to get the new building finished, but wee haue not Where Withall, most of the townes behind With a part of their subscribed contributions, some more some less behind, & some townes never did contribute anything at all, viz: Ipswich, salem (only m<sup>r</sup> Higinson & m<sup>r</sup> Batter) Andover, Haverill, Newbury, Salisbury, Hampton, Hingam & Bradford. Wee cannot but thinke it great pity so much cost & charge as is already expended by dormant & of so little vse; as only the lyberarie. Wee Would be glad & are very desireous it might be finished if wee had Where With all We feare the chimneys may sufer much damage by being out of vse so long Which is signified by your Worships servants

Cambridge this 29th of May 1677.

WILLIAM MANNING
JOHN COOPER."

This letter is full of suggestion as well as statement. It shows the Stewards struggling to do a great work with but little to do it with, and, in view of their five years experience with the difficulties, it is a wonder that their courage and devotion did not fail and lead them to resign their task to others; but they clearly were not of the kind to yield to adversity. The General Court again acted and sent a letter to such townes as had subscribed but not paid:

* This letter, unllke the others written by William Manning, has several times been printed. Despite the fact that he wrote a very clear, hand-some hand, the words read as "hal pacte" are a mystery. Many persons have studied them and tried to read them in some other and comprehensible way, but, partly, perhaps, because of a former fold in the paper, without success. As they cannot be read anything but "hal pacte," it may be it was some technical term of that day, now obsolete, and by him rendered, correctly or incorrectly, as it is now read.

At the same time the towns that had not subscribed at all were thus addressed by the General Court :

These appeals did not meet with full success, and in 1678, October, the General Court appointed committees in the several towns to sue delinquent subscribers, if necessary. Another letter from the Stewards [Archives of Mass., 58-100] bears date one year later :

... year or more by Governor ...

William Manning
John Cooper

“ To the honord governor Deputy governor & magistrates & Deputyes now assembled in Court

The humble address of John Cooper & William Manning humbly sheweth that we being appoynted agents & stewards for the managing of the work of the new building for the Colledge, and having carryed on the work all along as wee could get wherewithall, have thought it nesessary to inform the honord court how the state of things are at present in Reference to that affayre.

That notwithstanding the orders of the generall Court in october last (which orders severall of the townes doe say they never came to their hands) and all other meanes that have been used to procure the payment of what was subscribed to that worke in the severall townes, yet no considerable matter of late have been attained and the worke now in debt to severall workmen, and a considerable parte of the house not finished.

And also one hundred pounds in money borrowed of Capt John Richards by order of the honord governor Leverit, the worshipful maior Gookin & Mr Stoughton for which one hundred pounds wee have already payed fowre tymes eight pounds for interest, and now eight pounds more Due the 25th of this Instant october, and we neither have nor can expect money out of the contributions to pay either the principle or the Interest money, or to pay workmen their money part.

Which hath exposed us to a great streight & difficulty.

Thus hoping this honord generall Court will be pleased to consider the premises and afford some speedy supply, we subscribe our selves your servants as wee have been in this Employ now upwards of seaven yeares.

And 100<sup>li</sup> yet demanded by Mr Lain ye carpent<sup>r</sup> who is a great sufferer for want of it
Cambridge this 23<sup>d</sup> of october 1679

JOHN COOPER ”

An extract from the records of Ipswich will show how the permission to contribute otherwise than in cash was made use of by subscribers :

“ Simon Stace and Nathaniel Rust brought in an account of nineteen pounds fifteen shillings in corn and malt put aboard of John Dutch his sloop, and brought a receipt under the hand of Mr. John Woodmansie who was to receive it by order of Mr. William Manning of Cambridge of seventy-eight bushells and a half of indian corn, and thirty bushells and three pecks of malt and this was in April the 20. 1680 ”

In May, 1682, the General Court appointed a committee “to examine the College account.” In the record of their report a slip of the pen erroneously gave Mr. Manning’s name as “John,” instead of William, the recorder evidently having Deacon Cooper's Christian name in mind.

“ Mr John Manning & Mr Cooper presenting the colledg accounts to the committee appointed by the Gennerall Court to inquire into their accounts as stewards of the stocke contributed for the building of the colledge, vpon their examination thereof, approved of them as faire & honest, only the value of tenn pounds, as they judge, in najles omitted to be valued, & recomended it to the Genñel Court to consider them for their pajnes.”

This paper is a striking tribute to Mr. Manning and Mr. Cooper. For ten years they had been in charge of the erection of what was then a large building. They had received money and borrowed cash, and had received and turned into cash all kinds of farm produce, the whole requiring a complicated system of book-keeping, yet, in an account of ten years duration, the critical examination of the special committee developed no error except that, they thought, “ tenn pounds in najles ” [nails] had, by an oversight, not been valued. These financial accounts are in the hand of Mr. Manning, and are a model of neatness. It was in this year, 1682, that the college was considered as completed, but a part of the building had been in use for five years. Hubbard, the historian of that day, says: “ In the year 1677 a fair and stately edifice of brick was erected * * * and so far finished that the public acts of the Commencement were there performed.” The troubles of the General Court were over, but not those of the Stewards. Under date of two years later appears in Mass. Archives [58-125] another letter from Mr. Manning:

To the honoured governor magistrates and deputies now Assembled In a generall Court at Boston.

The humble petition of William Manning, who was by the order of the worshipfull and Reuerend gentlemen overseers of the Colledge, appointed one of the stewards for the Contributions, and to hyre & pay workmen for the building and finishing the house, humbly sheweth.

That your petitioner having given a particular account of receipts & disbursements Referring to the building, to the honord generall Court, there remained in hand of the stock, the debts being payd, about fifty pounds, which was then ordered to be apprizd by two men appointed by the honord governor and Council, & to be divided equally to your petitioner & deacon John Cooper, who was the other steward concerned in the worke, as part satisfaction for our pains & labour, Referring us for more full satisfaction to the Corporation of the Colledge, & In order thereunto that wee should bring in our demands in full, Respectively, to the treasurer of the Colledge speedily.

This order of the honord gouernor and Councill bearing date March 24: 1683<sup>3</sup> was observed & performed by your petitioner, and lately an answer returned by the worshipfull Samuel Newell Esqr that there was nothing to be had there. my demand to the Corporation then was, and now is to the honord generall Court for seaventie & five pounds in money, to be added to the twenty five pounds assigned mee out of the remainder of what was left belonging to the Colledge building account. Your petitioners humble Request to the honord generall Court is that his demand may not be accounted unreasonable or too high. for I haue been strongly advised by such as had some knowledge of my labour therein to charge the Colledge building stock ten per cent for receipts & disbursements which amounteth to full two hundred pounds: and I did demand accordingly of the Committee that were formerly concerned about the accounts: my labour was very much near upon ten (10) yeares and for the first 3 or 4 yeares my tyme almost wholly spent on that Imployment, and all along great quantitys of all sorts of graine received in & deliuered out by mee accounts to keep & make up with all the workmen, and much labour day & night stirring & clesing the corn to preserve it, which, otherwise, would have been much wasted and all English goods received & retalled out to the workmen, & all without waste or lose, as appeareth by the accounts giuen In to the honord generall Court March 12<sup>3</sup> 83<sup>3</sup>. I traveled severall Jorneyes to Salem & to Ipswich sometimes 2 dayes some tyme 3 dayes upon a Jorney, and from house to house in severall townes to receive the severall contributions* I also gave In to the honord generall Court when it was required, what was payd in by the severall townes in the Collony of the contributions, two seuerall tymes, & I think a third tyme, which required much writing & tyme to doe it In. I had formerly also some tyme the help of my two sons, without which I could not well have performed what was committed to my charge. I also attended upon the Committees when they were appoynted to make up the accounts with the seuerall townes; my tyme & labour in divers respects was very much, and I did never charge the account a penny nor pennys worth for any thing I make mention of here: In all which considerations with others I might mention, I humbly conceive may render my demand Just & reasonable. Thus hoping this honord generall Court will be pleased to consider your poor petitioner as to the granting his demand & humble petition in this matter, who is now growen into yeares almost past his labour for a livelyhood; it being now the next June full twelve yeares since your petitioner began upon the worke Also humbly conceiving that the burden may be much easier borne by the whole Collony than by one poor man the whole of what I demand amounteth to no more but twelve pence upon the pound for receipts & disbursements

* "Mr Manning of Cambridge appearing about ye Remainder of the Colledge Contribution unpaid in our Town. It was Agreed yt Sergt London shd be desired to goe wth him to quicken those who have not paid, yt they doe forthwith pay it in to Mr Manning or his order"—From the records of Charlestown.

Not giving this honord Court any further trouble at present, but that your petitioner doe wayt for a grant of his petition, there being some seeming hazzard in a further delay

And your petitioner shall ever pray for your prosperity

Yours to serve in what I may,

WILLIAM MANNING."

At the same time Mr. Cooper sent in a petition of like character, the Stewards appearing on this occasion separately because, one having performed more labor than the other, they could better make their statements separately. The General Court acted May 27, 1684 :

"In answer to the petitions of W<sup>m</sup> Manning & John Cooper, it is ordered, that M<sup>r</sup> W<sup>m</sup> Manning & M<sup>r</sup> Samuel Gookin, jointly & severally, shall & hereby are fully impowered to aske and demand of the seuerall vsbscribers, for the erecting of the bricke building at the colledge, their severall subscriptions yet behind & unpajd, and on any of their refusall to pay their just dues, such person or persons to sue, and recover what remaines, and that they have a compensation for the same out of what they gather, making returne of what they doe to this Court at their next sessions, that so M<sup>r</sup> Manning & M<sup>r</sup> Cooper, M<sup>r</sup> Manning may have thirty-five pounds, & M<sup>r</sup> Cooper fueteen pounds, in or as money, and the remainder, if any be, to be at the dispose of the ouerseers of the colledge."

The General Court put itself on record in this paper. Having already paid its selected and approved agents £25 each for ten years work and responsibility, it now gave them permission to seek further remuneration by suing for bad debts — debts so desperately bad that strenuous efforts through the past ten years had not sufficed to collect them. It is not found that any effort was made to take advantage of the above permission. The next document is from the Archives of Harvard College :

"At a meeting of ye Corporation in Cambridge, July 2, 1685

This closed the incident. The building of which the history is here given, and an excellent picture of which appears in Quincy's history of the college, was "forty-two feet broad, ninety-nine feet long and four stories high." It stood for eighty-two years, being the college proper, but, 1764, Jan. 24, was destroyed by fire together with 5,000 volumes of books and the cabinet of apparatus. It was called Harvard Hall, and was on the site of the present structure of the same designation. With the growth of the college, and the increase of buildings, the later Harvard Hall came to be used for recitations and lectures, and for a large amount of philosophical apparatus. The long life of the building erected under the supervision of Manning and Cooper is a sufficient evidence of their fidelity and watchful care.

William Manning made a real estate purchase in 1646 which is thus described in the Cambridge Proprietors' Records: "William Manning Jun<sup>r</sup> bought of Henry Addams one dwelling house wth about halfe a rood of land Edward Shepard East John Trumbull south water-street West, marsh-land north." He also had several grants of land from the town, when "divisions" were generally made to the inhabitants—three acres in 1662; twenty acres in 1663, twenty-five acres in 1664 and 1665, etc. These grants he disposed of before his death, though there is no deed or other record to show when or to whom they were sold. He was one of the inhabitants of Cambridge to whom the Shawshin, or Billerica, territory was granted in 1644, he being allotted sixty acres, and who joined in the "great deed" of 1650, conveying it to the Billerica settlers. Paige's history of Cambridge says that William "inherited the homestead" of his father. The authority for the statement has not been found. If he at one time possessed it he must have sold it by a deed never recorded, for, at the time of his death, he owned only one house, and this was at the southeast corner of Dunster and South streets, opposite to his warehouse. This was the same homestead that he bought of Henry Adams, the name of Water street having been changed to Dunster, and Marsh Land (or Lane) to South street. The compiler believes that he resided on this site from 1646 to the time of his death, and died there. After his decease the premises passed to his son Sannel [5] and, in 1698, to his grandson Samuel [11]. At present there stands on the site a house which was erected before the Revolution, but the writer knows of no reason to believe that it was built during the ownership of the Manning family. On the contrary, if he is correctly informed, the architecture is of a pattern belonging to a subsequent period.

William Manning married, at a date not learned, Dorothy ———. Her maiden name is not known, despite a long continued and widely-extended search for light on the subject. She must have been born in England, or, at least, before the settlement of this country.

Mr. Manning left no will, and his estate was duly appraised by three men, of whom one was Deacon Cooper, long his associate in the building of Harvard College, as well as in town affairs; and Mr. Cooper himself died in 1691, Aug. 22, aged 73.

Imp<sup>rs</sup> Whereas the persons concerned as abovesaid have in the life of their father y<sup>e</sup> said M<sup>r</sup> W<sup>m</sup> Manning, received Considerably they do all mutually agree that what they have rec<sup>d</sup> whether less or more, shall be accounted as part of their portions

2: They do all mutually agree that what they have all of them formerly received which doth amount to three hundred & eight pounds three shillings & seven pence, shall be added unto what is left of the Estate now to be divided, w<sup>ch</sup> is, when debts & the funerall expenses are discharged, one hundred and sixty & three pounds two shillings & nine pence both sums being added together make four hundred seventy one pound six shillings & four pence.

3: They also do mutually agree that y<sup>e</sup> said sum of four hundred seventy & one pounds six shillings & four pence be divided into five shares, of which the only son is to have two shares, the other three to have each of them one, the single share being ninety four pounds five shillings & four pence; what is due to each (the rules aforesaid being observed) as followeth:

Samuel Manning y<sup>e</sup> only son he hath formerly received ninety two pounds seven shillings & four pence w<sup>ch</sup> deducted from his two shares there remains due to him ninety six pounds three shillings & four pence.

Hannah Sternes y<sup>e</sup> eldest Daughter hath received seventy two pounds eight shillings & five pence w<sup>ch</sup> deducted from her single share there remains due to her Twenty one pounds sixteen shillings & eleven pence

Joseph Bull had wth his wife Sarah second Daughter ninety one pounds thirteen shillings & nine pence w<sup>ch</sup> deducted from her share, there remains Two pounds eleven shillings & seven pence w<sup>ch</sup> y<sup>e</sup> said Samuel on Consideration doth engage to make up to five pounds.

To which division in all respects as abovesaid the parties concerned have all agreed, as Witness their hands & seals y<sup>e</sup> day above written.

The above signers and Joseph Bull personally appeared and acknowledged themselves satisfied with the division, the amicability of which is noteworthy, as is the generosity of Samuel in paying to other heirs something out of his own portion. The settlement shows that William Manning had divided £308.03.07 among his children during his lifetime. and that, on his decease, he left an estate, free of all debts and expenses, of £163.02.09.

Upon the death of Dorothy, widow of William Manning, administration was granted 1692, Dec. 24, to her son Samuel, and the following paper names her personal effects :

JONAS CLARKE

JONATHAN REMINGTON."

Samuel Manning, administrator, made oath to the correctness of the inventory.

William Manning and Dorothy, his wife, were buried in the now old cemetery by Harvard Square, and the headstones to their graves remain in good condition. They record that William Manning died 1690, Mch. 14, aged 76, and Dorothy, his wife, 1692, July 26, aged 80. The year of his death is imperfectly given. According to the old method of double dating he died Mch. 14, 1690-1, which, according to present methods, means Mch. 14, 1691. The double date should have been put upon the stone, if clearness was desired. Full copies of these inscriptions will be found on a previous page.

He died full of years and honors—a merchant; a selectman, and often called to public offices by the town in other ways; a trusted agent in various special cases; a steward for the rebuilding of Harvard College, and messenger of the church, ministers and magistrates to prevail upon a minister in England to accept the pastorship of the Cambridge church. Such a man was surely regarded as possessing business ability, integrity, fidelity and sagacity. Moreover, he would not have been selected as the messenger to England if he had not been of good personal appearance and pleasing address. The teachings of a past generation to the contrary notwithstanding, all was not simplicity of dress and customs in the colony. On the contrary there was as much of fashion and more of personal ornamentation than now, and Cambridge, as the College town, could scarcely have been second to any other;

hence, the messenger chosen from among so many would not have been thus selected had he not been of personal appearance and address sure to uphold, when in England, the dignity of the Colonial church, ministers and magistrates. Ch. of William and Dorothy Manning, b at Cambridge:

6. SARAH, b. 1645-6, Jan. 28.
7. ABIGAIL, b. 1647-8, Jan. 15; d. 1648, May 10.
8. JOHN, b. 1649, Mch. 31; d. unm. 1678, Nov. 25, of small-pox. Very little is known of him. He lived in Cambridge, and, as is seen by his father's letter to the General Court, rendered valuable aid to the father in his business. Had he lived he probably would have succeeded his father as owner of the homestead, and, perhaps, in business. In 1668, Apr. 6, he was witness to a deed wherein his father was concerned, and, 1669, Apr. 1, was again a witness under like circumstances.
9. MARY, b. about 1651.
10. ? TIMOTHY. The Cambridge town book records the death of one Timothy Manning, 1653, Nov. 8. No age is given. He may have been an infant son in this family, or possibly an adult and near relative.

5. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1644, July 21, at Cambridge, Mass. He was reared in his native town, and the superior educational facilities which, for that period of time, it possessed seem to have been improved in his case; his handsome penmanship and easy style of composition in his mature years showing that he had learning beyond the average of his associates. Of his youth one event has been spared by Time. When 18 years old he and several other young men were summoned before the Court and reproved for firing off their guns at night to cause an alarm. They belonged to a militia company, and the object of the alarm seems to have been to give the impression that Indians had attacked the town, but even the Court was not disposed to look too sternly upon the boyish prank. We may be thankful that this incident has not been lost to us, for it shows that, in a time of severe precept and practice, the young people managed to introduce a measure of human nature and lightness into their otherwise puritanical lives. In 1664, October 17, the inhabitants of various towns addressed themselves to the General Court affirming their loyalty to the existing Government as long as their charter privileges were not taken away or curtailed, and petitioning that they "may not be subjected to the arbitrary power of any who are not chosen by this people according to their patent." This was the same spirit which actuated the Revolutionary patriots a century later, and it is a matter of gratification that, among the other inhabitants of Cambridge, appears the name of Samuel Manning. At this time he was married, and, some time between the date last given and the early part of 1666, he removed a distance of about 20 miles to Billerica, with which town his fortunes were thereafter cast, and where his intelligence and integrity caused his associates to bestow numerous honors upon him as long as he lived. His first home there was at the extreme northern part of the village, which was the same as the present "Center" village, but, at a later period, he removed to and occupied his farm west of the Concord river. He was in the full sense of the word a pioneer. When he purchased his home only 46 years had elapsed since the landing of the Mayflower Pilgrims at Plymouth, and Billerica, a settlement lately made in the wilderness, had for but nine years contained enough inhabitants to be incorporated as a town. The Indians were still strong and numerous in the Colony, and, friendly one day and hostile the next, they endangered the lives of the white settlers and marked their history with forays and massacres for the next 60 years. King Philip's war was in 1675; Dunstable was assailed in 1691 and again in 1724, and Lovewell's expedition was in 1725. All this while Billerica was in danger, the more so since the town had within its limits a considerable Indian population; and twice the Red Men fell upon the town with tragic results. In these local massacres Samuel Manning lost his neighbors, and that he and his family escaped does not change the fact that, in every year of his life, they were exposed to danger and death. Their situation while they lived on the farm beyond the Concord river was very exposed, and it was then that one of the massacres took place. Some of their nearest neighbors fell victims to the Indians, but none of their family. The men of the town were formally enrolled and prepared for defense, and certain houses were selected as "garrisons," to which the inhabitants could hasten in case of alarm. In 1675, Aug. 13, at a Town Meeting, the inhabitants expressed themselves as follows: "The Towne, considering the providence of God at the p<sup>r</sup>sent calling us to lay aside our ordinary occations in providing for our creatures and take speecial care for the p<sup>r</sup>serving of our lives and the lives of our wives and children, the enemy being near and the warnings by gods providence upon our neighbors being very solemne and awfull, do therefore order & agree joyntly to p<sup>r</sup>pare a place of safety for women and children, and that all persons and teams shall attend y<sup>e</sup> said worke untill it be finished; and account of y<sup>e</sup> wholl charge being kept, it shalbe equally divided upon the inhabitants with other Towne charges. Also they appoint Serj<sup>nt</sup> ffoster, Serj<sup>nt</sup> Tompson, Sam<sup>l</sup> Manning & Jonathan Danforth to be overseers of y<sup>e</sup> same." What resulted from this may be seen by the further record showing that, on the 31st of the same month, Samuel, and about 30 other citizens, were paid for "work at the fortification at [Rev.] Mr. Whiting's house." Samuel worked five and one-half days, and was paid 11 shillings. In 1696 he was one of a committee of three to take account of the town's stock of ammunition. They reported as follows:

"the barrell of powder Comited to Capt Danforth the weight thereof one hundred and ten pound	110
the remainder of the old barrell sixty & eight	068
the weight of barrs of lead six score	120
flints one hundred and thirtie	130
bullets thirtie and eight	038
match sufficient weight uncertaine"

This ammunition was the common property of the town. The final item of resource — "match sufficient" — shows that they used the old matchlock guns, which were fired by the application of a burning fuse, or match, to the powder in the pan of the weapon. It was in the above year that Samuel built his house on the west side of Concord river; the house which became one of the "garrisons" of the town, and of which an account will be found elsewhere in this work. Militia service was required of every able-bodied male inhabitant, and in the Billerica company Samuel appears conspicuously. He was made corporal as early as 1682; sergeant in 1684, and ensign in 1699. Whether he ever saw actual service as a soldier has not been learned, but it is altogether probable that he did. Indians were not the only wild creatures that prowled in the woods; troublesome animals were there, and of these the wolf was particularly dangerous to their herds and, in consequence, was the object of bounty. The town records say: "11m. 83. Tho Dutton Jun<sup>r</sup> got another wolfe. 12. 83. Sam<sup>l</sup> Mañing & Jonath. Danforth Jun<sup>r</sup> got another." And, the next day, the two just named "got another and a wild catt." The bounty on a wolf was 20 shillings. It was a life of self preservation against human and animal foes, and of great hardship. Mr. Manning, who was, in private life, always a farmer, reduced his land to cultivatable form only with great labor; he had settled in the wilderness, and it was not easy to reclaim his acres from their wild condition. The town elected him to nearly all the offices within its power to bestow. He was surveyor of highways, 1668, '76-7; sealer of weights and measures, 1675, 1700; constable, 1677; trial jurymen, 1679; assessor, 1694, '98, 1702; tithingman, 1679-82, '95, '97, 1704-9, or 12 years; town clerk, 1686-90, '92, '99, or 7 years; selectman, 1673, '77-9, '82-90, '92-4, '96, '99, or 18 years, and representative to the General Court (Legislature) 1695-7. A man thus honored certainly had the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. The town records are full of commissions to him in connection with his offices, or in special cases. At various times between 1677 and 1700 he was connected with the repairing or rebuilding of "the great bridge" over Concord river. He had knowledge of the surveyor's art, and, for over 25 years, was often appointed on committees, or alone, to lay out land grants and highways and "measure land." In 1674 he was on a committee "to make satisfaction to severall psons that have bin imployed about the gratuities of meadow," etc.; and, in 1680, on a committee "to have y<sup>e</sup> bounds renewed between proprietyes and y<sup>e</sup> towne Commons." In 1685 "The Selectmen did Nominate, constitute, ordaine & impower Serj. Samuel Manning to be their lawfull attorney for them, and in their roome & steed to prosecute their attachment against Willm Careby of Cambridge, before y<sup>e</sup> worsh<sup>full</sup> It. W<sup>m</sup>. Johnson Esq<sup>r</sup> at his Court holden at Woburn upon the last tuesday in this instant month, in reference to a bond of twenty shillings for which y<sup>e</sup> sd Careby is now arrested & so to prosecute sd case from Court to Court, untill ye Case shalbe ended, and what y<sup>e</sup> sd Samuel Mañing shall do or cause to be done on that account the sd selectmen will abide by, ratify and confirme as fully as if they had all of them appeared in said Case together." In 1692 he was paid 14 shillings for writing 14 pages in the town book. In 1693

he was on a committee to oversee the building of a new meeting-house. In 1693 he was appointed by the selectmen "to carry down their orders and By laws to the Quarter Sessions for their allowing and approving." In 1695 he and Capt. Danforth were appointed "to draw up a petition to present to the honord generall Court the next session." In 1698 he, with one other man, was appointed "to take accompt of arrears due unto the Reverend Mr. Sammel Whiting." In 1685 some of the town's surplus money was confided to him "to keep," and like items occur at intervals during the next ten or more years. The money seems to have been entrusted to him as a depository safer than any other then available. In the later years of his life the records bristle with payments to him for services not particularized. In 1670 he was made a freeman by the Colony. He was on several occasions chosen to settle the estates of deceased inhabitants of Billerica. He was a member of the church, as is shown by his long service as tithingman. Samuel purchased, 1666, May 23, of Caleb and Elizabeth Beal, of Hingham, a dwelling house and 32 acres of land lying on the west side of Long street, Billerica. This lot, originally granted by the town to one Thomas Hubbard, who soon died, is thus described in the grant: "One parcell of land, containing thirty & two acres, be it more or lesse, lying on y<sup>e</sup> north side of y<sup>e</sup> township, & on y<sup>e</sup> west side of long street, bounded by James Paterson on y<sup>e</sup> south, by Concord river west, by long street east, & by John Rogers sen<sup>r</sup> north; it is thirtypole wide next y<sup>e</sup> highway, & thirty and one pole wide upon a bevell line next y<sup>e</sup> river, also there is allowance for a highway at y<sup>e</sup> west and next y<sup>e</sup> river." Samuel Manning's purchase also included a six acre lot formerly Mr. Hubbard's, with the right of future divisions of land by the town. The financial consideration given was "a valuable sum of money." His acreage was soon added to by purchase and divisions of land—1 acre and 16 poles in 1666; 6 acres in 1670; 1 acre and 56 poles in 1672; 24 acres in 1673 for "seaven pound sterling;" 34 acres in 1674 for £9.10; 4 acres at a date not given; 10 acres in 1685; and, at various later times, 145 additional acres, all of the town. This adds up over 225 acres, exclusive of his first purchase. The above acquisition of 24 acres in 1673 is interesting because it was the first tract of land of any considerable size that he acquired west of Concord river, and, consequently, was the practical beginning of his large farm there. It is described in part as "lying on the west side of our great river upon vine brook and on the south side of ye country road, to take ye round swamp, that has ye little pond in it, and part of the pine plaine on ye easterly side of it, and so take ye spangs of swamp westward," etc. It would seem that the present ancient house stands upon this tract. It is possible that Samuel at once built on this land, but it was not until 1696, or 23 years later, that he erected the house now standing (a history of which will be found elsewhere in this volume). Whether he resided there long or only a few years he finally returned, if a reference in Middlesex County Deed 15-287 is reliable, to his lot in the village, which he had always retained. In 1710, Apr. 17, he purchased of Capt. John Lane and Lieut. John Stearns, for £11, ten acres "lying north of said Manning's lot on which he now dwelleth." The bounds show this purchase to have been north of Samuel's village lot. But on the same day he sold the said village lot, or Hubbard place, to Benj. Heywood, so he seems not to have passed his last days in the village house. He lived only ten months longer, and this time may have been spent in the farmhouse beyond the Concord. He was a large holder of real estate, for, on the death of his father, he had become owner of the latter's homestead and warehouse in Cambridge. The latter property he conveyed to his own son Samuel, 1698, Jan. 19. but the disposal of his Billerica holdings cannot be so clearly accounted for here. By the above deed of 1710 he sold to Mr. Heywood not only the village place but about 83 acres of other land. In his will of 1711, Feb. 21, he stated that he then owned about 18 acres of land. Of the large farm there is no mention in the will, nor in any deed, but as it is certain that his son William had the farm, it seems equally certain that the transfer was made by a deed from father to son; but the deed never was recorded. This farm remained directly in the hands of descendants, passing from father to son several times, until 1880, and is still held subject to the testamentary will of its latest Manning occupant. The will of Samuel Manning reads as follows :

"The last Will and testament of Samuel Manning sen<sup>r</sup>

In the name of God, amen, the twenty first day of february Annoque Domini seventeen hundred and ten eleven.

I Samuel Manning of Billerica in the county of Midd<sup>s</sup>. in her Majests Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England being sick and weak in body, but of perfect mind and memory thanks be given unto

There is, further, a bond common to such cases by which William Manning and John Baldwin bind themselves in the sum of £100 to the faithful performance of their duties, the one as executor and the other as surety. The paper concludes as follows:

“ The condition of this obligation is such y<sup>t</sup> If the above bounden William Manning one of the Executors named in the last Will & Testament of Samuel Manning late of Billerica dec'd hath this day exhibited the s<sup>d</sup> Will & the same hath been proved & allowed & the adm<sup>n</sup> thereof committed to him, room being left for his mother Abiall when she asks the same to adm<sup>r</sup> the s<sup>d</sup> Will She being named an Exe thereon. No part of the will, except his own signature, was written by Samuel Manning. By this will his wife became possessed of upwards of 18 acres of land and considerable “movable Estate,” but neither will nor deed has been found to show when or how she disposed of her property. She certainly did not convey anything under the name of Abiel Manning that is now found on record, and a long search, based upon the possibility that she married again, has developed nothing. Her son William doubtless inherited, in some way, all she received by this will. Samuel Manning m. (1st) 1664, Apr. 13, Elizabeth Stearns,* b. at Watertown, but date not recorded, and d. 1671, June 24, at Billerica. Her death may have been sudden. Her father gave her £20 by will, “which, added to what I formerly gave her, will be her proportion,” adds the will. This was dated five days before his death, * ISAAC STEARNS, her father, from Nayland Parish, Suffolk, Eng., came to America in 1630, probably in the same ship with Gov. Winthrop and Sir Richard Saltonstall. He settled in Watertown, near Mount Auburn. He was a freeman in 1633; hence, a church member; and several years selectman. In 1647 he and Mr. Biscoe were appointed “to consider how the bridge over the river shall be built, and to agree with the workmen for doing it, according to their best discretion”—the first mention of a bridge over the Charles river at Watertown. He possessed unusual financial means for that time. He owned 467 acres of land, and the inventory of his estate amounted to £524.04.00. He d. 1671, June 19; his widow, Mary, d. 1677, Apr. 2. Ch.: I. Mary, b. about 1626, in England; m. Isaac Learned; settled in Woburn, but removed to Chelmsford, where he was selectman. II. Hannah, b. about 1628, in England; m. — Freeman, III. Lieut. John, b. about 1631 in Watertown; d. 1668-9, Meh. 5; settled in Billerica; 6 ch.; m. Sarah, dau. of Isaac and Sarah Mixer, who d. 1656, and (2d) Mary, dau. of Thomas and granddau. of Rev. John Lothrop. IV. Isaac, b. 1632-3, Jan. 6; d. 1676, Aug. 29; freeman; 6 ch.; m. Sarah, dau. of Capt. Richard Beers. The latter was selectman, 13 years representative and a captain in King Philip's War. V. Sarah, b. 1635, Sep. 22; m. Dea. Samuel Stone, of Cambridge. VI. Samuel, b. 1638, Apr. 21; m. Hanning Manning [4], which see. VII. Elizabeth; m. Samuel Manning [5]. VIII. Abigail, birth not recorded; m. Dea. John Morse.

hence, 1671, June 14, and she died ten days after, surviving Mr. Stearns only five days, from which it seems her own death was unexpected. Samuel Manning married (2d) 1673, May 6, Abiel Wight,* b. 1654, Jan. 1, at Medfield. Her Christian name has often been printed, and in a variety of forms, such as Abiah, Abial, Abiall, etc. The compiler has chosen the only form that has the weight of authority. She was originally given the Scriptural name of Abihaile, but this seems soon to have been modified. In five different cases she appeared with her husband as a grantor to a deed, and on every occasion she signed her name Abiel. It is true that the spelling is Abial in her husband's will, but the accompanying bond has it Abiall, invalidating both of these forms; and, in any case, the will was written by some one not a member of the family, and, among numerous other errors, the name of her son Eliphalet is spelled Eliffelet. This shows the spelling of the will to be valueless. Abiel herself must be considered the prime authority, and the form she used must necessarily be chosen for these pages. She was living 1713, July 3, but the date of her death is unknown. Samuel Manning d. 1710-11, Feb. 22, at Billerica. The exact place of his burial is unknown. His descendants in Billerica of the succeeding generations were all buried in the cemetery at the "Corner." This lot was appropriated for burial purposes in 1707. The South cemetery was put in use in 1663, and is much larger, but the former ground was nearer to Samuel's residence, and, as his immediate descendants lie there, the Corner was, perhaps, his own resting place. No gravestone to his memory can now be found; if he ever had any it has disappeared, and, it would seem, forever.

* THOMAS WIGHT, her grandfather, came to America at an early date; was probably at Watertown in 1635-6; settled at Dedham 1637; freeman 1640, and selectman six years from 1641; was often selected for performance of public services, and was interested in schools; removed to Medfield about 1650, where he was 19 years selectman and, in 1667, deacon. Records show that he was one of the wealthiest citizens of the town. He d. there 1673-4, Mch. 17; his wife, Alice, d. 1665, July 15. Ch.: I. Henry; lived at Medfield; was 10 years selectman; d. 1680, Feb. 27; m. Jane Goode-now; 5 ch. II. John; see sketch below. III. Thomas; lived at Medfield; house burned by Indians 1676; m. Mchitable Cheney; 5 ch. IV. Mary; m. Thomas Ellis. V. Samuel, b. 1639, Feb. 5, at Dedham; lived at Medfield; house burned by Indians 1676; d. 1716, Dec. 21; m. Hannah Albee; 9 ch. VI. Ephraim, b. 1645, Jan. 27; lived at Medfield; d. 1722-3, Feb. 26; m. Lydia Morse; 9 ch.

JOHN WIGHT, son of above Thomas, date of birth unknown, was one of the thirteen original settlers of Medfield, and the first to die; freeman 1653, May 18, and d. Sep. 28 after; m. Ann ———, and had an only child, Abiel, who m. Samuel Manning [5]. Widow Ann Wight m. (2d) 1655, Apr. 11, Isaac Bullard, of Dedham, and by this marriage had a large family; and she m. (3d) David Jones, senior, of Dorchester.

23. ELIPHALET, b. 1693, July 28, at Billerica.
24. ABIEL, b. 1698, Dec. 16, at Billerica; living in 1711, but not further accounted for. It may be worthy of note that Benjamin Shed, of Billerica, b. 1696, Aug. 5, had a wife named Abial. She d. 1736-7, Mch. 21. There is no actual reason known to suppose she was the subject of this sketch, but the name was uncommon, and Mr. Shed's date of birth was near enough to her own to increase the suspicion of a connection here. The children of Benj. Shed by his wife Abial were Rebecca, John, Sarah, Elizabeth, Benjamin, Joanna, Samuel and Sarah.

6a. SARAH (Bull) b. 1672, July 11.

6b. JOSEPH (Bull) b. 1675, Aug. 9, who, according to Hinman's Early Settlers of Ct., was a mariner at Marblehead in 1717 and d. aged 63.

- 6c. DANIEL (Bull) b. 1677, Nov. 9; m. Mary Mygatt, and Hinman names eight ch., Daniel, Aaron, Caleb, Mary, Keziah, Isaac, Amos and Susannah.
- 6d. CALEB (Bull), b. 1680, Feb. 1; m. Elizabeth Bunce; resided at Hartford and, according to Hinman, had ch.: Caleb, Aaron and Daniel. Caleb, Jr., was a merchant; left an estate of £3,426, and a large family, of which nine were sons, "and nine finer appearing brothers were never found in Connecticut."

9. MARY<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1651 at Cambridge, Mass.; m. 1674, Oct. 21, William Adams, b. 1650, May 27, at Ipswich. His father and grandfather were both named William, the latter having come to America about 1628 and located at Cambridge, but soon removed to Ipswich. The William who married Mary Manning graduated at Harvard in 1671, became a minister and was ordained pastor at Dedham in 1673. A contemporary ranked him "among the choicest of the ripe fruit of this young generation." As a scholar and theologian he held high place, and as a man he was amiable. Mary, his wife, d. 1679, June 24. He had kept a journal of passing events, and in its pages he paid her this tribute: "My dear and loving wife departed this life after we had been married 4 years and 8 months, whereby I am bereaved of a sweet and pleasant companion and left in a very lonely and solitary condition." He m. (2d) Alice, daughter of Maj. William, and granddaughter of Governor William Bradford, by whom he had other children; and he d. 1685, Aug. 17, after 12 years service as pastor at Dedham. Ch. of Rev. William and Mary Adams:

- 9a. MARY (Adams) b. 1675, Nov. 12; d. 1676, Apr. 13.
- 9b. ELIPHALET (Adams) b. 1677, Mch. 26; graduated at Harvard 1694; a talented clergyman; preached at Little Compton 1696, acquired the language of the Indians and preached to them in their native tongue; ordained in 1709 at New London, Ct., and continued there as pastor until his death, 1753, Oct. 4. He was a man of great learning and a profound Hebrew scholar; lectured before educational bodies; was often called in church councils, and, as a pastor, was amiable, popular, devoted and efficient. He was 17 years trustee of Yale College, and, in 1723, was elected rector (president), but declined the office. He m. 1709, Dec. 15, Lydia, dau. of Alexander and Lydia Pygan, and had ch.: I. William, b. 1710, Oct. 7; graduated at Yale, 1730; preached 60 years in North Parish, New London, and Groton, but refused to be ordained. He never married. II.

Pygan, b. 1712, Meh. 27; a merchant with an extensive business; d. 1776, July; m. Anne Richards. 11. SAMUEL<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1665, probably at Cambridge, Mass., but possibly at Bille-rica, where he was reared. He took the oath of fidelity "8, 7<sup>m</sup>, 1681." In 1693 the town "Granted unto Samuel Manning Jun. liberty to set up a shop to work in and liberty to lay timber about & to set a Cart &c near to the passage over the River during the time of his keeping the ferry." This was probably the Concord river. He removed to Cambridge before 1695, when, under date of Mch. 8, the records of that town say, "Then was the Town's Stock of Powder and ammunition removed from Mr. Sam<sup>ll</sup> Andrews' house, and committed to the custody of Sam<sup>ll</sup> Maning, and the selectmen agree with said Sam<sup>ll</sup> Maning, for his care, to allow him annually six shillings in common pay." In 1698, Jan. 19, his father conveyed to him for £85, of which £15 was "onward of his portion" as an heir, the old homestead in Cambridge at the S. E. corner of Dunster and South streets; the house and one-quarter of an acre of land, with out-houses, fruit-trees, etc.; together with the warehouse, boathouse, wharfing and appurtenances, on the S. W. corner. After this, deeds term him "waterman," because of his calling. He was a witness to the will of Sam<sup>l</sup> Andrews, 1698, and one of three men who took the inventory of his brother-in-law, Ebenezer King, 1710. His place of residence is not certain for the 8 years following 1714. In this year, after having long held office in Cambridge, he ceased to fill such offices and bought land in Windham, Ct., but it is not certain he was there until 1722, and he was in Cambridge, as a resident or visitor, 24 Apr., 1721. He sold a part of the old homestead 28 Sep., 1720, to Jonathan Remington, and the remainder, 24 Dec., 1725, to Andrew Boardman. The latter deed was not recorded until 1796. His Windham purchase of 4 Nov., 1714, was from William Merrick, and lay between Merrick's Brook and Beaver Brook. It contained 240 acres, and cost £62.10s., and was the first deed recorded in "Book E," at Windham. Occupying this farm as early as 1722, Mr. Manning there passed the rest of his life. The land was in the eastern part of the town, which was organized as the Third Parish in 1732, and, known as "Scotland Society" from the organization of the church there in 1735, was set off about 1860 and incorporated as the town of Scotland. It was in Scotland, as now constituted, that nearly all the Mannings of this line lived, and to which the consideration of descendants should turn, but as it was until lately Windham, the old name will be retained in this work. Samuel Manning often held town office. At Bille-rica, he was highway surveyor in 1693. At Cambridge, he was sealer of weights and measures 1701, '2, '4-14, a total of 13 years; highway surveyor, 1702; one of two inspectors of the "great bridge over Charles river." 1704, '5; constable, 1707; and clerk of the market, 1714. At Windham, tithingman and school committee, 1722; and selectman 4 years, 1723, '4 and '32, '3. A Bille-rica grant of 1710 calls him "Ensign Samuel Manning Jr., of Cambridge." It has not been found that he took part in actual service, so it is presumed that the title was of militia origin. At Cambridge, 10 Jan., 1697, he was admitted to full communion in the First Church, as was his wife 26 May after; and both united with the Congregational church in Windham before 1726, as did his second wife, by letter, in 1731, and the latter and he were members of the colony dismissed in 1735 to form the church at Scotland Society. At one time he was on a committee to engage and settle a minister, and, again, to oversee the erection of a meeting-house. That his opinions were held in respect is shown by the fact that, in a spirited discussion concerning the theological views of a certain pastor, Ensign Manning appears in an affidavit in which he set forth his knowledge of the case. He d. at Windham 1755, Feb. 20, aged about 90, though his gravestone says "in his 93d year." Exaggeration is common with gravestones, old and new. That of his first wife says she d. in her 63d year, whereas, if the record of her birth is correct, she was two years younger. Their graves are in the Palmer Burying Ground of Scotland Society. By his will, which was dated 1750, Mch. 2, Mr. Manning divided his land between the two oldest sons of his own son Samuel, deceased, as follows: To Josiah a special bequest of three quarters of an acre, and the northerly half of the rest of the farm, including the house, barn and orchard ; and to Hezekiah the southerly half. The first of these grandsons was to pay his sister Abigail £70, and Hezekiah to pay to each of his younger brothers, Samuel and David, £140. Other bequests were to the testator's own children : To his son John 20 shillings, which, with what had previously been given him, was his full share of the estate ; to his daughters Abigail Carter and Elizabeth Bingham, £45 each ; and to the children of his deceased daughter, Mary Case, a like sum jointly. He m. Deborah Spalding,* b. 1667, Sep. 12, at Chelmsford, Mass. An item in her father's will was : " I also will that in the space of six months after my decease my son Edward pay to my daughter Deborah Manning the sum of five pounds in common pay the same to be pay<sup>d</sup> to her or to her heirs or assigns at the s<sup>d</sup> Edward Spauldyng's dwelling house." The testator gave a like sum to his daughter Sarah, who had married John Manning (12). Deborah d. 1727, Aug. 8, at Windham, and Samuel Manning m. (2d) at Norwich, 1731, June 10, Sarah Gale, of Canterbury, perhaps widow of Richard Gale. She d. 1746, Oct. 11. There was no issue by this union. Ch.† of Samuel and Deborah Manning :

* EDWARD SPALDING, her grandfather, came to America about 1630-33; settled at Braintree, Mass., where his wife Margaret and dau. Grace died, and where his son Benj. was born; freeman, 1640; one of the proprietors of Chelmsford, to which place he removed in 1653; selectman 3 years, and filled other positions of trust. His wife d., 1640, and he m. Rachel —, who was mother of several of the younger children. He d. 1670, Feb. 26. Ch.: I. John, b. about 1633; lived in Chelmsford; d. 1721, Oct. 3; m. Hannah Hale; 8 ch. II. Edward, b. about 1635; see sketch below. III. Grace, d. 1641, May. IV. Benjamin, b. 1643, Apr. 7; removed to Canterbury, Ct.; d. before 1708; m. Olive Farwell. V. Joseph, b. 1646, Oct. 25; removed to Plainfield, Ct.; d. 1740, Apr. 3; m. Mary Jewell. VI. Dinah, b. 1649, Mch. 14. VII. Andrew, b. 1652, Nov. 19; d. 1713, May 5; m. Hannah Jeffs; lived in Billerica.

EDWARD SPALDING, son of the first Edward, b. about 1635, lived at Chelmsford; a lieutenant; representative, 1691; m. 1663, July 6, by Gov. Endicott, to Priscilla, dau. of Wm. Underwood, and (2d) 1681, Nov. 22, Margaret Barrett. He d. 1708, Jan. Ch.: I. Dorothy, b. 1664, Apr. 3; m. — Ella. II. Deborah, m. Samuel Manning (11). III. Sarah, m. John Manning (12). IV. Edward, b. 1674, Aug. 18; lived in Chelmsford; d. probably in 1762; m. Lydia —; 8 ch. V. Ebenezer, b. 1683, Jan. 13; lived Chelmsford and, later, Hudson, N. H.; m. Anna —; 10 ch. VI. Margaret, birth not recorded; unm., 1702. VII. Esther, b. 1700, Feb. 11; d. 30 Nov., after.

† Mr. Paige, in his history of Cambridge, includes a son Edward in this family of children. He does not give date of birth or baptism, nor any further account, but bases his statement on the alleged fact that Edward is mentioned in the will of his brother, Dr. Joseph Manning. This will remains in the Cambridge Probate Office, in good condition, and contains no reference to Edward. For 13 years the present writer has searched far and near for the alleged Edward without finding any sign of him as infant, youth or man, nor of anybody who bore his name at that period; and, as Mr. Paige's sole authority proves to have been an error, it seems safe to say there was no such person.

25. DOROTHY, b. 1688-9. Jan. 17, at Billerica; united with the Cambridge church. 1718, Nov. 2; perhaps living in 1721, but probably d. soon after, umm. Her father, in his will, was careful to remember all near relatives known by the present writer to have been living then, but did not refer to Dorothy or her younger sister Sarah.
26. SAMUEL, b. 1690-1, Jan. 14, at Billerica.
27. SARAH, b. 1693, Oct. 1, at Billerica. Probably the Sarah Manning, "an adult," who united with the Scotland Society church, 1745-6. Jan. 19. Not further traced. Probably d. umm. before 1750, for she had no mention in her father's will.
28. DEBORAH, birth not recorded; probably belongs here in the list, for, after the parents united with the church, all the later children were baptized promptly; d. umm., at Windham, 1723-4, Jan. 30.
29. JOHN, bap. 1696-7, Jan. 17, at Cambridge.
30. ABIGAIL, bap. 1699, May 14, at Cambridge.
31. ELIZABETH, b. 1701, Nov. 21, at Cambridge.
32. MARY, b. 1703-4. Mch. 17, at Cambridge; d. before 1750 and later than 1744, Oct. 29; m. at Windham, 1728, Apr. 25. Benjamin Case, probably son of John and Desire, of Martha's Vineyard, and, if so, b. 1703, Dec. 4. Mary left ch., as her father's will shows, but no record has been found. Benjamin Case, "of Windham," bought land in Mansfield, 1749, Apr. 1; probably the same person. He had ch.: Joseph, who, m. Ruth Sawyer, 1754, Nov. 28, and had a family in Mansfield. Perhaps Mary, who d. about 1761 (inventory). Possibly Benjamin, who was a soldier of the Revolution. These may have been ch. of our Mary, but there is no proof of it. Benj., the father, may have removed to Coventry, where the name often occurs, especially in deeds, as it does at Mansfield.
33. JOSEPH, bap. 1705, May 12.

them 00.11.08. for fetching them up 00.03.04." He was witness to the will of Thomas Stearns in 1696, and to that of Samuel Andrews, 1698, where his scholarly autograph appears. He was elected to minor town offices in 1700 and 1708, and, 1712, as tithingman, but was excused. From this we may infer he was averse to holding office. The following paper (from Mass. Archives, v. 107, p. 133), is the first known step to his later military service: "To the honored Gouverneur Counsell & representytes siting in counsell att Bostowne: we reseving ane order from your Honors bareing daate the 14 of June 1689: that all the companise & reimentes within the masichusites Colony should meet together & nominate ther Cometyon offesers to be presented to your Honors to be a loued and commisinatid in obediens unto this your order: we that belong to that troop chiefly gathered in billdirica: Asembled y<sup>e</sup> 20 day of June instant did unanimously nominat Raph Hill Captain: Jerathmal Bowers Leftenant. John Lane Cornet: John Starnes quartermaster." This report is signed with 6 names, of which one is John Manning's, but they are not autographs, nor did he write the body of the paper. It refers to the local Billerica militia organization, but John was soon in different service, he being a soldier in the expedition to Canada led by Sir William Phips, in 1690, against the French, in King William's war. After being long delayed by waiting for promised supplies from England the expedition, consisting of a fleet of 32 vessels and upwards of 2,000 men, sailed from Boston, Aug. 9, and, after further delay on the way, arrived before Quebec, Oct. 5. Count Frontenac, the Governor, was summoned to surrender the next day, but refused, and an attack was made the 7th. A force of 1,300 men was disembarked to operate by land, going ashore "in ice and water knee deep," and "so cold was it that ice formed in one night of sufficient thickness to bear a man," and frozen hands and feet were common. Sir William bombarded the town, while the land force, remaining on shore some three or four days, fought well and "defended themselves as best they could against the combined force of the elements, and bullets of the French and Indians, but making no effectual advance toward the capture of the place." The enterprise failed, partly because the original delay brought them before Quebec in a season unfavorable for operations, and partly because the governors of New York and Connecticut, having promised to send a land force by way of Albany to aid, and to divide the French troops by such a demonstration, failed to keep their word, their own expedition giving up mid-way and returning home. To add to the troubles of Sir William, small-pox broke out in the fleet, and he reluctantly raised the siege and sailed for Boston, where, after a stormy voyage, he and most of his men arrived Nov. 19. The loss was 300 men, and sickness the chief cause. The leaders in this campaign have been adversely criticised; the men, never. There are no known rolls of the soldiers, but John Manning's service is proved by the Mass. Archives. The following petition to the General Court [Archives, 115-684] bears date 30 May, 1750: "A memorial of the Subscribers a Committee of Sundry of the Descendants of the Souldiers in the Expedition to Canada in the year 1690, whose names are herewith produced to your honors;—Humbly Shewing That the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Gen<sup>l</sup> Court appointed a Com<sup>tee</sup> to Inspect the Lists of Canada Soldiers or there Descendants; (in s<sup>d</sup> Expedition) and Divide them into Seperate lists by Sixty; that they might be allowed grants of Lands for Townships agreeable to the practice of the Hon<sup>bl</sup> Court for Several years past; that the Said Com<sup>tee</sup> were pleased to Insert the names of your Petitioners to Gether with others named in one Seperate List making up the number of Sixty; which List was Lodged in Court (As we were Informed & burnt in Boston Town house; so that your Pet<sup>r</sup> are not able at this Time to produce the Same List to present the Same to your Hon<sup>rs</sup>.) your Petitioners therefore Humbly pray your Honour & Hon<sup>rs</sup> in yo<sup>ur</sup> Great Wisdom Justice & goodness to Grant them with Such others your hon<sup>rs</sup> shall please to Joyn to them to make up the number of Sixty (living as nigh to gether as may be) a Tract of the Unappropriated Lands of the province of Six miles Square, upon Such Conditions & under Such Limitations as to your Hon<sup>l</sup> & Hon<sup>rs</sup> Shall Seem meet and your Petitioners as in Duty bound Shall ever pray &c. [Signed] Sam<sup>l</sup> Whittemore, Sam<sup>l</sup> Whittemore, Jr. Com<sup>tee</sup> &c." Archives 115-685 begins thus: "The names of Sundry persons Descendants of the Soldiers who were in the Expedition to Canada in the year 1690: Referred to in the petition to the Great & Gen<sup>l</sup> Court for a grant of land &c by Sam<sup>l</sup> Whittemore & Sam<sup>l</sup> Whittemore, Jur &c, 30 May, 1750, as Followeth." Then comes a list in which the name of the claimant of 1750 is followed by that of the soldier upon whose service the claim is based. The claimants were, in most cases, sons, but sometimes grandsons, etc., of the soldiers. Edward Manning, second son of John, claimed under Wm. Blanchard (why, I find not; possibly he had purchased the claim) and John's own service was with his eldest son, John, as claimant. About 30 names appear in the list. Action was long delayed by the General Court, and it was not until 1771, June 11, that the grant was made. In the lapse of years death had been busy. In 1750 the claimant for the services of Sir William Phips had been Capt. William Phips (son of Spencer Phips, who was an adopted son of Sir William), but Capt. William had died before 1771, and, his claim descending by inheritance to his brother David, the grant was usually referred to as having been made to "David Phips and others." The second John Manning, too, was dead, and his brother Edward had succeeded to his claim. In the Boston Gazette, 1772, Aug. 8, appears, as an advertisement, a petition from the proprietors of the so-called township, which is described as "lying on both sides Amarascooggin [Androscooggin] River, in the county of Cumberland, in the late province of Main, granted by the Great and General Court of this Province, the 11th of June, A. D. 1771, to David Phips, Esq; and others, heirs and representatives of such as were in the expedition against Canada in 1690," praying for authority to call a legal meeting of said proprietors to elect necessary officers and transact other business. This petition was signed by "David Phips, Sam. Whittemore, Fra. Dana, Eben. Stedman, Edward Manning, Alex. Shepard, jun." Authority was given, and the meeting duly held. Settlement was long delayed, however, the chief cause being the troubles incidental to the growth and progress of the Revolution, and, in the meanwhile, the management of the township remained in the hands of the proprietors in and near Cambridge. Taxes were regularly assessed by the proprietors, and, as many of their number did not pay these dues, there were frequent advertisements in the Gazette, warning them that if said taxes were not paid their land would be sold to obtain the money. While the present writer has doubtless overlooked several of these notices, they are found in the Gazette in 1774, June 13; 1775, Feb. 13; 1779, Feb. 22 and Oct. 18; 1782, Dec. 30; 1784, Meh. 29; 1786, Feb. 13, and 1788, Dec. 1. In each case the grant is definitely described, and in that of 1779, Feb. 22, it has, for the first time, a name; that of Phips Canada. These assessments were, at different times, to defray the cost of "obtaining the grant and laying out the same;" to build a sawmill; to encourage settlers to locate on the township, etc. The amount was usually 20 or 30 shillings on each right, and the taxes became so burdensome that the original grantees in most cases sold their rights to others, few going to Phips Canada. The grant is now the town of Jay, Franklin Co., Maine. Edward Manning sold his father's right, 1774, Apr. 25, for £12.5. Another lot in his name, which he had somehow acquired on the right of one Siah Harris (of which, previously, I know nothing), was sold 1792, Apr. 5, for unpaid taxes. What became of the Wm. Blanchard right has not been learned. It is not probable that any of the Mannings went to Jay, for the town clerk thereof states that he fails to find the name on early records there, and that he has known of no person in the vicinity who bore the name. John Manning, subject of this sketch, and his wife Sarah were admitted to full communion in the Cambridge church, 1697-8, Jan. 2. His "minister's rate," or tax for the support of the church, is entered on the books thereof from 1698 to 1706, the amount varying from 8sh. 6d. to 11sh. 6. He bought of Richard Proctor, 1708-9, Jan. 27, for £52, "in Province Bills of Credit or Silver Money at the Rate of eight shillings p<sup>r</sup> ounce, a parcell of land Situate lying and being in the Township of Cambridge, containing by estimation about Twenty Rods, together with the housing." This was on the west side of Dunster st., "on or near which the first meeting-house was erected," and was his home until his death. He m. Sarah Spalding, of Chelmsford, sister of his brother Samuel's wife. (For her ancestry see Samuel's sketch.) She was probably b. about 1670, though the date has not been found on record, nor is it known when she died. She is not mentioned in papers relating to her husband's estate, which indicates that she d. before him. Her father left her £5 by will. John Manning d. 1718-19, Feb. 3, at Cambridge. Probably he was buried near the group of Manning graves, but no headstone has been found. He died intestate. He was not a money-maker, and the inventory of his estate was but £69.1.0, of which, £56 was the appraised value of the house and the shop. His son Edward was administrator, and the latter, purchasing the rights of his brothers and sister, became sole owner of the homestead. Ch. :

15. WILLIAM<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1677, June 27, at Billerica, Mass., where he always resided. He had his father's farm, probably by deed of gift, and lived on the old homestead. He seems never to have added to the farm by purchase, but his possessions had been early augmented by grants, including 48 acres in 1708, and probably by others in the 30 years after his father's death, when several "divisions" of land were made by the town. He sold on several occasions; in 1710 (16 acres for £3.15, on west side of Concord river); in 1715 (5 acres for £20); in 1716 (29 acres for £12); in 1753 (6 acres in Tewksbury for £2.13.4); and in 1758 (about 2 acres for 18 shillings). The greater part of his land he divided by deed between his two sons. To William he gave 86 acres in 1734; this deed was not recorded until 1793. To Jacob he gave 41 acres in 1735, and 56 acres in 1738. The homestead became the former son's property. The elder William held various town offices—highway surveyor in 1712 and 1735; tithingman, 1723; selectman, 1726; one of a committee "to regulate and order where the school shall be kept in the several quarters of the town," 1729, and, also, in 1732-3, '35-6. In 1729 he aided in surveying Concord line, and, 1737, was on a committee to "provide all materials necessary for building the meeting house, and see that the work may be well and effectually done." About this date, in a list of "sittings" in the old meeting house, he was one of 19 men who, out of a total of 150, were dignified with the title of "Mr.," and one of the 10 who occupied the best, or "fore seat below," as it was called. Pews were little known. Having been elected tithingman, he must have been a church member. He was prominent in the militia, and was elected ensign as early as 1723. He was joint executor with his mother of his father's will. He m. Elizabeth French,* b. 1679, June 8, at Billerica; she d. 1736, Sep. 19, and he m. 19. ISAAC<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1685, Apr. 15, at Billerica, Mass. Of all the early members of the family, no other male has left so few signs behind him as the above Isaac.

He went to Cambridge before July, 1707, at which time he was 22 years old, and perhaps resided there until his death, but we are not certain even of this. It seems that, in his lifetime, his name was not often made a matter of public record, and, perhaps, never after his death. He was in Cambridge continuously from 1707 to 1723, and probably until 1742. The first sign of him is when, 1707, July 27, he is credited in the church book with the payment of 6 shillings, his minister's rate, or tax for the support of the church. Similar payments are entered each year, the rate ranging from 7sh. upward. It was 8sh. in 1719, '20, and '21; 9sh. 8d. in 1722, and 9sh. 1d. in 1723. The latter is the latest recorded entry, but the book was very imperfectly kept. Margaret, his wife, was admitted to full communion 1727-8, Jan. 9. Nothing is found to show that he was a member, but he or his wife must have "owned the covenant," if no more, prior to the birth of their first child, as it was baptized promptly. In 1709 he was witness to a deed in which his brother John was a principal. Isaac was elected to town office as follows: Hog-reeve, 1713; fence viewer, 1714, '18; highway surveyor, 1721. At a meeting of the selectmen, 1742-3, Feb. 28, the expense of caring for the poor was considered, and certain sums awarded to those who had, by direction of the selectmen, given such care. One citizen was paid 6 shillings, and then follows this record: "Also Isaac Manning 6 old tenor for the same service; the said 12<sup>sh</sup> to be paid out of the money received of Robt. Bull." This payment is the last sign that has been found of Isaac. He may have left Cambridge, but it is more likely that he continued to reside there until his death, of which we have no record. It is not found that he ever owned real estate, nor that he left enough property to call for a division in the Probate Court. His occupation is also unknown. He m. 1708, Apr. 8, Margaret Eager,* b. 1681, May 25, at Cambridge. The date of her death has not been found. Ch., b. at Cambridge:

77. ISAAC, b. 1708-9, Jan. 13. As early as 1733 he went to Sutton, where he thereafter resided. He bought and sold real estate to a considerable extent, being a farmer. The purchases bear date of 1733, '39, '49, and the sales of 1736, '42, '48, '54, '60 and '69; a total of nearly 190 acres. The latest sale was of 2 acres only, and closed out his land holdings. His first purchases, disposed of in 1736, were in the N. E. part of Sutton, east of Blackstone river; the later acquisitions, in the N. W. part, on the Worcester line. In 1813 this section was set off and incorporated as the present town of Millbury, though some of Isaac's land may now be within the limits of Auburn. The old, or South Church of Sutton records that, 1778, Dec. 27, he died "after long weakness, aged about 70." Examination of the cemeteries of both Sutton and Millbury, and of town and church records, fails to add to his history. It is not found that he ever married, though existing records are so incomplete as to render a decisive statement impossible. No wife appears in his deeds of sale, nor is there reliable mention of any house on his land. His brother-in-law and his niece, Nehemiah and Rachel Putnam, were witnesses to his last deed of sale. This may possibly indicate that, when his "long weakness" fell upon him, he went to live with his sister, Mrs. Putnam.

He was elected fence-viewer in 1718, '19, '22-4, or 5 years. In 1714 he was paid by the town for work "at y<sup>e</sup> bridg," when that structure was repaired. He bought, 1717, Dec. 31, of John Wilson, Jr., for £180, "one certain massuge or tenement situate in Billerica," 32 acres, upland, meadow and orchard land. This place was in the present Center village, and the next lot south of the first home of his father in town. He sold it 1727, June 29, for £350, and removed to Woodstock, Ct. There he bought, 1727-8, Feb. 8, of Isaac Johnson, for £255, "a certain tenement of housing and land situate in Woodstock" . . . "Fourty acres of land and a mansion house." Another lot, bounded on one side by the land of his brother Timothy, cost £50. He and his wife joined the early Woodstock church, 1742, and, 1750, at the reorganization of the town, he was among the freemen. He seems not to have held town office there. In all known cases his occupation is given as that of a housewright, but he was probably also a farmer. 22. TIMOTHY<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1691-2, Mch. 4, at Billerica, Mass. He first settled in Reading, and was there from 1712 to 1717, and probably later, but removed to Sutton before 1720, having been one of the 30 families to whom 4,000 acres of land were granted by the General Court, 1717, on condition that they located thereon. There, in 1721, he was elected tithingman, and also chosen as one to whom the moneys of a special tax to buy a pulpit cushion for the church should be paid. The same year the town desired to get its Province Tax abated, and prepared a petition in meeting. "The same day Timothy Manning chosen by a Major vote to go with it and speak to it" [to the General Court]. In 1723 he was one of a committee to "seat the meeting house." In this year, Jan. 15, he and Jos. Sibley were to have a pew together. "Front 4 foot and 2 inches cant one foot and one inch running to the stairs, deep 5 foot and 6 inches and so long as the Pew remains between 2 families the men have the liberty of their seats." Within the next year he removed to Woodstock, Ct., and there spent the rest of his life, being elected highway surveyor in 1726, and tithingman in 1728 and '29. He "owned the covenant" at Reading, 1707, July 6, at the age of 15, and, at Sutton, 1720, was one of the founders of the church therein, his name standing first on the list of those who took part in the formation. He was chosen "monitor" and deacon in the same year. He and his wife became members of the Woodstock church in 1727. He was a housewright and farmer. He d. 1735, Oct. 27, "after long weakness." He, his first wife and several children are buried in the Woodstock "Hill" cemetery; the memorial stones need the attention of friendly hands. His will, recorded at Worcester, bears date of 1735, July 8. He gave 10 shillings each to his "three children," Samuel, Joseph and Susanna, evidently all that were living; but made provision for the possible birth of another, giving to his wife the residue of his estate with the condition that, "If it pleases God she shall have Issue of her Body," what she might leave at her death was to go to that issue, "but if it please God she have no child," one-half of her estate was to descend to the three children above named, and she had liberty to dispose of the other half as she saw fit. Probably no child was born, and, financially, it mattered little. The inventory was but £98.03.4, and the latest paper on record, dated 1735, Nov. 24, signed by the widow, who was executrix, expresses the fear that the estate would prove insufficient to pay Deacon Manning's debts, and "sickness and funeral charges." He m. 1712, Dec. 10, at Reading, Susanna Boutwell,* b. 1689, Feb. 26, at Reading, d. 1733, Aug. 20; and (2d) 1734, Mar. 20. Margaret Holmes.† b.

Careful search at Woodstock fails to show that he lived there, or died there in youth or manhood, nor is there clue to him elsewhere. If he left no heirs the branch of his father, Deacon Timothy, became extinct in the male line with the death of Timothy's son Joseph in 1776.

23. ELIPHALET<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1693, July 28, at Billerica, Mass. He settled as a farmer in his native town, in the southeast part, buying, 1714, July 1, of Joseph Walker, land "on the south side of Shawshin river." The price was £25, and the quantity, 80 acres and 40 poles. The southern boundary was Woburn line, but the incorporation of Wilmington, 1730, made the latter a nearer neighbor, and some of the Billerica settlers not only wished to be transferred to Wilmington but were wanted by that town. Eliphalet was one of nine signers to a petition to the General Court, 1733-4, Mch. 4, asking to be annexed to Wilmington. Their reasons were that they lived so far from the place of public worship in Billerica, and for most of them it was only half as far to the meeting-house in Wilmington [Archives, 114-543]. The petition was not acted upon, but Eliphalet's farm was a part of that Billerica territory set off 1734, Dec. 23, and incorporated as the town of Tewksbury. It is said that he erected the second board house built in the latter town. The cellar excavation of this old house may still be seen (says a descendant). It is on the left of the road as one goes from Tewksbury to Wilmington, near the southern boundary line of the former place, on land known at an early day as "the Manning farm." As the line now runs a part of the farm is in each town. Descendants say the farm contained 170 acres, which shows that it was added to by grant or unrecorded purchase. It remained in the family until 1856, or later. "The house built by Eliphalet was removed from its original site years ago, and the upper story at present forms a part of Mr. Hill's blacksmith shop at South Tewksbury." He m. Rebecca ———, who d. 1765, Oct. 15. Her maiden name has not been learned, but, theoretically, it may be worthy of notice that Thomas and Sarah Frost, of Billerica, had a dau. Rebecca, b. 1695, May 6, and that Mrs. Manning named her second son Thomas. Eliphalet d. 1780, June 13, at Tewksbury. He probably was buried in the cemetery in the south part of the town, but no gravestone has been found. The statement has been made that 60 Mannings, of this branch, lie in unmarked graves in a long line in the above cemetery. The number may be an exaggeration; otherwise, the statement is correct. By his will he divided his farm between his son Eliphalet and dau. Rebecca, the son to have the live stock, etc., and household effects, exclusive of one bed, which was bequeathed to "my granddaughter, Betty Manning." The testator's son Thomas, deceased, had already received his portion, so the latter's son received but 10 shillings. No other heirs are mentioned. Ch. :

115. ? MARY. The Tewksbury records show that somebody of the name of Mary Manning m., 1749, Jan. 4, Joseph French. He d. 1800, Dec. 21, aged 79 years, 9 months. Their ch. were: I. Molly, b. 1749, Nov. 7; m. Jonathan Brown, a colonel in the Revolution. II. Isaac, b. 1751, May 16. III. An infant, still-born, 1755, Jan. 5. IV. Joseph, b. 1762, Nov. 1. Mary, the mother, d. 1786, Dec. 11, aged 55. It is not known that she was a dau. of Eliphalet, but her presence in Tewksbury suggests the possibility, which is not disproved by her non-appearance in his will. In the lack of conclusive evidence her record is placed here.

26. SAMUEL<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>4</sup>Saml.,<sup>3</sup>Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>)
 b. 1690-1, Jan. 14, at Billerica, Mass., but was chiefly reared at Cambridge. As early as 1716 he went to Windham, Ct., and, no doubt, settled upon and began to work the farm his father had purchased in 1714. Little is known of his short life. He was admitted by the town as an inhabitant, 1716, Sep. 24, and was elected assessor in 1720 and '26; and highway surveyor, 1722. The index to the early deeds is in bad condition, but it is believed he did not own land. Beyond doubt he had been selected to succeed his father on the farm. but his early death prevented. He and his wife were members of the Windham church. His estate furnished £16.19sh. for each of his children. His father was administrator, and guardian of Josiah. Hezekiah Ripley was guardian of Hezekiah, Sarah, Abigail and Samuel, and Samuel Cook of David, the youngest child. He m. at Windham, 1719, Apr. 20, Irene Ripley, b. 1700, Aug. 24; sometimes spelled Irena; dau. of Joshua<sup>3</sup> and
 from England, 1638, to Hingham, Mass., where he was freeman, 1642, and d. 1656, July 20. Joshua<sup>3</sup> Ripley, above, was the first town clerk and treasurer of Windham, and justice of the peace.
 Our Irene's grandmother was a dau. of Rev. Peter Hobart, first pastor of the Hingham church, and the mother of Irene was a dau.
 of Deputy Gov. Wm. Bradford, Jr., and granddau. of Gov. Wm.
 Bradford, the celebrated pilgrim of the Mayflower, in which vessel he came to Plymouth, 1620. Samuel Manning d. 1727, June 3; Irene, his wife, d. 1726-7, Jan. 20, both at Windham. If grave-tones exist they have not been found. Ch., born at Windham:

116. JOSIAH, b. 1719-20, Mch. 18.

117. HEZEKIAH, b. 1721, Aug. 8.

118. ABIGAIL, b. 1722, Nov. 25.

119. SARAH, b. 1723-4, Feb. 22.

120. SAMUEL, b. 1725, Oct. 22.

121. DAVID, b. 1726-7, Jan. 14.

29. JOHN<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1696-7, Jan. 17, at Cambridge, Mass., where he lived until 1725. A part of the time he was a cordwainer, but he was also styled a "waterman," and when it is noted that the sale of the old family homestead by his father took place soon after the son's departure from town, it would seem to be a reasonable theory that he lived in the old dwelling-house, and followed his father's business, as the latter was a "waterman" when in Cambridge. His tax for the support of the church is entered upon the records thereof from 1718-1723, inclusive, the amount being from 7 to 8 shillings a year. He bought of his father, 1724, June 20, "a certain lot of land in the recent division of land in Cambridge,"  $2\frac{1}{4}$  acres, for £20, and sold the same Feb. 3 after for £47.17. He and his wife sold, 1725, Oct. 25, for £60, their rights in the estate of "our honored father Joseph Winship, deceased," to her brother Joseph. In 1725, between Feb. 3 and June 14, John Manning removed to Hopkinton, and, about two years later, to Windham, Ct. There he was a farmer in Scotland Society, acquiring land both by deed of gift from his father [1729-30, Jan. 2, seventy acres, lying next to his father's] and by purchase [1742, Oct. 6, ten acres for £30]. The town records show that, 1728, Dec. 2, "Seth Palmer & John Manning prays the town to grant them Liberty to make a damm across mericke Brook In order to Raise a pond for the benefit of a sawmill to be erected thereon by them." This petition was granted, and indicates an extension of John's line of business. He was elected fence viewer, 1731, '47; sealer of leather, 1736, '38, '43-4; grand juror, 1736; constable and collector of the town rate, 1738, '42-4. At Cambridge he or his cousin of the same name (the writer will not undertake to say which) was a soldier in Capt. Samuel Wheelwright's company, 1723, Oct. 23, to 1724, June 2, the service being against hostile Indians, and near York and Wells, in the Province of Maine. Nearly all of the company resided in Maine. At Windham, John was prominent in local military affairs. The State Colonial Records show that, 1741, in May, "This Assembly do establish and confirm Mr. John Manning to be Lieutenant of the second company or trainband in the town of Windham, and order that he be commissioned accordingly." Three years later he was similarly made captain. At Cambridge he was admitted to full communion with the church, 1716, May 13, and he united with the church at Windham in 1728, by letter, as did his wife in the same way, 1729. He was made clerk of the parish, 1732. He and his wife were members of the colony dismissed to form the new church at Scotland Society, 1735. He d. at Windham, 1760, May 5, and, together with his wife, is buried in the old cemetery on the east side of the Scotland-Norwich road, about  $\frac{2}{3}$  of a mile south of Scotland church. He left no will. In the distribution of his estate his widow had a share in the house and the barn, and the rest of said house and barn went to their son Joseph, with 13 acres and 38 rods of land. A large part of the farm passed to their son John, who purchased the shares of the other heirs. The house above mentioned appears to have been built by Capt. Manning on the land he acquired in 1730; it stood to the east of his father's, on the west side of Merrick's brook and west by south of the Scotland church. Capt. Manning m. Abigail Winship, of Cambridge, bap. 1698, Oct. 16; d. 1770, July 30; dau. of Joseph and Sarah (Harrington), and granddan. of Lieut. Edward and Elizabeth Winship. Edward settled in Cambridge, 1635; was 14 years selectman, 8 years representative, and a prominent citizen. Ch. of John and Abigail:

122. JOSEPH, b. 1718, July 15, at Cambridge.
123. JOHN, b. 1720, July 10, at Cambridge.
124. SARAH, b. 1721-2, Jan. 2; d. 1736-7, Feb. 13.

127. PHINEAS, b. 1727, Feb. 3, at Hopkinton.
128. ABIGAIL, b. 1728, Sep. 4, at Windham; m. 1758, July 9, Jonathan King, who is said to have been a physician, which is doubtful. In 1760, according to a deed, she and her husband were at "Kingston," Mass.; perhaps an error for the extinct district of Kingsfield, for, to execute this deed, husband and wife appeared before Justice John Sherman, at Brintfield. Not further traced.
129. IRENA, bap. 1730, Sep. 20, at Windham.
130. ALICE, b. 1732, Aug. 1, at Windham; m. 1756, June 14, Seth, son of Seth and Elizabeth (Carey) Palmer, b. 1734, May 14. They were of Windham, 1760, and probably lived there continuously. She d. 1794, Nov. 26; he d. 1804, July 14. No ch. are found on record, and perhaps they had none. In his will of 1803, May 9, he gives to his second wife, Mary, and to one Isaac Palmer (and wife Ruby), but does not state how Isaac was related to him.

131. SUSANNA, b. 1734, Oct. 8, at Windham; unm., 1760; probably d. 1814, Oct. 22.

Elisha probably d. before 1760, for he did not join with her in the deed of heirs above. She m. (2d) Stephen Gifford, of Norwich, who d. 1809, Apr. 8, aged 82; probably son of Samuel and Experience, and, if so, b. 1726, Nov. 6. Sarah d. 1825, Oct. 20. Her ch. by marriage to Mr. Avery were: I. Sarah Manning, b. 1755, Sep. 20; m. Abel Caulkins. II. Elisha, b. 1756, Dec. 30; m. Sybil Sanger and had 6 ch., Sarah, Sybil, Sophia, Abigail, Lucy and Elisha.
133. ABIAH, bap. 1739, June 10, at Windham; m. 1762, Nov. 10, Christopher (son of Joseph) Bannister, b. 1737, Aug. 21, at No. Brookfield, Mass., a lieutenant in the Revolution, and afterwards called major. They lived several years at Brookfield; were at Goshen 1774, '85 and '87, and at Windsor, 1789, after which they are not traced. Four ch. were b. at Brookfield: I. Alice, b. 1764, Feb. 6. II. Versel, b. 1766, Sep. 15; probably the same Versel, then of Windsor, who m. 1793, Feb. 19, Hannah Packard, of Goshen. III. John, twin, b. 1766, Sep. 15. IV. Manning, b. 1768, June 29; d. 1774, Nov. 16, at Goshen.

 bap. 1705, May 12, at Cambridge, Mass. He became a student at Harvard College; the first of his family to enter there; and graduated in 1730, after which he began a career as a physician, the first of his family in that profession. Our knowledge of his life is deplorably limited. In the diary of Thomas Seccomb, of Medford, are found these entries: 1736, Dec. 12, "Mr. Manning our schoolmaster preached." And 1739, Aug. 5, "Sermon by Mr. Manning, Doctor."* From this it will be seen he had located at Medford; that he was practicing medicine, and that, like other professional men of his time, he also engaged in teaching. He had been admitted to full communion in the Cambridge church 1727, Nov. 16. The above diary shows us that Doctor Manning filled the pulpit on sundry occasions. In 1740 he was at Billerica, where, Nov. 24, he was paid £20 for teaching school three months, and, 1740 [1741?], Feb., a like sum for another three months. Our next information comes through the medium of his will, which shows he had removed to Woburn. The will follows:

"In the fear of God amen, the twenty ninth Day of October Anno: Dominic 1744 I Joseph Manning of Woburn in the County of Middlesex. of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England Physician. Calling to mind the mortality of my Body, having a design by the divine permission to go to Sea, Do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament. And as touching such worldly Goods and Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me I give demise and dispose of in the following manner That is to say after my just Debts and Funeral charges are paid

"Firstly I give and Bequeath to my Brother John Manning The Land given to me by my Honourd Father by Deed of Gift lying in the Town of Windham in Connecticut.

"Secondly my will is that my books and my Watch, be Sold to the best advantage by my Executor hereafter named, and the money received for them, together with what is due to me by Bonds and Notes or any other Ways, shall be disposed and distributed in manner following viz<sup>t</sup>

* N. E. Historic-Genealogical Register, Vol. 12.

“ I give the sum of seventy pounds in Bills of publick Credit of the Old Tenor, to Harvard Colledge as a fund, the Interest of which to be improved for the use of said College, at the discretion of the Rev<sup>d</sup> and Honourable the Corporation of said Colledge forever.

In Witness whereof I have hereunto put my hand and Seal the Day and year above written

“ JOSEPH MANNING ” [seal]

The witnesses were Simon Tufts, Thomas Seccomb, and Simon Tufts, Jr. After Dr. Manning's death his brother, the executor, settled the estate. The first paper, dated 1745, Oct. 29, is an account of the bonds and notes due the deceased, with the appraised value of certain personal property added. The total was £363.14.7, but this was increased at the time of the final accounting to £461.6.7, of which £96.8.0, was from the sale of Dr. Manning's books, £30, the sale of his watch, and £35 the cash left by him. The residue was from bonds and notes. The executor craved allowance for a total of £139.19.6, among which items were the following: “The Deceased Funeral Charges, £9.2.6. A p<sup>r</sup> of Gravestones and setting up, £12.” “To the Colledge, a Legacy, p<sup>d</sup> £70." The balance after the settlement of the estate was £321.7.1. In view of the fact that none of the unofficial lists of benefactions to Harvard College which the compiler has seen makes mention of a legacy from Dr. Manning, it is worthy of notice that such a legacy was left; that the executor stated that it was paid, and that he must have had a receipt or the Judge of Probate would not have accepted the account. It is not known that Dr. Manning ever married, and the disposition of his estate shows that he then had no family. He died between the date of the will, 1744, Oct. 29, and the time of the first account, 1745, Oct. 29. The date and place of his death have nowhere been found. It will be seen that he had a "design * * to go to Sea," but if he died on the sea it must have been near land, for his executor's charges have an item, "one pair of gravestones and setting up." Where was he buried?—where were the gravestones "set up?" Search for them has been unsuccessful; the place of his burial is unknown, but we have seen that his last residence was Woburn.

or 1724. John Manning bought, 1728, July 23, of Ebenezer Grover, for £100, a "massuage or tenement" in Cambridge,  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre of land with a house and barn thereon, situated on the road to Watertown. This homestead, with which he parted 1742, Mch. 7, and which was owned by one John Palmer in 1784, seems to have been his only holding of real estate. It has not been found that he was a church member, though his wife was either a communion or covenant member. The date of his death has not been found on record, though he probably died and was buried in Cambridge. No gravestone exists. He was living in 1752, and doubtless in 1755, when his son was called "junior;" but evidently d. before 1769, when the son was no longer styled junior. His wife was termed "the widow" Manning in 1774. It seems that he did not accumulate enough property to necessitate a settlement of his estate by law. He m. 1728, June 6, Mrs. Rebecca Winship, widow of Nathaniel Winship, and dau. of James<sup>3</sup> and Elizabeth (Kendall) Pierce, of Woburn. She was granddau. of Thomas<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Cole), of Woburn, and great granddau. of Thomas<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth Pierce, of Charlestown, where the last named couple settled as early as 1635. Rebecca was b. 1692, Sep. 16, at Woburn. She survived Mr. Manning, and lived a widow in Cambridge until she d. in 1775, probably on Mch. 11. Ch., b. at Cambridge:

151. SARAH, bap. 1729, Apr. 20; cared for her mother in the latter's final years; afterwards acted as nurse to others, and herself died, single, shortly before 7 Dec., 1778.

152. JOHN, bap. 1731, Dec. 12.

153. ESTHER, bap. 1734-5, Jan. 5; was a nurse, and unm., in 1765. A somewhat vague entry in the church book leads to the conclusion, convincing to the compiler, that she d. before 2 Nov., 1766, single.

35. EDWARD<sup>5</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1698, Mch. 27, at Cambridge, Mass. He always lived in his native town. He was administrator of his father's estate in 1720. Old documents generally call him a "chairmaker," but, in the settlement of his estate, he is termed a "joiner," and evidently did all kinds of carpenter work, with a specialty of in-door employment. In 1739 the town paid "Edw<sup>d</sup> Manning 4<sup>sh</sup> for mending the schoolhouse chair." He worked a good deal on the meeting house, 1750 and after, and was often employed by the town on in-door work. He several times petitioned to the selectmen, with a few others, for improvement in the system of schools, condition of highways, etc. He was elected tithingman, 1734-5; clerk of the market, 1736-74, or 39 years; sealer of weights and measures, 1736-9; surveyor of timber, boards, shingles, etc., 1744 and about 28 years after; measurer of wood, 1763 and 10 years after; weigher of bread, 1763 and 4 years after, and warden, 1768. At the time of his death he held the offices of clerk of the market, surveyor of timber, and weigher of bread. The following document relates to one of his offices: "At a meeting of the Selectmen 3d Aug., 1747, Edw<sup>d</sup> Manning present with the selectmen, said Manning was desired to convey the Weights and Measures to the Province Treasury to be tried by the Province Standard, according to law. Said Manning undertook to do the same; he is also desired to procure such as are wanting, if there be occasion for more than we now have." Edward was paid 14sh. for carrying the above; 4sh. for getting the town seal mended, and 2 sh. for money he paid for being sworn at the Court of Sessions. He and his wife became communion members of the First Church, 1722-3, Feb. 17. He was chosen by the church one of "a committee to inspect the manners of professing Christians" from 1745 to 1769, or 25 years. This seems equivalent to the duties of a tithingman, but the latter was a town, not church, office. In 1756 he gave £7.4 to the fund for the building of a new church, and, later, occupied pew No. 45 therein. He purchased his father's homestead of the other heirs after 1724, and practically conveyed the same to his own son John in 1755 by means of a mortgage. Edward d. at Cambridge, 1774, June 6. In an accounting, 1778, Feb. 3, the value of the estate was reported as £347.11.9.2, of which sum the house and barn (which had remained nominally in the hands of the deceased) were appraised at £200; 5 acres of land "in the Neck," £47.13.4; personal estate, £35.14.9; and there was due to the estate from Edward Manning, Jr., £28.9.2; from Stephen Randall, £11.6.10, and from Mercy Wood, £14.4.5. The debts of the deceased, of which £307.12.3.3 was due to his son John, made a total of £445.14.3, leaving the estate insolvent to the extent of £98.2.5.2. The charges of his son John, as administrator, contain these items: For his father's funeral charges, £3.3.10½. For his mother's funeral charges, £1.2.1¾. This paper is undated. A "revised report" of 1780, Sep. 7, is a final accounting by which the debts are increased to £462.0.9½, and the assets to £446.8.9 $\frac{1}{4}$ , the estate thus being insolvent to the extent of £15.12.0. In the latter year, in a citation to "all the heirs," the list is given as follows: "Mr. John Manning, Mr. Edrd D" [which I make Mr. Edward "Ditto," otherwise Edward Manning], Mr. Hill, Mr. Bates [see note to daughter Mercy, below], Mr. Randall & Daughters." Edward Manning, senior, m. 1718-19, Mch. 17, Mary Perry, of Watertown, dau. of John and Sarah (Price), and granddau. of John and Sarah (Clary) Perry, of Watertown. Mary was living in 1773, but d. before 1780, Sep. 7. Edward was buried in the old cemetery by Harvard Square, and his wife probably rests by his side, but he alone has gravestones. Ch.. b. at Cambridge:

154. MARY, b. 1720, May 26; m. 1753, Mch. 29, Stephen Randall (concerning whose ancestry the compiler feels uncertain), and, in Cambridge, had ch.: I. Mary, bap. 1753, Nov. 25. II. Abigail, bap. 1758, Jan. 29. Mrs. Randall doubtless d. before 1780, when her share in her father's estate was represented, as above, by "Mr. Randall & Daughters." The Mass. Spy, of 1772, July 2, records the death of "Mrs. Mary Randall, wife of Capt. Randall," of whom I know no more. It is, perhaps, more likely that our Mary d. soon after the birth of her dau. Abigail.

155. ELIZABETH, b. 1721-2, Jan. 18; d. 1731-2, Jan. 26.

156. EDWARD, b. 1724, Mch. 26.

157. JOHN, b. 1725, Dec. 3. A soldier in Capt. Samuel Glover's co., "intended for the expedition against Canada;" service in 1758, from Apr. 27 to May 28; called, very properly, "John Manning y<sup>e</sup> 3d." I suspect that this was not his only service. He was a chairmaker, and lived in Cambridge. He was one of about 10 citizens who, 1777, Nov. 1, petitioned that certain British officers captured by Gen. Gates should be kept within due bounds. Elected sealer of weights and measures, 1776, '78-82, '85. His father mortgaged to him, 1755, Jan. 15, the family homestead on Dunster st., and, as the mortgage was never discharged, he became sole owner. He was administrator of his father's estate, but in 1786 the other heirs petitioned for a new admr., alleging mental incompetence on John's part. He was removed; his mental affliction increased; a guardian was appointed in 1791, and, 3 years later, his estate was sold for his benefit (to Thos. Warland, house, shop, and barn, for £165). John lingered 10 years longer, and d. at Cambridge. 1814, Apr. 17, aged 88. If he ever married no evidence of the fact has been found.

158. MERCY, b. 1727, Aug. 4; d. 1731-2, Jan. 24.

159. JAMES, b. 1729, May 16; d. 1731-2, Feb. 1.

160. BENJAMIN, b. 1730, Oct. 15. Elected hog-reeve at Cambridge, 1755. He was a soldier of long experience in the French-and-Indian wars. 1st, 1755, Apr. 4 to Oct. 31, under Capt. Ebenezer Newell, 30 weeks. 2d, about this time, under Capt. Thomas Lord. 3d, 1756, Mch. 19, to 1757, Jan 7, under Capt. Richard Gridley, 42 weeks. 4th, 1757, Feb. 22 to Nov. 23, under Capt. Thos. Cheever, 34 weeks. 5th, 1760, May 17 to Nov. 4, under Capt. John Small, 28 weeks. He also served in 1758 under Capt. Wm. Angier, making an almost continuous service of over 5 years. In the fourth case above he was a sergeant. After his term in 1760 nothing is found of him. In 1780 his name does not appear in the list of his father's heirs. From this it would seem he was deceased, and probably that he was unmarried, or at least, had left no children. But see note to his sister Mercy, below.
161. ELIZABETH, b. 1732, June 5; d. 1733, Oct 1.
162. HANNAH, b. 1733, Mch. 20; m. Benjamin, son of Joseph and Priscilla (Dana) Hill. Hannah d. 1782, Jan. 7, and Mr. Hill m. again and had other ch. He was deacon of the church from 1791; d. 1802, Nov. 16. Ch. of Benj. and Hannah, b. at Cambridge: I. Priscilla, b. 1761, July 31. II. Benjamin, b. about 1763. III. Joseph, b. 1766, Mch. 16. IV. Hannah, b. 1768, Oct. 8. V. Edward, b. 1769, July 23.
163. MERCY, b. 1735, Nov. 19; m. 1756, Feb. 26, at Cambridge, Samuel Woods, whose ancestry has not been learned. They had a daughter, Mercy, bap. at Roxbury, 1756, Nov. 7, after which they are not traced. Among the debts due her father's estate in 1778 was one from "Mercy Wood." In 1780, in the list of her father's heirs, appears a mysterious "Mr. Bates." It is possible that Mercy's brother Benjamin had left a daughter who had married a Mr. Bates, but, in the absence of evidence as to the latter's identity and age, it seems more probable that Samuel Woods was deceased, and that, after the above account of 1778, Mercy had married "Mr. Bates," though the theory is not fully satisfactory.
164. ABIGAIL, bap. 1738, Dec. 3; d. 1739, July 28.

appointed by the Middlesex Court of General Sessions of the Peace one of the members of a special committee, which was composed of five men from each town, "to inform against and prosecute the Violators of the Act entitled an Act to prevent the great Injury and Injustice arising to the Inhabitants of this Province by the frequent and very large Emission of Bills of publick Credit in the Government of Rhode-Island made in the twentieth year of his present majesty's Reign." He was public-spirited; his name several times appearing on petitions, with others, to the selectmen asking for betterment of schools, highways, etc. He was elected highway surveyor, 1730; clerk of the market, 1732-5; constable, 1743, and "sworn in court;" and sealer of leather, 1749, '55-7, '59-76, or 22 years, and for 18 years continuously. His tax for the support of the church is entered on the books thereof for 1721, '22 and '23, and he was admitted to full communion 1719-20, Jan. 31, as was his wife 1823-4, Mch. 15. He gave £10.13.4 toward the erection of the new church in 1756, and subsequently occupied pew No. 40. He bought of John Bradish, 1724-5, Mch. 1, for £55, "a piece of land in Cambridge commonly called Towns Corner Bounded Easterly with the Connty Road measuring on Said line fifty five feet westerly on Said Bradish measuring fifty feet northerly on the market Place measuring ninety feet and southerly on said Bradish measuring ninety feet." This place was at the southeast corner of Winthrop and Brighton streets, and remained his home until his death. He made no additional purchase. He appears as a grantor when he sold his rights in his father's estate, and when he and his wife joined with her father's other heirs in disposing of rights in her said father's estate. Lieutenant Manning d. at Cambridge 1778, Sep. 17. He left no will. His son Samuel was one of the administrators of his estate. His "real & personal estate" was inventoried at £490.12.0, and the "mansion House and about half a quarter of an acre land with the buildings" at £212.0.0 "in silver money." All the real estate became the property of his son Samuel, except one-half of a pew, which went to William, Jr., to whom, also, Samuel paid £108.13. One of the administrator's charges was for "Wages due to Mary (now wife of the admr.) for her service to dec'd before her marriage." Lieut. Manning m. 1723, Nov. 7, Mary White, of Charles-town, b. 1701-2, Jan. 30; d. 1774, May 15, aged 72, though her gravestone adds two years. She was dan. of Thomas and Sarah (Rand), and granddau. of Thomas and Mary (Frothingham) White. Lieut. Manning and his wife are buried in the old cemetery by Harvard Sq. Ch., b. at Cambridge :

165. WILLIAM, b. 1724, Sep. 19 (town record erroneously says 1722); baptized 1724, Sep. 20; d. young.
166. THOMAS, b. 1727, May 8. Perhaps d. young; certainly d. before 1780, Oct. 30, when, in the settlement of their father's estate, his brother Samuel is called the "eldest son." One Thomas Manning, residence Halifax, was a soldier under Capt. James Reed, 1762, Aug. 4 to Nov. 1. One Charles Manning, identity unknown, was a Revolutionary soldier from Dighton in Capt. Peter Pitts' co. He d. 1775, Oct. 1, in service, and his back pay went to his father, Thomas Manning. These items are significant, as Sarah (Manning) Barrows [171, below] was of Dighton, but the clerks of Dighton and Halifax do not find the name Manning on their early records. Thomas, father of Charles, and Thomas of Halifax may not have been the same man; it is not here claimed that they were. No known reason exists for believing either was the Thomas of this section. If he was it seems that he died before 1780, and was not long survived by any child. None shared in the intestate estate of his brother William in 1806.
167. SAMUEL, b. 1729, Aug. 26.
168. JOSEPH, b. 1730-1, Jan. 26.
169. MARY, b. 1732, Feb. 19; m. 1754, Sep. 26, John Warland; lived in Cambridge and had ch. : I. John, b. 1755, July 16. II. William, bap. 1760, Apr. 20. Mr. Warland died (1762, Oct. 6, it is said). Inventory of his estate, £173.14.0. The admrs. were Wm. Manning and Owen Warland; sureties, Zachariah Boardman and Samuel Manning. Aaron Hill was guardian to the two ch. Mary, the widow, m. (2d) 1763, May 19, William Darling, Ch. : I. Ruth, b. 1764, Mch. 11. II. Thomas, b. 1766, Sep. 15. Mr. Darling d. 1804, June 27, aged 85; Mrs. Darling d. 1817, May 22.
170. WILLIAM, b. 1735, May 11.
171. SARAH, b. 1737, Nov. 29; m. 1767, Oct. 22, John Barrows, of Plymouth, afterwards of Dighton; a graduate of Harvard, 1766; "a great mathematician," and school teacher at Dighton. Sarah was living in 1806. The clerk of Dighton fails to find any family on record. Bond's Watertown names these ch. : I. John, of Troy, N. Y. II. Thomas, M.D., of Providence, R. I. III. David. IV. Sarah; m. ——— Waldron.
172. REBECCA, b. 1740, Apr. 17; m. at Providence, 1767, Aug. 13, John Pratt. She d. 1774, June 19; buried at Cambridge. Ch. : Rebecca; date of birth and history unknown.
173. EBENEZER, b. 1743, May 8. Graduated at Harvard, 1766, and went afterwards to Dighton. He sold there, 1772, June 8, a shop "where I have traded and sold goods," from which it appears he had been a merchant. In 1773, or 1774, he taught the school at Weston. It is said he also "taught in Greenland, N. H.," and that he d. 1801, Sep. 26. Perhaps he d. at Greenland, but no record of his estate is found in Rockingham Co.; hence, he may have gone elsewhere. If ever married he seems to have left no descendants, for no child of his is mentioned among "all the heirs" of his childless brother William, in 1806.

 b. 1703, Apr. 20, at Cambridge, Mass. He was in Billerica when he sold his rights in his father's estate, in 1725, and he married there in 1728, but removed to Townsend, which was from that time his home until his death. When he went to the latter place is unknown, but he was there while its area was without a form of organization, sparsely settled and without an official name; and when it was incorporated as the town of Townsend, in 1732, he had been there long enough to be well known and of influence, as is shown by the fact that he was at once elected to the highest offices his associates could bestow, selectman and town clerk. From that time until his death he constantly represented the interests of the town and the local church in elective and special positions of trust. He was elected selectman, 1732-5, '37-9, '42-4, '51-2, '55-6, '69, or a total of 15 years; town clerk, 1732-45, '48-56, '69, or 24 years; constable, 1736; treasurer, 1738-9, '54-60, or 9 years; assessor, 1740, '42, '44, '48; warden, 1761, '72; tithingman, 1765; and one of a committee to examine the town treasurer's accounts, 1743 and 10 subsequent years. His special appointments were numerous. He was on special committees as follows: In 1735 and '45, to lay out new roads; in 1738, to build a road, and, in 1743, to "agree" as to a road; in 1736, "to examine the accounts of any Persons that have had any of the town's money & to sue such persons on their refusal to render such account;" in 1740, to defend the town's interests against the neighboring town of Groton; in 1768, "to treat with the proprietors of Townsend, concerning the common land about the meeting house and to secure the town's interest;" in 1745, to build a school house, and, 1748, to engage a schoolmaster and to provide a place, or places, for him to keep the school; in 1754, to settle accounts with the minister. He was appointed a special committee, without an associate, in 1746, to consult with eminent men concerning the minister's salary; in 1759, to act as the town's representative in a certain case and to consult a lawyer for them; in 1739, "to appear at the General Court at their next Session to pray for a tax of one penny an acre upon all the unimproved lands lying in the bounds of said town for three years." He was successful, and was paid for his services by the town in 1740, after which he was appointed to "gather the penny rate." This was an effort to secure aid by means of taxation from non-resident land-owners to build a much-needed bridge over the Squamicook river. Mass. Archives. CXIV-445, 449, show Mr. Manning's petition and the result. The non-residents strongly opposed the tax, but the petition was granted by the General Court. In 1744, and again in 1746, he was appointed by the Court of General Sessions of the Peace as one of a committee "to inform against and prosecute" the violators of a currency act. [For copy of this document see sketch of his brother William, who was of the same committee.] In 1741 and 1752 he was a member of the grand jury of the county. In 1773, at a meeting convened in Townsend to consider the injustice inflicted upon the colonies by the British government, he was elected as one of five citizens to act as a patriotic "Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety." His death soon followed, but his devotion to the patriot cause had been proved. He had been a church member before going to Townsend, and, at the latter place, was one of the founders of the church there, he being one of the original 16 members, of whom one was the pastor, who signed the formal covenant, 1734, Oct. 16. His wife joined at the same time, but was one of three women, wives of male members, whose names were accidentally omitted from the list; an error not rectified until 1761, Mch. 26, when, at a church meeting, the omission was made a matter of record. Both continued in full communion while they lived. He was a farmer. He bought, 1734, June 10, of the Proprietors of Townsend, 10 acres of land on the Squamicook river, and made other purchases in 1740, '43, '56, '59 and '67. It is difficult to give the total; minus one lot, there was about 90 acres. He sold no land. This farm remained in the family over 100 years. Its present owner is Wm. S. Dudley. It lies one mile and  $\frac{5}{8}$  from Townsend Center common, and is reached by going a trifle more than half a mile on the road from the Center to Brookline, N. H., and then turning to the left near a school house and continuing a little more than a mile further. The old house was burned about 1885. By his will, dated 1773, Nov. 5, he made his son Samuel executor, and to him gave "all and singular my land, building and tenement goods and chattels, even all my estate both real and personal," with the exception of the following legacies. 1st, to the heirs of his daughter Betty, wife of Thomas Stearns, £40 jointly. 2d, to his daughter Esther, wife of Stephen Hildreth, £40. No other heirs were mentioned. He d. at Townsend, 1773, Nov. 6, and he and his wife are buried in the ancient cemetery half a mile east of the Center village. On his headstone are these lines :

"The Towns Warm Friend in Various Pofts he flood And From its Infancy he Sought its Good
The Churchs Intereft too he Did Defend Till of the Prefent life he Reached the end."

He m. at Billerica, 1728, Oct. 21, his half-cousin, Elizabeth Manning [No. 46, which see], b. 1701-2, Mch. 4, at Billerica; d. 1770, Mch. 7. Her gravestone gives her age as "in her 78th year," an error of 10 years. With allowance for difference in time between Old and New Style she died aged 67 years, 11 mos. and 20 days; hence, in her 68th year. Ch. :

- 174. BETTY, b. about 1730; place and exact date of birth unknown.
- 175. SAMUEL, b. 1732, Mch. 15, at Townsend.
- 176. WILLIAM, bap. 1735, Aug. 31; d. 1756, Apr. 28.
- 177. JOEL, bap. 1738, Dec. 25; d. 1738, Dec. 31.
- 178. JOEL, bap. 1739, Dec. 20. He was doubtless the colonial soldier of his name who enlisted 1758, Apr. 11, in Capt. Jonathan Butterfield's Massachusetts company for the expedition against Canada, but no more has been learned of him. He was not mentioned in his father's will, in 1773, which fact suggests, but does not necessarily prove, that he was not then living. It is possible that he had already received his share, and had gone to reside at some distant place.

- 180. JOHN, birth not recorded; d. 1745, Nov. 9.
- 181. SARAH, birth not recorded; d. 1752, July 16.
- 182. MARTHA, birth not recorded; d. 1755, May 27. The first pages of the town book of records are lost, and on one of these missing leaves, no doubt, the father of this family, when town clerk, recorded the birth of his children.

to Billerica, in Capt. Eleazer Tyng's co., from May 29 to July 1. He also served from July 2 to Oct. 28 of the same year under Capt. Josiah Willard; a total service of over 21 weeks. These military operations were against hostile Indians. He settled as a farmer in Billerica. He bought, 1725, Nov. 15, land on the west side of Concord river, 59 acres for £36; and, 1745, Meh. 24, for £10, upwards of 6 acres in the same vicinity. This last lot was bounded at one point by the land of William Manning [15]. He was elected tithingman in 1734 and 1735, which indicates that he was a church member, but the church records of his day are missing. He was admr. of the estate of his son Samuel, and a good citizen. Several articles which once belonged to him are now in the possession of his great grandson, Mr. Oliver Proctor, of Townsend, viz: 1st, a book of 305 pages, entitled "Pharmacopœia Londinensis; or, the London Dispensatory," a Boston edition (printed by John Allen, in 1720) of an English work originally issued in 1653. 2d, a book of 387 pages entitled "The English Physician" (printed in London in 1741) which treats of herbs, with their qualities and uses. 3d, a large tin vessel in which Mr. Manning used to distill herbs and extract their medicinal properties. This was somewhat of a medical outfit, but it is not known that he practiced publicly. 4th, a half-bushel measure made of the bark of a tree, the ends being drawn together and sewed with a rough cord, and the bottom, which is also of bark, fastened on in the same manner. Time has dealt lightly with these relics. The successive deaths of so many of Mr. Manning's sons after they had reached manhood was a great blow to him, and when Samuel, the last survivor, passed away, the father fell into deep mental dejection from which he never rallied. He d. at Billerica, 1779, Sep. 30, on the same day that his grandson Oliver Proctor was born in the same house. He was doubtless buried in the "Corner" cemetery, near his son Samuel, but no gravestone to his memory exists. His heirs, Sarah Manning, Hannah Manning, and Mary, wife of Oliver Proctor, Jr., three daughters, joined in a deed and sold his farm 1780, May 31. He m. 1729-30, Jan. 16, Mary French, b. 1709, Oct. 7, at Billerica; dau. of Wm.<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Danforth); granddau. of Jacob<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Champney), and great granddau. of William<sup>1</sup> French, one of the first settlers of Billerica, who came from England in 1635. In 1780 Mrs. Manning and her dau. Hannah removed to Townsend, where they afterwards resided, and where Mrs. Manning d. 1782, Oct. 4. Buried in the old cemetery there. Ch., b. at Billerica :

183. BENJAMIN, b. 1730, Oct. 23. A soldier of the French and Indian war; served over 28 weeks in 1756 under Capt. Jonathan Butterfield with the army operating against Crown Point. While he was returning home with his command he was taken sick and died "at a place called Still water," a few hours after his arrival there. Probably this was the present town of Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y. After his death his gun and "other things" were stolen. The sum of £4 was withheld from the pay due him for the loss of the gun, but on petition to the Colonial authorities by his father, explaining the facts, the money was paid to the latter. [Archives of Mass., 76-456.] He was credited with service from Apr. 22 to Nov. 7, which latter date was probably the time of his death, though the Billerica records say, "died Oct., 1756." Not married.

184. JOHN, b. 1732, July 5; lived for a time in Wilmington; d. unm., 1757, June 11, at Billerica. One of these brothers, perhaps John, was accidentally killed in a saw-mill.

185. EBENEZER, b. 1733-4, Jan. 13; d. 1733-4, Jan. 25.

186. ABNER, b. 1735, May 2; d. unm., 1756, Aug. 17. He was a soldier with the army operating against Crown Point, and died in service at Ft. William Henry. He seems to have been in "Kidder's co. of Tyng's regt.," and, also, in some way under Capt. Eleazer Lindsey. An ancient paper, conveying to his father the particulars of his death, still remains among the father's effects mentioned above and is as follows :

It will be seen that the oldest three brothers of this family died within a few months of each other.

187. JOSEPH, b. 1736-7, Jan. 18; d. 1737-8, Feb. 26.
 188. NOAH, b. 1738, Sep. 1; d. 1754, July 21.
 189. SARAH, b. 1740, Sep. 4; d. unm. 1824, between July 19 and Dec. 29. By will she gave, 1st, to her sister Hannah her gold necklace, silk gown and best skirt; 2d, to Mr. Joel Baldwin, in whose family at Billerica she long lived, her large quarto Bible; 3d, to the sons of her deceased sister Mary Proctor, $1 each; 4th, to her sister Hannah and niece Mary Proctor, the residue of her estate.
 190. ISAAC, b. 1742, Dec. 26; d. 1756, June 16.
 191. SAMUEL, b. 1744-5, Jan. 11; a farmer in Billerica; d. unm. 1772, Mch. 1, aged 27. The last survivor of his parents' 8 sons. Buried in the "Corner" cemetery: the only one of his immediate family to have a gravestone in Billerica.
 192. MARY, b. 1748, Aug. 6.
 193. HANNAH, b. 1750, Sep. 2; lived at Townsend after 1780 in the family of her sister Mary, and d. there, unm., 1844, Oct. 4, aged 94. Her gravestone says 96 years, "an error not discovered until the stone was ready to be set."

47. ESTHER<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1703, Aug. 5, at Billerica, Mass.; d. 1740, Apr. 13, at Townsend, where she went to reside as early as 1733. 49. WILLIAM<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1707-8, Feb. 28, at Billerica, Mass., in which place he always lived. The town records give the payment in 1729, "To William Manning Jun<sup>r</sup> for killing two wildcats £02.00.00," and, later, £1, a like bounty, for the killing of a third wildcat. He was paid in 1740 for "providing laths for the new meeting house £05." He was prominent in local military affairs; was commissioned by Gov. Shirley as "Lieut. of the West foot-company of Billerica, Capt. Ralph Hill, in the 2d regiment of militia, Eliazer Tyng, colonel." 1754, Sep. 4. This was the time of the French and Indian wars.

In 1757 Col. Tyng, "raised" a company of militia for active service, after the fall of Fort William Henry. Thomas Flint was captain and William Manning, lieutenant [Archives, 95-501, and the next page, 502, has the following]. "A List of the soldiers that went out of Billerica under the care of Lt. William Manning in the late Rupture when fort William Henry was taken August 1757." Lt. Manning was elected selectman, 1749; highway surveyor, 1743, '50; one of a committee to order where school should be kept in the several quarters of the town, 1744-7, '57; tithingman, 1746; to perambulate the town boundary lines, 1753 and after; on a committee to reckon with the town treasurer, 1758; and constable, 1744-5. In the former year £73.05.09 of the town tax was committed to him for collection; in the latter year, £111.15.06. In 1755 his name was "drawn out of the box to serve at the next Superior Court at Cambridge;" that is, as grand juryman; and again in 1757. He was on a committee, 1761, to provide material for the bridge over Concord river, and to complete the work thereon. He was a farmer, living in the historic Manning house which, together with 86 acres of land, his father conveyed to him by deed of gift, 1734. He added to his farm; 60 acres in 1743 for £28.10.0, and 30 acres in 1769 for £13.6.8; all contiguous land. In 1752 he was licensed as an innholder by the Middlesex Co. Court, and thus the old Manning house entered upon its career as a tavern under his management. His "minister's rate" [tax] was 7sh. 2d. in 1733, and 9sh. 01d. in 1755; and his province tax £2.7.8 in 1776. By will he gave 1st, to his wife, who was executrix, "all my household stuff & indoor movables except husbandry tools;" also a "full third part" of his estate; 2d. to his son Timothy £13.6.8; and 3d, to his 5 children the residue of his real and personal estate, to "each in like proportion as is the manner of intestate estates," or in equal shares. His daughter had already received £20. The inventory shows that he had a horse, a pair of oxen, 2 cows, a heifer, 7 sheep and 2 swine; also 208 acres of land, appraised, with the buildings, at £443. The total was £512.06.00. The eldest son became sole owner by purchasing the rights of the other heirs. William m. 1742. Nov. 10, Elizabeth Danforth, b. 1717, May 4, at Billerica. Her ancestry was Jonathan<sup>4</sup> and Elizabeth (Fassett, born Manning) Danforth, her parents; Jonathan<sup>3</sup> and Rebecca (Parker); Jonathan<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Poulter); Nicholas<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth Danforth. Nicholas<sup>1</sup> came from England as early

month. The personal inventory was £174, and that of the real estate, £310. His homestead, 107 acres, with buildings, was appraised at £264; a wood-lot of 16 acres at £38, and 4 acres of meadow at £8, making the above total. In 1769 the surviving children joined in deeds by which the farm was divided between the sons Jacob and Jesse. Jacob, the father, m. 1736-7, Jan. 20, Martha Beard, b. 1714, Aug. 21, at Billerica. She was a dau. of Andrew and Mary Beard, who were in Arlington as early as 1672, and removed to Billerica about 1713. Jacob Manning d. 1762, Sep. 5; Martha, his widow d. 1798, Feb. 10, both at Billerica. Both are buried in the "Corner" cemetery. Ch., b. at Billerica:

206. MARY, b. 1741, Nov. 15; was a "tailor" in her native town, and sometimes employed by the town to make garments for poor persons; living in Billerica. 1798, Apr. 10; d. unm. 1824, Aug. 5, at Andover, where she is buried.

207. ISAAC, b. 1743, Nov. 8. A farmer. Lived in Billerica until 1773, when he went to Bedford. Then, and in the next year, he was in precarious health, as is shown by papers in the Probate Office. Probably soon returned to Billerica; was living there, "a little off of the Bedford road," in 1782. He m. 1772, June 18, Esther, dau. of Josiah and Elizabeth (French) Crosby, b. 1736, Sep. 17, at Billerica, whose death is not found; and (2d) 1789, Nov. 3, Sarah, widow of John Totman. No child is recorded, and probably there was none. Isaac is mentioned in the town records up to and including 1806, in which year he probably died. It is true that the above records refer to his "grave" in an item entered among others in 1792, but said item is at the foot of a page, and a sudden change in the color of ink suggests that the economical town clerk turned back a few leaves and filled in a space left blank in 1792. This is one view of the matter; another, which is very improbable, is that a child was born, and that it was a son Isaac who was mentioned in 1794-1806.

William renewed his lease in 1752, and again in 1754 (Oct. 1, for two years), and other renewals must have followed as receipts for the rent from him are entered on the College book down to 1763, Oct. 14, and there is no known evidence to contradict the belief that he continued with the ferry nearly as long as he lived. His occupation was unique. What famous men he must have ferried across the river! Mass. Archives (121-290) have, under date of 1752, Apr. 6, this paper: "To the honourable Spencer Phips Esq Commander in Chief and to the honour<sup>ble</sup> House of Representatives in general Court Asembled in Cambridge, &c The Petition of The Ferrymen of Charles's Ferry. Whereas, by reason of the small Pox spreading in Boston there are but few Passengers from Charlestown to Boston to what there used to be, and your Petitioners humbly look upon it, that Three Boats will be quite sufficient to convey all that want to pass there, with all suitable Dispatch, we therefore humbly request your honours would take of the Fourth Boat during the continuance of the said Distemper in Boston or so long as your hon<sup>rs</sup> shall think proper—for which Liberality towards them, your Petitioners, as in Duty bound shall ever pray. [Signed] William Manning, Joseph Whittemore, William Teel, Thomas Manning." This petition was granted. Mr. Manning was among the financial sufferers by fire when Charlestown was burned after the battle of Bunker Hill. With others he made a statement of his losses and made a claim for damages. His loss included £266.13.4 for two dwellings "belonging to me and wife," and £5 for personal estate, and £14.0 for cartage. The last item is a silent but eloquent witness to the hasty flight of the family from the burning town, with such personal effects as they could save. [See sketch of his son James.] Efforts to secure compensation for these losses brought no financial return, except that the aged and infirm received slight public and private assistance, and for seven years the State taxes were remitted. The sufferers by the fire were numerous, however, and for over 50 years repeated applications were made to various high sources for relief, a petition being presented to Congress as late as 1834. The justice of these requests availed them nothing; they had to bear their losses. In 1738, Jan. 12, "Then was drawn by the Town Clerk out of the Box for Petit Jurors as followeth, M<sup>r</sup> William Manning" and five others. He bought 1755, Apr. 19, for £40, one-half of a house and one-half part of the land by the same, on Wapping street, near the present

Navy Yard. He left no will. Administration on his estate was granted 1777, Dec. 9, to his widow and his son Caleb. The inventory was £159.4.6, which was increased by cash received to a total of £179.0.6. After paying all debts the amount was £155.9.4. Division: To the widow, £51.16.5; to the eldest son, £18.16.10½ and to each of the other heirs, £9.8.5¼ (except James, who had received more than his full proportion already). The heirs joined in deeds, 1788, March 11, by which they sold their father's estate above mentioned. William, the father, m. 1735-6, Jan. 1, Elizabeth Kettle, b. 1716, Sep. 18, at Charlestown, and d. 1759, buried Dec. 8. Her ancestry was Benj.<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Dyer), her parents; Dea. Joseph<sup>2</sup> and Hannah (Frothingham), and Sergt. Richard<sup>1</sup> and Esther (Ward) Kettle, all of Charlestown, where Richard was a church member, 1633. Mr. Manning m. (2d) 1761, Jan. 6, Mrs. Joanna Webber, b. 1723, Sep. 15; d. 1787, Aug. 27, at Medford, of lung fever. Her maiden name was Whittemore, and the above marriage was her third, she having been successively the widow of Samuel Bodge and John Webber. Her ancestry was Joseph<sup>4</sup> and Mehitable (Raymond), her parents; Joseph<sup>3</sup> and Joanna (Mousal), John<sup>2</sup> and Mary (Upham), and Thomas<sup>1</sup> and Hannah Whittemore, all of Charlestown, where Thomas settled about 1642. William Manning d. 1776, Nov. 8, at Medford. The town record calls him "of Charlestown;" the church record, "late of Charlestown." Medford was probably his home after the fire. He was buried at Medford, and his gravestone was in existence at a modern date [Wymen's Charlestown], but recent search for it has been in vain. On this stone his age was given at 60 years. In the church record, in a column which the pastor wisely headed "supposed age," it is also 60. The age of Joanna, the widow, appears in the church book as 65. In point of fact he d. aged 64, and she, 63. There is a family tradition that Mr. Manning had 3 wives and 21 children, but the division of his estate to 11 ch., or the heirs thereof, shows that none were living in 1777 other than those named below. The known issue were b. at Charlestown.

Ch. of William and Elizabeth Manning:

- 230. WILLIAM, b. 1736, Oct. 14.
- 231. ELIZABETH, bap. 1738, Dec. 24.
- 232. ISAAC, b. 1742. — — —.
- 233. JAMES, bap. 1742-3, Mch. 21.
- 234. DANIEL; birth not recorded.

235. CALEB, bap. 1746, Oct. 26.
 236. MARY, bap. 1749, Meh. 5; living at Salem, uum., in 1788. Family tradition says she "kept house for John Byrne (or Burus), and afterwards married him," and in the Salem records is found the marriage intention, 1799, Apr. 27, of John Byrne and Mary Manning. She d. 1831, Aug. 14, at Charlestown, according to both town and family records.
 237. SARAH, bap. 1753, July 22; d. young.
 238. SARAH, bap. 1754, July 7; d. young.
 239. THOMAS, bap. 1755, Dec. 28.
 240. SUSANNA, bap. 1757, Nov. 13; doubtless d. young. When her father's estate was settled, 1777, eleven children (or their heirs) received their due shares. All the names are not given, but there were 11 without Susanna. Nor did she join in the deeds of 1788.

Ch. of William and Joanna Manning:

241. JOANNA, b. 1762, Oct. 15.
 242. JOSEPH, b. 1765, Nov. 20.
 243. SARAH, b. 1768, Jan. 6. Her brother Joseph, in his will of 1852, gives to his "sister Sarah Jones," and tradition says she m. ——— Jones, who d. shortly after marrying, after which Sarah lived with her above brother; and surviving relatives have always understood she was the only one of her immediate family, having no children. She d. 1853, Oct. 30, aged 85.

81. DANIEL<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1715-16, Feb. 5, at Cambridge, Mass. He settled at Charlestown, where he was a potter by trade. This is all that is known of his short life. He died before the birth of his child, which is recorded as "the son of Daniel, deceased, and Elizabeth Manning," but the date of his death does not appear. It seems that no gravestone exists. He evidently owned no real estate, and left no property to be divided by law. His tax was abated 8.2 at a town meeting in 1741. He m. in 1738, published Nov. 16. Elizabeth Rumford Abbot (according to Wyman's Charlestown. Modern copy of Charlestown records says "Elizabeth Abbot, of Rumford.") She, a widow, received Thanksgiving money, 1757, Nov. 19, to the amount of £2.5, after which no more has been found of her. Ch., b. at Charlestown:

244. DANIEL, b. 1739-40, Meh. 4; not traced.

where her eldest brother had previously settled, and m. there, 1742, Oct. 5, Nehemiah Putnam, b. 1719, Mch. 22, and d. 1791, Nov. 27. She was living 1791, when the codicil to his will was drawn. Ch., b. at Sutton :

- 245. AARON (Putnam) b. 1744, Mch. 23.
- 246. SARAH (Putnam) b. 1746, Mch. 10.
- 247. HANNAH (Putnam) b. 1748, July 26.
- 248. RACHEL (Putnam) b. 1750, Apr. 17.
- 249. SUSANNA (Putnam) b. 1752, Jan. 19.
- 250. EUNICE (Putnam) b. 1753, Dec. 4.
- 251. REUBEN (Putnam) b. 1757, Apr. 9.
- 252. JOSEPH (Putnam) b. 1760, Sep. 20.
- 253. BENJAMIN (Putnam) b. 1760, Sep. 20.

- 254. HANNAH (Lanman) b. 1743-4, Feb. 8, at Cambridge.
- 255. MARY (Lanman) b. 1745, July 16, at Cambridge.
- 256. MARGARET (Lanman) b. 1746-7, Mch. 1; probably the same who is mentioned in the general records of Cambridge as deceased not long before 1770, May 7; if so, d. unm.
- 257. JAMES (Lanman) b. 1749, May 10, at Concord; d. 1809, June 22, perhaps at Keene, N. H., where he is buried. Resided chiefly in Boston, where he was deacon of the Brattle st. church. One ch., Susan Dawes, b. 1807, Aug. 1; d. 1831, Aug. 5, having m. Dr. Daniel Gilbert.
- 258. SARAH (Lanman) b. 1750, Sep. 17, at Concord.
- 259. ELIZABETH (Lanman) b. 1752, Aug. 23, at Concord.
- 260. THOMAS (Lanman) b. 1753, Dec. 26, at Concord.
- 261. HANNAH (Lanman) b. 1756, Jan. 3. Birth recorded at Concord; gravestone (at Keene) says b. Cambridge; d. 1837, Jan. 16, unm.
- 262. PETER (Lanman) b. 1761, Dec. 29, at Cambridge.

lived in D. Newell's house," says Wyman's Charlestown. The same volume states that Thomas Manning, Jr., son of Thomas, died of small pox 1752, July 10. This death does not appear on the town records, but has been preserved by the diary kept by one Robert Calley, who then resided in Charlestown. Was it Thomas, the son, who died then? Or was it Thomas, the father? Mr. Calley recorded other deaths, etc., in the Manning family in succeeding years. In three cases he mentioned the death of Manning children, and always in one form: "Isaac Manning's child buried;" "William Manning's child buried;" "Mr. William Manning's child buried;" with the date in each instance. In the case under consideration he wrote, "Thomas Manning died of small pox natural July 10, 1752." Is not this the death of an adult, rather than of an infant? Was it not the father who died then? In the previous April he had joined in the petition to have the ferry service decreased because of the prevalence of small pox (see sketch of his brother William). As a ferryman he was especially exposed to the contagious disease. Did he succumb to it? Extensive search has been made to find the file of a Boston newspaper of that period, but no library seems to have any publication of the desired time. No estate appears in the Probate Office. No evidence can be given to settle the question. Thomas m. 1745 (?), Nov. 11, Sarah, dau. of Joseph and Mary (Blaney), and granddau. of Josiah and Lydia (Bacon) Wood, b. 1722-3, Feb. 13; d. at Newbury, 1797, May 27. She lost £14 personal property by the Charlestown fire, 1775. Ch., b. at Charlestown:

263. SARAH, b. 1745, Dec. 7; m. 1767, Oct. 13, David Edmands, bap. 1741-2, Jan. 31. She d. before 1777, when he m. a second time; he d. 1823, Dec. 9. Her children were: I. David, b. 1768, Nov. 15. II. Sarah, b. 1770, June 22. III. Thomas, b. 1772, July 9. IV. John, b. 1774, Nov. 25.
264. MARY, b. 1746-7, Mch. 13; not traced. One Mary Manning died at Boston, 1830, Oct. 16, aged 83, but whether she was single or married does not appear.
265. MARGARET, bap. 1748, Oct. 16; not traced.
266. THOMAS, bap. 1749-50, Jan. 28; d. young.
267. THOMAS, b. 1751, May 14. Did he die 1752, July 10? See sketch of his father.
268. ? THOMAS. Perhaps no such son. Wyman's Charlestown presents the possibility theoretically, but errs in suggesting that the Thomas who m. Rebecca Tufts was of this family. There may have been such a son, or the Thomas born 1751 may have lived to manhood. If so, his history is unknown. A Thomas who was in Charlestown in 1797 (town records, IX-423) is of unlearned identity. He had a family; names unknown. At Salem, 1777, Aug. 11, one Thomas Manning, a mariner, m. Mrs. Anstice (Chipman) Richardson, who was bap. 1754, Nov. 17. This Thomas d. about 1780, and his widow d. 1821, Apr. 25. Ch.: Thomas Manning, Jr., who d. 1799, Apr. 11, in his 21st year. The late Rev. Richard Manning Chipman wrote the compiler that he attended Mrs. Anstice Manning's funeral, and well remembered the statement of those present that her late husband was of other lineage than the Salem-Ipswich Manning family, and that he (Thomas) had come to Salem from a place near Boston. Possibly the connection is at this point. No opinion will be ventured.

- 269. BENJAMIN (Bacon) b. 1737, Dec. 3.
- 270. NATHANIEL (Bacon) b. 1739, Sep. 23.
- 271. MARY (Bacon) b. 1741, Meh. 24.
- 272. PARKER (Bacon) b. 1744, July 28.
- 273. THOMPSON (Bacon) b. 1747, Oct. 15.
- 274. DENNISON (Bacon) twin, b. 1747, Oct. 15.
- 275. JOHN (Bacon) b. 1750, Dec. 26.
- 276. WILLIAM (Bacon) b. 1753, May 23.
- 277. A SON; name not recorded; b. 1756, Jan. 6.
- 278. ABIGAIL (Bacon) bap. 1756-7, Feb. 22.
- 279. ABIGAIL (Bacon) b. 1758, May 31.

- 280. SARAH (Flynn) b. 1743, May 26.
- 281. RICHARD (Flynn) b. 1745, Oct. 22.
- 282. MARY (Flynn) b. 1747, Jan. 18.
- 283. JOHN (Flynn) b. 1749, Meh. 12.
- 284. HANNAH (Flynn) b. 1752, June 25; d. 1753, Meh. 22.

286. PATTY (Flynn) b. 1757, Feb. 13.
287. HANNAH (Flynn) b. 1759, Dec. 13.
288. A DAUGHTER; name not recorded; b. 1763, July 21.
289. ALICE (Flynn) bap. 1763, Sep. 4; probably the same as next previous.

291. CHARLES (Child) b. 1751, Nov. 22.
292. ALICE (Child) b. 1753, Nov. 11.
293. ELIAS (Child) b. 1755, Dec. 28; a captain.
294. THOMPSON (Child) b. 1758, Feb. 12.
295. ALICE (Child) b. 1760, June 15.
296. SYLVIA (Child) b. 1762, Oct. 31.
297. BETSEY (Child) b. 1764, Dec. 23.
298. CHLOE (Child) b. 1767, Mch. 28.
299. PRISCILLA (Child) b. 1769, Nov. 19.
300. A DAUGHTER; name not given.

93. EPHRAIM<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Ephraim,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1730, Aug. 7, at Woodstock, Ct., where he always resided. He had a long and prominent record as a Revolutionary soldier. On receipt of the news of the battle of Lexington six companies marched from Woodstock to Boston, and of these he was captain of the 2d Co. This service was short, but was followed by another term, 1775, May 1 to Dec. 19, as captain of the 7th Co., 3d Regt., of which Israel Putnam was colonel, during which he was in the battle of Bunker Hill. In 1776 he was a captain under Col. John Durkee. This regiment was in the battle of Trenton, and, in part, at Princeton. He "re-entered service in 1777," but how much longer he served does not appear. He was at one time in Washington's Guards, under Col. Benedict Arnold. In 1774 he was elected on the patriotic Committee of Inspection, and, 1780, was on a committee to engage men to serve in the Continental army. He was grand juror, 1778; town collector, 1787; and selectman, 3 years, 1782-4. He and his wife joined the Woodstock church in 1757. Barber's Historical Collections of Ct., page 565, states that the Trumbull Gallery, at New Haven, has a portrait of "Capt. Manning." The writer has not investigated this case, but this must be Capt. Ephraim or his brother, Capt. William. On his death his ch. joined in a deed selling his real estate. He m. 1755, Meh. 28, Mary Fox, who d. 1805, Dec. 29, in her 71st year; another record says aged 72, but she was undoubtedly a dau. of Thomas and Mary (Lawrence) Fox, b. at Woodstock, 25 Apr., 173—. [The record is mutilated; but probably 1735, as she was bap. in that year, May 25.] Capt. Manning d. 1792, Jan. 17, at Woodstock, where he and his wife are buried in the "Hill" cemetery. Ch., b. at Woodstock:

301. A SON, b. 1756, Aug. 24; doubtless d. young, as he was not mentioned in division of his father's estate.
302. BILLY, bap. 1757, May 8.
303. MOLLY, bap. 1758, Sep. 24; doubtless d. young; did not share in her father's estate.
304. BETSEY, b. 1761, Feb. 21.
305. ALICE, bap. 1763, May 1.
306. THOMAS, bap. 1765, June 16.
307. EPHRAIM, b. 1767, May 20, [family record; town record says May 25].
308. HANNAH, b. 1769, July 24; m. 1795, Dec. 24, Charles Mason, husband of her deceased sister Fanny; and herself d. without issue, 1852, Sep. 27.
309. FANNY, b. 1771, May 12.
310. JOHN, b. 1774, Apr. 11.
311. NANCY, b. 1778, Dec. 9, [family record; town record says 1777].

94. WILLIAM<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Ephraim,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1733, Nov. 28, at Woodstock, Ct., where he always lived except for a brief residence at Middletown. He was, however, often away to serve his country as a soldier, being engaged in both the French-and-Indian and the Revolutionary wars. He was sergeant in Capt. Israel Putnam's co. 1755, Nov. 25, to 1756, May 30, when this command was a part of the force in garrison at Fort Edward; and he immediately served another term, in 1756, of 5 months, 3 weeks and 5 days under Capt. Samuel Gaylord. The exact dates do not appear. In this service he was again sergeant. On the alarm following the capture of Fort William Henry by Montcalm, in 1757, four companies marched from Windham, and he was lieutenant under Capt. John Carpenter, of Woodstock. Family tradition is to the effect that he "served through the war" of the Revolution, and Amnidown's Historical Collections states that he served 6 years without returning home. He was promoted to the rank of captain, his commission being signed by John Hancock. All of his service may not be recorded, and not all that is on record relating to the several William Mannings of his time can be identified, but the following cases positively relate to him. 1st, he was first lieutenant under Col. Andrew Ward in a regt. raised 1776, to serve one year from May 4. This command joined Washington's army at New York in August; was stationed first at Fort Lee; thence went to White Plains; thence to N. J. and fought at the battles of Trenton, 1776, Dec. 25, and Princeton, 1777, Jan. 3, and encamped with Washington at Morristown until expiration of term of service. 2d, having been commissioned captain, Jan., 1777, under Col. Charles Webb, 2d regt., which assembled at Danbury in April, but soon went into camp at Peekskill; was under Gen. Israel Putnam along the Hudson in the summer and fall; ordered 14 Nov. to Washington's army in Penn.; at battle of Whitemarsh, Dec. 8; wintered at Valley Forge, and, July 28, after, was at the battle of Monmouth. Although it is almost exclusively as a soldier that we are able to trace Capt. Manning's career, his natural tastes were not for war, and his long service was inspired purely by patriotic devotion to his country. In private life he was a farmer residing first on the Payson farm, and then on one which adjoined it. He m. at Woodstock, 1759, Jan. 4, Mrs. Mary (Johnson) Payson, widow of Asa Payson and dau. of [A. J.?] and Elizabeth Johnson, of Middletown, b. 1736, Sep. 27. In 1764, May 3, William Manning and his wife, "both of Middletown," administrators of Asa Payson's estate, sold, etc., as is shown by Woodstock deed, 3-322. Capt. Manning d. 1807, Sep. 18; Mary, his widow, d. 1812, Nov. 27, both at Woodstock, where they are buried in the "Hill" cemetery. Ch., b. at Woodstock:

313. JENIMA, b. 1761, Dec. 9.

314. LUCY, m. Dr. Vail; removed West.

315. PARKER, bap. 1769, May 28; d. unm. at Greenfield, N. Y., aged about 84 years. A blacksmith, and lived on a farm where he raised many horses. Captain of a cavalry company.

316. WELTHIA, b. 1771, Jan. 26; m. 1789, June 14, Dr. Daniel Tiffany, and, later, lived with her brother Parker: d. leaving no descendants.

317. AZUBAH, bap. 1773, Jan. 10; m. Rufus Lyon, of Woodstock; removed to some place in New York, where she d. and, it is believed, left 1 or 2 ch.
318. LORY, bap. 1774, Sep. 25; m. ——— Smith: lived at Williamstown, Vt.; 6 ch., of whom Chauncey was long a clerk in the P. O. Dept., Washington, D. C., and Manning resided at Potsdam, N. Y.
319. WILLIAM HYDE. b. 1776, Sep. 10.

105. SUSANNA<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Timothy,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1717, Aug. 5, at Reading, Mass.; reared at Woodstock, Ct.; m. there 1735, May 12, Ebenezer Bibbins [spelled Beben at Woodstock: probably both are errors for Bevens]. He was son of Arthur and Experience, of Windham, and b. there 1714-15, Feb. 1. Susanna joined Woodstock church, 1741. They removed to Windham, where she joined the church, 1743, and Ebenezer about 1741. He was a Colonial soldier. He d. 1761, Nov. 19. His family probably removed elsewhere. Ch.:

- 319*a*. HANNAH (Bibbins) b. 1737-8, Jan. 9, at Woodstock.
320. SUSANNA (Bibbins) b. 1737-8, Jan. 9, at Woodstock; m. Caleb Conant, of Mansfield.
321. TIMOTHY (Bibbins) birth not found; admr. of his father's estate; m. Eunice Brewer; resided at Mansfield.
322. JACOB (Bibbins) b. 1742, Apr. 26, at Windham.
323. MOLLY (Bibbins) b. 1745, Jan. 30, at Windham.
324. EBENEZER (Bibbins) b. 1747, Feb. 11, at Windham.
325. JOHN (Bibbins) b. 1750, Meh. 16, at Windham.
326. SARAH (Bibbins) b. 1754, May 24, at Windham.
327. PHEBE (Bibbins) b. 1756, Oct. 25, at Windham.
328. ELIZABETH (Bibbins) b. 1758, Aug. 1, at Windham.

109. JOSEPH<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Timothy,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1728-9, Meh. 24, at Woodstock, Ct., where he afterwards resided. A Revolutionary soldier, 1775, May 10 to Dec. 15, under Capt. Ephraim Manning and Col. Israel Putnam. He and his wife united with the church, 1757. He was chosen, 1766, to "assist in tuning the Psalm." He d. 1776, Oct. 3, at Woodstock. No gravestone has been found. He m. 1753, Apr. 16, Ruth Child, "of Killingly." She m. (2d) 1777, June 26, Joshua Abell, formerly of Rehoboth, but then of Goshen, Mass., where she d. 1777, Aug. 29, aged 48. Ch. of Joseph and Ruth, b. at Woodstock:

329. ALICE, b. 1753, June 9; d. 1766, Nov. 3.
 330. HANNAH, bap. 1755, Meh. 30.

 334. SUSANNA, b. 1765, Meh. 19.

112. ELIPHALET<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Eliphalet,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1713, Sep. 26, at Billerica, Mass. He lived in the house built by his father, on the farm which was in Tewksbury after the latter town was formed in 1734; but was probably also a carpenter, as he is termed "shop joyner" in a deed of 1791. Besides the land received from his father (one-half of the farm), he bought no real estate, unless the deed failed to be recorded. He sold 1½ acres in 1791 for £8.8. Was executor of his father's will. Of his own estate there is no record in the Probate Office, and it seems likely that, by deeds never recorded, he conveyed his farm in part to his son Samuel, and in part to Eliphalet, Jr., both of whom lived in Tewksbury and who sold more land than they purchased. He m. (intention of m. 1740, Dec. 28, at Lynn) Hannah Aborn, bap. 1718-19, Feb. 8. Her ancestry was John<sup>3</sup> and Union (Kettle) Aborn, of Lynn and Charlestown, her parents; Moses<sup>2</sup> and Abigail (Gilbert), of Lynn and Salem, and Samuel<sup>1</sup> and Catherine (Smith) Aborn, of Salem. Eliphalet Manning d. 1806, Jan. 20; Hannah, his widow, d. 1815, Meh. 25, both at Tewksbury. They have no gravestones. Ch., b. at Tewksbury:

335. REBECCA, b. 1742, Jan. 2; d. 1749, July 27.
 336. HANNAH, b. 1744, May 15; d. 1749, July 9.

116. JOSIAH<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1719-20, Meh. 18, at Windham, Ct., where he always resided. By the will of his grandfather Manning he became owner of one-half of the latter's farm, including the buildings thereon. He was joint executor of said will. He was elected fence-viewer, 1745; highway surveyor, 1754; tithingman, 1747, '53, '55, and '65; and was grand juror, 1762. He and his wife were members of the Scotland church. He m. 1742, May 6, Mary Kingsley, b. 1719, Oct. 11. Her ancestry was Josiah<sup>4</sup> and Dorothy (Bingham), her parents; John<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Sabine); Eldad<sup>2</sup> and Mehitabel (Morey), and John<sup>1</sup> Kingsley, the latter the American founder of the family, who settled in 1635 at Dorchester, Mass., but removed to Rehoboth, whence our Mary's grandfather went to Windham in 1703. 117. HEZEKIAH<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1721, Aug. 8, at Windham, Ct. Resided in his native town as a farmer, having received half of his grandfather Manning's farm by the latter's will. Elected tithingman, 1745-6; assessor, 1754-5; grand juror, 1747, '53; constable and collector of town rate, 1758; first constable and collector of the Colony tax 8 years, 1759-66; highway surveyor many years; surveyor and packer of tobacco, 1760-2, '65; deputy, or representative, from Windham 6 times, Oct., 1764, to Oct., 1767 (except Oct., '65, and May, '66) and May, 1769; and justice of the peace 1767 to 1780. He was on a committee to divide the Society into proper school districts, 1758, and a committee, alone, to go before the General Assembly, 1771, concerning a bridge over Shetucket river. He was administrator of the estates of several fellow citizens. Before and during the Revolution he was of prominence among the patriots. In 1767 he was on a committee to draw up an act of "economy & industry," and outline a stand against the importation of foreign-made goods; an echo of the revolt against the oppressive British stamp act. In 1774 he was on the committee of Correspondence. Such a committee existed in each town, and members must be of earnest patriotism, sagacity and fidelity, for they were the links in the chain of preparation for the war. He was also moderator of several special town meetings, and, 1781 to '84, on a committee to examine into the state of the taxes and accounts of the town, and to adjust the accounts between the town and soldiers. He m. 1745, Sep. 22, Mary Webb, b. 1725, Dec. 23; united with the church, 1753; d. 1785, Dec. 20; and (2d), Anna, her sister, b. 1728, June 13, and d. 1804, in Jan. URIAH (Tracy) b. 1755, Feb. 3; graduated, 1778, at Yale College; read law in Litchfield and became eminent in his profession; representative in the State Legislature and, 1793, was Speaker of the House; representative in Congress, 1793-96, and from that time to 1807 was U. S. Senator and a part of the time President pro tem.; major general of militia; d. at Washing-

120. SAMUEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1725, Oct. 22, at Windham, Ct. He early removed to the S. W. part of the State. "Came from Windham to Stratford, Nov. 25, 1743," says the record in his own writing. In 1748, Dec. 1, he bought, says the town record of deeds, "a small piece of land in Stratford a little distant from ye ferry commonly called Hawkins' Ferry, lying on both sides of ye brook called Torry's [or ? Porry's] Brook, at a place called Spruce." This ferry was really "over Stratford river at Derby." A little later he bought "in Stratford at ye north end of a place commonly called Ocquanquage Plain, and in the Parish of Preston." Despite the fact that he was 50 years of age when the Revolution began it seems safe to believe he was the soldier who served 6 days in April, 1775, under Capt. Abraham Mead, and again, 1775, May 10 to Dec. 5, under Capt. Thomas Hobby and Col. David Waterbury; 3d Co. of the 5th Regt. Both of these commands were recruited in that immediate vicinity. His son of the same name served later, but as the son was only 12 years old in 1775, it is almost certain that the soldier of the latter date was the father. In 1783, Feb. 3, he was the administrator of the estate of the aforesaid son, and he "personally appeared" in the Stratford Court to render the inventory, 1785, Sep. 5. He had also been administrator of the estate of John Blackman in 1760. His home was included in that part of Stratford which was set off in 1789 to form the new town of Huntington, and there he continued to reside. In 1793, Dec. 9, he sold a house "with fruit trees around it" to Samuel Barlow, and, 1796, Apr. 8, sold to Elisha Mills about one acre "situated in the center of Huntington," which probably closed out his estate. After the date last mentioned no sign of him has been found. In the history of Stratford appears a list of the gravestones in the two above towns, but none is included of Samuel or any member of his family. Probably, however, he died and was buried in Huntington. He m. 1749, Jan. 26, Abigail Clark, who d. 1758, Sep. 3, perhaps dau. of John Clark, "2d." and, if so, b. 1728, Apr. 30; and (2d) 1759, Aug. 2, Eunice Frink, of unknown ancestry. The Huntington church book has this entry: "Jan. 19, 1829, Died Mrs. Manning aged 95." It is believed that this was surely Eunice, widow of Samuel Manning. The children were born at Stratford.

386. SAMUEL, b. 1749, Dec. 13; d. 1759, Feb. 3.

387. JERUSHA, b. 1751, Oct. 16; not traced. In 1783, on the settlement of the estate of her half-brother Samuel, the proceeds were equally divided between Samuel's full brother and sister, Elias and Eunice. The laws of Connecticut of that day, relating to the matter of inheritance, are unknown to the compiler. If, under these laws, Elias and Eunice were Samuel's legal heirs, would not his half-sisters, Jerusha and Sarah, have been co-heirs? The absence of their names at that time leads to the presumption that they were deceased; but, on the other hand, the father of these children kept a record, put down the birth of all his children, and the death of some. It would seem that, if Jerusha and Sarah had died before him, he would have recorded their decease, too; yet he omitted that of his son Joseph below.

388. SARAH, b. 1756, Sep. 2. Not traced; see note to her sister Jerusha.

Ch. of Samuel and Eunice Manning:

389. JOSEPH, b. 1761, June 7; d. aged 14 years, says tradition, and this the compiler believes to be thoroughly reliable, as the same authority, without dates to guide him, gave the exact age at death of Samuel, next below.

390. SAMUEL, b. 1763, Mch. 22. A Revolutionary soldier. When less than 15 years old he enlisted, 1778, Feb. 1, "for the war," under Capt. Samuel Granger and Col. Charles Webb, 2d regt., Ct. Line, and, later, under Capt. Roger Wells, in a Co. of Light Infantry; was at the battle of Monmouth, 1778, June 28; wintered at Redding; served on E. side of the Hudson under Gen. Heath, 1779, etc. Samuel Manning was killed at the battle of Yorktown, Va., 1781, Oct. 15, in the crowning engagement of the war. His latest service was under Lafayette. His father was appointed admr. of his estate, 1783, Feb. 3, which consisted of seven State notes which, with accrued interest, made the total valuation £83.3.8. The amount was reduced by "expense in sickness and clothing while in service" to £55. This sum was equally divided between his sister Eunice and brother Elias.

391. EUNICE, b. 1765, Apr. 3; m. Mattison Millard and resided at Milton, N. Y. When advanced in years they went to Salem, N. Y., where both died. No. ch.

394. JOSEPH; date of birth not found; was in Sharon in 1789, when he bought of Joshua Luce, for £12, land in that town. He sold the same to Luce. 1790, Feb. 24, after which nothing has been found of him. It is possible that he and his brother John improved the use of the bequest from their grandfather Hamilton of land "at ye Susquehannah," and removed there. Presumably, the indicated section was the well-known "Susquehannah purchase" in eastern Penn.

395. JOHN; birth not found; was in Sharon, 1791, May 31, when he and his brother Ripley jointly purchased land there. The sale of this land has not been found on record, but, as Ripley left town within a year, it is probable that John then went away too, perhaps to "the Susquehannah." See sketch of his brother Joseph.
396. SARAH, birth not found; m. at Sharon, 1777, Feb. 10, Samuel Sackett, "of Spencertown" [N-Y.?] Not further traced.

403. JACOB, b. 1750, Oct. 5. A Revolutionary soldier, under Capt. Wm. Warner; marched on the Lexington alarm 1775, Apr. 19. He probably d. unm. soon after. After his father's death the several ch. quitclaimed their rights in his estate, but no release is found from Jacob. In a deed of 1781, Apr. 18, his sister Mrs. Robinson calls her share a  $\frac{1}{6}$  interest, and refers to her brother Dan's  $\frac{1}{6}$  interest. There were exactly 6 ch. without Jacob, from which it seems certain that he was then deceased and had left no ch.

123. JOHN<sup>6</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm..<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1720, July 10, at Cambridge, Mass. After his seventh year he always resided at Windham, Ct. His father deeded to him, 1749-50, Feb. 1, for "the sum of thirty five pound in Bills of Publick Credit of the old tenor," a tract of land which was a part of the father's farm, and adjoining the farm of John's paternal grandfather. In 1760, when his father's estate was settled, he purchased of the other heirs for "Eighty one pound seven shillings Lawfull money" a part of the old farm, and other like purchases followed until he became owner of nearly all the place. He built a large house on the east side of Merrick's brook. It is still standing, in the N. W. corner of the southerly road from Windham and the road from Scotland to Norwich, about  $\frac{1}{4}$  mile S. of the church. He also built a saw-mill and a grist-mill; these are not now in use. He also bought largely of others, the land being in Windham. When the so-called "Susquehanna purchase" of land in Pennsylvania was made of the Indians by Connecticut men, previous to the settlement of that region, he was one of the original proprietors. One-half of his share he sold as early as 1774, and the remainder was sold 1794, Dec. 29, by his widow to their son Seabury. At Windham he was elected tithingman in 1749; highway surveyor, 1750, '60; collector of town rate, 1766-7, and was grand juror, 1758-60, '64. He left no will. After his death his sons Seabury and Gamaliel became joint owners of the farm, and on the decease of the last survivor of the two, in 1851, the heirs sold the property. It had been in the possession of the family for about 120 years, and, probably, a part of it even longer. John m. 1744, June 10, Sarah Lambert, who d. 1751, Apr. 28, in her 32d year: and (2d) 1752, Jan. 27, Sarah Seabury, of Lebanon, who was bapt. there 1723, Jan. 29. She joined the 1st Church,

424. ROGER, b. 1758, May 15; a Revolutionary soldier of long experience. Served 1775, May 5 to Dec. 10, under Capt. John Durkee and Col. Israel Putnam; a drummer. Again enlisted, 1777, Feb. 19, "for the war," in Col. Jedediah's Huntington's regt.; transferred to Valley Forge, 1778, Mch. 19, to Washington's Life Guard; again a drummer; discharged 1780, Feb. 19. He died in the spring of 1780. Thus far, information is official. Tradition, which did not mention his service on land, says he sailed from Norwich on a privateer and was never seen or heard from after passing New London. He was unmarried.

126. JOSIAH<sup>6</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1725, June 14, at Hopkinton, Mass., but was reared at Windham, Ct. In manhood he resided chiefly in the N. W. part of Norwich, though in the division of the latter town, in 1786, the section in which he lived was set off and incorporated as a new town under the name of Franklin. His home was near Manning's bridge over Shetucket river. By trade he was a stone-cutter, and he is reputed to have possessed peculiar skill in carving the "faces" so often found on headstones in burying grounds of his day. On the reverse side of his own headstone are these words: "This Monument I made in y<sup>e</sup> year 1800: in my 76th year." From this it will be seen that he was the designer of his own gravestone. He was an earnest patriot, and over the front door of his dwelling-house he inserted a large, flat stone, said to have been of mica slate from the Bolton, Ct., quarry, upon which he placed an inscription which has since made it historic. It was as follows:

 Now Liberty & Property & no Exeise
 God Bless our Kings & keep them wise.

 Manning

This is undoubtedly a true copy, though the only copy known to be in existence was made, not by one of the family, but by a neighbor; and the latter drew off the date as 1776. This must have been an error. Josiah is positively known to have been a patriot, and, with the Revolutionary war under way, he would not have displayed such a sign, nor would it have been allowed to remain. Neither would it have been a logical echo of existing conditions. On the other hand, the unpopular Stamp Act passed the British Parliament 1765, Mch. 22, and was repealed 1766, Mch. 18. Accept 1766 as the true date and the stonemason's lines will be found to express clearly the feelings of a people who, in 1766, were willing to be loyal to the King if he would be just to them. Many years elapsed; Josiah Manning and his children passed away and the house was owned by one not connected with the family, but over the door the stone and its inscription remained. About 1860-62 Col. John Y. Manning, a grandson of Josiah, endeavored to become possessor of the stone. He offered a substantial sum of money therefor, and, in addition, to pay a carpenter for repairing any damage done to the house by removing the relic, and to make all as good as new, but the request was refused. It is alleged that the owner of the house remarked to others that he "guessed somebody would come along who would offer him more." About 1862 another gentleman tried to secure the stone, with the purpose of presenting it to the Conn. Historical Society, but with no better success. Some years later the building was destroyed by fire, and the stone is supposed to have suffered the same fate. Josiah Manning bought, 1748, Apr. 22, one-half an acre of land with a dwelling-house thereon, on the Norwich and Windham road, and, later, about 17 acres near his house. In 1863 Col. John Y. Manning, before mentioned, wrote of Josiah: "I have the great Bible that belonged to him; the Bible that he studied; that my mother read through in course some 72 times, and that Bible is cherished at the family altar every day and a light to our path." Josiah m. 1746, Oct. 13, Mary, dau. of Samuel and Leah (Ripley) Cook, b. 1729, July 25; d. 1796, Nov. 28, at Franklin. Leah Ripley, above mentioned, was a daughter of Joshua and Hannah (Bradford) Ripley, and this Hannah was daughter of Deputy Gov. William Bradford, and granddau. of Gov. William Bradford, who came to this country in the Mayflower, in 1620, and was long the leader and ruling spirit of the party by whom civilization was established in New England. Josiah Manning d. 1806, Dec. 16, at Windham, at the home of his son Frederick. Of the large family of ch. dates of birth are mostly lacking, and the order of birth is not fully known. The first two were born at Windham, and probably all others at Norwich. Ch.:

440. NANCY, date of birth unknown; m. 1788, Oct. 30, Jedediah, son of Ebenezer and Hannah (Merrill) Griswold, b. 1764, Mch. 11, at Norwich; removed to Vt.; had, it is believed, 2 sons and 2 daus., of whom Harriet probably d. about 1860, with her cousin, Mrs. Jane B. Ripley. The 2d dau. was, perhaps, named Nancy. One of the sons, according to tradition, was named Dudley. He is said to have been, in 1860, at Bainbridge, N. Y., but inquiry there has failed to furnish tidings of him.
441. FARRI, date of birth unknown; m. at Franklin, 1791, Apr. 18, Samuel Whiting. Ch. rumored to have been Mary Ann, Samuel Cook and Russell. It is said that the parents "lived and died in Tolland, Ct." There is now no one, it is said, of the name in Tolland.

127. PHINEAS<sup>6</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1727, Mch. 3, at Hopkinton, Mass. He was reared at Windham, Ct., where he m. and resided some years after. In 1760 he removed to Stafford, where, Nov. 28, he bought land of Miles Standish and wife Hannah. He was a Colonial soldier in the French-and-Indian war. He enlisted under Capt. Benj. Lee and Col. Elisha Williams 1746, June 16, and continued by successive bi-monthly enlistments until 1747, Oct. 25, when the regiment probably disbanded. It was intended for an expedition against Canada, and was to accompany certain English troops, but, as the latter failed to come, the expedition did not go out of the Colonies, though the troops lay under arms, ready to go. In 1755 Phineas served from Sep. 1 to Nov. 3 under Capt. Eliphalet Dyer, and, in 1756, from Apr. 9 to Oct. 16, under Capt. John Payson. He also appears as a member of Capt. Wolcott's co. in a pay abstract for 1761, when there was due him £8.1.1, indicating a long service, but dates in this case have not been found. In the Revolution he again enlisted. In this war he was under Capt. Amos Walbridge, in the 2d Ct. regt., Col. Charles Webb (afterwards, Col. Zebulon Butler). Phineas enlisted 1777, Jan. 29, for 3 years; mustered out 1780, Jan. 25. His command served summer and fall of 1777 under Gen. Putnam along the Hudson; ordered 14 Nov. to join Washington's army in Penn.; wintered at Valley Forge, '77-78; was at the battle of Monmouth, 1778, July 28, etc. Family tradition says that, in his old age, he lived at Hoosick, N. Y., with his daughter Mrs. Beaman, and d. there or soon after returning to Stafford, but was buried at Stafford. Search at the latter place fails to reveal any gravestone inscribed to a Manning, but the old burying ground is in deplorable condition, or was when the search was made. Also, at that time, there was no grantor index to the town deeds, and time was lacking in which to trace, by other means, the sale of his farm. It may be noted here that Phineas, himself a soldier of two wars, had four sons who served in the Revolution, at least one grandson in the war of 1812, and many descendants who were veterans of the Rebellion. He m. Sarah Hendee, ancestry unknown, who d. 1750, Apr. 30; and (2d) 1751, Jan. 22, Sarah Walbridge, who united with the church, 1753. Her parentage is unknown, but Thomas and Mary (Knight) Walbridge, of Norwich and Stafford, had a dau. Sarah b. 1727, Aug. 8, at Norwich; perhaps the same. Where Phineas and his wife really died and were buried cannot be told positively, as investigation has brought no definite information.

152. JOHN<sup>6</sup> MANNING (John.<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1731, Dec. 12, at Cambridge, Mass. He settled in Lancaster, in the N. W. part of the town, where Nathaniel Wright (who had married John's half-sister, Martha Winship) had previously located. John was a soldier, 1755, Apr. 9 to Nov. 6, under Capt. Benj. Ballard and Col. Timothy Ruggles, in the first Crown Point expedition. This regiment was in the battle of Lake George, Sep. 8, when the French commander, General Dieskau, was defeated by Gen. Lyman; a severe engagement in which the regiment suffered heavily but won renown. He re-enlisted under the same captain, and in this service was a corporal. He may have served later terms. In 1767 he became of unsound mind, and on application by the selectmen of the town to the Probate Judge, Nov. 12, Nathaniel Wright was appointed as his guardian. He was not violent, and was subjected to little or no restraint, but the guardianship was to protect his estate. He made "several thousand of brick" in 1768, and spent more or less time at Cambridge in 1768, '69, '70, and '71. It is possible that he was at the latter place throughout these years, but he returned to Lancaster in 1771. Of the closing years of his life we know nothing. He was a farmer, and had a shop on his land where he also carried on the trade of a saddler. He d. at Lancaster, 1780, Feb. 23. He bought, 1760, May 29, for £3.4, land "near the clay pits" on the Leominster road, 5 acres and 126 rods. This deed was not recorded until 1801, at which time grantor, grantee and witnesses were all deceased, and its authenticity was proved by the sworn testimony of others. His wife received  $1\frac{3}{4}$  acres of land by the will of her father, adding to the homestead. The heirs sold the real estate, 1801, June 18, to Joel Osgood. Later transfers were, 1802, Apr. 16, to Daniel Lawton; 1809, Apr. 3, to Artemas Lawton; 1814, Aug. 15, to Samuel Wilder, Jr.; 1821, Mch. 31, to Jonas Lane; 1835, Apr. 7, to Rebecca Houghton, "single woman." Later she m. Newton Burpee, and by her will, filed 1871, Aug. 22, she left the use of her property to her brother, Foster Houghton, during his life, after which it was to descend to her husband's children. These transfers are of the house and contiguous land; four acres had been otherwise sold in 1811. On the appointment of the guardian in 1767 John's real and personal property was appraised at £83.10.6, but there was no formal settlement of the estate until the death of his son of the same name (who probably had occupied the homestead), when the two estates were settled, and in a manner not a little perplexing to one who would now separate the property of father, son and mother. John m. 1753, Apr. 28, Prudence Houghton, b. 1734-5, Feb. 7; d. 1793, Oct. 23, of typhus fever. Her estate was inventoried at £152.12.1. Of this sum £69 represented the house, shop and barn,

156. EDWARD<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Edward,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1724, Mch. 26, at Cambridge, Mass., where he resided until after 1747; removed to Roxbury, and lived there until after 1754. He was elected hayward at Cambridge in 1747, and the same year, Sep. 27, owned the covenant. He was, it is said, a soldier of the French-and-Indian war, perhaps about 1758, but the particulars of the service have not been learned. (See Paige's History of Cambridge, page 405.) He m. 1745, Dec. 4, Patience Day, "of Boston." Her ancestry is unknown; possibly she was the same Patience, dau. of John and Patience (Bird) Day, b. 1729, July 11, at Dorchester. After 1754 nothing definite can be said of Edward and his family. At Boston, 1759, about May 6 (date of intention) Casper Feiler [Fielder?] m. one Patience Manning. Possibly Edward had died and this Patience was his widow. At Newport, R. I., 1765, Feb. 26, a daughter Mary Clannan was born to somebody named Edward and Patience Manning. The latter combination of names is not common. The writer believes this couple to have been our Edward and Patience, but he fails to find more of them at Newport. The occurrence of the names there is the more striking because certain of Edward's cousins went to Providence about that time. Perhaps, if living, he returned to Mass. Perhaps, too, he was the Edward Manning who figured in the Revolution (see sketch of his son, below). In 1778, Feb. 3, there was owing to the estate of his father, Edward,<sup>5</sup> £28.9.2 from "Edward Manning, Jr." It is true that if Edward<sup>6</sup> was deceased this name would apply as well to his son Edward<sup>7</sup>, but the compiler prefers to believe that the reference was to the subject of this sketch. To sum up, we have our choice of believing that he died comparatively young, leaving 4 children, and that his widow then m. Casper Fielder, or, as seems more likely, that he was living as late as 1780. If he was then in Boston the miserably sparse records do not show it, but hundreds of persons were born there, and lived there, in his day, without appearing on the records. On the other hand, Edward may have resided in Rhode Island, or some other State. Wide and careful search has left the mystery of his later career unsolved. Ch. :

477. ELIZABETH, b. 1750, Sep. 28, at Roxbury; not traced

478. PATIENCE, b. 1752, Dec. 17, at Roxbury; not traced.

479. EDWARD. bap. 1754, July 14, at Roxbury. It cannot be positively said that anything more is known of him, but the compiler does not doubt that he was the same Edward Manning, Revolutionary soldier, who served 8 months, in 1775, in Capt. Edward Craft's co. in Col. Richard Gridley's regt. of artillery. In the N. E. Historic-Genealogical Register. Vols. 30 and 31, is the diary of one of the crew of brigantine "Rising States," which was captured by the British, 1777, Apr. 15, and the crew taken, June 14, to Forton Prison. Of this party somebody named Edward Manning was one. He and 16 others escaped Mch. 7, but were retaken. He again escaped; went to London; was seized by a press-gang and taken to a British ship; sent back to Forton Prison Apr. 20, and put in the "Black Hole" as punishment; kept there until May 19, when he was sent to the hospital, from which he was discharged June 6. His after history does not appear. Probably this was our Edward, or, perhaps, his father. The author of the diary often calls him "Mr." Manning. The title would seem an excess of politeness, under the circumstances, if applied to a man of 23 years, but, on the other hand, his adventurous escapes more befit a young man than one of 53. At Boston, 1779, Nov. 18, one Edward Manning married Patience Flagg. The compiler believes that all these items refer to the Edward of this sketch, but has no proof to that effect. No more has been learned of him, long search being fruitless. In 1791, in probate proceedings relating to John Manning [157], who was Edward's uncle, Benjamin Hill [see 162] states "that he is nephew and the nearest relation of John Manning," but this does not prove that Edward was not living. He may have been residing at a distance.

167. SAMUEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1729, Aug. 26, at Cambridge, Mass. He inherited his father's homestead, and always lived there, in the same house. A cordwainer by occupation. He was elected warden, 1777, '84; sealer of weights and measures, 1789; juryman, 1791, '99; hayward, 1792, and sealer of leather, 1778, '79, '81-96, '98, 1801-2, a total of 21 years. Family tradition says he was a Revolutionary soldier and fought at Bunker Hill. The rolls of that war contain service under the name of Samuel Manning which the present writer, from want of proper data, is unable to allot with any certainty. How much of this service belongs to the subject of this sketch is unknown, but it may be accepted as certain that he was the Samuel whose name appears in a "list of men that served in the Canadian expedition, credited to the town of Cambridge." His brother William was in the same list. Samuel was a member of a jury in a celebrated case, 1778, June 18. After Burgoyne's surrender his soldiers were taken to Cambridge and vicinity as prisoners. The men were placed in barracks, but quarters were found for the officers in private families. Orders were given that no one should pass the patriot lines without a passport. A British officer tempted fate and defied a sentinel to his sorrow. The above jury may tell the story of their findings in their own language. The jury "upon their oath do say, that the said Richard Brown was shot with a fire-arm by the centinel in Charlestown, near Prospect-Hill, between the hours of five and six, P. M. on the 17th day of June, A. D. 1778, in attempting to pass the centinel with two women, after being properly challenged by said centinel—and so came to his death." Here the responsibility of the jury ended; the proper authorities attended to additional details. Samuel was prosperous financially, and loaned money on mortgages extensively; and was also a considerable purchaser of land. He owned the covenant in 1777. He d. 1824, Apr. 3, in his 95th year, and it is a tradition that his life was ended by accidentally inhaling gas from a charcoal stove. His property was sold for $26,547. By will he divided his possessions equally among the children of his deceased son Samuel, except that the eldest, having already received a college education, was to have $500 less than the others. At the age of 47 he m., 1777, Aug. 2, Mary Woods, who d. 1788, Oct. 15, in her 51st year; and (2d) 1791, Dec. 29, Sarah Woods, who d. 1812, Apr. 16, aged 72. Their parentage is in doubt. Middlesex deeds, 113-390 and 113-391, though obscure, point to the probability that Sarah was related to Aaron and Lemuel Woods of Groton, and that she was the same Sarah, dau. of Aaron and Sarah (Boynton) Woods, b. 1739-40, Jan. 30, at Groton. It is probable, too, that Mary, the first wife, was a native of Groton, but of two Mary Woods born there at about the same time, the compiler is unable to learn which, if either, was she. Samuel Manning and his wives are buried in the old cemetery by Harvard sq. He had but one child:

481. SAMUEL, b. 1778, May 28, at Cambridge.

168. JOSEPH<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1730-1, Jan. 26, at Cambridge, Mass. He entered Harvard College and graduated in 1751. He early removed to Providence, R. I. In 1770, Oct., his name appears as one of the incorporators of the Benevolent Congregational Society, for the raising of funds, etc. for the "support of public worship in the Congregational Society of Providence of which Rev. David Shearman Rowland is at present minister." His wife died in Providence in 1797, and it is possible that his home was there until after that date. He was in Bath, Me., in 1806 when, Mch. 25, he appointed his son William attorney to appear for him "in any affair," and especially in matters wherein Joseph was heir to the estate of his younger brother (William<sup>6</sup>), deceased. Not long after he removed to Boston, Mass. Paige's History of Cambridge says that Joseph "was a clergyman, and chaplain in the Continental Army." It is greatly to be regretted that Mr. Paige did not give details of his career. The compiler has made extensive and prolonged search in old newspapers, histories and records to supply the omission, but without success. Mr. Manning d. 1808, Mch. 26, at Boston. Local newspapers record his death. The Gazette, in its obituary column, says: "On Saturday last, Mr. Joseph Manning, formerly of Providence, æt 78. His funeral will proceed from his son's house, No. 24 Federal-street, tomorrow afternoon, at half-past 4 o'clock, which his relations and friends are requested to attend." The Palladium and the Chronicle each has the same notice, word for word.

The Centinel and the Democrat have briefer notices. Personally, he was rather stout and of dark complexion. He m. Mary Allen, who d. at Providence, 1797, Dec. 31, in her 62d year. Ch. :

170. WILLIAM<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1735, May 11, at Cambridge, Mass., where he always resided. He was elected clerk of the market, 1777-8, '94; warden, 1778, '89; grand juryman, 1790. In 1779, and perhaps many years longer, he was a member of the engine company. He was a Revolutionary soldier under Capt. Samuel Thatcher and Col. Gardner, and, at another time, was one of a list of men that served in the "expedition to Canada, credited to Cambridge." The return of this list bears date of July, 1776. A cordwainer by occupation. He bought, 1778, Oct. 22, "for 1000 Spanish milled dollars," 108 rods and 272 links of land in Cambridge which was bounded E. and S. by the land of Harvard College. This property his heirs sold in 1806 to Harvard for $5,400. He owned other land, buying and selling in several cases, and held 3 lots at his decease. He several times loaned money on mortgage. He died intestate, and his heirs (namely, his widow, his brothers Samuel and Joseph, his sisters Mary and Sarah, and his niece Rebecca Pratt) received $3,910.91 in the division of the estate. This was in part, and doubtless wholly, exclusive of the $6,346 received by the sale of three lots of land in 1806, placing the total of his estate at $10,256.91. He m. 1772, Nov. 26, Rebecca, dau. of Thomas and Rebecca (Bradish) Oliver, b. about 1740; d. 1821, Apr. 13, aged 81. By will she gave all her property to her nieces, Rebecca and Betsey Larkin, of Boston. William Manning d. 1804, Dec. 10, at Cambridge, where he is buried in the cemetery by Harvard sq. Ch. :

Her father, by will, in 1773, gave £40 to the heirs of his "daughter Betty, wife of Thomas Stearns." Thomas d. 1811, Dec. 18; his wife Betty d. 1817, Feb. 6, according to records of Ashby, to which town they removed before 1767. 175. SAMUEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Saml.<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1732, Mch. 15, at Townsend, Mass. He was executor of his father's will, and had the latter's farm, upon which he thereafter lived in his native town. He was elected "informer of deer" (that is, to see that the laws for the protection of these animals were not violated) 1763, '65, '67, '70; tithingman, 1768, '78, '80; constable, 1774; one of a committee to "reckon" with the town treasurer, 1774-7, '82; highway surveyor, 1780, '90; warden, 1785; juryman, 1778, '90. He was on committees as follows: To "seat the meeting house," 1780; to report upon the question of schools and the minister's salary, 1780; to rebuild bridges, 1782; to select a site for a new school-house, 1789; to set up milestones on the county road, 1796. His name appears on the Colonial Rolls as one of Capt. John Stevens' foot-company, of Townsend, who received bayonets from the Colony in 1759. This shows that the company was put in readiness for service in the French and Indian war, but if he and his command entered active service the fact has not been learned. No more has been found on the Rolls. He was prominent and active during the Revolutionary war. In 1776, '77 and '78 he was a member of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety. Members of these committees, of which there was one in each town, were necessarily men of courage, sagacity and unquestionable loyalty to the patriot cause. "They were, in fact," says a historical writer, "the directors and managers of the great political drama." It was their duty to exchange information, suggestions and reports; to know the opinions of other citizens and guard against harm from those who were of Tory proclivities, and, in brief, to upbuild and protect the cause of the patriots in the struggle for freedom. In 1776 the question was submitted to the several towns whether they were willing that the House of Representatives and Council, then existing, should frame a form of government for the State. Townsend selected Lieut. James Lock, Samuel Manning and Maj. Henry Price as a committee to deliberate upon the question carefully before the town voted upon it, and their report, duly made, was approved and indorsed by the town. The complications attending the question made action a matter of delicacy and grave concern. In 1777 Samuel was on a committee to fix the rate of pay of soldiers in the war. In the same year, on a committee "to prosecute all breaches of the late act of Court for the regulating prices of Sundry articles for the Support of life and trade." In 1779, on a committee "to draw up some Resolves suitable for the town to pass" regarding the price of "the Necessaries of life and articles of trade." In the same year, on a committee "to Advise with and Instruct" the town's delegate to the Constitutional Convention "with regard to the outlines of a form of Government." Samuel bought and sold land considerably, evidently in speculation, as he continued to hold and reside on the old homestead. In 1794 he conveyed to his son William, for £136, "one full half in partnership" with himself of his lands in Townsend. In 1802 he conveyed to William "one full half of the land I now hold in joint partnership with him, the said William Manning," 188 acres, "meaning hereby to convey my part of said farm." The financial consideration, as given in the deed, was $1250. If this was an actual sale Samuel must soon have given away his money, for, on his death 7 years later, no estate appears in the Probate Office. He united with the Orthodox church, 1764, Jan. 22, as did his wife 1763, Oct. 2. He m. Abigail Avery, b. 1731, July 14, at Townsend; d. 1810, Jan. 21; dau. of Robert and Sarah, of Townsend, and, previously, Greenland, N. H., and granddan. of Robert Avery, senior, of Greenland. The latter, in middle life, had a wife Mary; perhaps she was mother of above Robert, junior. Samuel Manning d. 1809, Jan. 28, at Townsend. Resided at Billerica until 1783; removed to Fitchburg, where he was living in 1809. Ch., b. at Billerica:

201. WILLIAM<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1747, May 21, at Billerica, Mass. He resided in his native town, and purchasing, in 1777, the rights of his sister and his three brothers (for £40 each), acquired his father's farm, the historic old Manning place. There he passed his whole after life, cultivating the farm and, also, succeeding his father as landlord of the Manning Tavern. A soldier of the Revolution. He was sergeant in a company which marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. Solomon Pollard and Col. Greene. He was with his company in camp at Cambridge, May 1. In 1776, May 31, he was commissioned 2d Lieutenant in Capt. Solomon Kidder's co., of Col. Simeon Spaulding's 7th Regt., and was in the battle of Bunker Hill and subsequent siege of Boston. The duration of his service does not appear. At Billerica he was elected highway surveyor in 1775, and selectman, 1785-6. He bought 66 acres of land in Ashby in 1789, but sold the same in 1790. At various times he sold lots, in Billerica, chiefly between 1791 and '99, the total being about 76 acres, of which 8 acres was to his son William. This was in 1798. In 1807 he conveyed to William "one-half of my farm and all buildings thereon," 130 acres, which shows the area of the farm. After his death, however, only about 74 acres appear in the inventory. This was appraised at \$458.87, and his personal estate at \$162.52. This gives no idea of his actual financial standing, because of the fact that he had previously parted with such a large part of his possessions. He left no will. His eldest son was administrator. He and his wife united with the Billerica church 1769, June 4. Lt. Manning m. 1769. Mch. 21, Sarah, dau. of Nathaniel and Sarah (Wyman) Heywood, of Woburn, Mass., and Amherst, N. Both are buried in the new cemetery at Billerica, and grouped near them lie their children, William, Jephthah, Roxa, Luna, Sarah, Lucretia, Jerusha and Lucinda. The old homestead remained in the possession of these unmarried brothers and sisters while they lived, adding year after year to the second century that it had been in the family, while old age fell heavily upon the house, and one by one the brothers and sisters passed away. By will of Miss Lucinda, the last survivor, the house and remaining land was left to trustees who were to devote the annual income to religious instruction in the district in which the property was located. 202. JONATHAN<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1749, July 16, at Billerica, Mass. He early settled in Chelmsford, where he made extensive purchases of land; namely, 86 acres in 1774 (in three different deeds); 4 acres in 1784;  $3\frac{1}{4}$  acres in 1794; 40 acres in 1812, etc. At one time he was a tavern-keeper in Chelmsford, on the site of the present poor-house there. Tradition says he kept this tavern for 50 years, but this seems to be an exaggeration. Deeds, which are almost invariably, and probably always, correct informants in such cases, call him a housewright in 1774 and 1784, and a yeoman (farmer) in 1788, 1794, and January, 1812, while a deed of 1812, Apr. 23, terms him an innkeeper, as do those of later date. From this it would seem he was first a carpenter, then a farmer, and, unless he for some time followed a double calling, with the keeping of the inn as a subordinate matter, that it was not until the spring of 1812 that he began with the tavern. On the rolls of the Revolutionary soldiers of New Hampshire appears, in Capt. Ebenezer Frye's co., 1777, Apr. 7, the name of Jonathan Manning, of Dunstable. The compiler knows of absolutely no other person of the name at that period, and, while it would hardly be expected, perhaps, that the Jonathan of this sketch would so soon leave his new lands in Chelmsford, no other theory presents itself than that, whether or not he went to Dunstable with a view of settling there, he enlisted there and was the soldier, but returned to Chelmsford afterwards. The inventory of his estate is not found, but in the application for administration, after his death, the estimate was made that his personal estate, alone, was \$5,000. A soldier of the Revolution; marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. Solomon Pollard, and was in Col. Greene's regt. Later, he was in Col. Loammi Baldwin's regt., but how long he served does not appear. He settled in Chelmsford as a farmer, buying 89 acres there, of Joseph Marshall, 1776, Apr. 15, for £153.6.8. In 1795, on the organization of the Middlesex Canal enterprise, he sold land to the proprietors thereof for \$28.75. His other land transactions were few, and not of interest now. After his death the homestead passed into the hands of his son Timothy, who, with the son Asa, and daughters Esther and Mary, none of whom married, occupied the place for a time jointly. Its present occupant is a Mr. Sullivan. Timothy Manning m. 1776, June 13, Mary Heywood (often spelled Howard), "of Chelmsford," b. 1748, Aug. 3, at Woburn; dau. of Nathaniel and Sarah (Wymau) Heywood, and sister of the wife of Wm. Deeds show that he bought land in Chelmsford, 1807, Mch. 3, and sold the same Apr. 24 following. It was probably at this time that he left home. His father, by will, gave thought to the possibility of his return, giving to him, if he came back, \$1, and all the notes, obligations and sureties he (the father) held against said John H. He never returned, and his fate is unknown.

204. SOLOMON<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1753, May 15, at Billerica, Mass. A Revolutionary soldier; marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. Jonathan Stickney and Col. Bridge. Duration of service unknown. Although deeds call him a yeoman in the last 10 years of his life, he was for at least 35 years a cordwainer. His account book for the years 1777-85 is in the custody of the Billerica Historical Society. Some of the items and prices are: A pair of women's shoes, £1.18.0; men's shoes, £2.12.6; children's shoes, 15 shillings to £1.18.0; boots, £3.10.0; "pumps made the old way," £1. These items are in 1780-2, when Revolutionary troubles had affected the currency. He lived in Billerica until 1792, and perhaps later; resided for a time at Wilton, N. H., previous to 1794, Feb. 19, on which date he bought land in Ashburnham, Mass., where he thereafter resided. In Billerica he purchased 1½ acres in 1777, and 11 acres in 1781, but sold the same before removing. At Ashburnham he bought one acre, with a house, in 1794, and 5 acres in 1812. This land he conveyed to his son Samuel, 1832, June 13, and the latter sold it, the following year to his sister Alice. Solomon's estate does not appear in the Probate Office, for the reason that, in his deed of 1832, he also conveyed to his son all his "personal estate of every kind." He m. 1777, May 20, Alice, dau. of John and Alice (Totman) Wilson, of Billerica, b. 1749, Oct. 17, and d. 1787, Apr. 26, without issue; and (2d) 1789, Jan. 6, Olive French, b. 1758, Feb. 13, at Billerica. 205. JACOB<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1739, Nov. 8, at Billerica. He was a soldier of the Revolution, and one of those who marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 9, being in Capt. Solomon Pollard's co., of Col. Greene's regt. He was a cabinet-maker by trade, and a careful, conscientious workman; but was also largely engaged as a farmer. In 1769 he purchased of the other heirs a part of the farm in Billerica which had previously been his father's. He made other purchases in 1766, '76, '83, '85, '98 and 1806, this land all being in his native town; but sold his holdings in 1806 and removed to Lyndeboro, N. H. At Billerica he held various offices, and was identified with other patriots in affairs relating to the Revolution. In 1774, at a town meeting to consider the burdens laid upon the Colonies by the British Government, he was elected one of a committee to get citizens of the town to sign a "covenant" that they would not buy articles on which Parliament had placed an unjust tax. In 1779 he was on a committee "to see that the Resolves and Recommendations of the State & County Convention be punctually complied with." In the same year he was on a committee

“to provide for the families of those persons that are Gone out of this town into the Continental Army.” The exact date of his removal to Lyndeboro cannot be given. He and his son Asa jointly purchased there, 1806, Meh. 31, for $2,700, of John Orne, several tracts of land—102 acres and buildings, 32½ acres, etc. Probably Asa went there at once, and, despite some perplexing evidence, it is believed that Jacob accompanied him. for the latter was certainly residing there 1807, Apr. 22. Mr. Manning and his brother Jesse had bought, 1773, Nov. 18, sixty acres of land in Wilton. He purchased the brother’s interest in 1801, sold 10 acres in 1807, and the balance was sold by Asa in 1809. In Lyndeboro father and son occupied their farm together until Mr. Manning’s death, 1808, July 16, by accident. Asa and his wife had gone on a visit, leaving their parents, their children Olive and Sarah, and the hired man at home. There was hay in the field which Asa told the hired man not to get in, as he thought it would be dangerous to pass through an intervening rocky pasture, but Mr. Manning believed he and the man could manage it, and told the latter to hitch up the oxen. Before leaving he took his grandchildren in his arms to play with them, and when he put them down, said: “Grandpa would like to stay with you all the afternoon;” and then kissed them. In returning through the pasture he was thrown from the load of hay and killed. When he lay in his coffin Olive was held up to look at him, and she exclaimed: “What shall we do for some one to pray, now grandpa is dead?” Asa Manning was appointed administrator of the estate Oct. 16, and the inventory taken Nov. 22 by John Wellman, Jeremiah Carleton and John Carleton. The valuation was $1,936.40, of which $621.65 was personal, and $1,314.75 real estate. The latter was of four items: First, one-half of the homestead farm, estimated to contain 100 acres, with buildings, $806.50; second, one half of another lot in Lyndeboro, 15 acres, $136.25; third, one-half of a third lot, 18 acres, $72, and a tract of 50 acres in Wilton, $300. In the same year, Aug. 15, Asa had paid his brother and two sisters $250 for the release of their rights to all of their father’s estate except household furniture. Jacob Manning and his wife united with the Billerica church, 1764, Apr. 1, and were dismissed by letter to the like society in Lyndeboro, 1807, Nov. 15. They are buried in that town. He m. 1763, June 2, Sarah Butterfield, of Chelmsford, Mass., who d. 1831, Jan. 21, aged 89. Her ancestry was

A soldier of the Revolution; marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. Solomon Pollard, and was in Col. Green's regt. He was also on the Billerica committee to provide supplies for the army. A farmer in his native town. After his father's death he bought of the other heirs, 1769, Jan. 18, a part of the paternal homestead, 75 acres; and, also, 9½ acres of woodland, for $136. He added, 1774, Apr. 30, forty-five rods to his acreage. He held several town offices. He and his wife united with the Billerica church 1768, Aug. 7. He m. 1766, Dec. 2, Anne, dau. of John and Hannah Carleton. Her father came from Bradford and purchased, about 1759, the mill and privileges at North Billerica. Of Anne's date of birth and further ancestry nothing has been learned. There was an Edward Carlton at Rowley, 1642, and his son John lived at Bradford. Perhaps he was an ancestor of John of Billerica. Anne, wife of Jesse Manning d. 1779, Jan. 28, and he m. (2d) 1779, Dec. 30, Elizabeth, dau. of Asa and Elizabeth Abbot, b. 1747, May 21, at Andover. Baldwin had a dau. Abigail b. 1756, Feb. 2; possibly the same. The date of Jesse's death has not been learned, but his will was "lodged" 1825, Nov. 15, which shows that he died a few weeks or months previously. In the will he mentions his wife Abigail; his dau. Julia Knapp and granddaughter Elizabeth M. Knapp. To his son Jesse he gave one-half of his wearing apparel, which, with what he had already had, was his equal share of the estate. Jesse<sup>8</sup> Manning, the testator's grandson, was named as executor, and to him was given the remaining wearing apparel and all of the testator's real estate, "wherever found." It is not found that there were children except by the first marriage, and this probability is confirmed by the fact that no other is mentioned in the will. Ch., b. at Billerica :

569. ELIZABETH, b. 1773, May 20; living in 1782; not mentioned in above will.

570. JESSE, b. 1776, July 12.

571. JULIA, b. 1778, Dec. 12; m. 1805, Nov. 10, Daniel L. Knapp. Four ch. were bap. at Billerica, viz: I. Elizabeth Manning, bap. 1806, Apr. 13. II. Ruth, bap. 1808, Feb. 28. III. Daniel, bap. 1811, Feb. 10. IV. David Manning, bap. 1811, Feb. 10. The family is not further traced.

209. THOMAS<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1747, July 27, at Billerica, Mass. He early settled at Andover, and thereafter made that town his home. He was a cordwainer. In 1769, Jan. 18, he joined his brothers and sister in deeds by which the farm "belonging to our honored father, Jacob Manning, late of Billerica," was, for a due money consideration, divided between two of the brothers who remained in the latter town, and, 1798, Apr. 10, he, with the other heirs, sold his rights in his mother's "thirds" to his brother Jacob. He and his wife united with the South Church, Andover, in 1801. He m. 1769, June 6, Mehitable Kidder, b. 1749, Feb. 22, at Billerica. Her ancestry was Ephraim<sup>4</sup> and Elizabeth (French), her parents; Ephraim<sup>3</sup> and Abigail (Frost); Ephraim<sup>2</sup> and Rachel (Crosby); James<sup>1</sup> and Anna (Moore) Kidder. The last named came from East Grinstead, Sussex, Eng., and, after residing a while at Cambridge, removed, 1659, to Billerica, where he was 8 years selectman, an ensign in the militia company, and a brave and valued leader in the Indian troubles. Thomas Manning d. 1832, Feb. 22; Mehitable, his wife, d. 1824, Aug. 15, both at Andover, where they are buried. Ch., b. at Andover:

572. MEHITABLE, b. 1769, Dec. 30; d. 1785, Jan. 27.

573. CHLOE, b. 1772, Jan. 19.

574. SARAH, b. 1774, May 29.

575. PATTY, b. 1777; d. 1778, Aug. 3, aged 1 y. and 5 mos.

576. THOMAS, b. 1780, Apr. 30; d. 1780, May 24.

577. THOMAS, b. 1781, Apr. 25.

579. SARAH, bap. 1764, Feb. 12; d. 1765; buried Aug. 15.

580. ELIZABETH. bap. 1765, Apr. 14; m. 1787, Mch. 30. William Taylor, of Waltham; had sons John and Samuel bap. 1796, Oct. 16, at Charlestown.
581. PHEBE, b. 1766, Nov. 10.
582. SARAH, b. 1768, Jan. 6. Not traced. Not remembered by collateral descendants; perhaps d. in childhood.
583. WILLIAM, bap. 1769, Dec. 31.
584. HANNAH, bap. 1771, Dec. 15; d. 1807, Dec., unm., at Waltham; funeral from the house of her sister, Mrs. Peirce.
585. JOHN, b. 1776, Mch. 8, at Spencer.
586. DANIEL, b. about 1778, probably at Leicester. [Baptized at Waltham, 1787, Sep. 9, Daniel, aged 9, and Isaac, aged 7, sons of the widow Phebe Manning.] Daniel was a skillful musician, and one tradition is that he enlisted at the Charlestown Navy Yard as a bugler in the war of 1812, and soon died. Another account is that he "went South or West." One report is that he never married; other informants have no information upon this point. The present writer is inclined to doubt all of these traditions, especially as they lack conviction on the part of informants, and as there is good reason to doubt that Daniel was in the war of 1812. He certainly resided for a time at Charlestown. Who was the Daniel Manning whose intention of marriage with Mary Davis is found at Boston, 1803, June 6? Was this our Daniel? Did he have children? No opinion will be ventured here. Read what is said of Thomas Daniel Manning, No. 82*a*, of the Miscellaneous Families in the appendix to this volume.
587. ISAAC, b. about 1780, at Paxton or Spencer.

589. JOSEPH (Sweetser) bap. 1763, Oct. 16.
590. WILLIAM (Sweetser) bap. 1765, Aug. 1.
591. ELIZABETH (Sweetser) bap. 1767, Feb. 8.
592. RICHARD (Sweetser), bap. 1768, Sep. 11.
593. CALEB (Sweetser) bap. 1772, Oct. 25.

was abated 15*sh.* and 2*d.*, in 1764, and, in 1785, "7½." In 1784 and 1785 he was paid by the town for boarding certain poor persons. He m. 1763, Dec. 8, Hannah, dau. of Jerathmeel and Rebecca (Hurd) Peirce, bap. 1744, Dec. 16; d. 1764, buried Aug. 26, leaving one child which, baptized after her death, died the next year. Isaac m. (2d), at an unknown date, Jane ———. Her maiden name does not appear, and there is no clew unless it is furnished by the middle name of her son. (See his sketch.) There was a William Homes, goldsmith, in Boston 1789 and after, but this may indicate nothing. Possibly one of her sureties, mentioned below, was a relative, but nothing is known to that effect. The date of Jane's death is unknown. Isaac Manning d. 1787, between Jan. 19 and Jan. 26, aged, according to the newspaper notice of his death, 44 years. Administration on his estate was granted to his widow the following Dec. 6, with John Carter and Jabez Frothingham as her sureties. Nothing has been found to show positively that there was more than one child by the second marriage, and descendants of that one do not remember that he had brothers or sisters; but their knowledge of collateral relatives of even more recent times was limited. Theoretically, it looks as if there were two children, and there may have been several. No evidence whatever appears to determine this last possibility. Ch. :

594. ISAAC, bap. 1764, Sep. 9; the only child of the first marriage; d. 1765, buried Aug. 10.

233. JAMES<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1742-3, Mch. 21, at Charlestown, Mass. He resided in his native town. He was a colonial soldier under Capt. John Toplin in the expedition "destined for Canada," the service being in 1759 from Apr. 2 to Sep.; and, again, in 1761, under Capt. Toplin and Col. Frye. The first-mentioned expedition "sailed from the Castle" (Fort Independence) Apr. 24. Tradition says that, in private life, he was occupied with the ferry between Charlestown and Boston, so long operated by his father. When, after the battle of Bunker Hill, Charlestown was burned, James and his family shared in the general flight caused by the spreading flames. The mother took Aaron, the youngest child, in her arms, and carried him on foot into the country, the older children running by her side. Mr. Manning carried on his back what valuables he could thus convey. The house in which they lived, with the greater part of its contents, was destroyed by fire. He set his loss of personal property at £20.8.2. There is still in existence an old mahogany desk, with secret drawers, which belonged to him, and which was in the house while the above battle was in progress, but which was saved. In modern times it was 30 years in the keeping of his great grandson, Mr. Prentice C. Manning, and by him was more recently given into the care of his older brother, Charles F. Manning. How soon James and family returned to Charlestown is not certain; they were there in 1784, and he remained and d. there 1790, Nov. 11. He was probably in ill health 1784-90. No estate in the Probate Office. He m. 1765, Feb. 18, Ann Brown. Wyman's Charlestown Genealogies says she was dau. of Benjamin and Anna (Boylston) Brown. If this is correct she was bap. at Charlestown, 1742-3, Mch. 21. The memorandum of Mr. Franklin Manning (a grandson of James, and a careful and reliable recorder) says that James "married Ann Brown, of Concord." and adds: "The widow Brown of Concord was my father's grandmother, and she was sister to the mother of Nathan Kinsman, of Hanover, N. H." Ann Manning "owned the covenant" 1765, Sep. 22. Ch., b. at Charlestown:

596. JAMES, bap. 1765, Nov. 17; enlisted as a Revolutionary soldier, 1781, Feb. 12, at Framingham, "for the war." He was described as being 16 years old; stature, 4 ft. 10 inches; complexion, light; hair, brown; eyes, dark: farmer. He d. 1800, Jan. 14, at Charlestown, of consumption. It has been supposed that he was unmarried, but proof to that effect is lacking. An intention of marriage at Boston, 1789, Sep. 20, is that of one James Manning and Elizabeth Renan. There is no known reason to suppose this was our James.

597. ANN, bap. 1767, Aug. 16.

598. WILLIAM, b. 1770, Mch. 25.

599. SUSANNA, bap. 1772, Feb. 28; m. 1807, Oct. 13, Samuel Stevens, of Andover. She d. 1809, Mch. 29.

600. AARON, b. 1775, Apr. 1.

601. HANNAH, bap. 1769, Apr. 2; m. 1798, Feb. 28, William Taylor, a printer. She was living in 1813, when she was administratrix of the estate of her husband, deceased.

602. ELIZABETH, bap. 1771, July 7; not traced.

235. CALEB<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1746, Oct. 26, at Charlestown, Mass. He resided for a time in his native town, and was one of the sufferers by the Charlestown fire, 1775, his estimate of his loss being £12.11; removed to Medford before 1778, July 21, and to Salem 10 or 11 years later. When he sold his rights in his father's estate, 1788, Mch. 11, the deed gives his residence as Salem, but he had a child baptized at Medford, Nov. 8 of the same year; the removal soon followed, and his home was thenceforth at Salem. He was a chaisemaker. At Charlestown he was elected hayward in 1774-5. In 1777 he, together with his step-mother, was administrator of his father's estate. He bought, 1787, Oct. 12, for £36, land in Charlestown with an adjoining dock, but there is no evidence that he personally occupied it. This purchase was sold, 1810, Dec. 10, by his widow, Rachel, and his daughters, Mary, Elizabeth and Abigail. Caleb d. 1792, March, at Salem. He. m. at Charlestown, 1772, Nov. 24, Rachel Rand, bap. 1746, Apr. 20, at Charlestown. Her ancestry was Nathaniel<sup>4</sup> and Mehitable (Call), her parents; Joseph<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Bridgen); Sergt. Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> and Abigail (Carter); Robert<sup>1</sup> and Alice Rand, all of Charlestown, where Robert<sup>1</sup> settled as early as 1635. Rachel owned the covenant at Charlestown, 1773, Oct. 17. She returned to Charlestown as early as 1796, and was living there 1810, Dec. 10. Not accounted for further. Ch. :

603. NATHANIEL, birth not recorded. Of him Wyman's Charlestown says, "died early." Such was his history then: nothing has since been added. At Medford, Caleb had a child (no name recorded) die 1778, July 21. The old church book has the burial of this nameless one (July 22), and calls him "the only child of Caleb Manning." Unless a mistake was made in terming him "the only child," this may be the death of Nathaniel. Without this last item it would be significant that, at Boston, 1795, Dec. 3, is found the marriage intention of one Nathaniel Manning and Elizabeth Larned (and this Nathaniel was probably the man, a painter, who lived on Sea st., Boston, 1796-1800, and on Prince st., 1805; probably, too, the Nathaniel who d. at Boston, 1818, Jan. 9). "Died early" is indefinite. The present writer has found the term applied to all ages from 1 year to 45. It is possible that our Nathaniel lived to marry. Elizabeth, widow of the Nathaniel of Boston, d. 1833, Apr. 24. By will she gave her property to her nieces, Elizabeth and Sarah Bemis Magnoni, and to her sisters, Susan, widow of Thomas Eliot, Ann Learned, spinster, and Avis, widow of Pelligrino Magnoni. These sisters are termed her only heirs, from which it seems she left no children.

604. CALEB, bap. 1778, Nov. 8, at Medford. He was a chair-maker, and resided at Salem. He m. there, 1801, Apr. 16, Lois Graves. She d. 1807, Oct. 4; Caleb d. 1810, June, both at Salem. All efforts to learn more of them have failed. When, 1810, Dec. 10, the Charlestown real estate of the elder Caleb [235] was sold, as above, the widow and her three daughters appear as sole grantors. No son joined in the deed, and no grandson by his guardian. This would seem to indicate that neither Caleb, junior, nor his brother Nathaniel had left children, but the evidence is not thought conclusive as to the former. The married life of Caleb and Lois covered a period of over six years. It is unlikely that they had no children. While at Salem, Caleb had several land transactions with one Samuel Burrell Graves. At Salem, 1810, June 25, occurred the death of one Burrell G. Manning, at the age of 38 years. The similarity of his name to that of Mr. Graves is striking. Was Lois Graves closely related to Samuel Burrell Graves, and was Burrell G. Manning her son? If she had one child by her marriage with Caleb there may have been others. The point cannot be settled now.
605. ABIGAIL, bap. 1781, Mch. 11, at Medford; m. 1805, Dec. 29, Henry V. Hammat, of Boston, where he resided 1806-7. She was living in 1810. Not traced further.
606. MARY, b. 1784, about Sep.; d. in Charlestown, 1874, June 24, aged 89 years and 9 mos., unm.
607. ELIZABETH, b. 1789, about Apr.; m. 1838 (intention, Feb. 4) Jacob G. Hall. She d. 1872, Jan.

Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1755, Dec. 28, at Charlestown, Mass. He probably was a Revolutionary soldier under Capt. Joshua Chadwick and Col. Gridley. The Thomas Manning of this service enlisted 1775, May 15, and his age was 19 years, which fits the Thomas of this section. Moreover, the soldier's residence was Charlestown, and this combined evidence seems conclusive. Before 1783 he settled at Salem, where he was a cabinet-maker. He joined in the deed of 1788 by which he and the other heirs sold his father's real estate in Charlestown. The date of his death is not known. He m. 1782, Oct. 20, at Salem, Hannah, dau. of Richard Tukesbury, who d. 1829, Nov. 17, aged 73. She had m. (2d) Joseph Mansfield; intention, 1807, Oct. 10. Ch. of Thomas and Hannah, b. at Salem :

5 feet and 7 inches; light complexion, hair and eyes; prisoner at Ticonderoga." If he was still missing at this time he had, it would seem, then been 6 months a prisoner. But the report erred in giving Ticonderoga as the place where he was taken prisoner, for John, in his petition for reimbursement for the loss of his "baggage," when captured, distinctly states that he was taken at Hubbardton. This petition was made 1796, Dec. He continued in service, after being "retaken," and was promoted to the rank of sergeant. After the war he was, in 1783, back in Dunstable, and, in that year, was one of several signers to a petition concerning the election of a representative. Later, he removed to Amherst, where he bought real estate in 1785. In 1803, in that town, he was one of numerous petitioners to have a part of Amherst set off to form a new town. The request was granted, and the new division named Mont Vernon. This was his home from that time. He is credited with exactly the same musical qualities possessed by his brother Isaac, but, while the proof is positive as to the brother, it is possible that the distant relatives who have ascribed the same qualities to John were confused as to identity. The compiler does not attempt to decide this question. John was a carpenter. In his will, drawn 1813, Feb. 13, he gives to his "honest, good and beloved wife," Lydia, and to his "only son" Enoch, etc. He m. 1784, Feb. 15, Lydia Pike, of Amherst, b. 1768, Meh. 22; d. 1834, Feb. 2. Her ancestry has not been learned, but there was a Pike family in Amherst, and Benj., Benj., Jr. and Enoch Pike were among the signers of the petition of 1803, before mentioned. Sergeant John Manning d. 1829, Aug. 5, at Mont Vernon. Ch.:

341. SAMUEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Eliphalet,<sup>5</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1752, Nov. 16, at Tewksbury, Mass. A Revolutionary soldier of long experience. He was among others who marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. John Trull and Col. Ebenezer Bridge, and, later in the same year, was under Capt. John Harnden and Col. Bridge. He enlisted 1777, June 14, for 3 years, and long served in Col. Henry Jackson's regt., his company commanders being, at various times, Capt. Langdon, Lt. Condy and Maj. Samuel Trescott. He was in this regiment as late as 1779, Dec., and probably served his full term in some command. He was promoted as sergeant, 1777, Sep. 15, and retained the office as long as he was with Col. Jackson. Late in life he was a pensioner under act of Congress, and to the end of his life. He located at Tewksbury, where he was captain of the militia company. Tradition says he at one time kept a tavern at Tewksbury Center, and was subsequently a skillful shoemaker. He was also a farmer, as is shown by deed of 1787. It is probable that he had part of his father's farm by unrecorded deed. His only recorded purchase was 1787, Apr. 2, of 15 acres for £36. This land lay west of his dwelling house. He sold 17 acres in 1789, and seems to have had 85 acres (and perhaps more) in 1809. Other sales followed. He left no will, but died "possessed of goods & estate." Administration was granted to his son Benjamin. No inventory of his estate is found on file now. He united with the church, 1781, Oct. 14; his wife doubtless united previously. He m. 1780, Nov. 2, Mrs. Mehitable Burt, widow of Benj. Burt and dau. of Rev. Sampson Spalding. The latter was a graduate of Harvard, 1732, and pastor of the church at Tewksbury for 59 years, from the time it was founded until his death in 1796. Mehitable was b. 1749, Mch. 13; d. 1821, Mch. 23. Her ancestry was Rev. Sampson<sup>4</sup> and Mehitable (Hunt), her parents; John<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Barrett), of Chelmsford; Andrew<sup>2</sup> and Hannah (Jefts), and Edward<sup>1</sup> and Rachel Spalding, the founders in America, Edward having come from England about 1630-3, and early settled at Chelmsford. Capt. Manning d. at Tewksbury, 1822, Apr. 11, according to the Revolutionary Pension Roll. The town record says 1821, Apr. 7, but gives his age as 69, which confirms the Pension Roll. He and his wife are buried at Tewksbury; no gravestones. Ch., b. at Tewksbury:

733. BENJAMIN, b. 1781, June 12.

734. ABIAH, b. 1782, Dec. 24.

735. SAMUEL, b. 1784, Sep. 22.

736. NANCY, b. 1786, Aug. 20.

737. HANNAH, b. 1788, May 6.

738. PAMELIA, b. 1790, Apr. 9.

739. MARY SPALDING, b. 1792, Mch. 6; lived chiefly in Melrose; d. 1868, Jan. 8, unm.

regt. Later he was in Capt. Benj. Walker's co., of Bridge's regt., having enlisted at Tewksbury in April of the latter year for eight months. He fought at the battle of Bunker Hill. He re-enlisted 1776, Jan. 1, for one year, in Capt. William Hull's company, 19th Continental Infantry, Col. Charles Webb. This regiment was raised as an independent command, at large, by authority of Congress. Col. Webb was of Connecticut, and, as a consequence, Isaac Manning's name appears in the list of soldiers printed by the State of Ct. He was transferred 1776, July 16, to Washington's Life Guards, where he served under Major Caleb Gibbs. From 1778, Dec. 10, to 1780, July 1, he probably was not in service. On the last-named date he rejoined the Life Guards, "for the war," and served until 1783, June 6, when he was furloughed, and discharged Nov. 3 following. In all these services he was a fifer. One old roll describes him as being 5 feet and 8 inches in height; complexion dark, and a shoemaker by calling. While his service was not continuous it will be seen that he took part from the day of the first battle until peace was established. Soon after the war he settled at Amherst, N. H., where, in 1788, he was one of several petitioners to have a part of the so-called north-west church parish annexed to the second parish. In 1803 he was a signer of the petition to have a portion of the town set off to form a new township, and, this being done, the change made him an inhabitant of Mont Vernon. He had an unusual musical gift, and often played the violin at dances. It is said of him on good authority that he would dance and play the instrument at the same time, and leap from a window and re-enter the house by the door without varying in "time" in his playing. He continued the occupation of a shoemaker, but is said to have earned a considerable part of his living playing at dances. He m. at Amherst 1786, June 13, Sarah Pike, born in 1765, according to his pension papers. She was living at Mont Vernon 1849, Nov. 22, and d. about 1850. She was probably related to Benjamin Pike, of Amherst and Mont Vernon; perhaps his daughter. At some time previous to 1818 Isaac Manning returned to Tewksbury, where he d. 1825, June 27. He was probably buried there; no gravestone exists. It is not found that he ever owned real estate, and he seems to have left no property, as his name does not appear in the Probate Office. The birth-dates of his children are generally lacking, and the exact order of birth is not certain. The order adopted here is the same in which they are named in his pension papers, and it is believed to be thoroughly correct. Probably all were born at Amherst and Mont Vernon. Ch. :

740. BETSEY, date of birth not learned; m. Micajah Harrison and removed to the South.
741. JOHN T., date of birth not learned. His history is uncertain. A nephew has reported that he was drugged and compelled to enlist in the war of 1812, in which service he was a musician; and that, while on a transport, he fell overboard and, becoming entangled in sea-weed, was drowned. This statement, though made in good faith, was none too confident, and, for reasons mentioned below, is believed to be positively incorrect in at least one particular. Another relative reports that John married Prudence Stevens and had one child; a son, if memory is correct. There the family recollections end. From other sources the following has been learned. First, Isaac Manning's pension paper calls this son John T. Secondly, some one named John T. Manning m. at Boston, Mass., 1815, Mch. 25, Charlotte Barker (marriage intention gives her name as Baker). This appearance of the name John T. Manning may be a coincidence. If he was the same man as the subject of this sketch it cannot be that he was drowned in the war of 1812. Further than this nothing can be said, except that there is some reason to believe that the full name of Isaac's son was John Tyng Manning.
742. RACHEL; lived and d. unm. at Goffstown, N. H.
743. LYDIA, b. 1794, Oct. 22.
744. BENJAMIN PIKE, b. 1798, Mch. 28.
745. HENRY. Resided last at Topsham, Vt., where he d. 1880, Mch. 1; m. Harriet Andrews (another account, perhaps less reliable, gives her name prior to marriage as Dickerson,) by whom he had no children.
746. WOODBURY. Mentioned in pension paper and remembered by the widow of his brother Benj. P. Resided for a time in Mont Vernon. No more has been learned of him.
747. WILLIAM, b. about 1810.

343. ELIPHALET<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Eliphalet,<sup>5</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1757, Apr. 16, at Tewksbury, Mass. A soldier of the Revolution. He marched on the Lexington alarm, 1773, Apr. 19, under Capt. John Trull, and was in Col. Ebenezer Bridge's regt. Later, in the same year, he was under Capt. Benj. Walker for 3 mos. and 11 days, and, 1776, under Capt. John Ford and Col. Robinson from Feb. 5 to April. In this year he was one of sundry men paid for "losses at Lexington and Bunker Hill." He then went to Dunstable, N. H., and, some time in 1776, enlisted from there in Col. Joseph Cilley's 1st N. H. Regt., for 3 years. He was first under Capt. Amos Emerson, and next under Capt. Josiah Munroe. He remained with this regiment until well along in 1781 (Kidder's history of said regiment says until Dec.), rounding out a service nearly, or quite, continuous of over 6 years. It is said that he also served the Government in Shays' Rebellion. He received a pension for his Revolutionary service. He remained a devoted patriot, and was quick to resent any uncomplimentary remark against his country. Drake's History of Middlesex Co., referring to a period 40 years after the Revolution, says: "A grandson of Capt. Trull relates how he was often hailed by the aged and enfeebled Eliphalet Manning, one of the survivors of that memorable march [that of 1775], who would thus address him: 'I fought with your grandfather from Concord to Charlestown.'" After the war Eliphalet resided chiefly, perhaps wholly, in Tewksbury. A farmer. He doubtless had a part of his father's farm. No purchase by him is on record, but he sold lots at various times, beginning with 1797, until his farm was parted with wholly. Tradition says he was "a great Indian fighter," and many stories are told of his alleged exploits as such. These must be rejected, as they are the standard legends familiar to all persons 40 years ago, and, moreover, of great antiquity and unknown origin. Eliphalet's Revolutionary service may, however, have taken him where there was Indian fighting. A paper in the Probate Office states that he left no property, but that a small balance as a pensioner was due him. He was a man of marked characteristics, and is well remembered in the town to the present day. He m. 1784, intention Dec. 20, Sarah Goodwin, of Woburn. Her parentage has not been learned. One Thomas Goodwin and wife Mary lived in Billerica and Woburn; probably relatives, and perhaps parents of Sarah, but no evidence to that effect is known, except the similarity of Christian names. The Tewksbury church record has this entry: Died 1814, Jan. 30, "the widow Kittredge, the mother of Life Manning's wife, of old age, 84." From this it would seem that Mrs. Goodwin had made a second marriage. Mrs. Sarah Manning was living 1814, June 25 [deed], but the date of her death does not appear. Eliphalet Manning d. 1826, Aug. 9, at Tewksbury, where he was buried; no gravestone. Ch., probably all b. at Tewksbury:

749. WALTER, date of birth unknown.

750. SALLY, date of birth unknown; admitted to the church in Wilmington, 1816, Dec. 9. All accounts agree that she went West (to Illinois?) to teach, but m. some one there as his second wife. One account, which may be doubtful, says she had previously m. — Morrison (William?) and lived "on the Burlington (Mass.) road." This is supposed to mean, in Reading. If this is correct she was twice married. All accounts agree that she had no ch.
751. RUEL GOODWIN, b. 1790, May 1.
752. JOSEPH, b. about 1793.
753. BETSEY, b. about 1796; m. at Boston, 1826, Nov. 29, Lorenzo, son of Amos and Betsey Parker, a native of Reading, where they afterwards lived. He d. there, 1872, Feb. 4, aged 77. Betsey d. 1868, July 17, by accident, having fallen down a stairway, aged 72. Death recorded at Reading, but, in the record, said to have occurred at Wilmington. No. ch., according to relatives.
754. NATHANIEL, b. 1798, Sep. 14.
755. PHILENE, date of birth unknown; m. Gilman R. Gardner, of Bedford, N. H.; intention at Tewksbury 1820, Dec. 15. He is said to have been a brother of Ruel G. Manning's wife. Descendants who have been located have been unable, or unwilling, to send a record. The following list of children is believed to be mainly correct; it is not warranted as such: I. Sophia. II. Clara Sophia; perhaps the same as previous. III. George; went West. IV. Freeman; lived in Lynn. V. Jane; m. Henry Wilson, in Manchester. VI. Lorenzo P. VII. Ellen. VIII. Charles J.; lives in Lynn.
756. SYLVESTER, b. 1801, Jan. 17.
757. SOPHIA, b. 1807, Nov. 8; m. 1830, Sep. 30, James B. Flint, of No. Reading, where she was lately residing. Ch.: I. Julia Frances; m. Geo. Abbott. II. Sarah; m. Jos. Smith. III. Henry; m. Cliste Smith. IV. Alvin; m. Laura Russell. V. Charles; d. aged 11 years.

355. THOMAS<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Thomas,<sup>5</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1750, Nov. —, at Tewksbury, Mass. A soldier of the Revolution; marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19; was in Capt. Jonathan Brown's company, of Col. David Green's regt. Perhaps he served further. There are several terms under the name of Thomas Manning which the compiler is unable to allot definitely to the several men of the same name who were in the army. Resided in his native town as a farmer. He lived in the house erected by his father, and added to the work of the farm the raising of hops for the yearly market. His estate was inventoried at £185.5.1, of which £77.3.11 was personal property. The homestead was appraised at £75, and 20 acres of land in Wilmington at £30, and two acres of meadow at £3.1.2. In 1800, Mch. 17, Rebecca, his widow, purchased by deed the rights of the two eldest children, Thomas and Hannah, for $50. Ultimately, the farm became the property of the son Jonathan. Thomas Manning, the father, m. 1776, intention Mch. 6, Abigail Stanley, of Wilmington, who d. 1783, May 11; and (2d) 1783, Nov. 20, Rebecca Goodwin, then of Tewksbury. It is said she was previously of Woburn, and sister to the wife of Eliphalet Manning. Her birth is given as May 8, but the year is not learned. She d. 1834, in Dec. Thomas Manning d. 1794, Jan. 8, at Tewksbury.

758. HANNAH, b. about 1777; m. 1800, intention Nov. 30, Thomas Richardson, then of Methuen. Said to have been of Dracut at one time. Several ch. All efforts to trace the family have failed.

356. CYRUS<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Josiah,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1743, May 15, at Windham, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier; was among those who marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19. This service was for only 4 days, but he re-enlisted, and d. 1776, Dec. 14, at New Haven, while on his return from the army. His name has not been found on the Ct. rolls for this last service, but the Mass. rolls supply the omission and show that his officers were Capt. James Stedman, of Windham, and Lt. Col. John Douglas. He m. 1771, Dec. 12, Mary, dau. of John and Mercy (Carey) Baker, and granddau. of Dea. John and Anna Baker, of Windham. Mary was b. 1749, Oct. 15, and was living 1836, Dec. 13, when she made application for a pension for her husband's services, which was granted. Ch.:

766. JAMES, b. 1772, July 14, at Windham; d. 1809, Apr. 7, aged 36, according to the church book of Windham. It is not known that he ever married. It is, however, worthy of notice that one James Manning was, during this period, residing at Pomfret, some 15 miles from Windham. He m. Rhoda Lathrop, perhaps dau. of Jonathan and Elizabeth (Hewet) Lathrop. James is said to have d. in Pomfret; his widow removed with her father to Franklin Co., N. Y. The ch. of this James Manning were: I. Samuel Goodell, b. 1797; supervisor at Moira, 1844-8, and justice of sessions, 1849; m. and had one child, Gertrude, now Mrs. Nichols, of White Plains, N. Y. II. Warren Lathrop, b. 1800; church trustee; supervisor, 1846-8, at Fort Covington, N. Y.; m. and had one child, Warren Lathrop, who d. aged 18 years. Mrs. Nichols, above, has always understood that her grandfather, James, was an only child; thus far the evidence harmonizes. But it is her impression, further, that her grandfather d. when his younger ch. was 2 years old. If all the dates here given are correct, James of Pomfret cannot have been the James of Windham, but it may not be inappropriate to preserve here the facts above set forth.

at Lebanon, where he owned a farm and was also a wheelwright. He m. 1775, May 12, Rhoda Loomis, of Lebanon, b. 1753, June 14; d. 1843, Nov. 19. Her ancestry was Israel<sup>5</sup> and Mary (Marsh), her parents; John<sup>4</sup> and Martha (Osborn); Thomas<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (White); John<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Scott), and Joseph<sup>1</sup> Loomis, who came from England in 1638 and settled at Windsor. Eleazer d. 1834, Dec. 14. Ch., b. at Lebanon:

767. RHODA, b. 1775, Oct. 28; m. 1796, May 26, John, son of Nathaniel and Lois (Sackett) Williams, b. 1771, Nov. 8, of Lebanon. Removed to Long Bottom, Ohio, it is said. Not further traced.

768. ELEAZER, b. 1782, Apr. 18.

769. OLIVE, b. 1783, Dec. 18; m. 1811, Aug., William B., son of Stephen and Elizabeth (Perry) Champlin, b. 1785, Feb. 13, at So. Kingston, R. I. Resided in Ct. for a time; removed to Northmoreland, Pa., where he d. 1853, Aug. 14, and Olive, 1870, Oct. 18. Additional dates not supplied. Ch.: I. Elizabeth, b. at Columbia, Ct.; m. 1831, Theron Newberry (?—this surname not legibly written). She d. 1843, at Monroe, Pa.; 9 ch. II. William Manning, b. at Columbia; resided at Keelersburg, Pa.; justice of the peace and capt. of the 7th co., 116th regt. Deceased. Ch., Harriet, Mary, Lydia A., John W., Almira, Alvira, Emma and Stephen F. III. Rhoda, b. at Lebanon; m. Nathaniel W. Mitchell; resided at Center Moreland, Pa.; 1 ch. IV. Olive, b. in Pa.; m. 770. ELIJAH, b. 1785, Mch. 22; d. 1786, Sep. 14.

771. ORMAN, b. 1791, Feb. 27; resided in Lebanon; m. 1816, Apr. 18, his cousin, Harriet Manning [772]. He d. 1855, May 21; she d. 1856, Mch. 21. No ch.

365. INCREASE<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Josiah,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1761, Jan. 18, at Windham, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier, 1776, under Capt. Nathaniel Wales and Col. Mason, and, in his old age, a pensioner. He was undoubtedly the same man whose name, in the printed list of Ct. pensioners, was rendered as "Trierse" Manning. The compiler of the above list evidently found writing, somewhere, too perplexing to be correctly deciphered. He had his father's farm, and resided thereon until he sold it, 1827, Sep. 7, to Gamaliel Manning [417]. He had a marked musical gift; enjoyed a fine reputation as a choir leader, and was often employed as an instructor in vocal music. He was called "Capt." Manning, from which it seems he was prominent in militia affairs; it is not known that he received the title in any war. He m. Eunice, dau. of Eliphalet and Dinah (Rudd) Huntington, b. 1769, Sep. 17, at Windham, and d. 1801, Feb. 25; and (2d) Betsey ———, who d. 1830, Sep. 16, aged 60. Capt. Manning d. 1834, Sep. 15, at Lebanon. Tradition says he was buried in the Palmer ground, Scotland Society, Windham. Ch.:

366. CALVIN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Hezekiah,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1746, May 4, at Windham, Ct. Previous to his marriage he settled in Coventry, where he resided from that time. He owned land, and, in the lack of definite information, is believed to have been a farmer. His fellow townsmen elected him to the office of selectman. He was one of the executors of his father-in-law's will. Numerous letters remaining uncalled for in the Norwich post-office were advertised in the Norwich Packet of 1791, Jan. 28. Of these, one was for "Capt. Calvin Manning, Coventry, Ct." Whence this title came is unknown, but the probability is that he was an officer in the militia. If he was a soldier, the service seems not to have been recorded. He m. 1774, Sep. 22, Lydia, dau. of Samuel and Mary (Hindsdel) Robertson, b. 1753, Feb. 12, at Coventry; d. 1842, Mch. 15. Although this form of the name was used by the family at Coventry, it is said that earlier generations spelled the name Robinson, and that she was a descendant of Robert Robinson, an early settler at Newbury, Mass. (It may be that the surname Hindsdel is a misspelling of Hinsdale.) Capt. Manning d. 1823, Dec. 2, in his adopted town; buried at South Coventry. Ch., b. at Coventry:

residence is given as Sharon. He was in service 1780, Jan. 25, but how much longer is unknown. After the war he resided for several years at Stockbridge, Mass., and, from Jan. 1793, to 1795, he was brigade major of the 9th (Berkshire) division of the State militia of Mass. He was called Major Manning to the close of his life. In 1795 he removed to Lisle, Broome Co., N. Y., where he afterwards resided. He m. in that part of Woodbury, Ct., now called Southbury, 1785, Oct. 6, Lucy Peck, of whose ancestry, birth and death nothing has been learned; and he m. (2d) Anne, dau. of Col. Giles and Anne Thomas Jackson, b. 1761, May 15; d. 1847, Aug. 5. Major Manning d. in 1816, at Manningville, in Lisle.

404. DAN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Joseph,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1753, Sep. 29, at Windham, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. He marched on the Lexington alarm of 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. John Kingsley. Another term was from 1778, Mch. 3, to 1779, Jan. 1, under Capt. Wills Clift and Col. Samuel Wyllys, in the 3d Ct. regt. which, during this time, was with Washington's main army. This seems to be all the service that is to be found on the incomplete rolls, but, fortunately, more is known of his war record. A grandson whose information is of the best states that he was in the battles of Bunker Hill, Long Island, Trenton, Princeton, Monmouth and Yorktown, and stood near Gen. Lincoln when the latter received the sword of Gen. O'Hara, the representative of Lord Cornwallis, after the last-named battle. He was under Gen. Israel Putnam at Bunker Hill, and, being with the Ct. troops at "the rail fence," saw the general gallop along the line on his horse under fire. He afterwards received a pension. In 1783 he went to Poultney, Vt., and henceforth resided in that town. The first land he bought, paying in part therefor a horse, saddle and bridle, he lost by reason of the former possessor having a defective title. During the war his house and its contents had been burned. Now, for a second time, he lost his all. He purchased anew (on Town Hill), and, being a cooper as well as a farmer, the payments were to be made in barrels, a certain number to be delivered annually for 4 years "on Poultney Green by the whipping-post." He began work on the land, which was a dense forest, and frequented by bears, wolves and panthers, and where he was occasionally visited by a friendly Indian. He built a log-cabin of two rooms, one for a cooper shop, the other for his family; and for a time lived with his dog and gun as his only companions. In 1784 he brought his family from Windham, by team, his wife walking the greater part of the way with her youngest child in her arms. At the new home she spun and wove and made her own cloth, and, also, her own bed-covers. When the Baptists were trying to build a church at East Poultney there was some difficulty in getting a suitable location. A former resident, then living "West, on what was once called the 'Holland Purchase,' " owned the Poultney Green, where the church now stands. Mr. Manning went to him on horseback, secured a deed of the desired site, returned home and, going to the town clerk's in the night, had the deed recorded before his absence was generally known. He gave time, money and lumber toward building the church. He was always called "Captain;" perhaps from militia associations. He remained on his farm as long as he was able to do any work, and then resided with his daughter Esther. He m. 1775, Mch. 2, Lydia Peters, b. 1755, Dec. 24, at Coventry, Ct. 406. JOSEPH<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Joseph,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1761, Dec. 9, at Windham, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. Before he was old enough to enlist he was in the army as waiter for some officer, believed to have been a general. His actual service as a soldier has not been found on any existing roll, but there was such a service, and, in later years, he received a pension therefor. His pension papers state that he enlisted at Windham, and, a part of the time, was under Capt. Rudd and Col. Ledyard. His actual participation after enlistment was of 11 months duration. Further than this, a document in the hands of a granddaughter shows that he enlisted at Windham, 1784, Sep. 1, under Capt. Ralph Ripley, in the 1st co., 4th regt. of Light Horse. As this was subsequent to the treaty of peace with Great Britain, the nature of the service is unknown. He married at Windham; then resided for a time at Windsor, but soon removed to Poultney, Vt. His wife's health failed, and he took her back to Ct., where she died, after which he returned to Poultney. A cooper by trade. He made quite a property for those days, but lost heavily by signing a note with a friend. He d. at Poultney about Feb., 1849. He m. 1784, Nov. 25, Lydia Everett, b. 1764, Jan. 14; date of death unknown; and (2d), probably in Ct., Eunice Smith, ancestry unknown, who d. at Poultney before 1839. The ancestry of Lydia Everett was Jeremiah<sup>1</sup> and Lydia, her parents; Israel<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Culver); John<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Peffer), and Richard<sup>1</sup> and Mary Everett, the founders, who were at Dedham, Mass., as early as 1638.

lieved that he was the John Manning who, in the Revolutionary war, served in 1778, July 31 to Sep. 1, under Capt. Allen McLane

and for the same length of time, and this is considered strong evidence that the John Manning on the roll was the subject of this sketch. Tradition says that he early went to Lebanon to live with and help his maternal grandfather, Benjamin Seabury. The date is unknown, but he was in that town before his marriage. From this branch of his relatives he eventually received substantial bequests. Samuel Seabury, his uncle, by his will (drawn 1792; probated in 1800) gave to him as follows: "All my Lands, Buildings, and Real Estate lying in Lebanon," one-half of his wearing apparel, his "Silver Buttons of every size, silver watch and Gold Buttons," one-quarter of his sheep, and all of his farming utensils and ready money. The farm was of 130 acres, and was inventoried at £1,088. The testator also remembered the other ch. of his sister Sarah Manning, and among other bequests was one of some 87 volumes of books. John Manning was a prominent citizen of Lebanon. In 1796 he united with the church; was appointed deacon, 1810, June 28, and, 1811, Jan. 3, was "consecrated to the office of Deacon by prayer, and the laying on of the hand of the Pastor after the example of the Apostles. Acts 6." By will he gave $400 to his son Henry, and divided the farm between his sons John and Samuel, subject to the rights of their mother and sister; Samuel having the house and other buildings standing thereon, and the farming utensils. Dea. Manning m. 1784, Feb. 18, Mary Perkins, b. 1753, Aug. 23, at Norwich, and d. 1794, May 28, at Lebanon; and (2d) 1795, Mch. 4, Irena Wood, of Windham, who d. 1840, Feb. 7, in her 86th year. Her parentage is unknown. Mary Perkins' ancestry was Capt. Jacob<sup>4</sup> and Jemima (Leonard), of Norwich, her parents; Capt. Jabez<sup>3</sup> and Hannah (Lathrop), of Norwich; Sergt. Jacob<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth, of Ipswich, Mass., and John<sup>1</sup> and Judith Perkins, of Ipswich, who came to Boston with Roger Williams in the ship Lion, 1631, in which year John<sup>1</sup> Perkins was a freeman. He removed to Ipswich in 1633, and was a representative, 1636. Dea. John Manning d. 1828, Dec. 20, at Lebanon, where he and his two wives are buried about 60 feet south of the tomb of Gov. Trumbull. His ch. were b. in Lebanon.

413. ANDREW<sup>7</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1755, July 8, at Windham, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. In 1775 he was under Capt. Obadiah Johnson and Col. Israel Putnam, 4th co., 3d regt., Ct. troops. This regiment marched in May toward Boston. During the siege it was stationed in Putnam's center Division at Cambridge, and a part of its members fought at Bunker Hill, of which number Andrew was one. The printed rolls of Ct. soldiers erroneously give his name as "Andrus," but the mistake is set right by his pension papers. In the rolls of Mass. soldiers for 1778 is found the name of Andrew Manning, under Capt. Allen McLane and Lt.-Col. John Parkes; and as there was but one known Andrew of that period, the service must have been performed by the subject of this sketch. No further service has been found on record, but there was more. Tradition says he fought through the war. He received a pension on application of 1832, Dec. 7, and the Pension Bureau reports that it was "allowed for 16 months actual service as a private, and 3 months actual service as a sergeant in the Ct. troops." Referring to his old age, a collateral relative writes as follows: "Once in a while he would ride over to see his sister, Mrs. Welch. He would enter slowly, almost falling into the big arm-chair, and speaking in his weak, old man's voice. Soon his talk would begin to be of 'the war,' and he would forget how old and decrepit he was. He would straighten himself up to full height and stamp up and down the room, his voice that of a stentor, his face and eyes glistening and glowing with the return of youthful fire. He talked of incidents of Bunker Hill familiarly, and, as my reading confirmed, accurately." His residence at various times is indicated by the birthplaces of his children, but was chiefly at Tolland and Willington. He was a blacksmith. He m. Elizabeth Lathrop. b. 1753; d. 1806, Dec. 3, at Tolland; and (2d) Mrs. Clarissa (Tilden) Peck, b. about Jan., 1776; d. 1832, May 23, aged 56 years and 5 months. She was widow of James Peck, only son of Thomas Peck, and dau. of Joshua Tilden. She had brothers Joshua, Ebenezer and Walter, and sisters Esther, Eunice, Polly, Betsey and Grace. The ancestry of Elizabeth Lathrop was Zebulon<sup>5</sup> and Lois (Rogers), her parents; John<sup>4</sup> and Elizabeth (Abel); Israel<sup>3</sup> and Rebecca (Bliss); Judge Samuel<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Scudder), all of Norwich, and Rev. John<sup>1</sup> Lathrop, of Etton, Yorkshire, and Egerton, Kent, Eng., who came to America in 1634, and was of Scituate and Barnstable, Mass.; preached in both England and America. Sergt. 420. SAMUEL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1749, Sep. 13, at Norwich, Ct. But little has been learned of him. He bought, 1771, Oct. 11, one acre of land in Newent Society, Norwich (now the town of Lisbon). His name appears, 1772, Feb. 27, as one of those "desiring to have pews" in the meeting-house then being erected at Newent. He d. there, 1774, Nov. 20. The inventory of his estate, taken Dec. 5, shows that he was a blacksmith, but names only his wife Mary. He had children, but their number, names and sex have not been learned. Tradition certifies that there were children. They are mentioned in the will of their grandfather Manning, drawn in 1778, but only as the children of his son Samuel, deceased. He m. 1769, Nov. 9, Mary, dau. of Nehemiah and Elizabeth (Baker) Gates, b. 1753, Dec. 11, at Preston. She was living, a widow, 1785, April. One Polly Manning m. 1794, at Norwich (?), Rufus Sturtevant; this may have been the widow, or possibly a daughter, of Samuel Manning. Perhaps she was neither. His family must have removed elsewhere, and probably before 1800.

soldier. In all cases of record he was a drummer. He was under Capt. Asa Kingsbury and Col. Jedediah Huntington, in the 1st co., of the 8th Ct. regt., 1775, from July 10 to Dec. 16. The service was on L. I. Sound until Sep. 14, and afterwards in the Boston camps, the regiment's post being at Roxbury. At a date not learned, and under conditions not found on record, he enlisted in the 1st regt., where he remained until "transferred at Valley Forge" to Washington's Life Guards. This famous command was organized in 1776 of picked men. Originally 175 in number, the force was increased by 100 at Valley Forge, 1778, Mch. 17, and this date may be the time when Diah was transferred, as above. History has preserved the necessary qualifications of the Guardsmen, as follows: "Height of men from five feet eight to five feet ten; age from twenty to thirty, and men of established character for sobriety and fidelity. They must be American born." Diah continued with the Life Guards until late in 1780, for he beat the drum at the execution of Major André, Oct. 2, when that officer perished as a spy at Tappan, N. Y. Diah served in 1781 from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 under Capt. Paul Brigham and Col. Isaac Sherman in the 5th regt. At Norwich he was celebrated as a drummer, and, as such, is well remembered. He was for many years the bell-ringer of Norwich Town, and was jailer at Norwich during the French Revolution. In 1800 the American ship "Trumbull," returning from a cruise, took as a prize a vessel with a passenger list of fugitives seeking to escape from the dangers of the St. Domingo war, and several of the prisoners were sent to Norwich and there held until released some months later. One of this number, a young mulatto, was much impressed by the kindness shown them. He was Jean Pierre Boyer, afterwards President of the republic of Hayti, and, nearly 20 years after his experience in Norwich, he sent a present of $400 to Diah's widow in appreciation of the treatment he had received. Diah m. 1784, Apr. 27, Anne Gifford, of Norwich, b. 1762, Oct. 14; d. 1851, Sep. 30. Her ancestry was James<sup>4</sup> and Susanna (Hubbard), her parents; Samuel<sup>3</sup> and Experience (Hyde); Samuel<sup>2</sup> and Mary (Calkins), and Stephen<sup>1</sup> and Hannah (Grove) Gifford. 435. FREDERICK<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Josiah,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1758 at Norwich, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. The full extent of his service is unknown. In 1776 he was under Capt. Andrew Lathrop in Major Backus' regt.

of Light Horse. This regiment served in Washington's army. Resided chiefly at Windham, where he was tithingman 1794, 96-8. A stone-cutter by trade. The following advertisement appeared in the Windham Phoenix of 1792, Feb. 18: "FREDERICK MANNING, STONE-CUTTER, informs the public that he carries on the above business, at his shop in Windham, in all its branches — Makes Tomb-tables, either of marble or Bolton stone — Grave-stones, of do — Side-boards, of marble — Marble Vats, for painters — Chimney-pieces, &c. — all in the neatest manner - - - cheap for Cash, or country produce." He d. 1810, Oct. 21, aged 52, at Woodstock, being temporarily away from his home in Windham. A letter written in 1863 by his son John Y. Manning, says: "Father and my brother Lewis were in Woodstock on business. They stopped with a Mr. Lyon, who kept an inn. Father was in his usual health. About sundown he felt a little sickness at the stomach and vomited, and in so doing, it was supposed, he burst a blood-vessel, and before sunrise had bled to death; and thus suddenly was our father taken from us." He m. at Windham, 1781, July 19, Anne, dau. of John and Zerviah (Huntington) Young, b. 1757, Jan. 22; d. at Ovid, N. Y., at the residence of her youngest son, aged 73; date not learned. 436. ROCKWELL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Josiah,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1760 at Norwich, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. In 1838 his widow made application for a pension for his services, and the papers relating thereto state that he served 6 months, and was a part of the time under Capt. Robinson and Col. Ely. This enables us to correct an error in the printed rolls of Ct. soldiers, which say that "Roswell" Manning, arriving at camp 1778, July 1, served under Capt. Abner Robinson and Col. Samuel McLellan, in Tyler's Brigade of Gen. Sullivan's army, in R. I. As no Roswell Manning is known, comparison of the foregoing facts leads to the safe belief that the enrolling officer misunderstood the name and conveyed his error to the roll. Resided at Norwich, where he was a stone-cutter. The Norwich Packet, of 1785, July 14, contained this advertisement: "ROCKWELL MANNING, STONE-CUTTER AND ENGRAVER, Respectfully informs the public, that he carries on the Stone-Cutting and Engraving business in all its various branches, at his house in the City of Norwich, and at the house of Mr. William Bingham's in Canterbury; all orders left with him or with Mr. Bingham, will be punctually executed.—Any that are desirous of having the American Marble, which makes elegant TABLES, may be furnished by said Manning. The smallest favours will be thankfully acknowledged." Together with his brother Frederick he bought land in Norwich in 1783 and 1785, but the latter sold his share in 1786, and Rockwell became sole owner. A house erected by him is still standing. This estate he deeded to his two children in 1793, who sold the property after his death. He m. 1783, Feb. 26, Sarah Ainsworth, of Canterbury, who d. 1851, Aug. 16, aged 90 years and 6 mos. 437. MARY<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Josiah,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1762, Nov. 23, at Norwich, Ct., but in that part of the town which is now Franklin; m. there William, son of John and Zerviah (Huntington) Young, b. 1757, Mch. 3 (another report says 1759, Mch. 5), at Windham, where they resided until 1791, and then removed to what is now Middlebury, Vt., where, it is said, they were the first settlers, and, "among the first to welcome the Methodist preachers." A Revolutionary soldier. After a long residence they went to Leicester, in the same county, and 955. ELIEL, b. 1778, Dec. 22, at Stafford; m. Sarah Sabin; resided at Brutus, N. Y., where both died. No ch.

442. STEPHEN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1748, Sep. 18, at Windham, Ct., but reared in part at Stafford. A Revolutionary soldier. Before the war he had gone to Lebanon, N. H., and, in 1776, he enlisted in a company of "rangers" under Capt. Josiah Russell, formed in the adjacent town of Plainfield. This service seems to have been of but 2 months duration, but he re-enlisted and, in 1777, his name appears in a "town return" of Lt. Wm. Dana, of Lebanon, among certain "soldiers in service for 3 years." After Stephen's name follows the remark, "for the State of New York," which leads to the belief that he was the same Stephen Manning who appears on the N. Y. Rolls. In Lt. Dana's return Stephen's commander is not mentioned. The Stephen of N. Y., in 1777, was under Lt. Samuel Pain, in Capt. Alexander Campbell's co. of the Argyle district, Dorset regt., of which John Williams was colonel, and all were of the Washington Co. militia. It is not certain that he was the same man as the subject of this sketch. Our Stephen m. at Stafford, 1778, Feb. 26, Marsylvia Colburn, perhaps dau. of Jonathan and Hannah, and, if so, b. 1760, May 11. In the church record of this marriage Stephen is said to be "of Lebanon, in New Hampshire." Marsylvia united with the Stafford church 1785, Nov. 27. None of the younger children are recorded at Stafford, and it is likely that Stephen left town soon after 1785. Tradition says that he went to Stephentown, N. Y., and one account is that he d. there about 1810. Another report, equally reliable, says he d. at Saratoga. His widow d. about 1823, at Elbridge, N. Y. Ch.:

956. ELIZABETH, b. 1781, July 9, at Stafford; history unknown. Collateral descendants remember there was such a person, which proves that she lived to womanhood. One account says she m. Andrew Luce, and, it is thought, lived in Ct., but this is not authoritative.

957. IRA, date and place of birth unknown; lived and died at Brutus, mm.
958. JOSEPH, b. 1792; place not learned.
959. WILLIAM HENRY, b. 1797, Apr. 12, at Stephentown.
960. MARYSALVA, date and place of birth not learned; resided for a time at Brutus, and then removed to Michigan. One account says she went to Leroy, Ingham Co., and another account, to Live Oak, Oakland Co. Maps and her residence may have changed afterwards; all efforts to trace her have failed. A nephew says she m. Isaac Coleman, but a brother of this informant states that the name was Isaac Colburn, and that said Isaac was her cousin. Three children, says the report.

447. PHINEAS<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1756, Oct. 7, at Windham, Ct.; chiefly reared at Stafford. In, or before, 1777 he went to Chesterfield, Mass., probably to that part of the town which was set off in 1781 to form the new town of Goshen, for he was a resident of Goshen from its incorporation to his death. A Revolutionary soldier. Tradition says he served 7 years, and official rolls show most of this duty. His first term found on record is his enlistment 1777, March, for 3 years in the Hampshire Co. regt., the 2d Mass, Col. John Bailey, and he served the full term under that commander. His captain was first Wm. White; next Ephraim Burr, and lastly, Abner Hayward. On the expiration of his term Phineas re-enlisted in the same company and regt. The latest roll on which his name appears is dated 1781, Jan., but it is not improbable that he remained in service until the cessation of hostilities was formally proclaimed in 1783, after the preliminary treaty was signed. Probably, too, he was in service before his enlistment of 1777, for, in one undated roll, his age is given as 19 years. If the age is correct this was in 1775 or '76. A part of the time he was a musician, for in 4 rolls in a total of 11 he appears as a fifer, but this was not the case at all times. It has not been learned in what battles he took part, but his command was of the army that wintered and suffered in camp at Valley Forge, 1777-8. The undated roll before mentioned gives his complexion as light and hair as brown. He was among those who, by resolve of Court, 1801, Meh. 5, were each entitled to 200 acres of land or $20 for their services. Reliable family report is that he was at one time in Washington's Body Guard, and received a medal from Washington's hands for bravery. This medal was destroyed by fire when the Manning residence was burned in 1804. He was a farmer. In 1787, Oct. 10, he bought 70 acres in Goshen for £80, and, 1789, Oct. 7, 14 acres for £8.8. In 1821 he deeded his farm to his son George W. for $550. He m. Abigail, dau. of Ebenezer Alden, b. at Stafford, 1763, Dec. 12, according to the family record. Stafford town record says, Abigail, dau. of Ebenezer and Anna Alden, b. 1762, Dec. 17, but this may have been another Abigail. Phineas d. 1832, Oct. 22; Abigail, his widow, d. 1857, Sep. 21, both at Goshen. Ch., b. at Goshen:

Martin; resides at Petersham. 2. Sarah; m. George W. Fuller, of Cheshire. 3. Cora; m. Rollin D. Whipple; resides at Bridgeport, Ct.—II. Almon Augustus, b. 1833, Sep. 16. III. Lyanda Maria, b. 1836, July 3; m. Sedate T. Tower; resides at Charlemont.

966. GEORGE WASHINGTON, b. 1799, Sep. 19.

967. JOEL, b. 1807, Apr. 9; left home when about 20 years old, made a trip to Africa, returned and went West. During the Black Hawk war (1832) word came from him that he was in the army and fighting Indians, and, according to recollection, was a captain. After that he never was heard from. It is supposed that he lost his life in some way in the aforesaid war.

448. WILLIAM<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1760, Jan. 20, at Windham, Ct. He was chiefly reared at Stafford. A Revolutionary soldier. He may have served early in the war, but the first term which can be allotted to him positively was his enlistment at Somers (near Stafford), according to his pension papers, 1777, Mch. 1, for 3 years. He was under Capt. Amos Walbridge and Col. Charles Webb in the 2d Ct. regt., of which Zebulon Butler was afterwards colonel; and in the same company with his (William's) father and his future brother-in-law, Timothy Luce. This regt. assembled at Danbury in April; soon went into camp at Peekskill; served in the summer and fall along the Hudson under Gen. Putnam; ordered

Nov. 14 to join Washington's army in Penn.; was at the battle of Red Bank, Dec. 8; wintered at Valley Forge, '77-8; fought at Monmouth July 28 after; wintered, '78-9, at Redding; again served along the Hudson, etc. William was reported on the rolls as "killed or taken prisoner" 1777, Dec. 7. His pension papers state that he was wounded by a bayonet at the battle of Red Bank, Pa., 1777, Dec., and taken prisoner and confined at Philadelphia seven (six?) months, when he was exchanged and rejoined his regiment the day after the battle of Monmouth. He always carried the double scar of his wound, the bayonet having completely pierced his body laterally, and the injury must have been severe. He used to say that all that saved his life at the time he was wounded was that he had eaten nothing for three days. With the expiration of his term, 1780, Mch. 1, he appears no more on the Ct. rolls, but it is believed he then went to Berkshire Co., Mass., and was the same William Manning who served in 1781 under Capt. Thompson J. Skinner and Col. Asa Barnes in the Berkshire company. His residence between 1780 and 1818 is not certainly known, but the probability is that he lived in Berkshire Co. until 1800, and that he was the same man of his name who purchased a farm in Great Barrington, 1797, Apr. 29, and sold the same 1800, Jan. 21. This may not be correct, as it conflicts with his son Charles' supposed birthplace. It is said he lived for a time in Essex Co., N. Y., but the first positive information we have of his residence was in 1818, when he was at Fort Ann, N. Y., and when he applied for and received a pension for his war service. He removed about 1820 to Benson, Vt. A farmer. He m., probably before 1784, Sarah Higgins, of whose origin nothing has been learned. She d. 1839, Mch. 24, aged 74, according to family report; it is said that the pension papers state that she was b. in 1761. William Manning d. 1847, Jan. 8, at Benson, and is buried there. It has not been learned definitely where his children were born, nor what was the exact order of birth in all cases. Several birth-dates are missing. Ch. :

968. WILLIAM; date of birth unknown. Of him nothing can be given here except from tradition, and different reports from relatives present wide variations as to details. All agree that he lived in N. Y. or Vt., and finally went West (before 1849) to live with his son John, a merchant. Nearly all accounts locate John in Michigan, but a business directory of Michigan of that date has no merchant named John Manning. One report gives William's residence, when in the East, as Essex Co. This is doubtful. Another report, in which the writer has confidence, and which does not seem open to reasonable doubt, says he lived in N. Y. near the foot of Lake Champlain, and near Whitehall, so that the way from the latter town to William's home was "around South Bay" (this being the S. W. point of the lake). Accounts as to his children differ greatly. One statement is that there were 8 or 9 ch., only one or two of whom were girls. The most convincing report limits the number to three and names them thus: I. William, Jr. II. John. III. Adeline. A different rumor suggests, none too confidently, a son James. In brief, little can be said positively of the family, but the foregoing may lead to identification at a future date.

969. ZIBA, birth not found.

970. ?JOHN. Perhaps no such child in this family. All accounts agree in naming the other children, but only one correspondent includes a John in the list.

971. SALLY, b. 1792, May 2; place of birth not learned; m. Shady Higgins and (2d) Cromwell Bennett. The latter was b. 1802, Nov. 16; administrator of estate of his father-in-law, William Manning. Cromwell d. 1867, Mch. 21; Sally, his widow, d. 1873, May 20, both at Chatham, Tioga Co., Pa., to which place they removed in 1749. Ch., b. at Benson: I. Lois Lucina, b. 1832, Dec. 9. II. Leonard Samuel, b. 1835, Mch. 24. III. Susanna Callista, b. 1836, Mch. 23.

972. DORAS, birth not found. He was drowned in Lake Champlain in 1825, or 1826. Recollection is to the effect that he resided at Benson, though this is not certain. He m. Laura George, who was b. at Whitehall, N. Y., and d. there, 1876, July 26. She m. (2d) Thomas Clark, and by this marriage had ch., John Clark, a soldier of the Rebellion, who d. about 1882, leaving a widow and a dau.; and Jane Clark, now Mrs. Richard Dempsey. Doras and Laura had but one child, namely, Elisha, b. 1825, in the fall of the year; resided unmarried at Whitehall until 1852, Dec., when he went West and was not heard from thereafter.

973. CHARLES, b. 1799, Apr. 17.

974. JOEL, b. 1800, according to family report; his father's pension papers state that Joel was born in 1805.

450. THOMAS<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1764, June 15, at Stafford, Ct. A Revolutionary soldier. He enlisted at Stafford, 1781, Feb. 2, under Capt. Asahel Hodge and Col. Isaac Sherman, in the 5th Ct. regt., and served to June, 1783. He at once re-enlisted, and served under Capt. Benton and Col. Butler until Nov., 1783. He applied for and received a pension, 1832, Aug. 7. at which time he was living in Clermont Co., Ohio. He did not go there until of middle age, and his residence during the early years of his married life is unknown. Descendants believe that his children were born in Connecticut, and this is probable. Some one named Thomas Manning hired a farm in Sheffield, Berkshire Co., Mass., 1799, Nov. 25. on the west side of Timber Hill. The lease was for ten years, but this he transferred, 1801, Feb. 12. to Nathaniel Noble, Jr., and doubtless left town. It is believed that this was the Thomas Manning of the present section, but it cannot be affirmed. In Ohio he settled on Ten Mile Creek, near Amelia, Clermont Co., on an improved farm, and there passed the rest of his life. He m. Anna Todd. (One descendant gives her name as Elizabeth Ann, but the others say Anna.) She was b. 1763, June 15, and, it is believed, at Litchfield, Ct. Her father was, it is said, a physician. Thomas Manning and his wife both died 1853, Dec. 22. he at 11 A. M., and she at 1 o'clock the previous night. They were buried with military honors, and rest in one grave at Amelia Ch., probably b. in Ct. :

974*c*. ANNA; d. unm.

974*d*. ?AMANDA; d. aged about thirteen.

469. JOHN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1753, July 5. at Lancaster, Mass. A Revolutionary soldier. He enlisted 1776, May 30, and served under Capt. Wm. Warner and Col. Josiah Whitney until Nov. 1. He may have served further, but, if so, the fact cannot be established at present. He resided at Lancaster, and probably occupied the house in which his father had previously lived, but only as a tenant, as his mother seems to have owned the building. He may have been a saddler, like his father, and doubtless cultivated the land about the house. Besides this, the inventory of his estate shows that he had 15 acres of land "over the river," in his own right, but neither the purchase nor sale of this tract is found on record. It establishes his calling as that of a farmer. He left an insolvent estate. He m. Mercey ——. The marriage does not seem to have been recorded, and the only clew to her maiden name is from tradition, which says it was Bailey. She united with the First Church, 1794. She d. 1827, Nov. 7; John Manning d. 1793, Oct. 16, of "slow fever," both at Lancaster. The printed list of gravestones in the town does not contain their names. Ch., b. at Lancaster:

975. POLLY, b. 1773, Sep. 15; m. 1794, Aug. 7, at Winchendon, to Joseph Taylor. Resided at Westminster. Ch.: I. Lucinda, b. 1795, Feb. 28. II. Polly, b. 1796, June 25. III. Elizabeth, b. 1798, Jan. 25. This completes official information regarding her. A collateral descendant writes that she m. ——— Read, and "lived and died in Westminster," while another account says she "finally removed to Vt." These discrepancies have not been reconciled, but it may be that she m. a Mr. Read as a second husband.
976. PETER, b. 1775, June 5; resided at Portsmouth, N. H., and elsewhere; occupied himself mostly with hunting; d. about 1826, unm.—supposed to have been killed by Indians, it is said.
977. EPHRAIM, b. 1778, Mch. 25.
978. PATTY, b. 1780, Apr. 21.
979. SYLVESTER, b. 1782, May 12.
980. PHINEAS, b. 1784, May 17.
981. ISRAEL, b. 1786, Oct. 1; d. young, says the family report, and, it may be added, doubtless before 1795, when a guardian was appointed for the other children, at which time Israel's name was not mentioned.
982. JOHN, birth not recorded; but date given by the family as 1787.
983. SUSANNA, b. 1789, June 20; d. aged about 92; resided at Camden, Me.; m. Caleb Young. Ch.: I. Susan; m. John Sheldon. II. Sarah; m. John R. Ulmer. III. Sylvania; m. ——— Sawtelle. IV. "Sofa;" m. ——— Veazey. V. Salinda; m. Abner Bills. She resides at Rockland, Me.; has been repeatedly but vainly requested to furnish her mother's record. VI. Sarena; m. Albee K. Litchfield.
984. SALLY, b. 1792, Feb. 22; d. 1793, Oct. 26.
985. SALLY, b. 1794, Jan. 16; living 1795, Apr., but, according to family report, d. young.

470. ISRAEL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1756, Jan. 29, at Lancaster, Mass. A Revolutionary soldier. He was under Capt. Samuel Sawyer and Lt.-Col. John Whitecomb in a command that marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, and re-enlisted under Capt. Ephraim Richardson and Col. Whitecomb. During this term he was at the battle of Bunker Hill. He either enlisted a third time or was transferred, for, as early as 1777, Apr. 1, he was in Col. Bigelow's 15th Mass. regt., the term of service being for 3 years. His name last appears on the rolls 1780, Apr. 1, but he may have served longer. His captains, at various times, were Joseph Hodgkins, Manassah Sawyer and, for a second time, Hodgkins. Bigelow's regt. was at the battles of Stillwater, Saratoga and Monmouth, and with Washington's army during the memorable winter at Valley Forge. Israel was early made a corporal, and appears on the rolls to the end of his service with this title. In Shays' rebellion, 1787, he served the Commonwealth as ensign in Capt. John Whiting's co., of Col. Ebenezer Lovell's regt. He settled as a farmer at Sterling (which had been a part of Lancaster until its own incorporation in 1781), and, probably about 1799, removed to the neighboring town of Holden, where, 1810, Jan. 26, he purchased 75 acres and 27 rods of land for $155. This farm he retained until 1819, Feb. 2, when he sold it for $600 to Samuel Daman. In 1822, Jan. 22, Daman sold it to Abel Manning and Josiah Ball, respectively son and son-in-law of Israel, and the premises are now occupied by Israel Manning Ball, son of Josiah. Israel m. 1781, Jan. 1, Mrs. Lydia (Richardson) Wright, b. 1754, July 25, at Woburn. Her first husband, Abel Wright, died in the army leaving two children, Abel, Jr., who died, and Pamela, who m. Nathan Conant, a farmer in Sumner, Me. Lydia's ancestry was Jabez<sup>4</sup> and Mehitable, her parents, of Woburn and Sterling; Pierson<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Perrin), of Woburn; Lieut. John<sup>2</sup> and Mary (Pierson), of Woburn, and Samuel<sup>1</sup> and Joanna Richardson, of Charlestown and Woburn. Samuel<sup>1</sup> came to this country as early as 1636; was freeman, 1638; surveyor; commissioner for the settlement of church and town at Woburn, and selectman. Israel Manning was known in his later years as "Captain" Manning. As the title does not appear on any known roll, it is presumed it was acquired in militia service. He was of marked courage and high moral qualities. He d. 1821, Jan. 3, at Holden. Lydia, his widow, d. in 1828. Ch., b. at Sterling:

986. NANCY, b. about 1782; a veteran school mistress; taught 42 schools and thereby earned $1,000; m. 1820, ——— Reading, of Sterling, where she subsequently lived, and where she d. about 1831. No ch.

987. LYDIA, b. 1784, Jan. 27.

988. POLLY YATES, b. about 1786; d. 1867, Dec., at Lockport, N. Y.:

m. at Holden, 1806, Feb. 27, Rev. Thomas Marshall, who d. 1842, June, at Shelburne Falls, Mass., aged 57. He was a Baptist clergyman; preached at Holden and West Boylston; next 6 years at Belchertown, 6 at Petersham, 3 at Royalston, and 2 at Arlington, Vt. The birth of two children is recorded at Holden; the facts submitted concerning the others are meagre. In the following list of children it is supposed by the compiler that the names here italicized show, in each case, the marriage name of the child to whom it is attached. Ch.: I. Mary Nye d. 1875, March, at Cleveland, O. II. Thomas Manning, b. 1809, Nov. 11; d. 1870, Nov., at Bondville, Mass. III. Lydia, b. 1812, Jan. 31. (Lydia Chesebrouge d. 1865, Sep., at Clifton Sp., N. Y.) IV. Pamela Wright Shaw d. 1881, June, in Buffalo. V. Anna Judson Marshall d. 1890, Apr., in Buffalo. (Unm.?) VI. Eunice Coleman Marshall d. 1841, Aug., at Shelburne Falls. VII. Eliza Wheelock Marshall d. in early childhood. VIII. Martha Grosvenor; m. ——— Semon; resides in Buffalo.

989. ABEL, b. 1788, Mch. 14.

990. SOPHIA, birth-date not learned.

471. PETER<sup>7</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1758, Nov. 25, at Lancaster. A Revolutionary soldier. He fought at Bunker Hill in 1775, it is said, but this service has not been found on the State Rolls. In 1776 he was under Capt. Wm. Warner and Col Whitney, and, in 1777, under Capt. John White and Col. Job Cushing. In three different cases his name appears on as many distinct rolls with Capt. Andrew Haskell and Col. Asa Whitcomb as his commanders. All these rolls are undated, and, until the State authorities complete their work on Revolutionary records, the dates cannot be known. Probably this term was subsequent to those first mentioned, and Peter's service may have been of long duration. He and his wife went to Townsend in 1785, March, where, with the exception of a brief residence at Pepperell, he always resided. In a deed of 1800, Apr. 30, his residence is given as Pepperell, and again in a deed of 1805, Dec. 31, which seems to indicate the length of his stay in that town. He was "of Townsend" in 1798, and in 1806, and at all times before and after. He bought land somewhat extensively in both towns, but may not have cultivated it. He was a saddler by trade, and followed that occupation throughout his life. Tradition at Townsend certifies that his wife was an accomplished

“norsebaek rider.” She probably used a saddle of his own make. Their home in the latter town was in the village called Townsend Harbor. After his death the house was long the home of Charles Emery, and is now occupied by Lawrence Morgan. Peter’s shop was in the same building. Of him the history of Townsend says he was “a polite gentleman, a skillful mechanic and a good singer; but he rebelled against the practice of alternate reading and singing the lines of the hymn, which was the custom in public service on the Sabbath. Through his influence that fashion was laid aside.” He was at times on committees to conduct singing schools. He was elected sealer of leather, 1787; school committee, 1798, and one of a committee to “reckon with the town treasurer,” 1794 and 1827. In 1790 he was grand juryman. He m. at Lancaster, 1784, June 20, Rebecca Carter, b. at that town 1756, Dec. 25, according to the Carter genealogy, and her age as given on her gravestone corroborates this, but the Lancaster records say she was baptized as an infant, 1756, Jan. 11. She d. 1821, Sep. 2, and Peter m. (2d) 1824, Apr. 22, Sally Stone, of Townsend, who d. without issue 1844, Nov. 1, aged 66; perhaps dau. of Samuel Stone, in whose family tomb she lies. The ancestry of Rebecca Carter was James<sup>4</sup> and Mary (Walker), her parents; Thomas<sup>3</sup> and Ruth (Phelps), all of Lancaster; Rev. Samuel<sup>2</sup> and Eunice (Brooks), of Woburn, and Rev. Thomas<sup>1</sup> and Mary (Dalton) Carter. Rev. Thomas was of England; graduated from the University of Cambridge; came to this country in 1635, and was the first pastor at Woburn. Peter Manning d. 1839, Dec. 25, at Townsend, where he and his first wife are buried in the new cemetery at the Center village. Ch., b. at Townsend:

474. ARTEMAS<sup>7</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.,<sup>1</sup>) b. 1766, Aug. 13, at Lancaster, Mass. At the age of 20 he enlisted as a soldier "in the service of the Commonwealth," to aid in suppressing the insurgents in Shays' Rebellion, in the winter of 1787. He was under Capt. Nathaniel Beeman. He resided for a while at Leominster, but, about 1792, removed to Mason, N. H., where he lived until 1816, when he went to Washington, N. H., and resided the rest of his life. At one time he taught singing-schools. He was a tanner by trade, but in his later years, lived on a farm. He was active in the militia, and in that service held the office of captain when in Mason. He was selectman at Mason, 1801 and 1802. He m. 1791, Aug. 11, Sarah Snow, of Leominster, Mass., b. 1768, Feb. 10, and d. 1793, June 6, without issue; and (2d) 1794, Oct. 23, Rhoda Wyeth, b. 1768, May 18, who d. 1866, Feb. 17, at Lempster, N. 481. SAMUEL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1778, May 28, at Cambridge, Mass. He graduated at Harvard College, 1797, and became a physician. As such he practiced in several places in the State, having resided at Cambridge, Westford, Billerica, Harvard and Lancaster. In 1801, Apr. 1, he bought 10 acres of land in Westford for $2,250. This property he sold, 1805, Aug. 27, after he removed to Billerica. His next residence was Cambridge, after which he was at Harvard, and then he bought land and buildings, 1810, May 19, in Lancaster and located thereon. He made several other purchases in the last-named town. In 1806 he was appointed prison physician to Cambridge prison. At Lancaster he was selectman for 5 years, 1813-17, and was several times appointed by the town to serve its interests on special committees. In 1814 he was chosen with 4 other men to deliberate and act upon a projected petition to the legislature relative to certain unsatisfactory laws, and, in 1817, was on a committee to hire a master for the Latin grammar school. It is not found that any sketch of his life ever has been written, and it has been exceedingly difficult to discover material for such a sketch. Although some repetition will result it may be well, in the lack of more definite data, to trace his movements approximately by means of available information. He was at Westford, 1801, Apr. 1, when he purchased land there; also Sep.

15 of that year, when his marriage intention was "published;" also, in 1802, July 6, when his son Samuel was born. He was at Billerica, 1805, Aug. 27, when he sold his estate in Westford, and, doubtless, 1804, Oct. 7, when his wife joined the Billerica church. He was at Cambridge in 1806, when he was appointed prison physician, and when his daughter Mary W. was born. He was of Harvard, 1808, Aug. 26, when his son William was born; also, in 1810, May 19, when he bought property in Lancaster. He was of Lancaster continuously from 1811, Nov. 26, to 1821, Apr. 24, and probably somewhat before the first of these two dates. Prior to 1821, July 14, he removed to Cambridge, and there resided until his death. He m. 1801, Sep. 29, Lucy Cogswell, b. 1778, Nov. 5, at Westford; d. 1817, Oct. 4, at Lancaster, where she is buried in the Middle Cemetery. In 1816 she was admitted to the Lancaster church by certificate from Billerica. Her ancestry was Jeremiah<sup>5</sup> and Sarah (Fletcher), her parents, of Ipswich and Westford; Caleb<sup>4</sup> and Mary (Tyler), of Ipswich, Littleton and Westford; Adam<sup>3</sup> and Abigail, of Ipswich; Wm.<sup>2</sup> and Susanna (Hawkes), of Ipswich, and John<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth (Thompson) Cogswell. John<sup>1</sup> was of Westbury Leigh, Co. Wilts, Eng.; a wealthy manufacturer; came to America in 1635, and was freeman in 1636. Dr. Manning m. (2d) 1822, Mch. 20, Mrs. Elizabeth Bell (Warland) Abbott, widow of Rev. John L. Abbott. Cambridge records say Elizabeth Bell Warland, dau. of Thomas and Elizabeth, was b. 1783, Aug. 26. It is said that she lived past the age of 90. Dr. Manning d. at Cambridge, of "pulmonic fever," 1822, Oct. In the town record of his death the day of the month is not given. The Boston Weekly Messenger of Thursday, Oct. 24, in the death notice, says he died "on Friday last." This would be Oct. 18. The Worcester Spy says "on the 11th inst." On account of the then existing connection of William Manning (cousin of Dr. Manning) with the Spy, this would seem to be the more reliable source of information were it not that the Spy repeats the error of the several Boston papers in giving the doctor's age as 42 when he really was 44. Perhaps the correct date was Oct. 18. Ch. of Dr. Samuel and Lucy Manning:

482. WILLIAM<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Joseph,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1767, Apr. 15, at Providence, R. I. He resided, during his manhood years, in Massachusetts, at Boston, Worcester and Cambridge. He was a printer and publisher of long experience. At Boston, before 1796, he formed a partnership with James Loring under the firm name of Manning & Loring, and, acquiring a wide and highly favorable reputation as printers and booksellers, they continued the business until 1813, or a little later. Their location was on Spring Lane. In 1814 he went to Worcester and, in October, succeeded Isaac Sturtevant as publisher of the Massachusetts Spy, a highly successful weekly newspaper. His connection began with the issue of Oct. 26, which was "Published by William Manning on the Public Square near the Court House." Later issues state that it was published "On Court Hill, near the Court House" (probably the same location). Afterwards, it was removed to the south corner of Thomas and Main sts. From an editorial in the above-mentioned issue, written by Mr. Manning concerning his policy, the following extract is taken: "As a printer and publisher, he engages to perform, with promptitude and fidelity, all the duties which the public have a right to expect of him; and pledges himself to devote so much time and attention to his paper, as shall be necessary to render it interesting, amusing, and profitable to readers. Having ever been a firm and undeviating Federalist, and a warm friend of his country's prosperity and happiness, it will be his zealous endeavor to disseminate sound political maxims, and to spread before the public correct political information. He will spare neither labor nor expense, in rendering the Spy the vehicle of the latest and most important intelligence; and he trusts he shall soon complete such arrangements, as will enable him to make considerable improvement in this department of the paper." Considering the degree to which newspaper work had then developed, the Spy, under his management, pleased the eye and mind. He was sole publisher until 1819, Oct. 27, when George A. Trumbull became his partner under the firm name of Manning & Trumbull. The latter retired in 1822, with the issue of Jan. 16. From 1822, Jan. 23, to July 17 of the same year the publisher's son, Samuel B. Manning, was a partner, and the firm name was William Manning & Son. From the last-given date Mr. Manning was again sole publisher until 1823, Aug. 6, when he severed his own connection with the Spy. A month later, or on Sep. 3, 1823, was issued the first number of another newspaper, the Massachusetts Yeoman, of which, according to the columns of said paper, Austin Denny was editor and publisher, and William Manning, printer. It was produced from his press for nearly five years. After 1824 the paper bore a permanent imprint to this effect: "Printed by William Manning, for Austin Denny, editor and proprietor." In 1828 Mr. Denny became associated with two partners, and Mr. Manning's connection with the Yeoman ceased with the issue of Mch. 29. He continued as a book and general printer, but soon removed to Boston, for his name reappears in the directory of that city for 1828, and again as a printer. He was subsequently appointed Messenger to the Governor and Council. The date of this appointment has been given as 1833, but the directory records him as a printer up to and including 1834. He held the office of messenger until 1842, inclusive, and then, at the age of 75, retired from all active duties of life and passed his remaining years with his family in Cambridge, where he d. 1849, July 25. The Boston Weekly Messenger of Aug. 1 says: "We regret to announce the death of Mr. William Manning, the oldest printer in the State, who departed this life at his residence, Cambridgeport, Wednesday morning, in the 84th year of his age. Mr. Manning will be remembered as a member of the firm of Manning & Loring, publishers in Spring Lane, in this City. He was formerly messenger to the Governor and Council at the State House; and in that, as well as every capacity in life, he acquitted himself with honesty, fidelity and ability. He was in truth an honest man." The Transcript said: "He has added another to the long list of printers who have gone down to the grave with that best of epitaphs—'God's noblest work, an honest man.'" He was esteemed by all; was polite and considerate, and a gentleman both in appearance and character. He was attentive to church duties, and a ready speaker. He m. 1794, May 18, battle of Bunker Hill. In 1777 he was under Capt. James Hosley and Col. Jonathan Reed. It is probable that he served longer. There is service on the Revolutionary rolls under the name of John Manning which the compiler is not able to allot definitely to the several soldiers of the same name, and some of these terms doubtless belong to the subject of this sketch. After the war he settled in Ashby, where he was a farmer. Previous to its incorporation in 1767, a portion of Ashby had been included within the limits of Townsend. He purchased land somewhat largely; 65 acres, 1780, Nov. 21, for £90, of Andrew Oliver, and other lots in 1784, '87, '88 and '95. He was enterprising, progressive and successful; a devoted Christian and of unsullied character. He m. 1781, Oct. 9, Sarah Kendall, then of Ashby, b. 1760, Sep. 4, at Dunstable; d. 1812, May 22, at Ashby. By will John gave, first: To his wife Sally "all the household furniture which she brought with her" when she became his wife; also one-half of Pew No. 6 in the meeting house, for life; also $200. Second: To his son Asa, Pew No. 49 which, "with what I have given him before, viz., on Sep. 2, 1812, as his receipt will show, is his full share." Third: To his grandch., Harriet N., Roxanna S. and Susan W., ch. of John Manning, Jr., deceased, $7 each, which "with what their father had before, as his receipt of Feb. 15, 1812, will show, is their full share." Fourth: To the testator's own daughters, Abigail and Luey, the residue of the estate. The inventory was $1,244.28. He had sold, 1813, Mch. 5, 38 acres and 25 rods from the east side of his farm to his son Asa for $600. 496. WILLIAM<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1756, Oct. 15, at Townsend, Mass. A Revolutionary soldier. He enlisted at a date not learned, but was in service as early as 1776, Jan. 13, under Capt. Henry Haskell and Col. Prescott. Oct. 31, of the same year, he was under Capt. Thomas Warren and Col. Brooks, and in service at White Plains. From 1776, Dec. 14, to 1777, Mch. 5, he was under Capt. John Hartwell and Col. Dike, and he may have remained in this command much longer. His full service is not known. There is duty credited to the name of William Manning as late as 1779, but to which one of several men of the same name it belongs the compiler cannot tell. He had his father's farm, and always lived thereon in his native town. He was a Baptist in his religion, and an honored citizen. In a time of severe scarcity of field products when he, unlike others, had a plentiful harvest, he was approached by a speculator of the town who tried to purchase all he could spare, with a view of holding it until prices advanced yet higher, but William replied: "No; you are not going to speculate on the hardships of the needy. Whoever comes to me shall have something, and all shall be served alike; you can have no more than your due share!" He was elected tithingman, 1798 and 1818; highway surveyor, 1804, '07, '17; a member of the school committee, 1810, '18; one of a committee, 1815, to assist the tithingmen in prosecuting persons guilty of breaking the Sabbath, and, 1818, was on a committee to arrange sundry affairs relating to the church. He m. 1793, May 20, Hannah White, who d. 1832, Feb. 18, aged 62. Prolonged investigation has failed to develop anything as to her birth or ancestry. William m. If so, she was a sister of Joseph Simonds. William Manning d. 1843, Mch. 9 (town record says Feb. 27), at Townsend, where he and his first wife are buried near the N. W. corner of the new cemetery. 499. SAMUEL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1762, Nov. 24, at Townsend, Mass. He was highly educated for the time in which he lived, and taught school for several years, but finally went to Andover, Vt., and engaged as a farmer. In 1788, during which year he resided at New Ipswich, N. H., he and his brother Joel bought 200 acres of land in Andover. Tradition says they removed to the latter town in 1789. Their land, which lay on East Hill, they divided in 1795, and Samuel became sole owner of Lot 14 in the 2d range, which was purchased of Wm. Abbott, Jr., of N. H., for £36. This was his home until 1822, after which he resided a few years at Townsend, Vt., but returned to Andover and passed the rest of his life there. In Andover he was elected selectman; moderator, 1803; school trustee 1799-1821, or 23 years continuously; and was jurymen 1793, '96, '97. He represented Andover in the Legislature in 1814, '16 and '18, and was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1814. In 1799 he was on a committee to draft a petition to the General Assembly, and, at other times, on other special committees. In 1792 he was on a committee "to draw a subscription paper for the purpose of obtaining preaching the ensuing summer." He joined the Baptist church in the adjoining town of Chester in 1795, and was the first professor of that faith in Andover; and was active in founding the Baptist church established there in 1803. He was at once elected deacon, by which title he was ever after known. He was of strong character, and associated all of his earnest devotion with his religion. In old age he used to go from house to house, praying with his neighbors.

He left a name honored to the present day by residents of the town. He was appointed guardian of Alvin Adams, subsequent founder of the Adams Express Co., when the latter was early left an orphan; and when Mr. Adams reached the age of 14 and had the power to choose his own guardian, he, to use his own words, "decided to retain the Deacon." There is ample evidence that Mr. Manning was fitted for a higher calling than that he followed. He had literary gifts, kept a journal of merit, and was the author of at least two published books, one of which dealt with Free Masonry. The other was entitled, "An Attempt to Reconcile the Doctrine of Election, Regeneration, and Salvation, by Grace alone, with the Free Agency, Ability, Accountability and Criminality of Sinners: with remarks on the Turpitude of Original Sin." [Printed by Alden Spooner, Windsor, Vt., March, 1807]. He m. 1791, Dec. 18, Amy Gorham, b. 1766, July 26, and d. 1821, Nov. 24. He m. (2d) 1822, Aug. 22, Desire Ewings, who d. 1834, May 8; and (3d) 1836, Oct. 25, Silvia Warner. Amy Gorham, the mother of all his children, was, according to the family record, born at Attleboro, Mass., though her parents lived chiefly at Providence, R. I. Her brother Jabez had a son Jabez (b. 1792) who was a manufacturing jeweler and worker in silver. The latter subsequently took his son John (b. 1820, Nov. 18) into partnership under the firm name of J. Gorham & Son. In 1865 Mr. John Gorham incorporated the business as the "Gorham Manufacturing Co.," and when he retired, in 1877, over 600 workmen were employed. The company remain leaders in the silver trade. Amy Gorham's ancestry was Benj.<sup>5</sup> and Abigail (Field), her parents, of Providence; Benj.<sup>4</sup> and Bethiah, of Bristol and Providence; Col. Jabez<sup>3</sup> and Hannah, of Bristol; Capt. John<sup>2</sup> and Desire (Howland), of Plymouth, Marshfield and Barnstable, Mass., and Ralph<sup>1</sup> Gorham, the American founder, who came from Benefield, Eng., as early as 1637. Capt. John,<sup>2</sup> above, was selectman, deputy, constable, and a valiant soldier and commander in King Philip's war, leading his men on expeditions of danger and hard fighting. His wife, Desire, was dau. of John Howland, who came in the Mayflower. Deacon Manning d. 1842, Apr. 22, at Andover, where he and his wife Amy are buried in the cemetery on East Hill. 500. JOEL<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1764, Aug. 31, at Townsend, Mass. He was residing at Lunenburg in 1788, and at Townsend in the early spring of 1789, but in the latter year he made the journey through the almost unbroken wilderness to Andover, Vt., carrying all of his personal effects in an ox-cart. In Andover he and his brother Samuel had purchased land the previous year, a total of 200 acres, which lay on East Hill. This land they divided in 1795, and he became sole owner of Lot 14 in the 3d range, which was originally bought of Samuel Hayward, of New Ipswich, N. H., for £35. Joel had learned the trade of a cooper in early life, and in Andover cultivated his farm, but a broader field of usefulness was before him. Andover was then in its infancy, and without a regular church or pastor. The preaching of Elder Aaron Leland, in the adjoining town of Chester, made Mr. Manning a firm Baptist, and when a church of that faith was established in Andover, in 1803, he was one of its founders, and was soon after elected a deacon. He began to preach; was for a time a missionary to Canada, but his future lay in Andover. There, 1806, Oct. 2, he was ordained pastor of the church, a position which he filled almost to the end of his life. It lay with him to build up the young church, and he succeeded so well that it has always remained the leading religious body of the town. "He was," says a biographical article, "a Calvinist of the straightest order, as firm and immovable in his convictions as the rocks which surrounded his mountain home, and honest enough to preach the doctrines of his creed in their most positive sense." He possessed an active temperament, strong will and great energy, and, as no cause ever lay dormant in which he was concerned, affairs of the church under his guiding hand received attention as thorough as it was conscientious. As a preacher he was earnest, logical and effective, as well as a strict disciplinarian; as a man he was straightforward, sincere and a good citizen, and in this dual capacity he exercised an influence upon the minds of his townspeople second to that of no one of his day. He was a captain in the regiment to which the Andover militia belonged, and it is said that his prayers on the muster-field "had never been surpassed for stirring eloquence and patriotism." He was a strong Anti-Mason, an Abolitionist, and a life-member of the Colonization Society founded by Henry Clay. He published a book in support of the tenets of Calvinism, of which the title has not been learned. He was known as "Elder" Manning, and by that name will long be remembered in the town of his adoption. He was elected selectman 1801, '02; treasurer 1804, '05; petit jurymen, 1793 and six years after; and representative to the Legislature, 1812. After retiring from the pulpit he went to reside with his youngest son in the neighboring town of Ludlow. He m. at Lunenburg, Mass., 1791, Feb. 17, Vashti Bradstreet, b. 1761, July 2, at Lunenburg; d. 1846, May 15, at Ludlow. Her ancestry was Samuel<sup>4</sup> and Dorcas (Spafford), her parents, of Lunenburg; Capt. Jonathan<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Wheeler), of Rowley and Lunenburg; Capt. Moses<sup>2</sup> and Sarah (Platts), of Rowley, and Humphrey<sup>1</sup> and Bridget Bradstreet. The latter, the American founders of the family, came from Ipswich, Eng., in 1634, in the ship Elizabeth, and settled in Ipswich, Mass. Rev. Joel Manning d. 1841, Meh. 5, at Ludlow. In early life he removed to Vermont, settling in Cavendish, near the town where several of his brothers located. There he lived for many years, engaged as a farmer and carpenter. He united with the Baptist church in Chester, 1799, Sep. 5, but was subsequently a Methodist.

1090. SALLY, b. 1802, July 28, at Ludlow; d. unm. 1880, Feb. 18, at Binghamton; a zealous Christian, an active patriot and worker at the time of the war of the Rebellion, and much esteemed and beloved.
1091. PATTY, b. 1804, Oct. 1, at Ludlow. Mentioned in her father's will as "his daughter Patty Page." Said to have m. Cyrus Page and removed to Ohio. Her ch. are given as: I. Irena. II. Lydia. III. Eugene. Another account, less reliable, says she m. Lewis Page and went to Delaware, O. A letter of inquiry to the postmaster of that town has brought no reply.
1092. POLLY; birth not found on record. See note to her sister Lydia. Family report says she was a twin with Lydia, but absence of record of her birth makes this doubtful.
1093. JOSEPH, b. 1816.

504. BENJAMIN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1773, Jan. 9, at Townsend, Mass. As early as 1794 he settled in Andover, Vt., in which town he bought 100 acres of land of his brother Joseph, Lot 20 in the 4th range, for £45, May 2 of the latter year. There he afterward resided. He was elected highway surveyor, 1800, '06, '11, and tithingman, 1807. He united with the Baptist church at Chester, 1799, Jan. 9. He m. Betsey Taylor, b. in Massachusetts about 1775. No more has been learned of her origin, or her ancestry, though the impression of a descendant is that her father's name was Samuel. After her husband's death she m. Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1777, June 28, at Billerica, Mass. He bought, 1805, Dec. 30, land in Harvard, 79 acres and buildings, for $1400, and removed to that town in a few years. He was there in 1812 and 1817, but soon after returned to Billerica, where he afterwards lived. There he had a farm which adjoined Tewks-bury and Wilmington, on Shawshin river. He reared his children in habits of industry, himself setting the example. "He was," says an account, "an old-time, hard-working farmer whose motto was 'Attend to your work and you will not get into mischief.'" He always had the welfare of his family at heart, and never kept one of his children out of school a day, unless on account of sickness; and when a teacher was unusually successful, and the school correspondingly prosperous, he would try to have the term lengthened by subscriptions, which was several times done. He and his wife united with the Billerica church 1808, Mch. 20. He m.

He was among the first to work for the Essex Corporation of Lawrence, and, while walking home with a fellow workman one night, and talking about the coffer-dam to be built across the Merrimac river, they sat down on a log and Samuel drew and explained a plan for the dam. It was built on that plan, it is said, though a more wealthy person claimed the design. In 1852 Samuel purchased a farm and removed to Wilmington. Later, he located at Haverhill, where he had a milk-route, but in 1872 he returned to Wilmington where he passed the rest of his life. 565. JACOB<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1771, Dec. 16, at Billerica, Mass. In 1794, Oct. 23, when he was residing in his native place, he bought land and one-half of a dwelling house in Ashburnham, but perhaps never occupied it, for when he sold it, 1796, Jan. 14, he was living in Billerica. This property was purchased for £79 and sold for $250. In the latter year, June 9, he bought land in Chelmsford and removed there. Other purchases followed. He sold a lot in 1798, and closed out his real estate holdings 1803, Mch. 2, by three separate sales of that date, the aggregate price being $1,047.81. He then removed to Lyndeboro, N. H., probably about May, 1803. In the latter year he made real estate purchases in Lyndeboro—Jan. 6, of Jonathan Parker, for $200. “the one-half of a sawmill” which Parker owned in partnership with Dea. John Farmer, on Seataquag river, with the one-half privilege of the yard and stream and tools, and, also, one-quarter acre of land on the southwest side of the river; and, as a second purchase in the same year, May 20, of the said Parker for $35, one acre and one-quarter. In 1804, May 10, he bought 66 rods of land from the same man. He sold his interest in the sawmill 1806, Feb. 19, to Eleazer Everett, who had previously acquired the half formerly held by Farmer. Mr. Manning was a cabinet-maker by trade, and was mentioned either by that term or as a “joiner” in all of his deeds from 1794 to 1808. In his final years, however, he “kept the Parker tavern” in Lyndeboro. In the settlement of his estate he was termed both an innholder and a housewright, indicating that he had been following both callings. Desks that he made are still in existence, one being in the possession of his grandson Solomon Manning, of Bedford, N. H. He died in Lyndeboro, after a few hours illness of spotted fever, a short time before Mch. 12. 1812, when administration was granted on his estate. No record of his death has been found, but the statement that it was at about the same time that his brother lost two children by that disease (Feb. 12-13) is reasonable. Eleazer Everett was administrator. Mr. Manning m. 1796, Apr. 26, Lucy Andrews, b. 1774, June 11, at Carlisle, Mass. 566. ASA<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1780, Sep. 23, at Billerica, Mass. There he made his first home, on a farm, but removed, probably in 1806, to Lyndeboro, N. H., where he and his father had jointly purchased a new farm. This was his home until 1837, when it was sold and another homestead was bought "on the other side of Lyndeboro mountain." If the date of this change has been correctly given through tradition the new home was that acquired 1837, Dec. 15, of Samuel Jones "in the north part" of the town. There he passed the rest of his life. He and his wife were members of the Congregational church in Lyndeboro. He was several years selectman, and served at least two terms in the Legislature. At Billerica he was commissioned sergeant of Artillery, 2d Brigade, 3d Division, whereof John Kidder was major, 1805, Apr. 1. His industry and business ability are attested to by the fact that when he and his father purchased the farm in Lyndeboro they held it subject to a mortgage of $1,700, and that Asa fully discharged this 1811, Apr. 29, despite the fact that, in the intervening time, he had purchased the rights of his brother and sisters in their father's estate at some expense. He was a kind husband and father, a good citizen, and always ready to lend a helping hand. Upon the early death of his brother Jacob, the latter's children found a home with Asa Manning, the two sons remaining until they were able to care for themselves; and other children received a home for a time. In 1812, while visiting relatives in Chelmsford, Mass., Mrs. Manning dreamed that she saw her two little girls, Olive and Sarah, dead, and lying in one coffin. The dream was so vivid that she shortened her visit. Soon after her return both these children were stricken with spotted fever and died in the same night, a few hours apart. Each was ill just 18 hours. They were buried in one coffin. The mother had the same fever but recovered. Mr. Manning left a will whereby he gave to his grandchildren Olive Theresa and Henry Lyman Fuller $8 each; to his own son Sherebiah all his real estate in Lyndeboro, farming tools, etc., the son to pay all debts and the above legacies; to his children Sherebiah, Lydia and Sarah Jane the beds, bedding, etc., in equal division; to his son Joseph and daughter Lydia equal parts of the proceeds of the sale of all his cattle and sheep, which, he directed, should be disposed of for this purpose; and "I give and bequeath to my son Asa Manning, if he should be living and ever return, all the advances which I hold against him and five dollars to be paid by my executors." Mr. Manning m. 1803, July 7, Olive Spaulding, of Chelmsford, Mass., b. 1780, July 31. Her ancestry was Zebulon<sup>5</sup>

He resided at Lincoln in 1803; next at Weston for a time, but removed in 1806 or 1807 to Salem, where he thereafter lived. He was a shoemaker and, afterwards, a baker. He m. 1803, May 16, at Weston, Priscilla, widow of Daniel Allen,* and dau. of Oliver and Vashti (Ramsdell) Richardson, b. 1775, Dec. 2, at Medway; d. 1861, Sep. 29, at Peabody. Her further ancestry was Moses<sup>3</sup> and Abigail (Allen), her grandparents, of Medway; John<sup>2</sup> and Esther (Breck), of Medfield; and John<sup>1</sup> and Rebecca (Clark) Richardson, of Medfield, 1679. Priscilla and her children by her first marriage were heirs to a farm in Weston, owned by Mr. Allen, and this was leased for some years after the removal to Salem.

595. WILLIAM HOMES<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Isaac,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1769, July 31, at Charlestown, Mass. His name often appears on deeds and other public records of his day, and there it was more frequently written with the middle name spelled Holmes than Homes. The form here used is given on the authority of his grandson who bore exactly the same name, and who asserted positively that both he and his grandfather spelled the name without the "l." Moreover, the elder man appears in the census of 1789 as "W. Homes Manning." This point is enlarged upon because the name may yet have use in determining the maiden name of his mother. He was called, not by his first name, but by the second; hence, the form in the census record. The statement has been made that he was in the Revolution, which is rendered doubtful by his age and the absence of his name from all known rolls. Other descendants say he was in the war of 1812, but this cannot be affirmed. His portrait in uniform of some kind is in the possession of his grandson, Mr. A. K. Adams, together with that of his wife. A certificate now in the care of his great grandson, Rev. Wm. H. Manning, shows that, in 1800, he was commissioned by Gov. Strong as lieutenant of a Battalion. In private life he was a baker. He resided chiefly in his native town, but was in Boston, 1807-13, on Prince street. He purchased 1796, Jan. 21, land and buildings in Charlestown of Abigail Bradish, widow, for $1,333.33, fronting on Slaughter House Lane. He and his wife were members of the Charlestown church. He m. 1788, May 15, Mary Call, b. 1764, June 14; d. 1846, July 11. Lieut. Wm. H. Manning d. 1819, Aug. 23, at Charlestown. 598. WILLIAM<sup>7</sup> MANNING (James,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1770, Mch. 25, at Charlestown, Mass. A tailor by trade, but also a considerable holder of real estate. He early settled in Maine, and, according to his residence as given in deeds, lived in Brunswick, 1795-97, in Cornish, 1797-1800, in Limington, 1801-23, and perhaps after, and last of all in Parsonfield. In 1795, Apr. 21, he bought one-quarter of an acre of land for £6. One-half of this purchase he sold the same year, and the remainder in 1797. In the latter year he purchased land in Cornish for $340, and sold it in 1800 for $400. In Limington he bought land in 1801 for $743, and another lot in 1803 for $50. The first of these purchases he disposed of in broken parcels from time to time, but that of 1803, which he acquired from one Wm. Wentworth, he held until 1836, when he sold it to his son Franklin. It is described as 3 acres of land and water power, and was "the same I occupied as a dwelling house & mills for many years." This reference to "mills" is explained by present old residents of Limington. He lived four miles from the main village, near the house now occupied by Wm. Boothby. The ruins of the cellar of Mr. Manning's house are yet visible. He also had a mill for grinding corn, which was eight or ten rods behind his house, and the old sill is still buried in the mud near the brook. His farm is reputed to have contained 80 acres. Mr. Boothby's father ultimately purchased it and joined it to his own farm. William Manning m. 1793, Sep. 8, Margaret Swan, b. 1772, June 1; d. 1815, July 19, at Limington. Her ancestry was Joseph<sup>1</sup> and Janet (McCloud), her parents, of West Cambridge, Mass.; Ebenezer<sup>3</sup> and Bathsheba (—); Ebenezer<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (—); and John<sup>1</sup> and Mary (Pratt) Swan, all of Cambridge, where John<sup>1</sup> d. 1708, June 5, aged 87. Middlesex Co., Mass., deed 141-253 shows that, in 1799.

Wm. Manning and his wife Margaret, of Cornish, quitclaimed, for $80, all their rights "in that part of the estate of our honored father, Joseph Swan, late of Boston, deceased, which came to said Joseph by right of heirship from our grandfather Ebenezer Swan, late of Cambridge, deceased, together with all the rights we have in the estate of our grandmother Bathsheba Swan." Wm. Manning m. (2d) about 1822, Mrs. Hannah Littlefield, of York, who d. 1824. No ch. by this marriage. Mr. Manning d. 1837, Oct. 15, at Parsonfield. There has been an impression with some members that all of his children were born at Limington, but this is so much at variance with the facts as to his residence as set forth by deeds, and in one case with an old letter, that historical accuracy seems to demand the allotment of other birthplaces to the older offspring. He remained a resident of that place until 25 years of age. His early life was passed in work on the farm, he receiving some education at Woodstock and Thompson Academies, and at Ct. Literary Institution, Suffield, and teaching winters. At the age of 22 he entered as clerk in a dry goods store, and purchased a stock at the end of one year. After a second year he removed to the village now Putnam and continued in the same business, which he followed alone for years, but, after 1869, carried on with a partner under the firm name of Manning & Leonard until the beginning of 1900, when he disposed of his interest. Upon the organization of the town of Putnam, 1855, July 3, he was elected town clerk, treasurer, and registrar of births and marriages, which offices he held continuously until 1900, when he declined re-election. In 1866 he was elected as a republican to the Conn. House of Representatives, and, in 1869, '71 and '72, filled the office of State Comptroller. For many years he was a director, and is now President of the First National Bank of Putnam, and was an incorporator of the Savings Bank. He was for about three years in the store of his brother, James W. Manning, but, in 1859, he went to Norwich and became connected with the paper house of A. H. Hubbard & Co. Although not naturally inclined to military pursuits he enlisted from patriotic motives 1862, Aug. 30, as a soldier of the Rebellion in Co. F, 26th regt. Ct. Vols., which went to the Dept. of the Gulf and joined Gen. Banks' expedition against Port Hudson. He had been appointed second sergeant, and, at various times, was detailed as Acting Quartermaster and Adjutant, which positions he creditably filled. Soon after the second assault on Port Hudson (1863, June 14) he was appointed lieutenant by Gov. Buckingham. He was faithful and cheerful in performance of duty, and, when he was commissary-sergeant, was conspicuous for his bravery in caring for the wounded and dying on the field of battle. He had early become a Christian, and, at Norwich, was an earnest worker in church and Sunday school; and, during the war, served at times as chaplain of his regiment. After the surrender of Port Hudson the 26th was ordered home to be mustered out by reason of expiration of its term of service. Lieut. Manning arrived at Norwich apparently in good health, but was almost at once prostrated by malarial fever, contracted in service, and d. 1863, Aug. 17, the very day the muster-out papers were dated. His integrity and general qualities won for him the esteem and affection of his associates at home and in camp and battle. He was unmarried.

749. WALTER<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Eliphalet,<sup>6</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>5</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1786 or 1788, probably at Tewksbury, Mass. But little has been learned of him. The notice of his marriage, in 1812, gives his residence as Wilmington, while a deed of 1811 gives it as Tewksbury. This deed refers to a farm, lying partly in both towns, and of which his purchase is not on record, but which he then mortgaged for $600. The sale of this farm has not been found. He m. 1812, Jan. 16, Lydia French. Tradition says she was a dau. of Thomas and Lydia (Scarlett) French, which is doubtless correct. Mrs. Lydia Manning d. 1819, Meh. 24, at Tewksbury. Walter's after history is unknown, although another deed, to be mentioned below, suggests a possibility there indicated. The number of his children is unknown. An aged relative has given the list as Walter, Charles, Lydia, Thomas, William, Sylvester and Letitia, but in attempting to account for said children she gave particulars which proved that she had, not the children, but the brothers and brothers-in-law of Walter in mind, thus casting grave doubts on the entire list. In any case, seven children can hardly have been born in the seven years of the above term of married life, and if Walter married a second time, no record to that effect has been found. On the other hand, several relatives have asserted with confidence that there was but one child, Latitia (mentioned below). The truth evidently lies between these extremes. Middlesex Co. deed 345-367, is one whereby, 1835, Sep. 9, Walter Manning, Jr., "of Cortlandville, Cortland Co., New York," sells to Loammi French, of Tewksbury, for $20, all the rights of said Walter, Jr., in the estate of Lydia French, late of Tewksbury, deceased, widow of Thomas French, mentioning Thomas French's farm in Tewksbury. This proves conclusively that there was one child besides Latitia, while the fact that no evidence can be found to show that any other person of the name of Manning disposed of like rights, seems to prove with like conclusiveness that there was only one child then living. Possibly Walter, senior, died in Mass.; perhaps he accompanied his son to N. Y. A letter addressed to the postmaster of the present Cortland, N. Y. (assumed to be the same as Cortlandville) has brought back the reply that the family is unknown there. Ch. of Walter and Lydia :

1426. LATTIA. In the Probate Office at Nashua, N. H., are the guardianship papers, 1837, May 2, of Latitia Manning, "a minor over 14 years, and child of Walter Manning, of Tewksbury, Mass." John Fleming was the guardian. Tradition says, confidently, that Latitia died unm., aged 18.

751. RUEL GOODWIN<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Eliphalet,<sup>6</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>5</sup> Eliphalet,<sup>1</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1790, May 1, at Tewksbury, Mass. 898. JOHN<sup>8</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>7</sup> John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1785, Mch. 1, at Lebanon, Ct. He was a soldier of the Conn. militia in the war of 1812, and was in active service in 1814, probably near New London. He was a farmer, residing for one or two years on the Windham road in Franklin. He returned to Lebanon and, about the time of his second marriage, built the house which was his home for the rest of his life, where his grandson Nathaniel Manning now (1901) lives. When the railroad was projected about 1845 he, in contrast with the attitude of the majority, was in its favor, the result being that it was located through his farm, rather than in neighboring valleys. After its construction he acted as the agent at Lebanon, a service that was, from the financial condition of the company, not so much that of a paid employee as a friendly accommodation to both the road and the public. In character he was progressive in his ideas, independent in thought, and firm in his decisions. He was not chosen to any public office, but was employed a great deal as administrator of estates, one of them being that of Col. Jacob Kingsbury of Franklin, which required his going to Ohio to look up real estate interests, when the means of travel were the stage-coach and canal-boat. He m. 1809, May 7, Tryphena Hyde, b. 1786, Apr. 24, at Franklin; d. 1811, Feb. 14. She had twin sons who died and were buried with her on the "Plain" in Franklin. Her ancestry was Vaniah<sup>5</sup> and Rebecca (Barker), her parents; Thomas<sup>4</sup> and Elizabeth (Huntington); Thomas<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Backus); Samuel<sup>2</sup> and Jane (Lee), and William<sup>1</sup> Hyde, all of that part of Norwich which is now Franklin. Mr. Manning m. (2d) 1817, May 21, Lois Williams, b. 1790, June 16, at Lebanon; d. 1859, Oct. 21. Her ancestry was Nathaniel<sup>5</sup> and Lois (Sackett), her parents; Samuel<sup>4</sup> and Deborah (Throop); Park<sup>3</sup> and Priscilla (Payson), all of Lebanon; Dea. Samuel<sup>2</sup> and Theoda (Park), and Robert<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth Williams, all of Roxbury, Mass., where Robert<sup>1</sup> was freeman in 1638. Mr. Manning d. 1854, Jan. 28. He attended Bacon Academy, at Colechester, and at the age of about 20 began the study of medicine, being thus engaged for two years with Dr. Hutchinson, of Lebanon, and one year with Dr. White, of Cherry Valley, N. Y. At eighteen, and at intervals during his medical study, he taught school. In 1811 he went to Ohio on horseback, arriving at Youngstown, July 13. He began to practice medicine, and, in 1812, as surgeon of the 1st Regt., 3d brigade, 4th division of Ohio militia, on Col. Rayen's staff, went on the frontier and was successively stationed at Cleveland, Huron and Lower Sandusky; and returned to Youngstown 1813, Mch. By unwearied attention and great kindness he had gained the affection of the soldiers of the regiment, most of whom were from his section, and on his return his practice occupied all his time. In 1815 he established a drug-store in company with Col. C. B. Wick, in which he was interested for some time. In 1819, and again in 1843, he was representative from Trumbull Co. to the Legislature, and was State Senator in 1824. He was elected associate Judge of the Common Pleas in 1835, and served 7 years. In 1854 he was chosen president of the Mahoning County Bank, which office he was still holding as late as his 80th year; and, 1862, upon its organization, was also chosen president of the First National Bank of Youngstown, but, in 1866, he declined a re-election, though he remained a director. He had much to do, both as a citizen and as president of the Mahoning Co. Bank, with building up the industrial enterprises of his adopted place of residence. He m. 1814, Sep. 8, Lucretia, dau. of Jared and Lois (Yale) Kirtland, formerly of Wallingford, Ct., b. 1796, Nov. 2, and d. 1819, July 13; and (2d) 1821, June 20, Mary, dau. of Asa and Hannah (Lord) Bingham, b. 1799, Feb. 5, at Lisbon, Ct., and d. 1846, July 21; and (3d) Mrs. Catherine Mary Adeline (Mitchell) Ruggles. was on the Niagara frontier in the campaign of 1814, and in the hottest of the fight in the severe battles of Chippewa and Lundy's Lane, Canada, July 5 and 25, respectively. The latter was then considered the most desperate ever fought on this continent, the loss on either side amounting to nearly one-quarter of those engaged. Mr. Manning is quoted as saying, in later years, of this battle: "There were some 45 of us Norwich boys who fought at Lundy's Lane, some of whom laid down their lives on that bloody field, and all fought with gallantry. We brought off our flag, though it was shot from the staff and riddled with 30 or 40 bullet holes." He was a drummer. In private life he was for many years employed at the Chelsea paper-mill in Greeneville, and was for several years janitor of the Norwich Free Academy. He was among the first members of the Sachem street M. E. Church, and continued his relations thereto until his death. He was a member of the reception committee, in 1859, at the 200th anniversary of the settlement of Norwich. He was a gentleman who always maintained a fine personal character, and by his integrity and uprightness won the respect and confidence of all who knew him. 969. ZIBA<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>7</sup> Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>). The date and place of his birth are unknown. The date was not far from 1787, and the place may have been Berkshire Co., Mass. In manhood he resided at Whitehall, N. Y., and was captain of the sloop Independence in 1811, and, later, was pilot of the steamer Phœnix, a boat running on Lake Champlain, between Whitehall and St. Johns, Canada. He lost his life, 1819, Sep. 5, by drowning, when the Phœnix accidentally caught fire and was burned on the night above named. The steamer, at the time, was about 14 miles from Burlington, Vt., 4 miles from Colchester Point, and 2 miles from Providence Island. The fire began at about 1 o'clock at night. One row-boat put away, filled with passengers, and the second, and last, was lowered and being filled when an occupant cut the rope which held it to the steamer. It drifted off, leaving 11 persons on the rapidly-burning Phœnix, of whom one was Ziba Manning. Some of those already in this second row-boat rebelled against returning for the imperilled 11, thinking the boat would be overladen (though printed accounts of that period state there was room for all), and these wretches carried their point by threats of violence. The 11 were left and both boats were rowed to Providence Island and their passengers landed. They then returned to the Phœnix. The steamer had become a mass of flames, and the eleven unfortunates had thrown tables, planks, etc., overboard and committed themselves to the waters of the lake with only such frail support. Of their number five, including the captain, were saved by the crews of the returning row boats, but the other six had succumbed and been drowned. Ziba Manning was one of the six. He m. in 1810, Rachel, dau. of Jonathan and Rachel (Hubbard) Polley, b. 1792 at Whitehall; d. in 1858 at Fort Edward. Ch., b. at Whitehall:

He lacked the advantages of wealth to help him in life, but had a degree of natural ability and energy which served him as well. After acquiring what education he could he taught school in the towns around his native place, and by these and other efforts worked his way through Brown University, graduating in 1817. He studied divinity with Rev. Nathanael Emmons, D.D., of Franklin, Mass., and then preached in various places with success. About 1819 he preached at Goffstown, N. H., to a small, feeble church which had been nine years without a pastor; and a revival followed which resulted in 100 conversions. He did not settle there, but went to Vermont as a missionary, and labored as such at Plymouth, Windsor Co. A still greater revival followed, extending to other towns; and he received ordination as the first minister of Plymouth, 1823, Nov. 20. An official list of his pastorates gives particulars to this effect: He served at Plymouth, 1820-24; and, in N. H., at Goshen, 1823-26; Auburn, 1826-31; Epsom, 1831-34; Ossipee, 1834-37; Dartmouth, 1837-38; Goshen, again, 1838-41; and at Ludlow, Vt., 1842. 1027. SAMUEL<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Saml.,<sup>7</sup>Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1802, July 6, at Westford, Mass. He fitted for college at Lancaster Academy and entered Harvard in 1818, graduating in 1822 with high honors. In his freshman year he taught a school at Lancaster, and, in the winter of his senior year, in Leominster. He was captain of the college company. In 1823 he went to Maryland, studied law at Baltimore, and was admitted to the bar about 1825. His record as a member of the legal profession was of high order. He was commissioned by the Governor of the State as colonel, and commanded the militia during the great riot in 1834, which finally suppressed the mob.

About 1837 he went to Missouri with the intention of practicing there, but his boxes of books were lost in the Ohio river, and he settled a few miles from Palmyra and engaged in farming on an extensive scale. In 1841 he removed to St. Louis, resumed the practice of his profession and became prominent at the bar of that city. In 1844 he returned to Baltimore, where he again practiced law. He always refused political positions. He entered the service of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad as auditor in 1852. In 1855 he became partner in the Avalon Iron and Nail Works, situated a few miles from Baltimore, and was senior member of the firm of Manning & Co. He was actively engaged in this business at the time of his death. His classical knowledge was of a superior order; few could equal him as a scholar. He was a student as long as he lived. He m. 1829, June 10, Susan, dau. of Col. Thomas and Ann (Weary) Sheppard, b. 1809, Jan. 15, at Baltimore; d. 1859, Dec. 22, at Govenstown, Baltimore Co. The name of Col. Sheppard fills a high place in the history of Baltimore. His services during the war of 1812 were of great value. He was wealthy, and his means were freely used to aid his country. His privateer sailed the ocean while his regiment fought on land. Mr. Manning d. 1857, May 16, at Relay House, near Baltimore. Ch. :

mained for a year doing professional work in the hospital connected with the almshouse and insane asylum at Baltimore, receiving an additional diploma therefor. He then went South and practiced for some years in Ky., Tenn. and La. In 1837 he went to Michigan, and practiced for ten years at Niles and Dearborn; most of the time at the former place, where he also had a drug-store. In 1847, through the influence of Gov. Cass, he was appointed U. S. Post-Surgeon at Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., also acting as Government surgeon for the Chippewa Indians living near that place. In 1857 he removed with his family to Avalon, Md., about nine miles from Baltimore, to take charge of the nail and iron works located there, which had been purchased by himself and his brothers, but, in consequence of the troubles preceding the civil war, returned to Michigan in 1859. Shortly after the war, and before the property had recovered from the consequent depreciation, the Avalon Mills, with the village, were completely swept away by a sudden flood in the Patapsee river, and Dr. Manning never realized a dollar from his investment. After 1859 he practiced medicine at Detroit, Niles, Dearborn, Birmingham and Ypsilanti, Mich., until impaired health caused his retirement from general practice in 1870; about which time he received an appointment from the Mich. Central R. R., which he retained until his death. He eschewed politics, and never allowed his name to be used in connection with any office. He was generous to a fault, and never would press a poor creditor for payment; always genial and good-natured; a conversationalist of rare powers, and beloved by all who became intimate with him. He m. 1838, Jan. 15, Hephzibah Perkins Howard, b. 1817, Oct. 13, at Easton, Mass.; living with her son, 1900, Mich.; dau. of Hon. Cyrus and Nancy (Keith) Howard. [Judge Howard was b. 1791, May 15; Nancy, his wife, was b. 1796, July 4, both at Easton. In 1834 he removed to Mich., and, with his brother, Col. Joshua Howard, U. S. A., located the village of Dearborn. Cyrus Howard was a member of the Legislature, Judge of Probate and Circuit Judge.] Dr. Manning d. 1875, July 20, at Detroit. Ch. :

Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1817. Feb. 13, at Lancaster, Mass. He was educated in his native State, but, at about the age of 19, went to Baltimore, Md., and made that State his permanent home. On arriving there he entered the service of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, then in its infancy, as a civil engineer, and began a career of activity, usefulness and success which made his name widely known. He was closely connected with the above-mentioned railroad for nearly 50 years, was engaged in all the great engineering works constructed by it, and many of them were designed by him. He was actively employed on the preliminary engineering work of the B. & O.'s Philadelphia extension, and superintended the soundings of the Susquehanna river and the preliminaries for the great bridge over that waterway at Garrett Island. He was associated in running the line of the Reading railroad, and, also, the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, both of which are remarkable feats of civil engineering skill. In 1847-9, inclusive, he was in Ireland, where he built the Limerick & Waterford R. R. He did a good deal of general railroad engineering in the U. S., and was one of the staff of engineers who constructed the Hoosac Tunnel, in Mass. When, in 1857, it was decided to supply Baltimore with water from Jones' falls, direction of the work, after the surveys for the reservoirs and water-works, was entrusted to him, and the dams, conduits and reservoirs at Hampden, Mount Royal and Lake Roland were constructed by him. The system was completed in 1862. When the work was undertaken Mr. Manning foresaw that the supply from this source would be moderate in a few years for the needs of Baltimore, and he advised the Water-Board and the City Council to go at once to the Great Gunpowder river for water, stating that it would cost but little more than the plan then under consideration. His advice was rejected as entailing unnecessary extravagance, but that his views were correct and wise was demonstrated by the partial water famine of the summers of 1870, '71 and '72, which necessitated the construction of the temporary pipe-line from Meredith's pond on the Gunpowder to Lake Roland. Later, when water from this source was duly added to the city supply, his plans were adopted throughout, and he was consulting engineer during the construction. He was the author of several special reports pertaining to hydraulic and other engineering subjects, and ranked very high in his profession. He led a busy, but unassuming life. His memory for details, not only of his profession but of history and other affairs, was remarkable. He never would hold any political position, and never belonged to any secret society. He was a member of the Engineers' Association. He m. at Cumberland, Md., 1850, Apr. 9, Mary Jeannette, dau. of Charles Mynn and Julianna (Hughes) Thruston, b. 1829, Dec. 1, at New London, Ct. 1033. SAMUEL BROWN<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>7</sup> Joseph,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1795, Aug. 11, in Boston, Mass. He engaged as a merchant in the dry-goods trade at Worcester, 1821, May 23, in partnership with his brother William, but withdrew from the business one year later. He doubtless early learned the calling of a printer in his father's publishing office, and, while yet in mercantile pursuits, he became associated with his father, 1822, Jan. 23, as associate publisher of the Massachusetts Spy, at Worcester, the firm name being William Manning & Son. He withdrew in the latter half of the year, but had charge of the printing of the Spy, "for the proprietors," from 1824, Sep. 8, to 1827, Mch. 14, at a location "opposite the new meeting-house." At this time he removed to Boston, and, with the exception of a brief period, resided there continuously until his death, engaged in his calling. From 1835 to 1839 he had as an associate W. S. Fisher, and the firm name was Manning & Fisher, and then, for some years, he was engaged with J. L. Hallworth under the name of Manning & Hallworth. He was a printer for 34 years, and probably considerably longer. In early life he became a member of the Boston Society of the Church of the New Jerusalem, and during his life of patient, cheerful effort, his religious faith was an anchor to his soul, sure and steadfast. He was sensitive to anything harsh or discordant to his inner sense, and strong in his likes and aversions; while his tastes were wholesome and simple. He made companions of his children, who were early left motherless, and his face would brighten with a tender light when he saw them regarding him. He m. at Shrewsbury, 1822, Apr. 11, Mary Elizabeth, dau. of Rev. Benjamin and Deborah Clark (Fairbanks) Stone, b. 1801, Dec. 2, at Westford; d. 1832, Mch. 13, at Andover, where she was buried. Rev. Mr. Stone was a college graduate; preached before he was 21; was the first, and for 13 years preceptor of Leicester Academy; was principal of Westford Academy, and chaplain of the first Vermont Legislature. 2096. BENJAMIN STONE, b. 1832, Jan. 4, at Andover. He graduated from the Boston High School, became an accountant and was for several years a bookkeeper in the Blackstone Bank, Boston, and, later, in the Custom House. He was fond of books, literary in his tastes, inclined to metaphysics and clear and strong in his mental grasp. He was truthful, reliable, and followed his father's religious faith. He d. unm. 1868, July, in Chicago.

 He was a merchant in Boston for about 34 years, of which some 25 years were in the dry-goods trade. During all the time he was engaged in this line his place of business was at No. 1 Faneuil Hall, though, after a time, Nos. 10 and 11 were added to the establishment. During 1830-34, inclusive, William P. Avis was a partner, and the firm name was Manning & Avis. For a short time after this Mr. Manning conducted the business alone, but in 1835, or 1836, Henry R. Glover became associated with him and remained a partner until Mr. Manning's retirement. J. M. Clark was a partner 1813-5; John Holman, 1846-57, and J. B. Cram, 1848-63. After 1835 the firm name was Manning & Glover until 1843; then Manning, Glover & Clark, 1843-5; Manning, Glover & Holman in 1846, and next, for many years, Manning, Glover & Co. During all his long business career Mr. Manning was the head of the firm. He was a man of positive views, earnest purposes, strict integrity, strong religious convictions, and ready to
 thropic movements. He m. at Boston, 1837, June 10, Susan May,

then resumed his journey. After leaving Lake Erie he was obliged, for want of better facilities, to travel on foot through the wilderness, at times following an old Indian trail, and, as the settlements and pioneer cabins were few and widely separated, night often overtook him miles away from any white man's home: but the Indians proved friendly and hospitable, welcomed him at their camp-fires, and, at parting, shared with him their parched corn and venison. He eventually arrived at St. Louis, and studied law in the office of Judge Carr. Subsequently he went to Illinois, where he located and practiced his profession for a number of years at Brownsville, the county seat of Jackson Co. (since obliterated by a disastrous fire), and the birthplace of his children. When the Illinois and Michigan Canal was projected, in 1836, he was appointed by Gov. Duncan as Secretary of the Board of Commissioners, and from that time until his death he was interested in, and, in an official capacity, connected with that enterprise of improvement. He resided in Chicago, 1836-38, and then in Lockport, Will Co., to which place the canal office had been transferred. During the financial panic of 1840-45 all work on public improvements ceased, and Illinois found its credit impaired to such an extent that the circulating medium, the "canal scrip," was worth but fifty cents on the dollar. Mr. Manning retained confidence in his native State, and, in this crisis, the people of Illinois profited largely by his great experience as a careful, painstaking public man. He received the depreciated currency for his salary, and laid it by in full faith that, in time, it would be redeemed. The Legislature finally passed a relief law, allowing all scrip-holders to purchase canal lands and lots with the scrips, at par. Some of these lots were in Chicago, where Mr. Manning made some purchases which finally proved to be very valuable, and thus laid the foundation for a future competence. As a man he was simple in his tastes, modest and unassuming, but an active, influential member of society, as far as possible aiding in all educational and benevolent enterprises, both of church and state, and having the public good always in view. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a liberal giver to the poor. His influence was marked, and he was recognized as one of the leading minds of the Northwest. The last eight years of his life he resided chiefly with his daughter, Mrs. Fish, at Joliet. He m. 1823, Sep. 9, Diza Jenkins, b. 1806, Oct. 15; d. 1861, Nov. 27. She was a native of Tennessee, and a dau. of Solomon Jenkins, formerly of North Carolina, but who finally settled in Illinois. Of his children other than Mrs. Manning, Solomon, junior, and William returned to the South, while Alexander M. remained in Illinois and was Speaker of the House of Representatives of that State; was elected Lieutenant-Governor in 1834, and, at the time of his death, 1861, was Judge of the Southern District of Illinois. Mrs. Manning's sister, Elizabeth Jenkins, m. Dr. John Logan, and they were the parents of General John A. Logan, the distinguished soldier and U. S. Senator. Mr. Manning d. 1869, Jan. 8, at Joliet. JOHN BRADSTREET<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Joel,<sup>7</sup> Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1799, Feb. 16, at Andover, Vt. He resided in his native town until 1838, when he went to Illinois. After a short time he and his brother-in-law, J. H. Stickney, started in their own conveyance and prospected over the prairies of that State, and the then little explored territory of Wisconsin, resting for the winter at Waukesha. The following spring Mr. Manning attended the territory's first land-sale, at Milwaukee, and, later, invested largely in cattle and other live stock. The attractions of the old home, however, were strong for Mrs. Manning, and, in the fall, the family returned to the old "middle-town" of Andover. He there engaged as a merchant, and remained until 1851, when he went to Mount Tabor and was for several years in the lumber trade. Later, he purchased a farm in Weston, where the rest of his life was passed. He was a man of marked characteristics, of intelligence and honesty; and united a strong will with quiet manners and a ready appreciation of the humorous side of life. He represented Andover in the Legislature in 1836 and 1837, and was also selectman, constable, deputy sheriff and postmaster. He m. 1825, Oct. 27, Lucy Stickney, of Andover, b. 1801, Jan. 2. She m. (2d) John Adams, of Andover, whom she also survived, and she d. 1883, Dec. 27, at Weston. WILLIAM KENDALL<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Joel,<sup>7</sup> Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1800, Dec. 12, at Andover, Vt. On reaching manhood he removed to Ludlow, and, in 1856, to Lockport, Ill. By trade he was a machinist and carpenter, but, in Lockport, owned a manufacturing yard where he constructed canal-boats. He invented, about 1849, a water-wheel regulator, said to be the best in use at that time, and made improvements in the looms used in woolen-mills. He represented Ludlow in the Legislature in 1847. He was of a modest, retiring nature, but of high intelligence. He m. 1828, Nov. 27, Betsey Carlton, b. 1803, Nov. 12, at Andover, and d. 1816, May 5. He m. He was ordained deacon in the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1832, Aug. 12, by Bishop R. R. Roberts, and ordained elder 1834, Aug. 10, by Bishop Elijah Hedding. He traveled a circuit in Maine, N. H. and Vt., as presiding elder. In 1838, July, he became a clergyman of the Baptist denomination, at Medina, Ohio, and continued in that relation for ten years. He was a talented and eloquent minister of the Gospel, and many churches were established through his labors. During his ministry in the M. E. and Baptist churches he filled the pulpits of most of the leading cities in Maine, N. H., Vt., Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and occasionally preached in Iowa. Among his last locations were Crawfordsville, Logansport and South Bend, Ind., and Dixon, Ill. About 1848 he located at Fulton, Ill., and began the practice of medicine, in which profession he continued until old age. He removed in 1849 to Comanche, Iowa, which remained his home until 1871, when he went to Chicago, the home of his younger sons, where he continued to reside until his death, preaching occasionally to the Christian Advent church. He was buried in Rose Hill cemetery, where a monument was erected to his memory by his sons. He m. (1st) 1834, July 24, Lucia Reed, b. 1810, Feb. 25; d. 1845, Aug. 2, at Rockville, Ind. He m. WILLIAM RODNEY<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Benj.,<sup>7</sup> Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.,<sup>1</sup>) b. 1810, Oct. 9, at Andover, Vt. He was educated at Ludlow, Brandon and Chester, Vt., and at New Hampton, N. H. After leaving school as a student he was a teacher for several years. He began the service of the Baptist church as a minister at Tioga and Nichols, N. Y., in 1836, as an associate of Rev. Philander Taylor; was ordained at Smithsboro, 1837, May 5, and located at Smithville as pastor of the Baptist church at that place. In 1841, April, he left New York and removed to Waukesha (then Prairieville), Wis., and at once assumed the pastoral charge of two churches; one at Prairieville, and the other at Spring Prairie. At the end of one year he removed to the latter place, and confined his labors to that church until 1844, when he removed to Wauwautosa, near Milwaukee, and became pastor of the Greenfield church on the Spring street (now Grand Avenue) road, five miles from the city. He also gathered a church at Wauwautosa and became its pastor. During this pastorate he resigned his position as missionary of the Baptist Home Missionary Society, on account of the equivocal position of that organization on the slavery question. This rendered his future support quite problematical, and that support would have failed entirely but for the efforts which he and his wife constantly were making for the maintenance of the family. In the fall of 1847 he removed to Waukau, Wis. There he organized a church, and another at Berlin. His views now changing on the question of communion, he joined the Free Baptists. He served three churches of the Free Baptists — at Rolling Prairie, Green Bush and Omro Junction. During the winter of 1866-7 he was laid very low by a carbuncle which almost took his life. The following summer was nearly gone when he began to walk again and slowly-returning strength gave promise of a new lease of life. After that he preached only to give an occasional day's rest to another minister. He was several years superintendent of schools at Rushford, Winnebago Co., Wis. He m. 1836, Oct. 22, Harriet Campbell Adams, b. 1815, Nov. 18, at Rockingham, Vt.; dau. of Samson B. and Sally (Payne) Adams. In 1886, Oct. 27, five days behind time, Rev. Mr. Manning and his wife received from relatives and friends in Los Angeles, Cal., at the residence of their son Dr. Edward C. Manning, the golden gifts which are so rarely attained by a missionary and his wife. Friends in other States sent greetings. Mr. Manning passed his final years at the

when a single Western farmer raised 200 acres of the product, and came to him for a market. but, at the start, it was difficult to get a full supply, as the neighboring farmers were afraid to raise it, and he was compelled to take seed-corn to them personally and urge them to plant it for his use. When he and his brother began the manufacturing was all done by hand, but they finally devised machines for making the cakes and, being patented, they proved very valuable. About 1867, finding that the business had outgrown the facilities of the old place, Mr. Manning purchased an acre of land in Lowell, at the corner of Broadway and School st., and built the shop where he has so long carried on the business. There he has made all kinds of corn candy, and found sale for it from Maine to California. He has also retained his farm for summer use. He lived in youth at Lyndeboro and Francestown, N. H., but, about 1823, removed with his family to Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y., making the journey with his own team; but soon went to the neighboring town of Greenwood, where he remained until his death. He was among the first settlers, and endured many hardships and privations. He worked at his trade of shoemaker winters, and on his farm summers, establishing a home for his family. He bought and cleared a large tract of land, and built mills and manufactured large quantities of pine lumber. To get the fruit-trees now standing on the old farm he went on foot about forty miles. He was prominent in state, county and town affairs, and a leading man in all matters relating to schools and the church. Having early experienced religion he united with the Presbyterians, was made deacon, and was widely known by that designation. He was a Christian gentleman in the full sense of the term. By his upright character, steadfast honesty, charitable deeds and readiness to use his good efforts for the betterment of the condition of all whom he knew he gained the profound respect of all classes of people, and was universally regarded as a good and exemplary man. 1157. SOLOMON<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>7</sup> Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1799, May 16, at Chelmsford, Mass. After the early death of his father he lived with his uncle Asa, until 21. Soon after, he went to Medford, Mass., where he was for 5 years employed by Dudley Hall, having charge of all the farming operations and caring for the teams, stock, etc., as well as the crops. When 25 he had saved about $1,000, which he invested in a farm at Bedford, N. H., walking to that town from Medford, a distance of 50 miles, looking over and purchasing the farm one day and returning to Medford the next. In 1825 he settled on the farm, which is still occupied by his descendants. This farm produced the first hops raised in the town, and perhaps the first in N. H., the previous owner having brought the roots from Wilmington, Mass.; an industry which continued throughout the vicinity for 50 years. In 1831, during a deep religious interest in town, Mr. Manning and his wife were among the 91 persons who united with the church. He served as selectman in 1846. He was of mild temperament and quiet disposition, and, physically, very strong. He m., 1823, Mary Fletcher, of Tyngsboro, Mass., b. 1800, the age of 18 he began to learn the trade of carriage-making at Francestown, and, before he was 21, went to Greenville, Ill., and set up in business at his trade. There was enough work for him to do, but there were also the privations of a new country and a scarcity of money, and these made it up-hill striving in spite of his industry. Fever and chills impaired his health, and, in 1844, he returned to his native place for a few months recuperation. Returning to Greenfield he rented a farm and remained until 1846, March, when he and his family went to Michigan with horses and wagon, camping out at night, and staying in a house only one night of the three weeks required for the journey. He bought a farm of 62 acres in Stockbridge, Ingham Co., where they endured the privations of pioneer life in a log-cabin for a time. In 1862 he rented his farm and, to secure the advantages of good schools, removed to Corunna, where he engaged in the carriage business, alone, at first, but, after two or three years, with Joseph N. Lemon and, later, Chas. P. Williams as partners, making the firm Lemon, Manning & Co. In 1869 Mr. Manning disposed of his interest, and, the following year, bought a carriage stand in Owosso, where he continued in business. Although never active in politics he was, in the spring of 1878, unanimously elected mayor of Owosso, his name being at the head of four different tickets. He and his wife were deeply interested in, and gave time, money and influence to the cause of temperance. In 1883 they united with the Congregational church. He was a domestic man, and his most trusted counsellor was the wife who faithfully shared the hardships and privations of his younger years and was his helpful companion during nearly 45 years of married life. On his death the city government passed resolutions certifying to his high character and integrity as a citizen and his executive efficiency as mayor. The Royal Templars had charge of the funeral arrangements, and, together with the ex-mayor and then officiating city officers, were in attendance. iness in general from type-setting to proof-reading, itemizing, etc.; studied stenography and, 1873, went to N. Y. City and took a finishing course. She did two years' work as amanuensis in the publishing house of Fowler & Wells, and five more years of short-hand work in the auditor-general's office, Lansing, Mich. She had been a newspaper correspondent, but after 1877, her literary work was in the line of religion and temperance, in short articles, sketches and stories for religious papers, with occasional magazine articles. Impaired health led her to give up active life in 1881, after which teaching stenography and type-writing and literary work occupied her time. She d. unm. 1899, Sep. 10, in Boston, Mass.

American Home Missionary Society, and aided in the establishment of the collegiate institution on Lookout Mountain. Returning North, he for six months most acceptably supplied the pulpit at Amherst, N. H., and afterwards accepted a call from the neighboring parish of Brookline. By his fidelity and earnestness he greatly endeared himself to his people and gained the respect of neighboring churches, so that when, after eighteen months, his pastorate was terminated by death, he was deeply and universally lamented. As a clergyman he was distinguished for the conscientious thoroughness and unswerving truthfulness with which he did his work. He was a sound scholar and had great respect for scholarship in others; searched the Scriptures in the original tongues; was acquainted with books and the right use of them; and the logical faculty was in him well developed. His nature was genial, yet modest and sensitive, and he had broad views of the ministerial office and of the influence it would exert on all the interests of society. He d. 1869, Aug. 19, after a brief illness, and was buried in the South Church cemetery, in his native town. He m. Early in life he engaged in mercantile pursuits, and was associated in the stove and hardware business at Portland with Nathan Winslow, and, later, with his brother-in-law, Geo. H. Cheney, for several years prior to 1838, when he removed to Paris, Me., and thence to Syracuse, N. Y., in 1841. He returned to Maine in 1847 and settled at Norway, where he took charge of a large mercantile business and iron foundry conducted under the name of Brown & Co. He was very active in affairs pertaining to the welfare of the town, particularly in educational, temperance and religious works, and, in whatever engaged, devoted to it the most untiring energy. On the completion of the Atlantic & St. Lawrence railroad to Montreal he made a visit to that city, where he contracted typhoid fever, from which he died on his return to Norway. The Norway Advertiser, in an obituary in Jan., 1854, said of him that "he was genial and social, and in his intercourse with the world was unexceptionable. As a friend he was warm in his attachments and confiding in his nature: in his deportment he was dignified, yet modest and unassuming, and in all his associations was influenced only by high and honorable motives." He was an incorporator and trustee of the Norway Liberal Institute, and Worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance. After his death the family removed to Portland, 1854, Jan. 1258. STEPHEN NOYES<sup>8</sup> MANNING (Aaron,<sup>7</sup> James,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1804, Oct. 24, at Sharon, Vt. His parents were poor, and he was put out to service at the age of 7. At 16 he was bound as an apprentice to a printer at Windsor. His school facilities were very limited, but, having united with the church in 1821, he was ambitious to secure proper education and enter the ministry. The printer agreed to release him from the last two years of his term for $100, and, at the age of 19, he went to Boston. In less than one year he had paid this sum and saved an additional $100. He pressed forward in his purpose, entered and graduated at Dartmouth College, and, later, at the Andover Theological Seminary, class of 1833, paying his way chiefly by printing, teaching and literary labors. In 1833 he was ordained as a Presbyterian minister at Methuen, Mass., by the Newburyport Presbytery. In the fall of 1833, he went to Ohio, and spent 15 years preaching in different places and 8 years in teaching. He was a Home Missionary at Watertown, O., for 2 years; taught in Kentucky from 1837 to 1843 (in '37-9 at Covington), and was a missionary near Cleveland, 1843-51. In 1856 he was called to take the agency of several county Bible Societies in Illinois, auxiliary to the American Bible Society. His duties were laborious, as he preached and lectured three or four times a week to raise money to send the Bible to the destitute, and every day went from house to house for the same purpose. He traveled in his buggy, or on horseback, about 5,000 miles a year, often exposed to storms and to great danger in fording swollen streams. His diligence and success led to his election as a Life Director of the American Bible Society. He continued 12 years in this agency, retiring in 1868 because of increasing years and physical infirmities. He had also preached at some time after 1851 in Michigan, probably in connection with his service in Illinois. He had always been interested in scientific matters, and, while teaching in Ohio, made mathematics and astronomy a specialty. About 1868 he invented and patented the "Spheric Delineator" for the use of colleges in teaching spherics; which was highly commended by professors. Later, he wrote considerably for the Scientific American and other periodicals on astronomical, mathematical, educational, biblical and geological subjects. In 1874 he published "The Fireside Astronomer," a pamphlet of 60 pages, printed at Kankakee, Ill. As early as 1871 he settled at Kankakee, where the closing years of his life were spent. He was honored and loved, and affectionately known as "Father Manning." He d. there 1882, Oct. 24. He m. at Hanover, N. He was clerk in a village store at Rockville, 1849-56, when he removed to Iowa and resided until 1862, doing a general mercantile business. During his first visit home his wife was taken ill and died. He returned to Iowa (Edlyville), settled up his business affairs and removed to the East. After a few months he went to Brooklyn, N. Y., and was associated with the firm of J. S. Ward & Co., of which he afterward became a member. Their business was storage and inspection. He was for many years a member of the Produce Exchange. He was a very hard worker, applied himself too closely to business, and, seven years before his death, was the victim of paralysis and complications caused by that disease. He m. 1490. EDWIN<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Calvin,<sup>8</sup> Calvin,<sup>7</sup> Hezekiah,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1810, Feb. 8, at South Coventry, Ct. He received his education in the schools of his native State, and at the age of 16 entered the store of his uncle, Royal Manning, as salesman; but after a few months went to Bethany, Pa., where he held a like position with another uncle, James Manning. After five years he was taken in as partner with a one-third interest. In 1831 he engaged in business at Canton Corners, Bradford Co., with J. C. Rose under the firm name of Manning & Rose, but in 1836 disposed of his interest and went West, going by boat to St. Louis. He purchased real estate in Jackson and Saline counties, and, proceeding up the Mississippi and Des Moines rivers, reached St. Francisville in December, 1836. After making more investments he continued to Ft. Madison, where he visited the wigwam of the Indian chief, Black Hawk, who treated him in a friendly manner. In January, 1837, Mr. Manning, with three other men, purchased a claim to the land and platted the present town of Keosauqua, Van Buren Co., Iowa, where he has resided for over half a century. He was a pioneer of the county and the founder of the town, having long been identified with their growth and improvement. In consequence of the changes of time he has lived in the territories of Michigan and Wisconsin, and the territory and State of Iowa, all under one roof. He attended the first land-sale at Burlington, purchasing several small tracts. In 1839 he purchased in New York the first stock of goods ever conveyed to Keosauqua, shipping the same by sea to the Mississippi, and up the river to Churchville, at the mouth of the Des Moines, it being seven weeks on the way. He built the first flat-boat, in 1844, that floated down the Des Moines, and ran the first loaded steamer from St. Louis to Des Moines in 1851. In 1842 he was the builder of the first brick court house in Iowa, and which has long endured in good condition. He was appointed Commissioner of the Des Moines River Improvements by Gov. Grimes, and held the office until its affairs were adjusted, in 1859. In half a century he has seen wonderful transformations in a primitive vicinity, and has been active in all public improvements. In early life he was a Whig, and cast his first vote for Pres. William Henry Harrison; has from its formation been a staunch supporter of the Republican party, but has steadily refused to accept office. Upon Pres. Lincoln's call for financial aid to suppress the Rebellion Mr. Manning invested all he could command, and this example caused the citizens of his county to contribute not less than $250,000. He still resides at Keosauqua, where he is a banker, and where, beginning with only a good constitution, temperate and frugal habits, pluck, perseverance and integrity, he has acquired an ample competence. Stories are told of his generosity, and of his readiness to help others with advice, encouragement and substantial aid, all quietly done; and it would seem he has not an enemy. He m. (1st) in Lee Co., 1842, Meh. 8, Sarah Jane, dau. of William and Sarah (Workman) Sample, b. 1816, July 21, at Washington, Pa., and d. 1857, June 1, at Keokuk, Iowa; and (2d) 1859, Nov. 3, Nannie B., dau. of Robert and Mary (Nanic) Bryant, b. 1832, Feb. 3, at Rockville, Ind., who still survives. All the following children were born at Keosauqua.

Y. Resided at Rochester. She m. 1855, May 30, Don Alonzo Watson, b. 1807, June 17, at Palmer, Mass., who d. at Rochester, 1892, Jan. 1. Mr. Watson received the educational advantages that his town and time afforded, and, while yet a youth, went to Boston and mastered the machinist's trade, which he followed for a time in Skaneateles and Newark, N. Y. In 1832 he went to Honeoye Falls, where he met the Hon. Hiram Sibley, whose warm friendship he retained until the latter's death. The two jointly purchased the Tinker machine shop and did a large and successful business for eight years, when, on Mr. Sibley's election as county sheriff in 1840, the firm was dissolved and the shop sold. Mr. Watson soon removed to Rochester and engaged in discounting commercial paper for several years, in which he became more extensively engaged than all the local banks combined. Immediately after his marriage to Miss Manning he went to Europe, and, during his absence, Mr. Sibley inaugurated the movement which led to the formation of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Upon his return Mr. Watson was induced by his life-long friend to become a heavy stockholder in that corporation. At the same time he invested largely in railroad stock of the Vanderbilt system, and probably became the heaviest holder of the Central-Hudson securities outside of New York City. His motto was to buy with good judgment and never sell, and these investments were the foundation of his great wealth. He was a personal friend of Commodore Vanderbilt, and co-operated with the latter's sons and grandsons. He was a trustee of the Reynolds library, but never held other office, invariably refusing positions of trust, though frequently urged to accept them. In religion he was an Episcopalian. He was of retiring disposition and shrank from public life, yet he manifested keen interest in the city's prosperity. Charitable, benevolent, and unostentatious, he liberally supported all worthy objects and regularly contributed to the maintenance of various local institutions; his endowment of the Chair of Political Economy in the University of Rochester being but a single instance of this. Since the foregoing was written Mrs. Watson has also passed away. She d. at Rochester, 1900, Dec. 19. At various times in the last ten years the compiler of the present volume has received from those who were entire strangers to Mrs. Watson newspaper articles describing her benevolent work, for which she was widely known. She gave of her means freely, and with what seems to the compiler to have been striking judgment. The Industrial School, and the Homeopathic Hospital of Rochester are examples of her benefactions. What she did for the Hospital, as reported by the Board of Managers, will illustrate this. In 1893 she gave $5,000 toward the purchase of its property; the following year she assumed all the expense of the Watson Pavilion, in which the wards were situated; in 1895 she built the Watson Surgical Pavilion, and the Hollister Ward, consisting of eleven private rooms; in 1897 she built the second surgical pavilion, and other gifts followed until her benefactions to the hospital aggregated about $100,000. For eleven years she was Vice-President of the Board of Supervisors, and chairman of the supply and auditing committees. She was a member of the Episcopal church, to which she was a generous contributor. She combined with intellect and scholarly tastes, and good executive ability, a modesty of bearing and gentleness of nature which made friends of all and left many to lament the close of her noble life. A soldier of the Rebellion. He was enrolled for his first service 1861, Apr. 29, for three years, in the 25th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He went to the front as sergeant; was promoted second lieutenant 1862, Jan. 9, first lieutenant Meh. 12, following, and captain 1863, Meh. 20. It is believed he was in about twenty battles. At Gettysburg he was severely wounded July 1, and lay on the battlefield until the 3d. Gen. Early took his sword. He was appointed and received his commission as major of the 191st Ohio, Meh. 6, the field officers of this regiment being appointed from officers of veteran regiments whose service had been satisfactory. The 191st was made the nucleus of a Brigade, being united with the 192d, 193d and 196th. It was known as the "Ohio Brigade." At the end of the war he was mustered out with his regiment at Columbus, 1865, Sep. 3. It is to be regretted that his name, and those of his brothers who also saw service, cannot be included in the table of soldiers of the Rebellion given on page 36; but the locating of this branch of the family was the latest genealogical discovery of the present work, and the first third of this volume was in print before the records of these brothers were received. This fact explains their non-appearance in the table. Major Manning was a lawyer by profession, and practiced at Barnesville, Ohio. He m. there, 1865, Dec. 5, Anna Virginia Howard. JOHN SMITH<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Nathaniel,<sup>8</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>7</sup> Hezekiah,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1843, Feb. 22, at Liberty, Ill. As a boy he attended public schools at irregular intervals, working on a farm during farming seasons. In October, 1861, he, with his family, left Missouri and went to Ohio (his father, before his death, having made himself obnoxious to the secession element by reason of his sympathy for the Union cause). He enlisted 1862, Aug. 15, in Co. A, 116th Ohio Volunteers, and was directly made orderly sergeant. In November he was made second lieutenant, in Feb., 1863, first lieutenant, and in Sep., 1863, captain. In June, 1863, while on picket duty, he was taken prisoner in a skirmish in which three men of the company were killed and five wounded. This was near Winchester, Va., and the enemy was the advance of Lee's army, then on its way to Pennsylvania, immediately preceding the battle of Gettysburg. As a prisoner of war he was sent to Libby Prison, Richmond, and remained until May, 1864; then transferred to Macon, Ga. There they remained about three months, when they were sent to Savannah for one month, then to Charleston, S. C., for two months, where they were placed under the fire of batteries of the Federal Army, stationed on islands in Charleston harbor. Thence they were sent to Columbia, S. C. and near the end of Feb., 1865, were paroled at Wilmington, N. C., and sent to parole camp at Annapolis, Md. He was exchanged and joined his regiment near Richmond, 1865, May 10, and sent to Cincinnati, O., and mustered out of service June 23. He afterwards studied law and was admitted to the bar, but never practiced. He was appointed a clerk in the Government Treasury Department 1869, Sep., and is now one of its employees. He resides in Washington. He m. 1879, Sep. 30, Mary Lytle Powers, b. 1848, Nov. 15, at Eastport, Me.; d. 1883, Mch. 24, in Washington. Ch.:

Feb. 20, at Woodsfield, Ohio. The greater part of his early life was passed on a farm in St. Charles county, Mo. He was educated in the public schools of Missouri and Ohio, together with two years at Vermillion Institute, in Richland Co., O. In July, 1863, he went with the militia to Marietta, O., to aid in the capture of John Morgan. While there he joined the volunteer service by uniting himself with Co. G, 4th West Virginia Cavalry, and after some delay was mustered in at Parkersburg, West Va. This regiment's principal service was in guarding the B. & O. railroad from Parkersburg to Cumberland, Md. The regiment was mustered out at Wheeling, W. Va., 1864. The subject of this sketch subsequently studied medicine, and graduated from Miami Medical College, Cincinnati, in the spring of 1871. His present (1901) residence is Manchester, Clay Co., Ky., where he has practiced medicine for the past twenty-five years. He has twice been elected County Superintendent of Schools of his home county. He has also been elected President of South Eastern Medical Society, and is President of the County Board of Health and medical referee for his county. A soldier of the Rebellion. He enlisted at Charington, O., 1861, Sep. 24, for one year, and was mustered into the 180th Ohio Volunteers at Camp Chase and assigned to Gen. Thomas' command. Having been sent to Nashville, Tenn., he, with his comrades, was on duty along the Nashville & Chattanooga railroad until Hood's retreat, after which they started for some point in Mississippi, going as far as Duck river. About Feb. 1st they went by steamer to Morehead, N. C., whence they marched to Wilmington. From there the company was detailed to erect telegraph lines to Goldsborough, where they joined Gen. Sherman. They marched to Raleigh, where Mr. Manning was on safeguard duty for three weeks; and, after Johnson's surrender, to Greensboro, whence they were transported on cars to Charlotte. About July 5 they were sent to City Point, and took boat for Baltimore, from which place they went to Columbus, O., where they were mustered out July 12. Mr. Manning resides at Holden, Mo. E.,<sup>8</sup> Elias,<sup>7</sup> Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Saml.,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1840, Mch. 31, at Penfield, N. Y. He was reared at Salem, Mich. He attended the local schools a few months each year, and worked on the farm the balance of the time until he was 17 years old. From that time until 22 he attended the High School at Ypsilanti, and the State Normal School at the same place. In the meanwhile he taught three winter terms in country districts, and worked on the farm during summer vacations. In 1862, July, he enlisted as a soldier in Co. B, 20th Michigan Infantry. May 12, 1864, he was taken prisoner at Spottsylvania Court House. With his comrades he was taken to Andersonville, where they remained until the middle of Sept., when they were removed to Florence, S. C. After being paroled they were put on board a transport in Charleston harbor, Dec. 6. They were kept as paroled prisoners at Columbus, Ohio, until exchanged. A day was set for them to rejoin their regiments, but on that day came news of Gen. Lee's surrender, so their return was deferred for a couple of days. He rejoined his regiment at a point near Petersburg. He received a second and first lieutenant's commission after his return, but never mustered on them. He came out of the army as a sergeant, being mustered out in time to reach home in June. He bought a farm near his father's; taught school the first winter; and remained on the farm until the spring of 1869, being for most of four years inspector of schools. The Salem church licensed him to preach, and he entered Kalamazoo College in 1869, graduating in the class of '72. He then entered the Baptist Theological Seminary at Chicago, and graduated in the class of '74, in February. Previous to graduation he was ordained at Beaver Dam, Wis., and accepted the pastorate, removing to that place. Wayland University, his denominational school of the State, being located there, he became deeply interested in its work. He was one of the trustees, treasurer, and, later, associate principal. He remained there until 1880, August, when he became pastor of the South Baptist Church, Milwaukee. In 1885 he was elected president of the Baptist State Convention.

which position he held when he went to the 12th st. Church, of Detroit, Mich. For several years he had a desire to take a new interest. The first Sunday in Dec., 1887, he preached in a hall, and Feb. 10th. following, a church was recognized with 47 members. Church buildings were erected, and, in 1891, the membership was 116. He remained pastor here (the North Church) until 1895, Feb., since which time he has been Superintendent of the Baptist City Mission Society of Chicago, his present home. He m. 1862, July 27, Sarah, dau. of Asher and Orpha Cook, b. 1841, Oct. 16, at Salem. No ch.

go to Illinois; arrived at Chicago 1837, May, and was not a little surprised—mud, water, Indians, frogs, snakes, two public houses, a few stores, the old fort—that was about all, except land speculators. Thence he went to Barrington Precinct, Cook Co., and, in 1847, removed to Algoma, Winnebago Co., Wis., where he engaged in farming and dairying. Later, he purchased a drug-store, and was thus occupied for 30 years, but gave it up on account of ill health; removed to Big Flats, Adams Co., in 1873, where he was a farmer for 13 years. In 1886 he located at Shiocton. He

course of medical lectures at Woodstock, Vt., and, in the fall of the same year, a similar course at Pittsfield, receiving his diploma. He soon commenced practice with Dr. Holmes at Lebanon, and afterwards bought the doctor's business and residence. The residence he sold 1844, Dec., and removed to Ellington, Ct., where he was a practicing physician until the spring of 1856: when he, in company with John C. Parker, his wife's brother, purchased the stock in trade of a drug-store in Pittsfield and carried on the business. In 1862, in answer to a call for volunteer surgeons, he, with other physicians of Pittsfield, went to the Union army in Virginia, where he contracted a disease in service from which he never recovered. He m. 1844, May 2, Mary Sophia, dan. of Linus and Sophia (Churchill) Parker, b. 1824, Sep. 30, at Pittsfield. She received her education in the Pittsfield schools, and at Westfield Academy. Upon the death of her husband she assumed the care of the drug-store and continued the business until her death in 1886. She, as well as her friends, took great pride in her successful business career. The State Pharmaceutical Association recognized her ability as a pharmacist, and the obstacles she had to overcome to become competent in the business. Although she was not a member, the State Association, at their meeting in Boston soon after her death, passed the following resolutions, which they entered upon their records, and of which an engrossed copy was sent to the family: "Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, by one of his dark and inscrutable Providences, to remove from our midst, during the past year, an honored member of our profession, one eminent for her moral and social qualities and for her professional acumen, and therefore highly respected in the community where she lived, one who will ever be remembered by all our members and their lady friends who attended the meeting of the Association last year—Mrs. Mary S. Manning of Pittsfield, therefore; Resolved, that we tender to the members of the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in this time of trouble and grief; Resolved, that this Association recognizes in the death of Mrs. Manning the loss of a valued and honored Pharmacist, and desires to place on its records an expression of its appreciation of her high character and her earnest work for the advancement of the best interests of Pharmacy; Resolved, that while her death prevents the action that would undoubtedly have been taken at this meeting had she been living, viz. :—the placing of her name on the list of our honorary members, this Association will ever cherish her memory and consider that though her name cannot be formally placed on our honorary roll, we shall always consider that it has a place there and that the honor was deservedly conferred; Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon our records, and that the Secretary be instructed to have a copy of them engrossed and sent to the family. Joseph W. Colcord, Sec'y." Mrs. Manning d. 1886, Jan. 25; Dr. Manning d. 1863, Nov. 12, both at Pittsfield, where they are buried. Ch. :

In 1861 he built a house on his portion of his father's farm at Lebanon, and resided there the rest of his life engaged in farming. He took an active interest in church affairs, and was a member of the society committee for many years. He collected a large amount of material from the original records for a history of the First Church in Lebanon, and for a Manning genealogy, but his death at the age of 61, after an illness of more than four years, during which he was unable to write, or even walk without help, prevented the completion of the work for publication. His widow lives at the home they built in Lebanon, with her eldest son. He m. at Franklin, 1855, Mch. 6, Lucy Elizabeth, dau. of Arad and Lura (Abell) Robinson, b. 1832, Aug. 31, at Franklin; a sister of the wives of his brothers Jabez P. and Benjamin S. Manning. After several years experience in factory life he was apprenticed early in his fifteenth year to the printing business in the Norwich Courier office, serving as such until his majority, and for six years as foreman. He then went to Wilbraham Seminary, where he remained about one full year, spending the last year as teacher in the English department as substitute for Prof. Goodnow, and at the close of the year was admitted to membership in the N. E. Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, receiving his first pastoral charge at the "Asbury Chapel," Springfield, Mass., in 1843. His following pastorates were So. Hadley Falls, '44; Chesterfield, '45-6; Charlemont, '47-8; Enfield, '49; So. Walpole, '50-4; Dorchester, '52; Charlestown, '53, all in Massachusetts; a severe railroad accident disabling him for the greater part of the latter and the two following years. He was next pastor in Lynn (Boston st.), '56-7; Waltham, '58-9, '60; Salem, '61; Boston (Bennington st.), '62-3; Boston (Centenary Church), 64-6; Chicopee, '67-9; Lynn (South st.), '70-4; Hyde Park, '72; assistant editor of Zion's Herald, Boston, '73-5; pastor at Whitinsville, '76-7; Lynn (Maple st.) '78-80; Wakefield, '81-2; Ashfield, '83-4—after which time he was on the superannuated list, serving as "supply" for the churches as occasion offered. For 31 years he served the Conference as secretary (from which post he retired owing to the necessity of taking his wife to Florida for her health), having never been absent or late at any one of the 250 or more sessions of the Conference from the time of his first election. He was delegate to the General Conference of the Church, held at Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1872, of which he was one of the secretaries. For over 30 years he was engaged in corresponding for news and religious papers, and, in the employ of the Associated Press, for years reported the Chautauqua and his own Conference acts at their annual assemblages. The Boston Journal was his regular source of communication with the political and religious world for a generation and a half, and he also wrote quite extensively for the Boston Daily Evening Traveller, and a variety of local papers. During his third Lynn pastorate he edited the History of Douglas, and at South Boston that of the N. E. Methodist Convention, held in Tremont Temple in '66, of which he was secretary. He resided in his final years at Reading, Mass., where he d. 1901, Feb. 5. He was buried at Norwich, Ct. He m. JOHN STEWART<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Ziba,<sup>8</sup> Wm.,<sup>7</sup> Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.,<sup>1</sup>) b. 1813, Apr. 3, at Whitehall, N. Y. He taught school in western Pennsylvania at an early age. In 1841 he professed religion, soon after which he began to study for the ministry in Farmington, Ohio. Later, he studied in Geauga Seminary, at Chester, and, in 1843, was ordained and began preaching. He was for two years in the State of Pa.; then three and one-half years in Canada; then again in Pa. for 20 years. In 1866 he was employed by the Free Will Baptist Home Mission Society to labor in the South among the freedmen, and spent the greater part of 20 years in that field. He made it the great work of his life, and under his labors, directly or indirectly, there were organized four Yearly Meetings, sixteen Quarterly Meetings, and one hundred and sixty-two churches with 5,000 members. As years pressed upon him he once gave up his arduous and responsible position, but was called back to it as one peculiarly fitted to the work. In 1893 he went to Cairo, Ill., for the purpose of founding a Collegiate Institute, the charter for which he had already secured; and became ill and died there 1893, June 25. He was buried at Hillsdale, Mich., at which latter place he had had his family home for about 24 years. As an evangelist and revival laborer he was successful, and, as such, was earnest, sympathetic and, as his obituary states, "everybody's friend, but a friend to no man's faults," though his kindly nature made him much beloved; in his work for the freedmen he was active, earnest and devoted, and, in emergencies, shared the humble fare and privations of the poor among whom he labored. His home life was remarkably peaceful, and his kindness there unvaried. He m. 1844, May 24, Maryett, dau. of Samuel and Emeline (Parker) Hammond, b. 1822, Jan. 24, at Perrysburg, N. WILLIAM<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Charles,<sup>8</sup> Wm.,<sup>7</sup> Phineas,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Saml.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1827, Oct. 10, at Benson, Vt. His boyhood was passed in his native town, and at Dryden, N. Y., and Chatham, Pa. He attended public school in winter and worked on the farm in summer until the age of 18 years; taught school two winter terms; then attended Union Academy one year, teaching classics to pay his way in part. He married and taught the Union School at Whitesville, N. Y., with his wife as preceptress one year. In 1850, August, he joined the East Genesee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. He was pastor of Wellsborough Circuit for two years, that being the time limit in the pastorate. The circuit was 40 miles long, with ten regular appointments, or places of preaching. The other appointments were in school-houses and dwelling-houses, and, in summer, in barns and groves. He rode the Circuit mostly on horseback, with portmanteau behind the saddle. His salary, or, rather, his quarterage and table expenses, was paid almost wholly in grain, meat and "store orders" for groceries and other goods. He was pastor at Mansfield, Pa., 1852-4; at Wellsville, N. Y., 1854-5; and at Lawrenceville, Pa., 1855-7. From 1854 to 1857 he was also agent trustee and treasurer of Mansfield Classical Seminary (now the State Normal School) at Mansfield, Pa. His succeeding pastorates were at Penfield, N. Y., 1857-9; Rochester, 1859-61; Trumansburgh, 1861-3; Bath, 1863-5, the time limit then being extended to three years; Lyons, 1865-8; Waterloo, 1868-71; Newark, 1871-3; Baldwinsville, 1873-5. From 1876 to 1888 he was chaplain in the New York State Industrial School at Rochester. In 1875 his wife was stricken with paralysis during an attack of typhoid fever, which made it necessary to give her quiet and relieve her from the responsibilities of a pastor's wife. She partially recovered under careful treatment and survived until 1893. Being unable to continue in the relation of a pastor he engaged in the agency of a life insurance company, which business he has since followed. He now represents the American Temperance Life Ins. Association as special agent. After a long residence in Rochester he has recently removed to New York City. He m. at Knoxville, Pa., 1849, June 2, Caroline, dau. of Harry and Hiley Teall, b. 1828, Mch. 27, at Almond, Allegany Co., N. Y.; d. 1893, Nov. 20, at Rochester. Ch.:

In 1868 she received her diploma as a graduate from the Lyons Musical Institute, at Lyons, N. Y. In 1872 she went to Germany and spent a year at Goerlitz and Leipzig pursuing the study and practice of organ music and musical theory. On her return she had charge of the musical department of Dansville Seminary for five years, and, later, for two years was principal of the same department in Simpson College, Iowa. For nine years she presided at the organ in Asbury M. E. church in Rochester, and is still engaged (1900) in her life work. She is the author of a text-book on musical theory, and the composer of many popular anthems and, especially, of songs for children. Res. at Rochester.

His occupation was the building of locomotives, and the care of railroad machinery. He left home in 1845 and went to Boston, where he was several years engaged with the Hinckley Locomotive Works, after which he went to Lawrence and designed engines for one year. In 1850 he went West with a lot of engines, and was for a time on the Fort Wayne & Chicago railway, running on the road. From there he went to Michigan City, Ind., in 1852; removed to Milwaukee in 1857 and remained until 1864. He was next located at Chillicothe, Ohio, and was master mechanic of the Marietta & Cincinnati railroad until 1867, from which place he went to Albany, N. Y., and was in the service of the N. Y. Central & Hudson R. R. in the same capacity until his retirement on account of ill health. In 1872 he returned to Boston, and had the care of the engine at the Boston Water Works for a few years, when his health led to his retirement from all but light work. He was the patentee of the "Manning Rotary Stave Cutting Machine," and perhaps further an inventor. He m. 1845, Oct. 26, Elizabeth A. Lyon, b. 1830, Jan. 13, at West Roxbury. He early went to work there in the Globe Locomotive Works, where he was a department foreman. Removing to the West he was in the service of the New Albany & Salem R.R., working in the shop of the road and as a locomotive engineer. He followed the latter business until the sewing machine came into general use, and then turned his attention to the building of sewing machines. Just before the Civil War broke out he was foreman or supt. of a manufacturing plant (sewing machines or fire-arms) at Richmond, Va. At this time the men under him in the shop would engage in military drill after working hours, preparing themselves for the Confederate service, and they several times invited him to join them. He always refused, but they became so persistent that he decided to leave Richmond. He stole out of his hotel one night, leaving all his possessions in his room except the clothes he wore, and escaped to the North. He located in Philadelphia, where he remained until his death. There he engaged at sewing-machine manufacture and repairing. About 1867-8 he invented what was called the Ira Manning Shoe Machine. (He called his name Ira, though his real name was Irad.) This machine would perform the work of any first-class sewing-machine, and, in addition, from the coarsest to the finest stitching, a certain kind of work on shoes that no other machine was capable of doing. It is believed that his final years were devoted to getting up inventions. The failure of his widow to answer letters has compelled the family history to gather this sketch from other sources. He m. at Boston, 1850, Nov. 25, Ann Augusta White, b. in Boston, and then aged 17; hence b. 1832 or 1833; dau. of Wm. White. Mr. Manning d. 1897, Mch. 23, in Philadelphia. Ch. :

Marie, Mich., where his father was post-surgeon. He received a good common-school education, which he improved by omnivorous reading and study, but his father's financial reverses prevented his obtaining a much-desired college education. In 1864 he learned telegraphy, and, the same year, secured a position with the Michigan Central railroad. He was with that company until 1866, when he became manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at Ypsilanti, which position he still retains (1900). He was a member of the Ypsilanti Light Guard from its organization in 1872 until his resignation in 1886, at which time he was its captain. He was also a member of every Rifle Team sent by the State of Michigan to engage in the competitions at Creedmoor, and took part in every victory won by the State teams, including the "Hilton Trophy" and "Inter-State" matches. He was at one time known as one of the most expert solvers of puzzles, ciphers, problems, etc., in the country. He has occasionally written for publication, and, at times, has translated from the German into English verse. Unm., 1899.

station, returning in Sep., 1868. In the two years next following he was on the "Seminole," North Atlantic Squadron, and in Sep., 1870, was ordered to the Naval Academy, Annapolis, as instructor in steam engineering. He was detached from that position in the summer of 1875 and ordered to the U. S. S. "Swatara," North Atlantic Squadron, but was ordered back to duty at the Naval Academy two years later. In Sep., 1880, he was ordered to the U. S. S. "Despatch," on special service, chiefly as President's yacht. In addition to this duty he served as a member of the first Advisory Board for rebuilding the navy. In Aug., 1882, he was granted a year's leave of absence, having been on continuous duty for twelve years, and, in June, 1884, was placed on the retired list on account of partial loss of hearing "in line of duty." He had been promoted to the grade of Second Asst. Engineer in 1866, and to that of Passed Asst. Engineer in 1872, and was retired in that grade, though he served as Chief Engineer of the "Despatch." When the "Jeannette" rescue party was being formed to go to the Polar regions in search of Lieut. Greely and the other survivors of that vessel he was one of those chosen by Chief Engineer George W. Melville, but the Secretary, knowing he was otherwise fully occupied, declined to send him. After being detached from the "Despatch" on leave of absence he settled at Manchester, N. H., as engineer of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., the largest cotton mills in the world. Remaining there, he was afterwards appointed general superintendent of the whole business, an industry employing 8,000 operatives; and still holds the position. In the recent war with Spain he was ordered back to active duty as chief Engineer of the U. S. Naval Station at Key West, and remained until the end of the war, when he resumed his occupation at Manchester. He m. 1871, Jan. 17, Fanny, dan. of Charles Leonard and Harriott (Plummer) Bartlett, b. 1849, May 29, at Haverhill, Mass.; a sister of the late Maj.-Gen. William F. 2088. WILLIAM THRUSTON<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Charles P.,<sup>8</sup> Saml.,<sup>7</sup> Saml.,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1856, Feb. 10, at Alexandria, Va. The following sketch is from the Baltimore American, 1895. Mr. Manning received his early education at Glenwood Institute, Howard Co., Md. In 1873, at the age of seventeen, he left school and entered upon his career as an engineer as rodman in the service of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, his work being upon the Chicago extension of the road until 1875. In the latter year he was appointed Resident Engineer on the Gunpowder Tunnel of the Baltimore Water Works, having charge of two miles of the great tunnel; and during the next eight years up to 1883 was Resident Engineer on the Somerset & Cambria railroad, Ohio and Baltimore Short Line, and Wheeling Division, B. & O. R. R. From 1883 to 1886 he was Assistant Master of Road of the Pittsburg Division; in 1886 was promoted to the position of Superintendent of the Ohio Division, and in 1887 to the position of Engineer of Maintenance of Way of the Pittsburg Division, the title being created with this position, at which time he designed and built the terminal system at that point, which position he held until appointed in 1890 Chief Engineer of the Staten Island Rapid Transit railroad, and while there designed and constructed a portion of what at an early day will become the great tide-water terminal of the B. & O. From 1890 to 1892 he served as Chief Engineer of the Akron & Chicago Junction railroad, and in the latter year was appointed Assistant Chief Engineer of the B. & O. R. R., and in 1893 Acting Chief Engineer of the road. In August, 1892, he was called to take charge of the construction of the Baltimore Belt Line Tunnel, which was the crowning point in his career, and, says the American, stamps him as one of the engineering geniuses of the age. At the time he took charge the tunnel had been under way for two years, and grave doubts existed as to its successful completion, owing to it showing serious signs of weakness, and it demanded immediate action. The methods adopted by Mr. Manning saved the tunnel from total failure and pushed it to successful completion, gaining for him a reputation as an engineer second to none in the country. The Belt Line Tunnel is the longest soft ground tunnel in the world, and its construction one of the grandest pieces of tunnel work in this or any other country. On Feb. 1, 1894, Mr. Manning was appointed Chief Engineer of the B. & O. R. R. At the present time [1895] he is also Chief Engineer Baltimore Belt Line; Chief Engineer Pittsburg & Western R. R.; Chief Engineer Staten Island R. R., and Consulting Engineer Pittsburg Junction R. R. Since the publication of this record in the American he has retired (March, 1899) from the active service as Chief Engineer of the B & O., continuing in the service as Consulting Engineer. He did this to enable him to devote his time to the many individual enterprises in which he is interested; notably his patents for Improved Rail and Combination Hopper Bottom Car; and, also, large contracting interests. He now holds the position of President of the Potomac Construction Company and the Manning Improved Rail Company. He resides in Baltimore. He m. 1897, Nov. 3, Isabel Bloomfield, dau. of Dr. Addinell and Rachel Macomb (Wetherell) Hewson, b. 1861, Sep. 26, in Philadelphia, Pa. Ch.:

citizen, the Unitarian society one of its most steadfast pillars, and a great many people, both old and young, one of the truest-hearted, kindest and most sympathetic friends they ever had. His tireless energy and enterprise kept him constantly employed, but he was never too busy to stop and do a kind act for a friend or neighbor; and every neighbor was a friend, and all mankind his neighbors." He m. at Marlboro, 1851, Jan. 1, Frances Emma, dau. of Ebenezer and Adeline (Bigelow) Witt, b. 1830, July 2, at Marlboro. Her further ancestry was Ebenezer<sup>5</sup> and Sarah (Goodnow), her grandparents; Josiah<sup>1</sup> and Elizabeth (Eames); Samuel<sup>3</sup> and Elizabeth (Breed), all of Marlboro; John<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Baker), of Lynn; and John<sup>1</sup> Witt, who was of Lynn, 1640. 2099. WILLIAM WAYLAND<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Wm.,<sup>8</sup> Wm.,<sup>7</sup> Joseph,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1828, Sep. 16, in Boston, Mass., on Barton Place. He was a graduate of the Boston School. He was in business with one or two Boston houses, and then became a partner in the old banking house of Bryant, Allen & Co. Just after signing his papers with this company he was offered a position with Baring Brothers, bankers, which he could not accept. His health breaking down he secured an appointment from President Buchanan as consul to the Society Islands, with headquarters at Papeiti, Tahiti. While here he was engaged in several business interests with Capt. Brewer, of Jamaica Plain, in exporting cotton, calicoes, etc., to the Islands. At the end of his period of service he went to San Francisco, Cal. He became interested in mining ventures, residing at different times in Mayville, Redwood City and, finally, in Nevada, while his family remained at Oakland, Cal. In Nevada he received an appointment as Judge, and had many exciting adventures and several narrow escapes from serious injury or loss of life. Besides the risks surrounding a miner during those times he, as a Union man, was in danger from those whose sympathies were with the Confederate cause. During this period he became acquainted with Brigham Young, and occupied a box with him in the theater while on one of his visits to Salt Lake City. In 1869 the family returned to Jamaica Plain, Mass., and, after a short time, resided on Allendale street, at which time he was connected with the wool house of Hilton, Weston & Co. in a confidential capacity, this being in 1874. While with them he was asked by Samuel R. Payson, president of the Manchester Mills, and various directors, to help disentangle the company from a critical financial condition. His ability as a financier enabled him to do this and place the concern on a sound business basis. Later, he accepted a confidential position with the J. C. Ayer Co., in Lowell, his family residing at Middlesex village, and subsequently he moved to Cambridge. After this he severed his connection with the J. C. Ayer Co. and removed to Marquette, Mich., to become the agent of the estate of Dr. J. C. Ayer, which position he still holds. He m. at Papeiti, Tahiti, 1857, May 1, Abbie Ripley Hobbs, she having joined him there, some months after his arrival, on a sailing vessel, the trip requiring three months. Her ancestry was Hon. Prentiss<sup>5</sup> and Harriet Joy (Lincoln), her parents, of Boston and Newton; Nathan<sup>4</sup> and Lydia (Child); Nathan<sup>3</sup> and Elizabeth (Fisk), all of Weston; Josiah<sup>2</sup> and Esther (Davenport), of Lexington; and Josiah<sup>1</sup> and Tabitha Hobbs, who came from England, 1671, in the Arabella and resided at Boston and Lexington. After graduating he resided at Marquette, Mich., and was connected with the J. C. Ayer estate and in charge of the tax department. While there he was a member of the vestry of the Cathedral Episcopal Church, Diocese of Marquette, and treasurer, and was its delegate to the general convention of Episcopal churches. From Marquette he went to Oxnard, Cal., to learn the beet sugar business with the Oxnards, after which he removed to New York City.

been the duly-appointed guardian of several children, and, at various times, associated with the settlement of the estates of fellow citizens. He is a member of the Methodist Church. He m. at Weston (1st) Nancy Maria Richardson, b. 1827, Apr. 24, at Weston, and d. there 1873, Sep. 2; and (2d) Mrs. Eliza Jane Kimball, dau. of Elnathan and Margaret (Griswold) Mattocks, b. 1831, Feb. 6, at Wallingford, Vt. Mr. Mattocks (b. in 1800 at Queensbury, N. Y.; d. 1857, May 3, at Wallingford) was cousin to John Mattocks, governor of Vt., 1843-4. The ancestry of Nancy M. Richardson was Capt. Artemas<sup>7</sup> and Rachel (Davis), her parents, of Weston and, later, Somerville, Mass.; Josiah<sup>6</sup> and Sarah (Powers) of Weston and, previously, Temple, N. H.; Lieut. Jonathan<sup>5</sup> and Lucy (Clark) of Dracut, Mass.; Capt. Josiah<sup>4</sup> and Lydia (—) of Dracut; Lieut. Josiah<sup>3</sup> and Mercy (Parish) of Chelmsford; Capt. Josiah<sup>2</sup> and Remembrance (Underwood) of Chelmsford; and Ezekiel<sup>1</sup> and Susanna Richardson. Ezekiel<sup>1</sup> came to this country about 1630 and settled at Charlestown, Mass., where he was constable, 1633; member of the first board of selectmen, 1635, and three years after; two years representative to the General Court; and became one of the founders of Woburn, 1642, where he was selectman. 3264. WILLIAM HENRY, b. 1852, Dec. 19, in Boston, at what was then No. 41 South Cedar St. (now Winchester St.). After reaching years of practical activity he resided in Boston until 1882, when he removed to New York City, which place has since been his home, although he temporarily resides at Ayer, Mass. At the age of 17 he began the calling of journalism, with which he has since been occupied, chiefly in connection with New York publications. In 1885 he began his work as compiler of the Manning Family History, to which he has given 16 years of investigation, study, hard work and expense. The result may be seen in the collections and pages of this volume. The task has brought the compiler more trials than any other member of the family could well surmise, even by a liberal use of the imagination; but he has made new friendships, and has the satisfaction of having told the story of the Manning family, that its individual members might not be forgotten. The work is here presented to the charitable judgment of members now living, and to future generations. The compiler m. Emma Electa Day, b. 1860,

Gray." He had a fixed purpose in mind, and, when the first battle occurred, ran for the Union lines, being fired upon by both parties. He was seized by the Northern troops and sent to one of their prisons, from which he was released as soon as his identity and loyalty could be formally established. After a short period of recuperation he rejoined his regiment at Richmond, 1865, Apr., ten months later than the beginning of his special service and first capture. He was promoted to be sergeant in a highly complimentary special order, and, when the war fully ended, was honorably discharged, June 16, and returned home. He had been an earnest Christian from youth, and then decided to enter the ministry. To secure funds he lectured a score or more times, the following winter, on army life and prison adventures, and with success. In the spring of 1866 he entered Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass. His funds being insufficient he added other labor to enable him to work his way through the theological seminary, but the hardships of Andersonville had impaired his health and illness compelled him to leave his studies in the spring of 1867. Neither change of climate nor other means afforded relief, and he died at Warwick, unmarried, 1868, Sep. 4. The former chaplain of his regiment, Henry Clay Trumbull, preached the funeral sermon, and, later, wrote an account of young Manning's life and services which, under the title of "The Captured Scout of the Army of the James," a book of 60 pages, was published at Boston, 1869, by Nichols and Noyes, and of which the sketch here given is an abridgement. Mr. Manning had so endeared himself to his classmates at Andover Theological Seminary that they united in placing a handsome marble shaft over his grave in the Warwick cemetery.

In 1838 his parents went West, and he was for a time at what is now Big Bend, Wis., but they soon returned to Vt. In 1857 he made the Western journey again, going first to Greencastle, Ind.; then to Delphi; then to Hudson, Wis., and to St. Paul, Minn.; then returned to Indiana, purchased horses and cattle and drove to Hudson. This was in 1858. In the fall of 1859 he went to La Crosse Co., Wis., where he remained about a year, and then removed to Adams Co., where he resided during the war of the Rebellion, engaged in farming. From 1866 to 1869 he lived at Weston, Vt., and then returned West, traveled in Wisconsin and Iowa, and wintered at West Salem, La Crosse Co., Wis. In 1870 he went to Elkader, Iowa, where he was engaged at the carpenter trade until 1875. In that year, having previously been to Dakota (then a territory) and taken land under the homestead and timber claim acts, he removed to that place, settled on his land and began making improvements. There he has since resided, his location being near Valley Springs, Minnehaha Co., S. D. He was a member of the territorial legislature in 1885, and took part in Dakota's efforts to obtain her rights of Statehood. He is now postmaster of the Booge P. O. He graduated from the Akron High School, and was later a music-teacher in that city, and in northern Indiana, and St. Louis, Mo. In 1874 he accepted the chair of music on the faculty of Drury College, at Springfield, Mo. Three years later he resigned and entered the preparatory department of the same college as a student in the academic course. After one year he went to Colorado for his health, and finished his course at Colorado College, Colorado Springs. On leaving college in 1881, being still in delicate health, he embarked in the photographing business, which he carried on through the mining towns of Colorado and New Mexico. Subsequently, he located at Kokomo, Ind., and remained five years, after which he removed to Georgetown, Ohio, and continued his occupation as a photographer for several years, and then removed to Elyria. After the death of his mother's second husband he was bound to service with a family near Berlin, Wis., but, when 17 years old, was released on account of ill treatment, from which he never fully recovered. After this he worked for a while on a farm, and then went to Rural township, Ill., and worked for his mother's third husband. Several years were thus divided between residence in Ill. and Wis., he going from one place to another as circumstances directed, and improving what chance he had to attend school. In August, 1862, he enlisted in Co. C, 102d Regt. Illinois Vols., and went to the front as a soldier of the Rebellion. Early in 1863 the regiment was mounted and detailed for duty at R. R. Bridge, near Gallatin, Tenn., and, in 1864, it joined General Sherman in the "march to the sea." June 27, 1864, at the battle of Resaca (?) young Manning was wounded in the hand by a sharpshooter's bullet, while leading a squad of men in that charge. This wound disabled him for further duty; hence, in September, 1864, he was honorably discharged. He returned to Illinois a physical wreck, and d. at Rural township, 1866, Dec. 18. He was unmarried.

went to Rural, Rock Island Co., Ill., and worked about five years for his mother's husband, Henry I. Jordan. In Sep., 1866, he entered Eclectic Medical College, at Cincinnati. He commenced the practice of medicine under preceptor J. R. Hadsell, June, 1867, but soon abandoned it for school-teaching, which vocation he followed for 15 years. In Aug., 1882, on account of failing health, he purchased a tract of land in Deer Creek township, Wayne Co., Neb., where he now resides (post office address, Carroll). He is a stock-feeder and dealer; is feeding cattle extensively, and, in March, 1900, had over 1,000 head in feed lots. He runs an elevator and feed-mill, where his two older sons are employed. In 1898, Jan. 11. he lost his right arm, which was chopped into inch pieces in a feed cutter. He immediately rallied, and on the fourth day was attending to his business. In the fall of 1888 he was elected State Senator, and represented the Tenth District, comprising the counties of Madison, Pierce, Stanton and Wayne, during the twenty-first session of the Legislature. His parents soon removed to Greenwood, N. Y., with which place he was identified both in youth and manhood. By occupation he was a farmer and lumberman. He occupied the same farm with his father, and at his death they owned about 400 acres, a part covered with valuable timber, and a part under good cultivation. He was much esteemed, and a leading man in the town. He held various town offices, including that of supervisor, and filled them with honor to himself. He was of sterling worth; a man of few words, but one who always spoke to the purpose. Although not a church-member he lived a Christian life, and was very conscientious in his regard for the Sabbath. JACOB MERRILL<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>8</sup> Jacob,<sup>7</sup> Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1824, Dec. 31, at Greenwood, N. Y. He graduated at Amherst College in 1850, and at Andover Theological Seminary in 1853. He was ordained to the ministry 1854, Jan. 3, and installed as pastor of the Mystic Congregational Church, at Medford, Mass., with which society he remained until 1857, March, when he was installed as assistant pastor to Rev. Dr. Blagden, of the historic Old South Church, Boston. After the retirement of the latter, 1872, Oct., Mr. Manning became the active pastor. During the many years of his pastorate he had charge with Dr. Blagden of the Chambers street Chapel, the two preaching therein alternately. In October, 1862, in the days of the war of the Rebellion, he went out as chaplain of the 43d Mass. regiment, and served as such until the regiment was mustered out, nine months later. On his return he suffered from fever, the germs of which were contracted in service, and his health was so impaired that he never fully recovered. He lectured somewhat, especially at Andover from 1866 to 1872, and with success, but abandoned this field in order to give closer attention to pastoral duties. In 1867 he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Amherst College. He was a well-known and strong intellectual writer upon theological subjects. His published works, with date of publication, were as follows: Ministerial Education, 1859; New Year's Address, 1859; The Soldier of Freedom, 1862; Sickness and its Lessons, 1863; Peace under Liberty, 1865; Sermon on the Death of Abraham Lincoln, 1865; The Conversion of our Country, 1870; Half Truths and the Truth, 1873; Helps to a Life of Prayer, 1875; The Carnival of Crime, 1875; Samuel Hurd Walley, 1878; Christian Missions and the Social Ideal, 1880, and Charles Stoddard, 1883. In March, 1882, when the twenty-fifth year of his association with the Old South Church ended, he became pastor emeritus, and departed this life eight months later. As a preacher he was especially attractive; free from sensationalism, but vigorously grappling with the intellect and the conscience, with a vivacity and candor of conception, a clearness of statement, a breadth of learning and a calmness of spirit which made his discourses not only worth listening to, but which attracted and held his audiences. Although pastor of one of the richest ecclesiastical corporations in the country, he felt himself in no manner lifted above his brethren whose lot in this respect was different. In doctrine he was incorrupt, by temperament and conviction he was a reformer. Although of a retiring disposition, he won many friends through his earnest, disinterested labor and superior intellectual force. He was widely esteemed and honored, and known as a sound scholar and clear thinker, and as one of the safest men in his denomination; while, as a pastor, his first object was to bring his parishioners into a close relation with God. His childhood and early youth were passed at Bedford, N. H. In 1849 he settled in Reading, Mass., where he lived six years, and then removed to Pepin, Wis., when to be a pioneer meant privations and hardship. He struggled bravely with adversity which followed the general financial depression of 1857, and gradually built up a business in the line of real estate and investments. In 1868 he removed to Lake City, Minn., of which place he was thereafter a resident, and where he continued the last-named business as long as he lived, after which it passed to his son. During these years in the West he held many town and county offices. He was always identified with church and Sunday school

During a visit in September to Chicago, Denmark, Ia., St. Louis, etc., he saw victims of the prevailing cholera epidemic. The next winter he helped his brother Solomon clear off a wood-lot in Bedford, N. H., at one time himself cutting 90 cords of wood in 30 days. Later, he attended French's Business College in Boston for a few weeks. In the spring of 1855 he began work in the Reading Nursery, of which he is still proprietor. During the 45 years of its existence he has shipped plants to parks and private places in nearly every State in the Union, and to many foreign countries. He has introduced to cultivation new varieties of fruits and ornamental trees, and was one of the first to recognize and urge the value of the native shrubs and trees for ornamental plantations. He has given advice regarding the arrangement and planting of many private estates in New England, and has kept constantly informed regarding all branches of his business by frequently visiting nurseries and attending conventions of nurserymen. He is recognized as an authority on fruits. His introduction of Cutter's Seedling strawberry in 1859 and the Dracont Amber grape first brought him distinction as a nurseryman. He also introduced to cultivation the John Sweet and Granite Beauty apples, Smith Seedling gooseberry, and the Dwarf Woodward arbor-vitæ. For the latter he received two medals from the Mass. Horticultural Society. In 1897 he introduced the Cutleaf Staghorn sumach, which he found in Maine in 1892. He first advocated (in 1857) the sweet pepper (Clethra alnifolia) for cultivation; also the Yucca filamentosa. He was on a committee of three to select books for a library relating to agriculture and horticulture in Reading; this being merged with the Franklin Library became the nucleus of the present Reading Public Library. He was for 10 years a member of the fruit committee of the Mass. Horticultural Society, for 15 years a trustee and on committees of the Middlesex Agricultural Society, and he has also been an active member of the North Middlesex Agricultural Society. Since joining the American Pomological Society in 1860 he is the only member who has never failed to attend a meeting. He joined the American Nurserymen's Association at its third meeting in 1878, and has attended every meeting since, a record equalled by only one other member. He has been Vice President for Massachusetts of the American Horticultural Society, and, at its last meeting in Austin, Tex., served on the committee on fruit. At the Philadelphia Centennial he received the Wilder medal for his exhibit of 28 varieties of fruit. He planted the grounds about the Massachusetts Building at the Chicago World's Fair, and received a medal for his exhibit. He enjoyed traveling greatly, and has a remarkable memory for dates and events connected therewith. In all he has traveled over 125,000 miles on this continent in trips of no less than 500 miles each. He m. 1858, Dec. 25, Lydia Brooks Chandler, b. 1839, Sep. 19, at Concord, N. H. DUDLEY HALI,<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Solomon,<sup>8</sup> Jacob,<sup>7</sup> Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1829, Oct. 24, at Bedford, N. H. His early years were spent on the farm. He attended the district school and, beginning when 19, the Normal Institute at Merrimac. Following this, he taught school one winter; then went to Reading, Mass., where he learned carpentry. For six months he attended Stratton's Commercial College, in Boston, and in May, 1856, went to Pepin, Wis., where he had charge of a lumber-yard and was contractor and builder until, with the opening of the Chippewa River for navigation in 1857, Pepin ceased to be the landing-place of supplies for the Northern Wisconsin lumber-mills. In consequence of this decrease in business and the money panic of 1856-7 he removed in Sep., 1860, to an improved 400 acre farm in La Fayette Co. He continued farming for the next four years. In 1863, as township supervisor, he was commissioned by Gov. Solomon to obtain soldiers in the town of Gratiot, to make up the quota desired. For two years he was clerk of the school district. In Aug., 1865, he went to Pithole City, Venango Co., Pa., where he built oil-tanks and placed machinery connected with the oil-wells. In 1867 he returned to Wisconsin, settling in Shullsburg to follow his trade of contractor. In the fall of 1883 he purchased and improved a half-section farm in Osceola Co., Ia., the family removing to the adjoining town of Sibley. Here he placed farm-loans for his brother Joseph Manning. In 1887, for the sake of better educational facilities, the family removed to Grinnell, where he was contractor and builder. He was the inventor of Manning's Insect Destroyer, for the protection of orchards, gardens, etc. At Reading he united in 1853 with the Old South Congregational church, of which he was made trustee in 1855. Within a year after his arrival at Pepin he helped to organize the First Congregational church, and for three years was superintendent of the Union Sunday School. During his two years' stay in Pa. he was superintendent of the M. E. Sunday School of the town. Throughout the next 15 years he was closely identified with the Congregational church of Shullsburg, holding the offices of trustee, clerk, treasurer, deacon and choir-leader; and during his four years residence at Sibley he was prominent in church-work and the temperance movement. SOLOMON<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Solomon,<sup>8</sup> Jacob,<sup>7</sup> Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1831, Aug. 29, at Bedford, N. H. His youth was spent in active labor on his father's farm, except such time as he attended the district school, and McGaw Normal Institute at Reed's Ferry. As a young man he settled on and has since occupied the family homestead. Milk production has been his specialty for many years, to which have been added market gardening and lumbering. He has long been identified with the Presbyterian church, serving much of the time as teacher in the Sunday School, of which he was superintendent 1866-68, the school then consisting of 300 members. He has served on the committee for repairing the church, and on the building committee when the vestry was erected in 1872. He was selectman in 1872, and a charter member and first Master of Naragansett Grange, which was organized in 1875. He served three years as Master, and, later, was Chaplain of the Grange. He was a member of the committee chosen by the town to represent its interests in the location of the Manchester & Milford branch of the Boston & Maine railroad, which passes through Bedford Center. In 1900 he was unanimously elected to the State Legislature. He m. at Greenville, Ill. He was chiefly reared in Michigan, and when a boy attended the district school and a few terms at the high school in Ann Arbor. When he was 19 the family removed to Corunna, where he entered the high school. He had taught the previous winter, and for the next five years alternated teaching and attending school, including over a year in the scientific department of the Michigan University. His health not being good he settled on a farm one mile west of Pittsburg, Shiawassee Co., and remained from 1867 to 1870. He was appointed in 1868 to fill a vacancy as County Superintendent of Schools, and was afterwards elected by a heavy majority to fill the same office, despite the fact that he was on a ticket very much in the minority in the county. After his second marriage he removed to Vernon, where he was principal of the high school for a year, and next had a similar position at Kellogg, Iowa; but returned to Michigan after one year and was principal of the schools at Chesaning for three years. He was then for three years in the grocery business, during which time he was for two terms a member of the Board of Supervisors for Saginaw Co. He took charge of the Byron schools in 1879, and taught two years. As a teacher he was thorough and popular. Owing to ill health he next traveled seven years for Harper Brothers, the New York publishers, in the interests of their school books. After a short residence at Holly and at Flint he returned to the homestead at Chesaning, where he resided in 1889. He was a member of the Methodist church, and for many years a temperance worker. CHARLES FRANKLIN<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Franklin,<sup>8</sup> Wm.,<sup>7</sup> James,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1835, Aug. 12, at Portland, Me. He early became a civil engineer. His first active work was as a surveyor on the Ontario, Simcoe & Lake Huron railroad in Canada, of which he was assistant engineer at the time of his father's death in 1853. Immediately following this event he went to Portland, to which place his mother had returned with her family. Here he engaged in partnership with Charles D. Brown in the wholesale flour and produce business. In 1862 Mr. Manning removed with his family to Baltimore, and later to Hagerstown, Md. At both places he had charge of important work as constructing engineer of water and gas works, and during several years at Hagerstown did a large business in the manufacture of fertilizers. Here he was superintendent and treasurer of the Hagerstown Light and Heat Co., treasurer of the water works company, and, during ten years, trustee and elder of the Presbyterian church and superintendent of its Sunday School. Several years prior to his death he removed to Portland and retired from business. He m. at Portland 1858, Sep. 20, Ellen M. Crockett, b. 1838, Apr. 25. He graduated at Norway (Me.) Liberal Institute in 1853. From 1854 to 1860, was employed as clerk in the book-stores of George Lord, and Sanborn & Carter, at Portland, and in 1860 entered the fur and hat manufacturing house of Byron Greenough & Co., a firm established in 1821 and still existing under the same name, but recently an incorporated company of which Mr. Manning is president. He has always been interested in historical and antiquarian researches, and in natural history, and has accumulated a valuable library and collections, especially of minerals and shells, illustrating those subjects. He is a member of the Maine Historical Society, the Maine Genealogical Soc'y, the Portland Soc'y of Natural History (of which he is corresponding secretary), the National Geographic Soc'y, the Gorges Soc'y, and the Maine Soc'y, Sons of the American Revolution. WILLIAM CHENEY<sup>9</sup> MANNING (Franklin,<sup>8</sup> Wm.,<sup>7</sup> James,<sup>6</sup> Wm.,<sup>5</sup> Isaac,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1842, Sep. 29, at Syracuse, N. Y. At the breaking out of the Rebellion he entered the volunteer service as a private, served through the war, and rose to the rank of major. At the close of the war he received a lieutenant's commission in the regular army, served in the Indian country and the recent war with Spain, and was placed on the retired list in 1899 with the rank of major, having been 38 years in the volunteer and regular army. His record in the volunteer service was: Private, musician and corporal, Co. D, and sergeant major 1st Mass. Infantry, 22 May, 1861, to 20 Feb., 1863; discharged on account of wounds received at the second battle of Bull Run. First lieutenant and adjutant 35th U. S. C. T., 18th May, 1863; captain same regiment 6 Aug., 1864; major 103d U. S. C. T., 27 Feb., 1865; honorably mustered out 5 May, 1866. Acting Assistant Adjutant General of various districts, Department of the South, from 11 June, 1864, to 27 Feb., 1865. Detailed, 29 May, 1865, with Brevet Major General Birge, U. S. Vols., and Lieut. Col. H. B. Clitz, 6th U. S. Infantry, to examine volunteer officers serving in the District of Savannah. Appointed superintendent of the "Free Schools of Savannah" 15 June, 1865. Commanding regiment from 2 July to 2 Nov., 1865. Commanding Fort Pulaski, Ga., and in charge of most of the Confederate prisoners of State, of prominence, from 16 July to 9 Oct., 1865. Commanding Post of Savannah (embracing 32 counties and portions of two regiments) from 17 Mch., 1866, until about 1 May, 1866. During the war he was engaged in the following battles: In 1861, Blackburn's Ford, Va., July 18; Bull Run, July 21. In 1862, Siege of Yorktown, Va., in the spring; Williamsburg, Va., May 5; Fair Oaks, Va., May 31; Fair Oaks (slightly wounded), June 25; Savage Station, Va., June 29; White Oak Swamp, Va., June 30; Malvern Hill, Va., July 1; Kettle Run, Va., Aug. 27; Bull Run (severely wounded), Aug. 29; Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13, 14 and 15. In 1863, Siege of Fort Wagner, S. C., August. In 1864, Olustee, Fla. (severely wounded), Feb. 20; Siege of Charleston, S. C.; Honey Hill, S. C., Nov. 30; Coosahatchie, S. C., Dec. 5; Tullafinny, S. C., Dec. 6, 7, 9. His record in the regular army was: Appointed Second Lieutenant 14th U. S. Infantry 11 May, 1866; transferred to 23d Infantry 21 Sep., 1866; First Lieutenant, 23d Infantry, 7 Feb., 1867; Captain in the 23d, 1 Mch., 1886. Served in California, Oregon, Washington Territory and Arizona from 1866 to 1873, taking part in Gen. Crooks' campaigns against hostile Indians. Commanded detachment of troops and Indian allies in action with Delchay's band of hostile Apaches in Mazatzal Mountains, Arizona, in Dec., 1872, and was mentioned in General Orders for gallantry therein, and recommended for brevet of captain (which was received in 1894, several years after he had been promoted in course to full rank as captain). Acting Assistant Adjutant General of General Recruiting Service in 1873-4. Acting Assistant Adjutant General of the District of the Lakes, Oregon, in 1879-80. Inspector of Rifle Practice, Dept. of the Missouri, 1881-4. On duty with company at Forts Brady and Mackinac, Mich., from 1884 to May, 1890; from that date to May, 1894, stationed with company at San Antonio, Tex. Inspector for War Dept. of Texas National Guard in 1893. Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Clinton Liberal Institute and Military Academy, at Fort Plain, N. Y., from 25 Feb., 1895. The beginning of the war with Spain found him on duty at the latter place, a captain in the 23d Infantry. Upon his (previous) application he was ordered to join his regiment at New Orleans, and did so 16 May, 1898. Took command of Jackson Barracks, New Orleans, the following day, and remained in command there, organizing and equipping recruits for regular regiments, and organizing three light batteries (A, B and C), Louisiana Artillery, until the close of the war. In September he contracted malarial fever, and 9 Sep., 1898, was sent North on sick leave. Transferred to 14th U. S. Infantry, 19 Nov., 1898. Transferred to retired list "for disabilities incurred in line of duty," with rank of Major, 2 Mch., 1899. Afterwards, he made his residence chiefly in Washington. Since the foregoing was written the whole Manning family has suffered a great loss by the death of this gentleman and soldier who so greatly honored it. The abbreviated sketch of his military career here given does not present one fact as fully as it should, but that is added by the compiler of this volume—namely, that his most important promotions were for "notable and gallant service" in battle. His executive ability, too, was conspicuously shown when he was military governor of Savannah, and in the management of the free schools of that city, and in other positions of responsibility. Major Manning died at Washington, after a brief illness, 1901, May 5. He was buried with full military honors in the National Cemetery at Arlington. The casket was escorted by a field battery from the Washington barracks. The pall-bearers were General G. H. Weeks, General Samuel Ovenshine, General Charles Bird, Colonel J. Van R. Hoff, Colonel C. C. Sniffen and Col. George R. Baird. Major Manning always retained his interest in the First Massachusetts regiment, and was a welcome attendant at its reunions. In 1900, Feb. 22, he received from the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, their Spanish War Medal. He was a member of the Loyal Legion. He m. 1875, Nov. 3, Mary Madeline, dau. of Hon. George G. and Mary Madeline (Parsels) Clarkson, of Rochester, N. Y. No ch. Mr. Clarkson, at one time mayor of Rochester, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. His parents were John and Agnes (Brown) Clarkson; his grandparents were James and Elizabeth (Ainsley) Clarkson, all of Edinburgh. Mary M. (Parsels) Clarkson's known ancestry was Jacob and Charlotte Louise (Reiche) Parsels, of Phila., Pa., her parents; and William and Martinlia (Knyper) Parsels, her grandparents, who resided, it is thought, in or near N. Y. City. The name was sometimes spelled Parcel, or Parcels.

He was reared in Brooklyn, N. Y., fitted for college there at the Polytechnic Institute, and graduated in the arts at Yale University in the class of 1881. Three years later he graduated in medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He served for eighteen months on the surgical house staff of the New York Hospital. He then entered upon private practice in West 105th street, near Amsterdam Avenue, remaining in that general vicinity during his entire professional life. He established an enviable reputation as a physician and surgeon, and was appointed to various hospitals in positions of trust, among which was that of Attending Surgeon of the Manhattan (now the J. Hood Wright Memorial) Hospital. In the summer of 1894 he was attacked by pulmonary trouble, contracted in his professional work, to which he had given incessant attention; and after a season in the Adirondacks he went to Colorado with the hope of obtaining relief, but which was not realized. He was of marked ability in his profession, and of unblemished reputation, while his personal qualities won the esteem and love of all. The New York Medical Journal said of him that "he was a brave, kind-hearted, unselfish man." He d. 1896, Dec. 3, at Denver, Col., and was buried at South Coventry, Ct. He m. in 1893, Sara, dau. of Dayton S. Morgan, of Brockport, N. Y. Ch. :

The death of his mother when he was six years old caused his home to be for a time thereafter with his father's sister, Mrs. Stanley White, in Rockville, Ct. He was educated at Ellington and Cheshire Academies, in Ct., and at Cornell University, N. Y. Returning West he graduated in 1872 at the Iowa State Law School, at Iowa City, after which he was in the law office of Joy & Wright, at Sioux City, Ia. He settled in 1875 in that State, at Ottumwa, his present home, and practiced for several years, and was connected with the city government of Ottumwa as alderman and solicitor for eight years. At present he is engaged in the banking and real estate business, being president of the Iowa National Bank, at Ottumwa. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention from the 6th Iowa District in 1884 and 1896. He served on the Notification Committee of 1896, notifying Mr. McKinley of his nomination as President. In Feb., 1900, Mr. Manning's nomination was sent to the Senate by the President and he was confirmed on the U. S. National Commission of the International Exposition at Paris, 1900. Y. At the beginning of the war of the Rebellion he was residing at Independence, Mo., and was a member of the State militia. The force was enrolled in the State service and was under Gen. Price, but, after the battle of Carthage, Mr. Manning succeeded in deserting and reaching the Union lines, and began a long career under the loyal flag and in a cause from which his sympathies had never wavered. From Oct., 1861, to Apr., 1862, he was in the regiment band, 19th Illinois volunteers, and from the latter date was in the 65th Illinois regiment. With this command he served at the front, and when, in Sep., Stonewall Jackson made his raid up the Shenandoah Valley, Mr. Manning was captured with about 12,000 other Union soldiers, who were in time paroled and exchanged. Later, he was with his regiment in the expedition up the Big Sandy, under Gen. White, after which the regiment was ordered to Covington, Ky., and served under Gen. Burnside from Aug., 1863, participating in all engagements of that command up to the Atlanta campaign. In the meanwhile Mr. Manning had been successively promoted sergeant-major, 2d lieutenant, 1st lieutenant, and, in June, 1863, captain. At the capture of Fort Sanders the 65th was conspicuous, and a newspaper article, referring to Captain Manning, said that he "exhibited the highest qualifications as an officer, and as a brave and true soldier." He was the commanding officer of the skirmish line at the fording of the icy waters of the Holsen river, and there, no doubt, laid the foundation of the disease which finally caused his death. He retired from service in Sep., 1864, on account of disability. As a soldier he was brave and faithful; as an officer he was conscientious in the discharge of duty and careful of the men who served under him, and as a citizen, later, he enjoyed the esteem of all. She had remarkable musical gifts, learning compositions readily upon hearing others play them, and then being able to execute them, herself, from memory, and with marked skill. She had been seen to play two pieces of music from memory after a professor had played them, with an interval of conversation between. It was never necessary for her to refer to the notes of a composition after learning it; thus, the Mocking Bird, of 13 pages, was of no trouble to her without the notes. She was greatly loved at Deer Lodge City, and mourned by all there upon her death.

After the removal of the family to Illinois he, as a boy, assisted his father in the latter's real estate, farming, milling and department country store affairs in Du Page Co., and, at the age of 19, began on his own account, teaching a district school in his neighborhood in connection with the above and going into partnership with his father in business. He entered the Law department of the University of Chicago, and, after a full course of study, graduated therefrom in 1865, after which he commenced a long practice of his profession in Chicago. In early manhood he purchased of his father nearly 200 acres of unimproved land containing an elevated and very sightly location to build upon, and also a beautiful woodland with a running brook, in the town of Winfield, near Warrenville, Du Page Co., a few miles west of Chicago; which landed estate is now named "Montview Park Farm," whereon he built Chateau Montview, commodious barns, stables and outbuildings. He constructed an elegant driving park, and bred and raised the best of horses, standard and eligible to registry in the American Trotting Register, which horses have given him much pleasure in driving them with the horses of acquaintances on the Boulevards of Chicago while prosperously practicing law for about 20 years. In 1898 he conveyed Montview Park Farm to his daughter, Mrs. Hoy, where she and her husband and their family have resided since the expiration of Mr. Hoy's term of office as county sheriff. Mr. Manning was musical as a boy, taking lessons, etc., and singing, playing the organ and leading the choir in church. He kept up an interest in that direction, and while a lawyer was elected president of the Bach and Handel Musical Society, of Chicago, that had a large membership, and which gave a grand concert in a large public hall of Chicago the year he was president, besides many receptions and sociables in their own large hall near Union Park, thereby making the Society quite an influential social event in Chicago. Mr. Manning continues to reside near Warrenville. He m. (1st) 1857, Dec. 17, Mary D., dau. of Truman and Mary Jones, b. 1839, Apr. 2, at Warrenville, and d. 1868, Feb. 3. He m. chant, and, since 1870, has been a lawyer in Chicago. The following sketch of his life is from "The Bench and Bar of Chicago:" "He possessed a natural fondness for reading and study, and being fortunate in having good educational advantages made the most of his opportunities. At Warrentville, Ill. [the family home after 1849], he pursued the full course of study in the Warrentville Seminary, graduating in 1859. During the next two years he was employed in his father's store, and having previously decided to enter the legal profession, devoted all his spare time to the study of law. At the age of 23 he engaged in the dry goods trade on his own account at Aurora, Ill., and afterwards removed to Chicago, and there continued the same line of business. During these years he kept up his legal studies, and in 1870, after graduating from the Union College of Law at Chicago, was admitted to the bar, and opened an office on his own account. For three years after the great fire of Oct. 9, 1871, besides attending to the large commercial business he had built up, he devoted much time to the adjustment of fire losses, insomuch that it became somewhat of a specialty and gained for him a fine reputation for proficiency in insurance matters. Since 1874, his practice has been general in its character, and yearly increasing, and to-day he ranks among the ablest chancery and real estate lawyers at the Chicago bar. An important case with which he was actively connected was that of the United States vs. Henry Feuerstein and Charles Pfluger, who were jointly indicted for defrauding creditors in violation of certain provisions of the bankrupt law, Mr. Manning representing the creditors. The trial of the case resulted in the conviction of both defendants, and is worthy of mention since it was the only case of conviction and sentence under the bankrupt law ever had in Chicago. Mr. Manning has always given especial attention to the collection of accounts, and numbers among those for whom he does business in this particular department many of the leading firms of New York and other Eastern cities. As a lawyer he honors his profession. Prompt, sagacious and watchful of a client's interests, he is withal upright and honorable in his dealings, careful and conscientious as a counselor, and firm in his adherence to honest conviction. In politics he is an active, earnest Republican, and for ten years was a member of the Du Page county central committee." He resides at Warrentville. He m. 1877, Aug. 15, Ellen C., dau. of Nathan-

He is at present attending the Law School of Harvard University, and on completing that course will enter his father's office and engage in the practice of law.

3708. CURTISS ROCKWELL, b. 1880, Nov. 8. He graduated from the Princeton-Yale school with high honors in 1897, and is now attending the University of Chicago, being in the class of 1901. Y. At the breaking out of the Rebellion he was reading law at Waterloo, Seneca Co., in the office of Addison Knox, Esq., and also engaged in short-hand writing and law reporting, and doing some newspaper work. He enlisted in the State service Aug. 22, 1862, shortly after his admission to the bar; was mustered in as 1st Lieutenant, Co. H, 148th Regt.,

New York Volunteers, Sep. 5 following, at Geneva. His regiment was sent directly to Washington; camped on East Capitol Hill for a week and was then sent to Suffolk, Va., and thereafter continued in the Army of the James. Shortly after he was detailed on the staff of Gen. Hooker, Army of the Potomac, and joined that officer at Falmouth; continued with Gen. Meade until after the battle of Gettysburgh; was promoted adjutant of his regiment Oct. 26, 1863, and joined it at Yorktown. Was soon after detailed on Gen. Butler's staff at Fort Monroe, and accompanied him on the Fort Fisher expedition; was made Provost Marshal of the Army of the James, and continued as such under Gen. Ord; entered Richmond with Weitzel, and was made Provost Marshal of the city. He was promoted captain Aug. 1, 1864; major, Sep. 25, 1864; lieutenant colonel, Oct. 16, 1864, and brevetted Colonel on the same date. Was mustered out June 22, 1865, and since that time has resided at Waterloo, with the exception of two years at Auburn, N. Y. Since his muster out he has practiced law, and is still in active practice. He was District Attorney of Seneca county during 1866 and 1867, and Collector of Internal Revenue, 24th New York District, from May 1, 1871, to May 20, 1873. He m. at Albany, 1874, Nov. 25, Elizabeth Seymour Van Benthuyzen. No ch.

Y. In the spring of 1861 he enlisted as a soldier of the Rebellion in the 19th New York Infantry, and served as a private and sergeant for two years. In the spring of 1863 the regiment was reorganized and made the 3d New York Artillery. He served as commissary sergeant of that regiment, and was then promoted to second lieutenant and sent to Hatteras Inlet as drill master of recruits raised for the 1st Regiment, N. C. Volunteers, composed of sailors enlisted along the N. C. coast. He was then promoted to first lieutenant, and afterwards to captain and commander of Hatteras Inlet. Was mustered out of service at Newbern, N. C., in the fall of 1865. A year later he moved South and resided for 20 years in Carroll Parish, La., when he removed to Natchez, Miss., his present home. He m. at Waterloo, N. Y., 1865, Nov. 29, Martha Ann, dau. of William and Martha Herbert, b. 1844, Jan. 10, at Fayette, N. Y. Ch.:

Y. A soldier of the Rebellion. He enlisted July 1, 1861, in Co. D, 50th New York Volunteer Engineers; mustered in as eighth corporal, and served with this regiment in the Army of the Potomac until July 5, 1863, the regiment taking active part in all campaigns of the Army, being in all engagements and rendering special service in McClellan's Peninsular Campaign. Mr. Manning was wounded near Fredericksburgh, Va. (at Deep Run), one of the wounds causing the loss of his right leg at the thigh, and for his part in this fight he was mentioned in General Orders and appointed lieutenant. After discharge from the hospital at Washington he put on an artificial limb and continued in service; was ordered to headquarters of the Department of the Missouri, at St. Louis, whence he took despatches to Gen. Steel, who was on his Camden campaign in Arkansas, April, 1864, and was just in time for the "Poison Spring" fight between Steel and Price. In this battle his wooden leg was shot off. Later, he joined Gen. Sherman as mustering officer and took part in the "march to the sea." Leaving the army at Beaufort, S. C., he accompanied Gen. Osterhous to St. Louis, and at the close of the war was ordered to Texas for duty with the 6th U. S. Cavalry. In July, 1867, near Waco, he was waylaid by bushwhackers and shot three times. On his recovery he resigned from the army, having received eight wounds in service and reached the rank of major by brevet. He was appointed to a position in the New Orleans Custom House, where he remained until 1870, when he went to La Fayette, Ind., at which place he filled the offices of deputy auditor, deputy treasurer, deputy recorder and deputy sheriff, and was in 1883 elected sheriff. After expiration of this term of office he was appointed clerk in the Second Comptroller's office, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. (Mch. 9, 1890), and, Nov. 15, 1894, transferred to the War Department. He resides in Washington. 1830, Meh. 16, at Nottingham, N. H. He left home at the age of 18; was in Providence, R. I., for two years, and then went to Boston, Mass., where he made his headquarters for nearly 25 years, being employed 13 years by one firm, Cook, Rimes & Co., of Charlestown (now a part of Boston). They were Government contractors for iron work to public buildings, and he had charge of the outside work. This took him to different places for about one year at a time, namely, Chelsea Marine Hospital, Chelsea, Mass.; Post Office and Custom House, Plattsburg, N. Y.; Court House, Windsor, Vt.; Court House and Post Office, Galveston, Tex., and Custom House at Portsmouth, N. H. When the Rebellion broke out he left the above firm and engaged with McKay & Aldus, at East Boston, locomotive and ship builders, to take charge of the ventilating engines and piping-blowers, etc., of the famous iron-clads, Monadnock (at the Charlestown Navy Yard) and Agamenticus (at the Portsmouth Navy Yard). Later, he returned to the firm's works and took charge of the blacksmithing department, running about 25 fires, furnaces, etc. He remained with them until 1868, when he went to the town of Northwood, N. H., adjoining his native place, purchased about 30 acres of land, fitted up a shop and began business as a carriage manufacturer, repairer, etc., and continued thereat until after 1890. He was agent for the Provident Mutual Life Association of Concord, N. H., for about 20 years up to the time of his death, and, also, for the Granite State Fire Insurance Co., of Portsmouth, from its incorporation in 1885 to his death. WARREN HENRY<sup>10</sup> MANNING (Jacob W.,<sup>9</sup> Solomon,<sup>8</sup> Jacob,<sup>7</sup> Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Jacob,<sup>5</sup> Wm.,<sup>4</sup> Saml.,<sup>3</sup> Wm.,<sup>2</sup> Wm.<sup>1</sup>) b. 1860, Nov. 7, at Reading, Mass. He attended the district schools of his town, then the public schools of Concord, N. H., while living with his grandfather Abiel Chandler, and working on the farm and in the greenhouse mornings, evenings and holidays. Later he spent one year (1875-76) at the private school of General Russell in New Haven, a term in French's Business College, Boston, and finished his schooling in the Reading Public Schools from which he graduated in 1879. In his later school-days and a few years thereafter he was employed in and managed his father's nursery, and at the same time studied plants about his home, in New Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin and Minnesota. He also traveled with his father through eastern Canada, New York, and part of the South. Before leaving school he had made a collection of over 1000 species of native plants, which was increased later to about 3000. At nineteen he became an active member of the Middlesex Institute of Malden. He contributed to its flower exhibits and its published "Flora of Middlesex County," and was made its representative in the early efforts to preserve the Middlesex Fells. He was a trustee of the Middlesex Northern Agricultural Society. While in the nursery he had on occasions to give advice with reference to the planting and designing of public and private grounds. Realizing the importance of this work and the necessity for a thorough training, he decided to leave the nursery and seek a position where this could be secured. During this interval he was employed by the F. H. Gilson Co., music printers and publishers, and while there compiled and designed the bindings of several holiday musical souvenirs, the most pretentious being Home, Sweet Home. In 1887 he secured a position in the office of Frederick Law and John C. Olmsted, landscape architects, of Brookline, Mass., and was made responsible for the design and execution on the grounds of almost all their planting plans, visiting new undertakings at their earliest stages and at frequent intervals during the progress of the work, often being accompanied by a member of the firm, and always in close association with them, and thus became familiar with every phase of landscape designing and with the execution of all manner of work connected therewith, both in the office and on the grounds. While in this office he had to do with over 125 separate undertakings distributed over 22 States, the most important being the World's Fair at Chicago, where he was also a member of the Floricultural and Horticultural Juries and passed upon plans and landscape designs. Later he prepared for publication in the Annals of Horticulture a list of all hardy plants exhibited and a review of exhibits, classification and awards. He also had to do with the park systems of Chicago, Buffalo, Boston, Louisville, Milwaukee, Trenton, Washington and Rochester. In these connections he prepared lists and designed the arrangement of arboretums on the Vanderbilt estate at Biltmore, N. C.; South Park, Buffalo, N. Y.; Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; Groton School, Groton, Mass.; and the Cherokee Park, Louisville, Ky. He also made a careful examination of the Metropolitan Reservations about Boston and prepared a report which was published in the Commissioner's Report of 1895, and secured the co-operation of botanists about Boston in bringing together the material for a "Flora of the Metropolitan Reservations," which was published by the Park Commission in 1896. The organization of the New England Botanical Club was brought about chiefly by the association of botanists in this work. In 1896 Mr. Manning undertook the independent practice of landscape architecture, in which he has up to the present time been engaged upon nearly 300 undertakings in 22 States, including the parks of Minneapolis, Minn.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Des Moines, Ia.; Wellesley, Haverhill, and Auburndale, Mass.; Lake Forest University, Ill.; New York Zoological Gardens, and the Catholic Orphans' Home, New York; the estates of John D. Rockefeller at Tarrytown and Cleveland; Wm. Rockefeller at Tarrytown; C. A. Griscom, Haverford, Pa.; Wm. L. Elkins, LaMott, Pa.; Joseph T. Gilbert, Gilbertsville, N. Y.; Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Montecito, Cal.; Cyrus H. and Harold McCormick, Lake Forest, Ill.; John D. Crimmins, Noroton, Ct.; J. H. Whittemore, Naugatuck, Ct., and J. H. Stout, Menomonie, Wis. He was an organizer of the American Park and Outdoor Art Association, formed at Louisville, Ky., in 1896, and has been its secretary up to the present time. He was also one of the organizers of the American Society of Landscape Architects, of which he is a Fellow and a member of the Executive Committee. He is on the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, and is a member of the New England Botanical Club, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Boston Mycological Club, the American Society of Arts, the Appalachian Mountain Club, and the American Forestry Association. He has frequently written articles for various horticultural magazines, has given addresses before numerous societies, and has prepared a number of small handbooks. He gave much study at one time to the genealogy of his own, as well as other branches of the Manning family. In 1899 he became interested in the old Manning homestead at North Billerica, Mass., made an unsuccessful effort to form a Manning Association to acquire and repair it, and in 1899 leased the property for a term of ten years, and has repaired it as a headquarters for the Manning family. He called a meeting of the descendants of William Manning of Cambridge at the old homestead on June 18, 1900, at which there was an attendance of one hundred. At this meeting a Manning Association was formed. Mr. Manning resides at Brookline. He m. 1885, June 2, Henrietta Hamlin, dau. of Daniel Ford and Angelina (Burt) Pratt, b. 1858, May 30, at Reading. He was educated in the public schools of his native place, at Phillips Academy, and at the Albany Business College. He prepared under a tutor to be an electrician, with the intention of engaging at installing and putting in operation electric plants, and for a year had an excellent position with the Stanley Electric Co. He was thus engaged when the war with Spain began in 1898. His desire to go to the front was opposed by his father, who set before him plainly the hardships and perils of a soldier's life, but he persisted and at last gained a reluctant consent. He was not moved by love of excitement or blind enthusiasm. The recruiting drum had not sounded in Pittsfield; he was not moved by sight of enlisting comrades. He felt it his duty to go, and his patriotism was strong. Enlisting at Adams, he was first rejected as deficient in height. Securing a second examination, he stuffed an inch of grass into his shoes and stood so straight that he was accepted. He became a member of Co. M, 2d Mass. Regt., under Capt. Herbert O. Hicks and Col. Embury P. Clark. This command broke camp at Framingham May 12, went by way of L. I. Sound to New York, and thence to Tampa, Fla., where they embarked on transports for Cuba. June 14. From the transport Frank wrote, June 15: "The Manteo is the smallest of the fleet. The boats left the bay in a single column, but as they entered the gulf formed into three columns, side by side. There are about 40 ships." On June 16 he wrote: "When the sea was worst, last night, boxes, guns, etc., began chasing around the deck. We have been joined by many war vessels. The sea is running high, and the boat going like a rocking-horse." In the battle of Santiago, July 1, the Second, the only regiment of volunteers, did heroic service. July 5 Frank wrote: "The Second has been under fire two days. Besides two battles the Spaniards made a night attack. I was on post guard last night, and had to crawl on my stomach to the front, and dig a rifle-pit with a machette. During the night attack I went in my stocking feet, and now my feet are poisoned, as well as my hands. As soon as we opened fire with our Springfields we drew all the fire of the enemy, and the fellows began falling right and left." Yellow fever broke out about July 10, and Co. M lost several men by the disease before the regiment sailed from Cuba, Aug. 12, for Montauk Point, Long Island. Frank's last letter was from Santiago, Aug. 5, and was in part as follows: "It will be but a short time before we are home again. I have just come off hospital duty after a night of no sleep. One man died while I was there, and I have seen enough of an army hospital. We have lost another man, making three that have died, but we think it will be the last, as there are none who are very sick. Love to all." Twelve days later Frank Manning died of fever on the transport Mobile. On news of his decease the flags of Pittsfield were set at half-mast, and sorrowing throngs attended the memorial services. The City Council met in special session and adopted resolutions from which these extracts are taken: "He knew full well his peril, but he must obey the call [of patriotic duty.] . . . He was the first from our city to make the great sacrifice in the war." The Y. M. C. A. resolutions said, in part: "Whereas, his cheerful and loving disposition, his merry voice and his kind and generous actions have endeared him to us;

whereas, that in a time of need he willingly took upon himself perilous duties in defense of his country; whereas, that in the performance of these duties he exhibited such energy and bravery as to cause general admiration; whereas, by these acts he showed himself to be a patriotic, brave and faithful citizen, deserving our greatest respect which we hereby express, resolved, that we extend to the family of our deceased friend and companion our hearty sympathy." Similar resolutions were passed by other organizations. The R. & V. Army and Navy Union has formed a garrison in Pittsfield and named it Franklin W. Manning Garrison. A granite monument has been erected to his memory, inscribed: "A Soldier in the Spanish-American War. A member of Company M, Second Mass. Infantry, U. S. M. Died August 17, 1898, during voyage home on transport Mobile. Buried at Sea."

THE RICHARD AND ANSTICE MANNING FAMILY OF SALEM-IPSWICH, MASS.

GENERAL MENTION.

THIS family, founded at Salem by the settling there of its several members during the period 1662-79, presents more sharply-defined contrasts than are common in old families. Early resolving itself into two branches, one of these was, and has remained, remarkable for its gregarious tendencies, while the other became as radically nomadic. While the one held fast to Essex county and its vicinity as a place of residence, the other moved on in search of new fields for employment of their hands. The result of this is seen in what seems to be a law of nature; the nomadic branch, though long few of numbers as compared with the gregarious branch, has now very considerably passed the other in that respect. If all of the younger generations in the West could have been induced to submit their records for this volume it would, no doubt, be found that this branch was making as steady an increase in numbers in the last twenty-five years as it did in the previous seventy-five.

As will be seen subsequently, the family in its second generation consisted, in the male line, of four brothers. Of these, one seems not to have come to New England, and perhaps remained in the mother country. The other three are mentioned below.

Nicholas Manning, the eldest brother, resided for a time in Salem, and later in New Dartmouth, Me., after which he removed to New York and resided on Staten and Long Islands. He was twice married. It is not known whether he had children by his second marriage. By the first, only one child survived, John. The latter settled in Boston, and spent the rest of his life there. As it is not known whether he had children the later descendants of Nicholas, if any, became a lost branch.

Jacob Manning was the only one of the brothers who made Salem his permanent home, and, somewhat curiously, it was his descendants who, in later years, furnished the nomads of the general family. His son Samuel [27] removed to Oxford, Mass., and died there, after which the onward march of the branch continued. New Salem and Charlton, Mass., were first the new homes, but New England was quickly passed, and Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y., became the home of the children of Robert Manning [94], as Little Valley, Cattaraugus Co., in that State, subsequently received the children of Samuel Manning [192] as new settlers. This was but a beginning; the United States lay before them, and in the last century not only Pennsylvania, but Wisconsin and other States in the West received their numbers.

Thomas Manning, the youngest son, soon left Salem for Ipswich, a few miles away, and, until a short time ago, his descendants were always represented there in the male line. Several of their number afterwards settled in Salem, and others in other towns in the same county. In modern times, Maine, Boston and New York each received a share, but the branch was not given to wandering far, and Essex county was, in the full sense of the word, the family home, and the favorite towns were Salem, Ipswich and Gloucester (Rockport).

The three brothers above named, Nicholas, Jacob and Thomas, were all gunsmiths by occupation. After the year 1700 followers of this trade began to be called blacksmiths, and the latter term soon entirely superseded the former. The only difference was in the name, although, of course, the making of guns by single individuals was an industry then important enough to give the smith his trade-name. Among the descendants of Thomas Manning the trade has always been well represented in proportion to their numbers. There are blacksmiths to-day, and from the time of Thomas there has never been a time when there was no one of his line thus occupied.

Another striking fact is that so many of his descendants have been physicians. They seem to have been peculiarly adapted to the profession, and to have followed it with marked success. It is to be doubted if one family in a hundred can show such a record in medicine as that of Thomas Manning's descendants.

THE WAR RECORD OF THE FAMILY.

The Salem-Ipswich family has never been numerous, and, consequently, it has not had the numbers to furnish a long military record. It has, however, taken part, through its representatives, in the wars of the country from the settlement, and the names of its soldiers, and the periods when they served, appear below.

 INSCRIPTIONS FROM GRAVESTONES.

It is to be greatly regretted that there are so few gravestones to the early Mannings of Salem and Ipswich. Appearances in the old cemeteries would indicate that, in these towns, the practice of marking graves was by no means common. Throughout the places of interment the various groups of memorial stones to those of other surnames are separated by wide stretches where, it would seem, many dead lie in unmarked graves; and one is led to infer that the Mannings generally followed a custom which prevailed locally. If memorial stones were commonly erected by the family they have disappeared. With such a great scarcity of material it is not possible to say much about the resting places of the early Mannings.

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT SALEM, MASS.

In the Howard Street cemetery, a little southeast of the center of the inclosure, are the graves of Thomas Manning [80], his wife Rebecca, and their sons Thomas and William Tufts Manning. The stones are in good condition. Some distance apart from them are two memorial stones to the memory of members of the William Manning family, of Cambridge, being those of Lois, wife of Caleb Manning [604] and Nancy, wife of Richard Manning [611]. Near the center of the cemetery is a long line of tombs, of which more specific mention will be made later. In the small burial-place by St. Peter's church is one stone with the Manning name upon it, being that of Sally, wife of William Manning. It is inferred that the latter is the same of the name who bears Number 107 in the Miscellaneous Families in the appendix, and the grave that of his wife, Sarah West, though no record of her death has been found. The inscription is as follows :

wife of Mr. Will<sup>m</sup> Manning, who died Aug. 21st, 1798, in the 34th Year of her Age

As the identity of William Manning and his wife has not been established, it may be well to say that she lies between Betsey Varney (died 1836, Jan. 28, aged 47) and Capt. Israel Obear (died 1773, Dec. 8, aged 38). They may have been related to her. Next to Capt. Obear lies Joseph Young (died 1803, aged 47), and, next, Ephraim Ingalls (died 1766, aged 67). Whether all these stones stand where they were originally set is unknown to the present writer. The inscriptions from the Howard street cemetery follow, all numbers referring to the Salem-Ipswich family, unless otherwise indicated.

EARLY MANNING GRAVES AT IPSWICH, MASS.

Some years ago, before the conception of the plan of giving so much space to epitaphs, the writer went through the old cemetery in the above town and made notes, but not full copies, of the inscriptions to the memory of the Mannings. This volume is indebted to members of the Ipswich race for the copies here given. The scarcity of stones with the Manning name in the cemetery is very much to be deplored. There are several to the memory of modern members, as, for instance, those of Jacob Manning [184] and his family, but, as far as the compiler found, none that were early with the exception of those here presented. The other early gravestones are those of Mrs. Sarah McKean [88], died 15 May, 1776, and Mrs. Mary Lord [91], died 28 Dec., 1776, daughters of Dr. Joseph Manning; and, lastly, that of Elizabeth, wife of John Manning [34], who died 22 Dec., 1738. Of these, copies of inscriptions are lacking.

STATISTICS.

The Salem-Ipswich family has never reached large numbers. In some cases families of children have been born which were large enough to justify the expectation of further increase, but this has not been realized. Several male members conceived a passion for maritime life, adopted that calling, and died at sea, young and unmarried. This has been one of the causes which have prevented the increase, but it does not explain it in full. Some statistics follow. The first list is that of large families born to male members in each generation. In the third generation there was one family of 9 children; in the fourth, one each of 10, 11 and 12; in the fifth, one of 9 and three of 11; in the sixth, one of 8; in the seventh, one each of 8 and 9; in the eighth, two of 8, and in the ninth, one each of 8 and 13.

DEATHS IN MINORITY.

The number who have died under the age of twenty-one in the families of male members is divided into two classes; first, those who died before the beginning of their third year, and, secondly, those who died in a more advanced period of their minority.

Died under three years, males	16
“ “ “ “ females	18
Total died under three years	34
Died between two and twenty-one, males	11
“ “ “ “ “ females	19
Total died between two and twenty-one	30
Total died in minority	64

The foregoing does not include certain children who died in infancy, the sex of which is unknown.

THE BIRTH-RECORD.

Herewith are given the births in the family by generations. In the male line, a division is made so as to show how the children were distributed between the two sexes. The time necessary for the compilation of such facts has prevented the extension of this system to the female lines, but the total of their children is given below. The figures fail to show the full numbers in the later generations, because of the fact that so many members in the West have failed to furnish their family records. In the following table of children born to male members the upper line is that of the generation numbers, and the figures immediately below show the birth-record in each generation.

	II	III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X
Females	3	7	26	25	25	42	42	33	5

Total, male children 227

Total, female children 208

The ninth and tenth generations will both be increased in the future. The total births in each generation are as follows:

II	III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X
7	19	41	49	60	79	86	80	14

The next table is that of the children born to female members in each generation.

III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X
15	10	56	25	39	34	21	12

II	III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X

THE ROLL-CALL OF THE FAMILY.

The following is a summary of the figures just given, to which is added the number of members of the family, born heir to the name of Manning, now supposed to be living. The number of the latter would be increased here if the branch of the family in Wisconsin who have not sent in their records had been willing to do that much for their children.

Children born to male members	435
“ “ “ female “	212
Other descendants of the female members	107

Total descendants included in this volume	754

VARIATIONS OF RECORDS.

The members of the Salem-Ipswich family who have manuscript records of their own line, with some connecting branches, will find, if they compare these with what is printed in this volume, that, in many cases, their dates do not exactly agree with those here given. The variations will appear chiefly in the births and marriages which took place at Ipswich prior to the year 1800. With a few exceptions the births of Mannings in that town were never recorded on the town books. There are, in fact, only six births recorded before 1800. Fortunately, we have a substitute in the baptism of infants, which gives approximate dates. Some children were baptized the Sunday following their birth; sometimes the ceremony was long delayed, but, as a rule, it was within a few weeks of the child's birth. Except for old family records, the Mannings of Ipswich must rely almost wholly on baptisms instead of birth-dates. But in the family manuscripts referred to, which are based upon Ipswich records, a date often appears as a birth, when, really, it was a baptism. Such cases are so common that the variations will be many. Again, some of the early marriages were never recorded, and the date when the intention of marriage of the couple was "published" has to be taken as a substitute, but, as the family manuscripts often confuse the marriage and the publishment, other variations will be noted. Baptized does not mean born, and published does not mean married; and dates for these events should not be written down one for the other.

Except for a photographic copy of a single line early furnished by one of the family to the present writer, the genealogy of the Salem-Ipswich family has been prepared by the compiler of this volume without aid from, or reference to, any manuscript previously written by others. (Note, however, what is said further on concerning the collection of Joseph Bolles Manning, Esq.) When the work was well advanced there came into the compiler's possession, briefly, one of the manuscripts above mentioned. It was full of errors, as, for instance, at least one case where two members of the same name were alleged to have married one and the same woman on the same day. This manuscript, however, while clearly dating back to a common origin with others similar to it, had passed out of the Manning family, and the worst of the errors were doubtless due to additions made by one not familiar with his subject.

For some years the present compiler was aware that there was in existence a MS. genealogy of a part of the family prepared by Joseph Bolles Manning [234], who died 22 May, 1854. While clearly realizing the importance of a record formed at that early day, no effort was made to see it then, as it was considered best to reserve so valuable an aid for final comparison, rather than to be influenced by it prematurely. This plan was carried out, and, in the spring of 1901, the older collection was borrowed and carefully compared with the records of this volume. The result was highly satisfactory, as there was no disagreement in the references to the male lines, and only minor ones relating to the female branches. Thus, as far as Joseph Bolles Manning carried his work, it corroborates the collections of this volume, and, as his investigation was made so long ago, the corroboration is highly important. He had an opportunity to interview personally members older than himself, so that the testimony of the Eighteenth Century has come down to us through a writer who died in 1854. Some valuable items, too, were secured from his MS., as, to illustrate, an account of the fate of Joseph Manning [85] and Richard Manning [89]. These facts had previously been a matter of vague tradition: they became assured facts on the testimony of one who had been so closely related to them.

The other manuscripts which have been mentioned so closely resemble that of Joseph Bolles Manning (except that they are less extensive and, in some cases, have errors which are not due to him) that, on critical comparison, the belief must be entertained that all were drawn, directly or indirectly, from his compilation. It is positively known that some were. It would seem that, before or soon after his death, his collection was freely borrowed; that each borrower copied what was most of interest to him, or her, and added thereto something more of the members most nearly related to him or her. Thus, while all the manuscripts agree fairly well as to the early generations, the later entries are dissimilar, and, moreover, they present sharp conflicts of statement. This presents another point where this volume will not agree with the various manuscripts. When statements are found to disagree recourse should be had to town records, if possible, or, if not, the statements of those most nearly related to the subject of each sketch should be taken.

In conclusion, the holders of old manuscripts will know from this article why this volume cannot agree in full with their documents, especially as to dates, and it is to be hoped that the care taken here to avoid the errors of others has been fairly successful.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. RICHARD<sup>1</sup> MANNING, the ancestor of the American family which early settled at Salem and Ipswich, Mass., was baptized as an infant, in 1622, in St. Patrick's (or Petrox) Parish, Dartmouth, County Devon, England. He resided there, and, at a date not known to the present writer, died there, according to accepted reports. What effort, if any, has been made to gain additional information concerning him, at Dartmouth, is unknown. He married and reared a family there, all of whom, with probably one exception, came to Massachusetts. The maiden name of his wife was Anstice Calley. His eldest son was named Nicholas. The latter was the first of the family to come to this country, he having located at Salem, Mass., as early as 1662. Unless the second son, Richard, also came, and this is unlikely, Nicholas was the only one of the family here for the next seventeen years. In 1679 the widow Anstice and her five younger children came to Salem in the ship Hannah and Elizabeth, with other passengers. Capt. Lott Gourding was commander, and Nicholas Manning "undertaker" of said ship. The word here quoted was used in the sense of one who "undertakes" to perform a certain work; in this case, it was to transport the ship's passengers from the Old to the New World. Knowing Nicholas Manning's business tact and stirring nature as we do, the surmise may be ventured that he was in every sense the originator and manager of the enterprise; in other words, that, desiring to bring his mother and her family to Salem, he avoided the expense of paying some one else for their passage by having, temporarily, a vessel of his own, and on which he brought enough other passengers so that the undertaking was probably a successful business venture. We should know nothing about it if it were not for the fact that legal proceedings followed. One Dr. John Barton made the passage as ship's doctor, and when he and Nicholas attempted to settle their accounts there was found to be such a difference of opinion as to the merits of the case that the affair found its way, in the shape of charges and counter-charges, into the Court of Essex county. The papers in the case may now be found in Volume xxxii, pages 19-22, inclusive, of said Court Records. Dr. Barton's medical bill is highly interesting as showing the treatment at that day for various troubles, and physicians of to-day should find it entertaining, if not instructive. Of the series of papers the first is a list of passengers, at the head of which stand the widow Manning and her five younger children. About forty other names follow, among which is that of one Joseph Manning, of whom no more is known than that he sustained "a broken shinn" on the voyage. Possibly he was a relative; nothing has been found of him afterwards. Omitting the here-superfluous names of other passengers, the series of papers is given complete and unchanged.

Judgment was against Capt. Manning; Dr. Barton won his case, and Nicholas lost his counter-suit.

On the arrival of the Manning family at Salem, all resided there for a time. Nicholas had already married there, as did Jacob, Anstice, Margaret and Sarah, in due time. All of the four last named passed the rest of their lives there. Thomas, the youngest son, settled at Ipswich, and, as the two towns became so long the chief home of descendants, it is here preferred to call them the Salem-Ipswich family of Mannings. Nothing has been found of Anstice, the mother of these children, after her arrival. There is no record to show when she died, nor can it be said whether her final years were spent in Salem or Ipswich. Her Christian name has been found spelled both Anstiss and Anstist in early days. The former was the common form, and was probably recognized as correct; but as, in later years, the form was changed to Anstice, it is used here. The children of Richard and Anstice Manning, born at Dartmouth, Eng., were:

2. NICHOLAS, b. 1644, June 23.
3. RICHARD, b. 1646, June 22. His history is unknown. It is probable that he did not come to America, but there is no evidence for or against this supposition. Among the records of the Essex County Probate Office, at Salem, is the will, dated 1708, Dec. 8, and probated Jan. 5 following, of one Jacob Manning, a mariner, "now belonging to Her Majesty's ship Rumway." He willed all his belongings to his "cozen, Warwick Palfrey, of Salem." The latter was a son of Mrs. Margaret (Manning) Palfrey (see No. 15). At that period the term "cousin" was very vaguely used, and, though it properly had the same meaning as now, was often used as a synonym for "relation." Thus, we cannot be sure that the word was correctly used in the will. If correct, Jacob was a son either of the above Richard, or of Nicholas [2], or Thomas [7] Manning. The last possibility is as reasonable as any. It is no evidence tending to show that he was a son of Richard because he was one of the crew of an English vessel, for Americans also served in that capacity. Another Jacob Manning (see No. 22) was, a little later, an impressed seaman on board an English ship.
4. ANSTICE, b. 1650-1, Jan. 8; m. James Powling, of Salem. She d. soon after 1704, Oct. 29, the date of her will. If she ever had children it is likely that none survived, for she willed her property to certain of the children of her sisters.
5. MARGARET, b. 1657, Oct. 9.
6. JACOB, b. 1660, Dec. 25.
7. THOMAS, b. 1664-5, Feb. 11.
8. SARAH, b. 1667, Aug. 28.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. NICHOLAS<sup>2</sup> MANNING (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1644, June 23, at Dartmouth, England. He was the first of his family to come to this country, and the emigration was made while he was yet a minor. It has been suggested that he first came as a mariner, but the theory is not supported by any known evidence, and may be regarded as unlikely. He was by trade a gunsmith, and this calling he followed at times during his entire life, he being thus styled as late as 1709; but this occupation was interrupted by connection with other private enterprises, and by the holding of military and civil office. In the latter capacities he was a captain in King Philip's war, a selectman at Salem, and a justice of the peace, collector, and judge of the Inferior Court in Maine. On arrival in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay he settled at Salem, a town which has been the home of various of his collateral descendants to the present day. He is first found there 1662, Oct. 3, as a witness to a deed of trust, John Gifford to Thomas Cobbit and others. Next in chronological order is his marriage, 1663, June 23. He was a juryman in 1666, and constable, 1674. In King Philip's war, 1675, he appears as a soldier under Capt. Nicholas Paige, and, as such, participated in the Mount Hope campaign and the "Great Swamp Fight," after which engagement he was himself advanced to the rank of captain and sent as commander of recruits to reinforce the colony's regiment. That he served with bravery no one can doubt who has studied the history and nature of the man. In 1677 he was called into new activity. Some of the men of Salem were accustomed to go fishing in vessels called ketches. They were harassed by Indians, the ketches captured, and with them many of the fishermen. In the year last named no fewer than thirteen of these vessels were reported as captured, so the ketch named "Supply" was fitted out as a warship, put under command of Capt. Manning, with 40 men, and sent to make recaptures. The expedition was successful, but, unfortunately, details are lacking. In 1679 Nicholas went to England as "undertaker" of the vessel in which his mother and her younger children came to Salem. Particulars of this event are given in the sketch of his parents. In this year, too, he, with others, was presented to the Court for wearing periwigs; an indulgence in fashionable adornment which was not looked upon with favor in the puritan Colony. Soon after, events appear in his history which indicate his absence from Salem. The Records of Massachusetts, V-317, under date of 1681, May 11, say: "In answer to the petition of Elizabeth Manning, wife of Nicholas Manning, it is ordered that what estate can be found of Nicholas Manning, either in possession or reversion, be secured by the County Court at Salem, and by them disposed of for the petitioners maintenance and support from time to time as they shall thinke fitt." The estate was divided June 8 following, at which time the official papers term Elizabeth a "widow," but if the writer thereof supposed Nicholas to be deceased he labored under a wrong impression. It is said that he had gone to New York, and, if so, he probably there laid the foundation of that part of his career which soon followed. In 1684 he is found in the province of Maine, at New Dartmouth, or, to use its old Indian name, which was more commonly and long after done, Sheepscot. This may be said to have been what is now New Castle [Lincoln Co.], Me., though "New Dartmouth was designed to include New Castle, Edgecomb, Boothby, Southport, Westport, Wiscasset and Alna. Sheepscot was the capital." This was an extensive area. That part of Maine was granted by King Charles, of England, together with the Dutch territory upon the Hudson river, to his brother James, Duke of York, so that said section of Maine was under the same government as New York, and Capt. Manning and other officials of New Dartmouth had their appointments from the ducal governor of New York. Sheepscot had been settled before King Philip's war, and was beginning to be a thriving village when, in that outbreak, it was assailed by the Indians, the inhabitants driven away and the dwellings burned. This was in 1675. It was not until after several years that efforts were made to resettle, and, as the surveys were in 1686, Capt. Manning, going there as early as 1684, must have been among the first of the new inhabitants. In the latter year he was appointed captain of a foot-company (that is, of the militia), and, as early as 1686, June 8, was marshal of Falmouth. He was appointed justice of the peace 1686, Sep. 8, and, Sep. 17, sub-collector, surveyor and searcher of His Majesty's Customs and Excise. The date of his appointment as captain in 1684 has been given as Apr. 28, but as a following paper will show, he held that office previously, and all alleged dates as to his several appointments may, perhaps, be approximately correct rather than exact. As an officer he did not always give satisfaction to those under him. The inhabitants of New Dartmouth petitioned to the governor of New York, 1684, Apr. 21, in these words :

If this petition received attention it did not check Capt. Manning's progress toward new and higher official positions, and, if the date of his appointment as captain is correct, it would seem that he had previously held that office informally, and that he was duly appointed thereto seven days after the date of the petition. One paper of this date (1684) calls him "government commissioner" among the inhabitants of New Dartmouth. In 1684, Sep., depositions were made by several persons at the above place relative to an assault and battery committed by Capt. Manning upon Gyles Goddard, who had been appointed lieutenant of his company at the same time that he was made captain. Action in this case is not found. Official duties were not the only engrossing matter of Capt. Manning's attention at his new home. The death of his first wife has not been found on record, but he had married, secondly, and, it would seem, as early as 1686, Mary, daughter of John Mason. Mr. Mason was the leading man and largest landholder of New Dartmouth. He had purchased, 1652, Jan. 20, of Robin Hood, Dick Swash and Jack Pudding, three Indian chiefs, or Sagamores, as they were termed, a large tract of land, and this tract figured largely in affairs then and for 100 years afterwards. As Mr. Mason's son-in-law, Nicholas was interested in this property, and, both in that capacity and in connection with the survey of New Dartmouth following his above appointment in 1686, had much to do therewith. He seems, says the history of Ancient Sheepscoot, to have been a partner with Mr. Mason, and Nicholas' own "estate" ran down to and included Bartow's Island, Sawyer's Island and the upper end of Cape Newaggon Island. The lands claimed by Mason and Manning amounted to 12,000 acres. The survey made in 1686, before mentioned here, was performed under Capt. Manning's supervision,* if not, as is likely, directly by his own hands, and it is probable that the following paper was entered in the book of records thereof by him in person.

"The Bounds off the Land of Capt. Nich. Manning in Sheepscoot River which Runs at the westerly side of Cape nawagon up to Aallings ffalls; as also the Land off John Mason my wiffe father bofft of three Sagamores the principal that ever had ben in the Esttern Contry in the yeare Conveyed Janery the twenty 1652, and was Recorded in the Rein off King Charell the Second, one thousen Six hundred sixty ffive, also in the year 1666 Nathanell draper, and Edward Roberts wear sworn beffor me, by the Nathanell draper, the other being ded, Edward beffor then, and beffor any conveyment was by the Crown off England Esten Contrey, presently John Mason went unto Nicholas Reynolls the first Justis made in them parts which is March 1666-67; presently ther was on Samell phipps appointed to Recorder off the Conveyants off Lands or any writting that ought to be Recorded, which book is now by the Govenor off boston committed in the Custody off Samell Phipp Clerk off the Estern Committee."

Nicholas continued in favor with the authorities at New York, and, 1688, July 11, he was appointed Judge of the Inferior Court of Cornwall Co. (This county, which soon became extinct, comprised, during its existence, all the territory of the Province of Maine which lay east of the Kennebec river). Capt. Manning was now at the height of his fame. Well known as a brave soldier, and entrusted with high civil office, he was, it may be said, within a step of enduring celebrity, but events for which he was not responsible were working to produce a crisis which was to undo him. The early Charter of the Colony of Massachusetts, which, among its other favorable features, allowed the people the privilege of choosing their own officers, was annulled by King James II, of England, and, in 1686, Sir Edmund Andros was made governor by his royal master of what is now the New England States, against the will of the Colonists. Oppressions followed, the scope of which has been thus defined: "The House of Representatives [of Massachusetts] was suppressed, the people crushed with imposts, and forbidden to assemble in town meeting to deliberate upon their grievances. They were imprisoned without trial, denied the right of Habeas Corpus, and thwarted in their attempts to reach the throne by direct petition." Governor Andros, zealously aided by his officers at Boston, was an ever-ready executor of the king's will in these matters, and his tyrannical course brought upon him odium which time has not effaced. James II was not more popular in England, and a timely revolt there swept him from the throne and placed thereon William and Mary as his successors. The Colonists took dangerous chances, rose against the hated Andros, seized him, and sent him, under arrest, to England. His downfall brought all his officers in the Colonies to grief; they were arrested and imprisoned. The writer has not found to what extent Capt. Manning showed his zeal in carrying out Andros' orders, nor whether he gained unpopularity during this crisis, but, as an appointee of the fallen party and an office-holder under Andros, he shared the fate of the others and was imprisoned in Boston. He soon made efforts to secure his freedom, as the following petition shows; this paper being in his own handwriting, and now to be found in the Massachusetts Archives, Vol. 107, page 89:

From this paper it will be seen that Capt. Manning was released under bail. He remained within reach of the Court, but seems never to have been brought to trial; the Suffolk Co. records contain no reference to such a trial, from which it may be inferred that proceedings against him were dropped. This was certainly no more than justice, unless he had, as a judge, exceeded the due bounds of his authority, for it was neither a crime nor a misdemeanor that, having been properly appointed to an office by the lawful (though tyrannical) governor of the Colony, he was at his post of duty when that governor's downfall occurred. It will be seen that, in his first petition, Capt. Manning refers not only to his participation in the “ last war ” (King Phillip's), but states that he served eight months in “ the late service to the Eastward.” This was doubtless the Indian outbreak in Maine which Andros brought about by indiscreet and characteristic conduct in 1687, during which the latter headed an unsuccessful expedition in Nov., 1688. It was probably during and following this campaign that Nicholas served “ to the eastward.” His financial losses, mentioned in the petition, were caused by the destruction of New Dartmouth, 1688, Sep. 5, when it was assailed by Indians. With the exception of here and there a solitary house, all buildings on the extensive tract were consigned to the flames. Whether Nicholas succeeded in his hope of recovering the “ sixteen head of neat cattle ” does not appear, but King William's war followed, the Indians were long active, resettlement was impossible, and for 30 years the territory lay waste. That Capt. Manning did not yield passively to adversity is shown by an item in Mather's “ Magnalia,” which mentions the “ submission and agreement of the Eastern Indians at Fort William Henry in Pemmaquid [Maine], the 11 day of Aug., 1693.” etc The articles of submission were signed by Madocawando, Wassambomet, Katterranogis, and seven other Indians, while other signers were John Wing, Nicholas Manning, Benjamin Jackson and various interpreters. Whether the three men just named were merely witnesses, or, as seems probable, were government agents, it shows that he had not abandoned his efforts to regain his property in New Dartmouth. But if he was willing to risk reoccupation of the deserted home, other landholders, it seems, were not. The Indians were still there, great danger would menace a settler, and, as before stated, the lands long lay desolate. Capt. Manning continued to reside for some time in Boston. He was taxed there in 1691, and, in 1696, he and others were notified to renew the licenses granted to them by the General Quarter Sessions in 1695 as retailers of the spirituous drinks then in demand. This calling then had no reproach attached to it, for the law aimed to license only men of good repute, and the holder of such a privilege was highly respected by the best citizens. He was still in Boston 1697, March, when he was involved in a lawsuit concerning a quantity of wood. In 1701 a committee appointed by the General Assembly to consider the accounts of officials who had held office under Gov. Andros reported in favor of paying the "wages" of certain of that number (Archives 101-214), among whom was Nicholas Manning. His residence at that time has not been found. Soon after, if not before then, he changed his residence to Staten Island, New York. In 1702, Apr. 30, John Gonzales petitioned to the New York Assembly for relief against Nicholas Manning who, according to his claim, had "dispossessed" him of a lot of land on Staten Island, but whether Nicholas had acted in a personal or official capacity has not been learned. In 1708, Aug. 26, a return was made by Joseph Billings, Jacques Pulyon and Nicholas Manning of the survey of the south division, Richmond Co. (Staten Island), from the main road to South Bay, which shows him again in a public occupation. During his early years at Salem he had purchased several lots of land, some of which remained in his possession until he sold them to his brother Jacob Manning, 1709, June 30, when he was still residing on Staten Island. He was then termed gunsmith, and may have been following his old trade. He was living on Staten Island 1719, Dec. 4, when, together with his wife Mary, he sold to his son John, of Boston, certain rights in the New Dartmouth lands (Deeds of York Co., Me., xii-184 and xx-163), and, aged 77, was living in 1721 when a letter was written to him by the aforesaid son (see sketch of John, 12). At this time Nicholas' residence was given as Long Island, which, if correct, as it doubtless was, points to a new home in New York state for his old age. Here, as far as the compiler has learned, oblivion falls around him. When and where he died has not been learned. It has been shown that he was twice married. His first wife, to whom he was m. at Salem, 1663. June 23, was Elizabeth, widow of Robert Gray. When she was born and when she died has not been learned, nor is her maiden name known; it is said that she was "a kinswoman of Thomas Wickes, of Salem." but how she was related to him is not found. She must have been considerably the senior of Nicholas, for, of the eight children by her marriage to Mr. Gray, the eldest was born in 1651, when Nicholas was but seven years old. Capt. Manning married (2d) as early as 1686, Mary, dau. of John and Elizabeth (Gent) Mason, of New Dartmouth. An important question, which cannot be answered now, is: Did Capt. Nicholas leave descendants so that his line was continued long after his own death? He had a son (John) by his first marriage who, as the sketch of that son will show, married and lived in Boston, but whether John had children is unknown. Again, Capt. Nicholas was not more than 38 years old when he married Mary Mason, and it is highly probable that she was younger; hence, there may have been children by this second marriage. One of his petitions when in prison at Boston mentions his "family," but this does not prove that he then had young children. Theoretically, it seems very unlikely that his line died out with the death of himself and his son John. Documentary evidence exists which shows that individuals named Manning were long after interested in the Sheepscot lands. This tract was for many years a subject of contention. The reckless bestowal of grants to different persons at various times by different men high in authority led, in many cases, to the same land being granted to three different settlers, and, as the Indian troubles long kept them away from their possessions, the fruit of the indiscriminate allotments came in the next century, when the original settlers were deceased. Their heirs then held conflicting claims, and the Courts had plenty of work and perplexity to decide the several cases. Of the evidence which we could wish we possessed, much has been forever lost by the burning of the Boston Court House in 1748; the highly important documents referred to in the History of Ancient Sheepscot have not been found, and the meagre records bearing on the point that have been discovered do not serve to solve the various mysteries pertaining to Capt. Manning and his line. In the Essex County Court Records (which are included in the Suffolk County Court Files) appears the following paper, now numbered 31790, and which is highly important :

“ Province of Massachusetts Bay. To the Honorable His Majesty's Justices &c to be holden at Boston in and for the county of Suffolk on the second tuesday of March A D 1768. Humbly Shews.

“ Thomas Manning of the town of Moreland county of Philadelphia and province of pennsylvania Gent<sup>l</sup>, That he as heir to John Mason late of a place called Sheepsentt river in the county of Lincoln in the province of the Massachusetts Bay deceased, is owner of one fourth part of all the lands tenements & hereditaments lying in or near said River, which did belong to said Mason at the time of his death, more especially of about eighteen hundred acres of land. lying in or near said Sheepsentt River. and heretofore laid out to Job Lewis late of Boston afores<sup>d</sup> Esq<sup>r</sup> since deceased and to Captain David Cargill since deceased and to David Allyn since deceased: which lands and premises said Mason purchased of three Indian Sagamores viz<sup>t</sup> Robin Hood, Dick Swash and Jack Pudding—That it is inconvenient to the petitioner to hold his said fourth part as it now lies in common and undivided with the heirs or assigns of the said Lewis, Cargill and Allyn, and therefore he prays your Honors to cause partition of the said lands and premises to be made pursuant to law to and among the parties interested therein, & that the said petitioner's said fourth part thereof may be sett off and assign'd to him to hold in severalty, & as in duty bound &c dated at Boston aforesaid the sixteenth day of September Anno Domini 1767

attorney & substitute of Ephraim Manning, who is attorney to the above named Thomas Manning.”

Notice of this petition was served upon Samuel Waterhouse, of Boston, and Mary Cargill, widow, of Milton: the case was advertised in the Massachusetts Gazette and Boston News Letter of 1768, Apr. 7, and the petition was granted at a session of the Superior Court of Judicature held at Ipswich 1769, the third Tuesday of June. Between two pages of the records of the above Court now lies a letter written by Nathaniel Fitz Randolph, and addressed to “ Col. Samuel Winthrop or Col. Nathaniel Hatch,” who were Clerks of the Court at Boston. It is as follows :

“ Prince-Town, New Jersey State. May 10th 1783

Sir

Perhaps you may Remember That in June 1769: at Ipswich Court as attorney for Thomas Manning, I did obtain a Court order for a Division of Eighteen hundred acres of Land near Sheepscot River: to set apart one fourth part of s<sup>d</sup> Land to s<sup>d</sup> Thomas Manning to hold to him in severalty: & one fourth part of all the Land & tenements that Did belong to John Mason at the time of his Death—Also I have a patent for 157 acres of upland & thirty acres of marsh at s<sup>d</sup> Sheepscot River—also a Deed for a Grist & sawmill at said place—also a patent for 118 acres of upland & 20 acres of marsh at Pamequid—also a survey of 100 acres of upland & 20 acres of marsh at s<sup>d</sup> Sheepscot River. But my infirmities & the public calamities has Detained my proceeders hitherto: and being now far advanced in age, Would sell all s<sup>d</sup> premises at a low rate. Now Sir if you will send a chap* to buy them he shall have them for a small part of their Worth. I have authentic power & Writings to produce to any purchaser & for any service you do me in the affair I will amply satisfie you

NATHANIEL FITZ RANDOLPH."

The present writer fails to learn from this letter whether Mr. Fitz Randolph was then acting as attorney for Thomas Manning, or had acquired the latter's claim and rights. The latter possibility seems the more likely from the terms of the letter. However this may have been there is no record of the sale of the land up to 1800, and it seems likely that the claim was valueless. In the early part of the Eighteenth Century a Mr. Tappan had largely bought the rights of John Mason's heirs, and he was one of those involved in the legal contentions over the conflicting claims before mentioned. He lost his case in 1741, and was defeated in all subsequent appeals to the higher Courts. Hence, if Mr. Fitz Randolph's claims rested on the same basis, and he declares that they were grounded on Mason's purchase, his right had long before been held void. But, if this was so, why did the Court make a division in severalty in 1769? Perhaps some distinction was drawn between grant and the purchase of the three Sagamores, but, if so, why was the land never either occupied or sold? The case is utterly confusing, nor is any light gained by study of the History of Ancient Sheepscot.

The chief interest in the affair lies in the fact that, as we know that Capt. Nicholas Manning married a daughter of John Mason, and that there was a Thomas Manning who, in 1767, claimed land at Sheepscot as an heir of John Mason, it would, at first, seem to be proved positively that Captain Manning's son John had left children, or that Nicholas, himself, had children by his second wife. But there is a check to this assumption. On, or near page 27 of the History of Ancient Sheepscot, in a copy of one of Capt. Manning's surveys, is mention of "John Manning's lot," and on or about page 40 the historian says, "John Manning lived near the common [at Sheepscot]. He married John Mason's daughter." If this is correct we are introduced, in the person of this John Manning, to a man new to the researches of this volume, and of whom there is no previous or subsequent sign; and, if there was such a man, it may have been from him, not from Nicholas Manning, that Thomas Manning, of Moreland, was descended. But was there such a man? The author of Ancient Sheepscot was an able man, an antiquarian and a conscientious recorder, but it is no discredit to his memory to suggest that he may have made an error. Capt. Manning evidently secured all the land he could at Sheepscot. His son John was then advancing toward his majority. Did the father secure a "lot" for the son, and was it the son who figured at Sheepscot? Was the historian misled by finding a John Manning among John Mason's heirs into believing that there was a John Manning who married one of Mason's daughters? This seems a reasonable theory, yet it cannot be affirmed that the historian was wrong when he said there was such a marriage. In preparing his history he had the use of manuscript papers which had descended through various families of other names. Since his decease several persons, including the present writer, have tried to find these papers. One item of information is that it is supposed they are destroyed, but, at present, this cannot be determined. To gain light on the mysteries here presented the State Papers of Maine and Massachusetts, the deeds of Lincoln county, and the deeds, wills and court records of York county have been searched in vain. Thomas Manning, of Moreland, was either a descendant of Nicholas Manning, or else there was a mysterious John Manning, of Sheepscot, from whom Thomas descended. Which? York County Deeds xii-184 and xx-163 show that, 1719, Dec. 4, Nicholas Manning sold to his son John, of Boston, certain lands at Sheepscot. This sale was not recorded at the county registry, but is mentioned in the above deeds. It seems that the conveyance from father to son was of 3000 acres or more. Of this area John sold 1500 acres 1721, May 1, to John Oulton and Cornelius Waddo, both of Boston, and the remaining half, 1500 acres, 1725, Aug. 24, to Job Lewis. These lands are described in John's deeds as, chiefly, a tract Nicholas had received by patent from John Palmer, Esq., of New York, by virtue of a warrant from Lieut.-Gov. Dongan, 1686, Sep. 17; also other tracts formerly the property of John Mason, which descended to his daughter Mary, wife of Nicholas Manning. Reference to the claim of Thomas Manning, before given, will show that the name of Job Lewis, just mentioned, also appears in what Thomas claimed. In 1767 Thomas was owner of one-fourth part of a tract in which Lewis was another owner. Was the land sold by John Manning in 1721 and 1725 the last that he and Nicholas owned? Or was a part retained, and claimed by Thomas in 1767? Or was there a mysterious John Manning, and did Thomas claim under his right? As if this confusion was not enough, another link in the broken chain appears to confront us. In the miscellaneous families mentioned in this volume will be found that established in New Jersey by Jeffrey Manning. The latter had a grandson, Ephraim Manning, born 1701 (see sketch of Jeffrey's family), who married Elizabeth Fitz Randolph, born 1708, Dec. 31, and this Elizabeth was sister of one Nathaniel Fitz Randolph, born 1703, Nov. 11, who, it is said on excellent authority, must have been the same man who figured in the Thomas Manning claim. Here we have, it seems, the Mr. Fitz Randolph and the Ephraim Manning mentioned in that claim, but nowhere in the New Jersey family is there found any Thomas Manning at that period. That he was related to the New Jersey race seems almost certain, since Ephraim Manning and Nathaniel Fitz Randolph were successively his "attorneys," and it is almost equally certain that he was not a direct descendant of Jeffrey. There are Mannings now living in Center Moreland, Pa., but repeated efforts to obtain information from them have failed; no answer has been made to the compiler's many letters of inquiry. From another source comes the information that the ancestors of those now there were from Orange county, N. Y., and it is not thought that they are descendants of Thomas. Attention may here be directed to the Manning family of Dutchess county, N. Y. (see miscellaneous families); perhaps they were descended from Capt. Nicholas, but this is a mere conjecture. The important question, Did Capt. Nicholas have descendants after he and his son John passed away? must for the present remain unanswered. 6. JACOB<sup>2</sup> MANNING (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1660, Dec. 25, at Dartmouth, Eng. He came to Salem, Mass., in 1679 in the ship Hannah and Elizabeth, and resided in that town during his entire after life. He was by trade a gunsmith, and followed that calling nearly all, and probably all, his life. He held numerous town offices; was one of the founders of the Episcopal church in Salem, and an officer thereof; and probably lived nearer to the plane of fashionable life than most of his American-born neighbors. At a meeting of the selectmen in 1681 Jacob, then less than 21 years of age, "was warned not to sitt any more in ye fore gallery of the meeting house, thereby keeping out others unto whom the place belonged." This record contrasts, and shows the difference between boy and man, with another of 1706, Feb. 5, when it was "ordered that Mr. Jacob Manning shall sit in ye fore seat in ye fore gallery in ye meeting-house on ye Sabbath days & y<sup>t</sup> his wife shall sit in ye fore long seat below." Husband and wife were, at that day, separated during the time of church services by the custom which placed men and women in different parts of the building, each sex by itself. In 1695 Jacob, with others, was "granted liberty to turn the course of water through the common, from pond to pond." He is termed Lieutenant Jacob Manning in a deed of 1697, the title probably being acquired in militia service. He held the office of deputy-marshal at the time of the witchcraft troubles in 1692, and, as such, was called upon to arrest at least one of the unfortunates of that delusion (Mr. English). No evidence has been found to show that he was either active or conspicuous in the persecution; the one case mentioned is the only one in which he is known to have had part, and, it will be seen, his action was strictly in the line of official duty. He was elected constable 1694-5, '97, '99, 1700, or five years; selectman, 1718-21, '24-7, or eight years; moderator of town meeting, 1727, and held other offices of less importance. He was a petit juryman 1709, '16, '28, and grand juryman, 1713. At various times he did work for the town in the way of his trade. At a town meeting it was ordered "y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> Towne Treasurer get Mr. Manning to make a handsome Iron for the hour-glass to stand in at the meeting-house." In 1725 he was paid £8.14sh. for ironwork for the town, the nature of which is unknown. In 1727 he was paid for boards and nails furnished for the block-house, and, in 1728, he was placed in charge of work on said block-house. Here is a glimpse of pioneer life, as the building was for defense against hostile Indians. Undoubtedly, the nails which he furnished were hand-wrought, and of his own fashioning, and they went to make the block-house secure. At various times he was on special committees to consider boundary questions and the like. He was always prominent in church affairs, and was a titthingman at an early date. In 1717 he was one of a committee of seven or eight men appointed to act in the matter of erecting a "meeting-house for the public worship of God," toward the eastern end of Salem, and this committee purchased land of one Christopher Babbidge for £19. They are termed "the committee and all others that shall join with them in the support of an orthodox minister of God." But Lieut. Manning's inclinations were toward the religion of a different creed, and when St. Peter's Episcopal church was erected he was connected with the project from its infancy to completion, and afterwards a member until his death. He was on the committee organized as early as 1733 to accomplish this work, and, when the edifice was completed, was among those who pledged themselves to pay the salary of their first minister, Rev. Charles Broekwell. Lieut. Manning was also one of the six original vestrymen, and held that office for years afterwards. In 1741 he gave £5 toward the purchase of a bell for this church. He purchased, 1696-7, Feb. 26, of Robert Fuller and wife Margaret, of Salem, for £65, the Fuller homestead, dwelling-house, barn and 10 acres of land, bounded on the south by "the common or highway," and, also, another lot of 10 acres which bordered the first on the northwest, and this second lot was bounded on the northeast by "the river." He appears in numerous other deeds, he and his children having had long connection with the landed interests of the Stone family (of which Jacob's wife was a member), and from which family his children received substantial bequests. The will of Lieut. Manning here follows :

"In the Name of God Amen. I Jacob Manning of Salem in the County of Essex in New England Gunsmith being weak in Body but of perfect mind & memory Thanks be given to God and calling to mind the mortality of my Body and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to dye. Do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament in the following manner That is to Say Principally and first of all I give and recommend my Soul into the Hands of God that gave it and my Body to the Earth to be buried in decent Christian burial at the discretion of my Executors hereinafter named. and touching such worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this Life I Give demise and dispose of the same in the Following manner.

"Imp<sup>r</sup>. This inventory was taken by the same three men who were witnesses to the will. Their mathematical powers were not of the best, and the official copy of the above made it add, as a total, £219.15.3. It may be stated, in explanation of the system used in the inventory, that "68 1/2 lb of Pewter at 11<sup>d</sup> p" means that number of pounds at 11 pence a pound, and that "2/8," in the item next following, is an abbreviation of "2 shillings and 8 pence." Lieut. Manning m. 1683, May 4, Sarah Stone,* b. 1667-8, Feb. 28, at Salem. She d. 1756, June 24; Jacob Manning d. 1756, May 24, both at Salem. Their burial place is not known. The small cemetery immediately adjoining St. Peter's church does not show their gravestones. A Mr. Bushby, residing near the line between the towns of Peabody and Danvers, is authority for the statement that, in the fields in the rear of a house in that neighborhood, there was once a Manning family burial-place, now nearly or quite obliterated, and without gravestones at present. He said, further, that the house was built by Jacob Manning before 1750. The last statement is open to strong suspicion of inaccuracy; the foregoing inventory mentions land in Danvers, but no house there, and the omission would hardly have occurred had there been one. Otherwise, the statement is reasonable, and it may be that there the father of the family, his wife and children were laid to rest, only to have the greed of land, perhaps, rob the graves of their headstones and their privacy; but this cannot be affirmed. Ch. of Jacob and Sarah Manning, b. at Salem:

* Robert Stone was in Salem as early as 1652. Hem. Sarah, dau. of Michael Shadin. Robert d. in 1691, it is said; his widow d. 1708, Aug. 22, aged 76. Ch.: I. Samuel, b. 1657-8, Jan. 23. II. Robert, b. 1662, Jan. 24; d. 1688, June 16; m. Hannah Eager, who died 1691, Apr. 17, and had ch., (a) Elizabeth, b. 1686, Aug. 16; d. 1686-7, Jan. 25; and (b) Robert, b. 1687-8, Mch. 4. III. Benjamin, b. 1665, Feb. 28. IV. Sarah, b. 1667-8, Feb. 28; m. Jacob Manning, as above.

21. ROBERT, b. 1683-4. Feb. 10; d. unm. between 1709 and 1722. In 1697 Benj. Stone, brother of the mother of this family, remembered her six oldest children financially in his will. Before 1722 three of the children, the above Robert, his brother Jacob and sister Elizabeth had died, all unmarried, leaving their brothers and sisters their heirs. Three children, it will be seen, had been born subsequent to the date of the above will, but the survivors of the first six decided to and did "divide their part among themselves and their brother Samuel and sisters Katherine Berry and Mary Manning." Possibly Robert had decided to engage in mercantile business. In 1704 he shipped a barrel of molasses to "Carboneer in Newfoundland," though this may have been an isolated case.
22. JACOB, b. 1685-6. Feb. 7; d. unm. shortly before 1714. July 29, when administration on his estate was granted to his father. A mariner. Essex Co. Deeds, xxi-138, contains the deposition of David Cox, who, also a mariner, sailed from Boston in August, 1705, with Capt. Benj. Pickman in the Ostrich Eagle Galley to Newfoundland, and from there to Avero in the Kingdom of Portugal, "and there was discharged & that the whole ship's company were discharged at the same time except the boy, and that Jacob Manning, Jr., was one of the ship's company, and for want of a passage home the said Jacob Manning, Jr., did ship himself anew with the said Pickman in October, 1705, for N. E.; to be duly paid; and arrived at Plymouth and was there Imprest about the latter end of January following on board Her Maj<sup>ties</sup> Ship ye August & that said Jacob Manning, Jr., did do his duty as a sailor on board said ship said time. And further sayeth not."
23. ELIZABETH, b. 1689, Aug. 15; d. unm. before 1722.
24. SARAH, b. 1691, Dec. 15; d. unm. 1780, Jan. 15, at Salem.
25. RICHARD, b. 1694, Mch. 1; a mariner; d. unm. a short time before 1725, Sep. 13, when administration on his estate was granted to his brothers Benj. and Samuel.

26. BENJAMIN, b. 1696, May 12.
 27. SAMUEL, b. 1698, June 19.
 28. KATHERINE, b. 1701, Apr. 22; m. 1722, Oct. 26, John Berry, of Salem. She was living in 1773; it is said that she d. 1783. Sep. 4. He d. shortly before 1747. July 16, when administration on his estate was granted to his widow, at which time his residence is given both as Marblehead and Salem. Their children can be named only imperfectly and, here, from the statement of others than the compiler. I. Elizabeth, b. 1723, Aug. 30; m. Benj. Stone. II. Mary: m. 1745, July 4, Samuel Ives. III. Katherine, b. 1730. June 21; m. John Turner, Jr., and (2d) John Felt. IV. John, b. 1734. May 19. V. Oliver, b. 1736, May 17.
 29. MARY, b. 1706. July 6. She m. (published 1730, May 21) Benjamin Silsby, and had ch.: I. Mary, b. 1733, Oct. 25. II. Benjamin, b. 1738, June 26. III. Sarah, b. 1742, June 8. Mr. Silsby soon died, and his widow m. (2d) 1749-50, Feb. 28, John Booth, who was appointed guardian to her son Benjamin in 1753. John and Mary Booth sold, 1757, Jan. 1, her rights in her mother's estate to her sister, Mrs. Berry. Up to this time the Booth home had been in Salem, but in 1764 Mary was residing in Boston, and was again a widow. When and where she died has not been learned, but she was living in 1773, when she was remembered in the will of her brother Samuel.

7. THOMAS<sup>2</sup> MANNING (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1664, Feb. 11, at Dartmouth, Eng. He came to Salem, Mass., in 1679 with his mother and her family, at which time he was 15 years of age. Like his brothers he was a gunsmith by trade. After a few years spent in Salem he removed about fifteen miles further north to Ipswich in the same county (Essex), where the rest of his life was passed, and where his descendants were represented for some 200 years in the male line, and are yet represented in the female lines. He seems to have been less active in public affairs than his brothers, holding office less, but the fact that he was called to private trusts shows the esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens. He appears to have located in Ipswich in 1685, and about the time that he became twenty-one years old, as the following paper shows: "At a meeting of the inhabitants of Ipswich, 10 Feb., 1684-5. Upon the motion of Thomas Manning of Salem, Gunsmith, to the selectmen of this town with respect to his being an inhabitant here amongst us: The Town voted for his encouragement that he have liberty for wood for the management of his trade & firing for his own use so long as he shall follow his trade in this town; and that he may be an inhabitant unless the Selectmen hear that whereby they see good cause to forewarn him out of the town before he hath been an Inhabitant according to law." The last clause constituted a precaution to which all new-comers were made subject, as it was not desired that an objectionable person should acquire a lawful residence; but there was never any reason for objection to Thomas Manning. He remained, a welcome inhabitant. He purchased land of the town, 1694-5, Jan. 23, as the next record shows:

He acquired the use, by a lease for the term of eight years, 1696-7, Jan. 18, of Stephen Cross, of Ipswich, of the latter's homestead, "one dwelling-house, barn, shop or warehouse with about five acres of land" lying south of Mill river and east of Saltonstall's brook. He also made various outright purchases from different persons—one-quarter of an acre for £5 of Stephen Cross, 1696, Apr. 4; eight acres for £6 per acre of Joseph Youngluffe, 1696, Meh. 31 on the south side of Mill river; a share in a six-acre lot for £6.3.4 of Bonus Norton, and another, 1699-1700, Feb. 5; six acres of salt marsh in Chebacco parish for £30 of Robert Kinsman, Jr., 1704, May 30, etc., and he had transactions with the heirs of his wife's father, following Mr. Giddings' death. His most important purchase was of Abraham Tilton, 1706-7, Feb., for £200. This was, described in the deed from the standpoint of the grantor, "all that my massuage, Tenement or ffarme which I bought of John Low . . . on the Southerly Side of Mile Crook river . . . dwellings, dwelling house, outhouses, orchards," etc. This was the farm which, after his decease, passed to his son John, but was not his "homestead" when he died, nor has it been learned which of his purchases was then his homestead. It passed by his will to his son Richard. His land-holdings were extensive, and, as is shown by his will, wherein he was called a "yeoman," he gave attention to farming as well as to his trade. An item in the line of his trade occurs at the time of the witchcraft troubles, as follows: "Thomas Manning Accompe of work down by him for the County of in y<sup>e</sup> yare 1692. to mending & pouting one Rachall's fetters 1 6." Believing that the Thomas of this "account of work done" was the Thomas of this section, it would seem that a worn fetter was taken to him for mending; but this, of course, was strictly in the way of his trade, and nothing has been found to show that he was in any other way connected with the witchcraft outbreak. Mr. Manning was elected surveyor of highways 1696-7, 1707 and 1734, or four years: hayward, 1702; tithingman, 1722, and also held other town offices. In 1704 he was on a committee to sell common lands to enable the town to "meet its engagements," and, 1705, one of a committee to act in regard to a boundary question. In 1692 William Nall, of Lynn, "having sustained damages" at the hands of another man "to y<sup>e</sup> value of five hundred peices of Eight" [Spanish dollars], which money had been "withheld" from Nall, the latter proceeded to "appoint upon good Consideration my Trusty & well beloved friend Thomas Manning Gunsmith of Ipswich my true and Lawfull Attorney for me & in my Name to act in this Case to plead & be impleaded to sue" to recover the same. In 1732 Mr. Manning was appointed by the proper Court one of the two guardians of an aged citizen of Salem whose intellect was impaired. The will of Thomas Manning was in these words:

" In the name of God Amen.

SAMUEL WAITE”

After considering the terms of the above will, and the forethought given to every possible contingency, there can be no doubt that Mr. Manning was, as, in the usual legal form, the document declared, of “perfect mind and memory;” and it was not his fault that the magistrate who put the will on paper misspelled the family name, and was bewilderingly lavish of capital letters in beginning words. It was rare that, as in the case of his brother Jacob, a testamentary estate showed that an inventory was taken; there was none in this instance. This is to be regretted, for it would seem that Thomas Manning was a very prosperous man for that time, and it may well be wished that we had the appraised value of his estate. All of his living children and heirs profited by the division. Mr. Manning m. at a date unknown Mary Giddings,* born, it is said, 1669, Dec., though there is no record. She d. 1738-9, Feb. 24. Thomas Manning d. 1737, May 14, at Ipswich, aged 73. Ch., b. at Ipswich :

30. ANSTICE, b. 1695, Oct.

31. THOMAS; died young, according to several accounts, one of which says "at the age of 17." while another says that "he died when a minor." These reports are from various manuscripts written during the Nineteenth Century. The present writer has not found the name of Thomas among recorded births or baptisms, and is unable to name the authority for including a son of this name in the list. If there was a Thomas, the absence of his name from his father's will may prove that he died young.

32. RICHARD, b. about 1700.

33. MARY, b. about 1702, if her age given at decease is correct; d. at Ipswich, 1732, Oct. 22, aged 30. 12. JOHN<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Nicholas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1668, May 28, at Salem, Mass. Nothing is known of his life as a minor. He may have resided a part of the time at Sheepscot, Me., as suggested in his father's sketch, and have passed through the Indian troubles in that section. Reliable signs of him are first found in Boston, where he settled when a young man, and thereafter resided. He followed the calling so common in his family at that time, that of a gunsmith, but with the passage of time the word was being gradually dropped in common use, and public documents generally termed him "blacksmith." The change was only in the name. At Boston he was elected hogreeve in 1706; had the selectmen view an objectionable lime-kiln in 1709, and was "cautioned" by the selectmen in 1711, probably in regard to some street ordinance. His life was far from being one of quiet and unbroken happiness. He was often in debt, and unable to clear himself therefrom. In consequence of these debts he was several times sued between 1700 and 1723, and at least once imprisoned, the troublesome persons being merchants, a butcher, etc. Time after time he managed to free himself from these debts, and it is noticeable that in none of the bills of complaint was there a suggestion that he was unwilling to work. On the contrary, he impresses the writer as having been an industrious man who was unfortunate financially. He took an active part in the ramifications of his father's Sheepscot claim, and it would not be surprising if that ill-fated affair was a constant expense to him, and the means of keeping his finances depleted. He bought, 1706, Aug. 29, for £120, of John Atkinson, of Newbury, a house and land in Boston, on the east side of "the land called Atkinson's Lane." The lot was 55 feet front, 50 feet rear, and 66 feet north and south. Later, the way was called Long Lane. The site, as streets are now named, is at some point on Federal street, between Milk and High streets. He retained this home through all his financial troubles for seventeen years. He was obliged to mortgage it 1721, Feb. 13. This incumbrance was discharged 1723, Meh. 3, but the reprieve was brief. Execution was taken on the property in the latter year, and he sold it Dec. 12 to George Cradock. The latter was a merchant, and one of his creditors. Other troubles pressed upon him. In the history of Ancient Sheepscot, Maine (now New Castle), is mention of a letter written in 1721 by John Manning to his father, Capt. Nicholas Manning. This letter the historian of that town must have seen, so it was in existence less than a generation ago, but the failure of the present writer to locate the historian's papers prevents the insertion here of what would be a most valuable addition to this sketch, namely, the letter. In the lack thereof, what is said in the history (page 100) will be given here. Referring to the Sheepscot claim the historian states that "the General Court offered to loan 50,000 pounds, but coupled with such terms that he [John] could not comply." The Mr. Tappan who purchased so many of the Sheepscot rights had been to see John. The historian of Sheepscot will now be quoted fully. The part in double quotation marks are John's own words.

"He does seem to me," says Manning, "to be a prity Injenus jentell man and seems to be very rael in the matter. I am apt for to think that if you comply in the case, y<sup>e</sup> rest of y<sup>e</sup> proprietors of Ships-cott will du the same; your advice in y<sup>e</sup>. matter." Manning adds as news that his wife had been sick a 'twelve month' and helpless as an infant, that the small pox was raging in Boston and had carried off a thousand souls. They were very much 'distressed' for help. Nurses' wages had been thirty shillings a week; wood thirty shillings a cord. 'Our straits are great; never the like in Boston.'

When we consider his financial troubles, the long sickness of his wife and her death, which soon followed; the compulsory sale of his home, his own sickness and death before the allotted age of man was reached, we may well consider his life one of severe trial. His father conveyed to him, 1719, Dec. 4, three thousand acres of land "near New Dartmouth" [Sheepscot], Maine. This deed was recorded on pages 69 and 70 of the Book of Eastern Deeds, and, also, on "folio 116" of the Book of Patents and Deeds, in the office of Secretary of the State, at Boston. Prolonged search for these books has failed to locate them, and, despite some contradictory evidence, it is believed by the compiler that both were destroyed in the fire which consumed the Boston Court House (some accounts call the building the Town House) in 1748. Nothing would now be known of this conveyance but for the fact that it is mentioned in York county, Maine, deeds XII-184 and XX-163. By the last two deeds John sold the land, 1500 acres 1721, May 1, to John Oulton and Cornelius Waldo, and a like area 1725, Aug. 24, to Job Lewis. In these deeds John states that he acquired the land from his father, Nicholas Manning. These Sheepscot tracts are referred to more fully in the father's sketch, which see. John m. at Boston, 1695, May 9, Joanna Lash, who d. there 1722, Dec. 4, though the record of her death erroneously calls her "Susanna." Her parentage is unknown. Among the Suffolk county wills is that of William Lash, mariner, who died shortly before 1693, July 22, when he was "late of Boston." The will, drawn 1687, Dec. 26, mentions his wife Joanna. His age and hers have not been learned. If they were young, is it not likely that the Joanna who married John Manning was widow of William Lash? In considering the identity of John's wife it is not forgotten that the History of Ancient Sheepscot claims that there was a John Manning who married a daughter of John Mason (see sketch of Nicholas Manning). Our John may have made such a marriage, in which case his wife was sister to his father's second wife; but, although he was in need of money, it is not found that he sold any land which he inherited from Mr. Mason, for he seems to have sold only what was conveyed to him by his father. This does not disprove the possibility that he married a daughter of Mason, but casts doubt upon the theory. After his wife's death John contemplated marriage with a widow of the name of Ann Mallet, and the intention thereof was "published" 1724, June 25, but was never carried out. Perhaps it was prevented by his sickness, which may have extended through a period of two years. It is certain that she cared for him in his illness, and that he left all his property to her by will. This paper follows :

"In the name of God Amen

"The Sixteenth day of January Anno Domini 1726. I, John Manning, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, Blacksmith, being Sick & Infirm of Body, but of sound mind & memory, & considering my own mortality do make & ordain my last Will & Testament as followeth. first & Principally I recommend my Soul into the hands of Almighty God my Creator trusting in him for the Pardon & remission of all my Sins thro' the merits death & Passion of my Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ, and my Body I Commit to the Earth to be Interred in decent manner at the discretion of my executor hereinafter named, and as touching my temporal Goods & Estate I dispose thereof as followeth. First: I will that all my Just Debts & Funeral Expenses be well & truly paid & Defrayed by my Executor in convenient time after my Decease. Item: After my Just Debts & Funeral Expenses are paid I give and bequeath unto Ann Mallet of Boston aforesaid, Widow, whom I Intended to have made my Wife, and who hath been very kind to & Careful of me in my Sickness for some time past, all my household goods & Personal Estate whatsoever, to recompense her for her extraordinary trouble & charge therein, To Hold the same unto the Said Ann Mallet her Executors & administrators forever, upon Condition that she takes care of me, Looks after & Attends upon me so long as I shall remain sick and unable to help myself. Lastly: I do Constitute and appoint Mr. Cornelius Waldo, of Boston, merchant, Executor of this my will, desiring him to See the Same fully performed, and I do Hereby Revoke all other wills by me made. In Testimony whereof I have thereunto set my Hand & Seal the day & year within written

BENJA ROLFE."

An inventory of his estate was taken 1727, Apr. 10, by John Beard, Bartholomew Seares and Samuel Davis. His blacksmith tools and household goods were appraised at £54.10.6, which sum was increased by cash to £109.2.0. The charges against the estate amounted to £34.0.8, leaving a balance of £75.1.4, which was paid to Ann Mallet. No will of hers is on record. Boston records show the marriage, 1712, Aug. 26, of John Mallet and Ann Mico. This probably identifies the widow Mallet of later date. John Manning d. 1726-7, Feb. 3, and was buried in the Granary burying-ground in Boston. His gravestone is still there, or was there recently. On his death the bell of the "New South Meeting House" was tolled. The date of his death is here given as 1726-7, although certain records, and, if the writer remembers correctly, his gravestone, give the year as 1726. Elsewhere in this volume will be found an explanation of the custom of double-dating (like 1726-7), and the confusion which arises from dropping one of the last figures. All records to the contrary notwithstanding, and despite the fact that the Probate letters of administration were dated 1726, Feb. 13, it seems certain that the correct date should be 1726-7, or, according to modern methods, 1727. All the Probate records were entered in a volume as they came to hand. Those for the final months of the year preceding John's death are all dated 1726, while those for the April after his decease are dated 1727. If this is not conclusive, the inventory of his own estate bears date of 1727, Apr. 10. This proves that he died Feb. 3, 1726-7; otherwise, 1727. Did he leave children? Despite many years of investigation the question cannot be answered now. None are entered on the Boston records; this is not strange, since they were so imperfectly kept at that period. None appear in the various church records as having been baptized in infancy; this is not strange, if he was not a church member, and there is nothing to show that he was. The gratitude which led him to leave his property to Ann Mallet prevents the securing of information from the settlement of his estate. Some of the later Mannings of Boston, of due date, mentioned in the Miscellaneous Families of this volume, may have been his children, but this is open to doubt. Childless couples were, however, almost unknown at that day. Without an item of actual evidence to support the theory, the impression is strong with the compiler that John Manning did have children, and that, in all probability, they survived. Did they remove to New York to join their grandfather, Nicholas Manning? Was the line continued in the State of New York, or in Pennsylvania? This point is considered as fully as existing evidence permits in the sketch of Nicholas Manning, to which attention is invited.

26. BENJAMIN<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1696, May 12, at Salem, Mass. He always made his home in his native town, but not all his time was passed there, and his life was the reverse of monotonous. He was a cordwainer by trade in 1722, but, as early as 1724, he adopted the calling of a mariner and followed the sea with such fidelity and skill that he became a captain in that service as early as 1740, at which time he was captain of the schooner America, plying between Salem and Barbadoes. It is probable that he engaged in maritime occupation during his entire active life thereafter. In 1748 he was a complainant against John Crowinshield, who had furnished Capt. Manning's ship with beef for a voyage to Jamaica, and who, according to the complaint, "had kept out all the 'brisket pieces.'" His voyages, as far as notice of them has been found, did not take him away from home for any great intervals of time, and he was occasionally elected to town office at Salem. He was constable in 1736; tithingman, 1738; and juryman, 1744. He left a will, drawn two months before his death, in which he remembered all his surviving children. Of these only one ever married, and the remaining five, Elizabeth, Richard, Margaret, Jacob and Hannah, jointly occupied the house which had been their father's (now 95 Essex street). Richard was a sea captain, his vessels at one time making voyages to China, but after accumulating considerable property, he became a justice of the peace, money-lender, etc., in Salem, where he was generally known as "'Squire" Manning. Jacob, an infirm man, made shoes, and the sisters kept a shop in one part of the house for the sale of India silks and other "ventures" brought home in their brother's ships. Their united business tact, industry and economical habits led to the accumulation of great wealth, which finally passed to the family of their only married sister, Mrs. Hodges, by the will of the last survivor, Hannah. A special bequest of plate and furniture was made to her grand-nephew, Richard Manning Hodges. After Hannah's death the family home was occupied by Gamaliel Hodges, and on his death by his son Joseph. When the latter's widow died, in 1883, the house was sold at auction, together with much valuable antique furniture. Capt. 27. SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1698, June 19, at Salem, Mass. He resided in his native place until about 1748, when he removed to Oxford, Worcester Co., where the rest of his life was passed. At Salem he was a gunsmith; at Oxford he was a farmer, though he may have continued his trade there, as he was called a "gunsmith" as late as 1756. He bought of William Tosier, in 1728, "a certain house Lott Scituate in Salem afores<sup>d</sup> Containing Nineteen poles & an half," and also purchased other real estate. In 1735 he became one of five partners in a company formed to "manufacture" bread and biscuit with which to fit out vessels going to sea, but sold his interest 1740, Sep. 9. At Salem he was elected one of the stewards for the town pasture, 1729; constable, 1732, and tithingman, 1729 and 1735. At Oxford he was selectman, 1756, and moderator of town meeting 1759, '61-2, or three years. His uncle, Capt. Nicholas Manning, had, with other soldiers of King Philip's war, received a grant of land at "Souhegan West," now Amherst, N. H., and this right Samuel acquired and, in the drawing of lots, in 1735, drew Lot 53, but never occupied it. In 1742 his name appears on a petition with those of Thomas Proctor, Jr., Samuel King, Ebenezer King, etc., concerning certain land granted to them previously in New Salem, Mass. This, they alleged, had proved nearly worthless, and they asked the General Court for an equivalent in good land (Mass. Archives, 114-697). This was before the incorporation of New Salem, though it was commonly called a "township." In 1743 he sold a lot of land in the last-named place [Hampden Co. Deeds], of which mention will be made later; but this did not, perhaps, close out his land-holdings there. If not an original grantee of New Salem he had soon purchased one or more rights, but the deed, if any there was, was recorded only on the proprietors' records of that place and forever lost in the fire of 1855. At Oxford he purchased, 1748. May 31, of Jonathan Pratt, Jr., 46 acres of land "on the great plain," bounded in part "on the burying-place," and a small lot in 1765 of Edward Raymond. With the exception of a sale of one-quarter of an acre in 1772 he held this land when he died, and it was sold in 1776, Feb. 23, for £200, to Silvanus Town, by Samuel's grandsons, Samuel and Robert. According to the history of Oxford this homestead was owned in 1882 by Frederick G. Hyde. Samuel Manning's will was as follows :

"In the Name of God, Amen. The Twenty third Day of December Anno Domini 1773, in the fourteenth year of his Majesty's Regn I Samuel Manning of Oxford in the County of Worcester Gentleman Being Very Weak in Body, but of perfect mind & memory, Thanks be given Unto God. Therefore calling Unto Mind the Mortality of my Body, and Knowing that it is appointed for all Men Once to Die, do Make & Ordain this my Last Will & Testament. That is to Say, Principally & First of all, I Give & Recommend My Soul into the Hands of God that Gave it, & for my Body I Recommend it to the Earth, to be buried in a Christian like & decent Manner at the discretion of My Executors, and at their Own Cost, Hoping at the General Resurrection I shall Receive the Same again by the Mighty Power of God, & as Touching Such Worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to Bless Me in this Life, I Give devise & dispose of the Same in the following Manner and Form.

"Imprimis. I Give & Bequeath to My Three Sisters, Katherine, Sarah & Mary Three pounds L. m which is twenty shillings to Each of them.

Samuel Manning m. at a date not learned Margaret — . Prolonged and wide search has been made to learn her maiden name, but without success. In 1743 Samuel and Margaret sold land in New Salem which had been an original grant to Thomas (?) Lufkin, but how their ownership came about is unknown. Mr. Bodge's "Soldiers of King Philip's War" shows that one Timothy Lufkin was a soldier of said war; that his son Thomas was a claimant for his services and one of the grantees of Amherst, N. H., and that his right there was "drawn by Samuel Manning." There is a very remote possibility that Margaret was a daughter and heiress of Thomas Lufkin, but the land transactions noted may be accounted for with equal probability on the theory that the Mannings had purchased the rights from Lufkin. Margaret was living in 1748, and probably in 1755, when Samuel's wife is mentioned, but not by name. Mr. Manning d. 1774, Sep. 19, at Oxford. It is an impossibility to give a complete list of his children. Their birth was not recorded, nor has their baptism been found, and, except for his two sons, no sign is found in Salem of any one who may, theoretically, have been a child of his. Perhaps he had several who, like many of his brothers and sisters, died young. Whether any of the unconnected persons in Boston, of the proper period [see appendix], were of his family cannot be told; it is doubtful if they were. The same want of knowledge rests upon many of his grandchildren. Ch. :

32. RICHARD<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1700, at Ipswich, Mass. He always resided in his native town and was by trade a gunsmith. He was also a large landholder and doubtless engaged as a farmer. He was a captain of militia, and, 1757, August, in the old French war, went at the head of his company to the relief of Fort William Henry, following the general alarm of that time. The Colonial rolls call his company a "troop of horse," and it was a part of Col. Daniel Appleton's regiment. Capt. Manning's company is credited with marching from Ipswich Aug. 17, and to Fort Mifflin, from which it would seem that they went to Quebec, perhaps receiving more favorable news from the front. Whether this was his only service does not appear; no more has been found on roll now available. He was a prominent citizen. By his will he gave, first, to his wife Sarah the south-west end of his dwelling-house and improvement of adjoining land, the privilege of the barn, a cow, etc., for life; secondly, to his wife and his daughter Anstice, his riding chaise; thirdly, to his grandchildren, the children of his daughter Mary Barker, deceased, £2,000, to be divided equally; and, fourthly, the residue of his estate as follows: To his daughter Anstice Chipman and her heirs, one-third; to his daughter Martha Tarleton and her heirs, one-third, and the remaining third to his grandsons Jonathan and Thomas Morong, in equal parts, they being children of his daughter Priscilla Heath. The will was drawn

1774, Mch. 30, and the appointed executors were his brother Dr. Joseph Manning and the said daughter Anstice Chipman. Capt. Manning m. 34. JOHN<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1703, Mch. 16, at Ipswich, Mass. He resided in his native town, occupying and cultivating the farm he had received by will from his father. This farm was described, when his father purchased it in 1707, as "lying on the southerly side of Mile Crook river," and consisted of "arable pasturing meadow and wood land," which was then bought together with the "dwellings, dwelling house, outhouses, ffences, orchards, Trees, woods, herbage, Springs, water Courses ways Rights, benefitts, profitts, Commodities, Conveniences, accommodations, privileges and appurtenances;” a deed which certainly covered all included. Details as to his life are lacking. At his decease he left the following will :

“ In the Name of God Amen. I John Manning of Ipswich in the County of Essex & Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, yeoman, being at this Time, thro’ the Goodness of God, of sound Mind & Memory, Do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament; and first I resign my Soul to God who gave it, & my Body to the Earth to be buried in decent Christian Burial at the Discretion of my Executors hereafter named, in hopes of a glorious Resurrection to Life eternal, thro’ the Merits of my Lord & Saviour Jesus Christ; and as to my worldly Estate, I dispose of it in the following Manner, viz.—

“ Impris, I will that all my just Debts & funeral Charges be paid as soon as conveniently may be after my Decease, & I do hereby authorize & empower my Executors to sell so much of my real Estate as shall be sufficient to discharge the same.—

“ Item I give to my beloved Wife Ruth Manning, all my personal Estate, and also the Improvement of my Dwelling House & half an acre of Land adjoining thereto during her natural Life.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Mary Howard & her Heirs five Shillings besides what I have already given her.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Elizabeth Day & her Heirs five Shillings besides what I have already given her.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Anna Dodge & her Heirs forty Shillings besides what I have already given her.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Rebecca Huse & her Heirs six pounds besides what I have already given her.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Ruth Manning and to her Heirs thirty four Pounds Lawful money.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Jane Perkins and her Heirs Eight Pounds besides what I have already given her.—

“ Item I give to my Daughter Sarah Lakeman & to her Heirs Eight Pounds besides what I have already given her, & further I do hereby will & order that the several Legacies afore-mentioned to my Daughters be paid in three years after my Decease by my three Sons John, Thomas & Richard in the following Proportion, viz. one half Part thereof by my son John, one Quarter Part thereof by my son Thomas, & the remaining Quarter Part thereof by my Son Richard.—

“ Item all the Remainder of my Estate of what Name, Nature or kind soever, I give and bequeath to my three sons, John, Thomas & Richard; in the following Manner, viz. one half Part thereof to my Son John Manning and to his Heirs & assigns forever, one Quarter Part thereof to my son Thomas Manning and his Heirs & assigns forever; & the remaining Quarter Part thereof to my son Richard Manning & to his Heirs & assigns forever.

“Lastly I do hereby constitute & appoint my two Sons John Manning & Thomas Manning joint Executors of this my last Will & Testament & do hereby ratify and confirm this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. In Testimony whereof I do hereunto set my Hand & Seal this Eighteenth Day of July Anno Domini one thousand and seven hundred & seventy five Annoque Regni Regis Georgii tertii & Decimo Quinto—

mark

signed, sealed & declared by the said John Manning as his last Will & Testament in the Presence of us

SAMUEL POTTER
JOSEPH MANNING
JACOB MANNING”

In the papers in the Probate Office which accompany the above will it is said that, in his final years, John Manning was afflicted with a nervous ailment, and this it doubtless was which led to his making his “mark,” instead of signing in full. An inventory of the estate was taken by Benjamin Fellows, Benjamin Brown and Daniel Rogers, and is as follows :

John Manning, Jr., presented this inventory in Court, 1776, June 4, and made affidavit to its correctness. John Manning, the father, was three times married. He m. (1st) 1728, July 2, Jane Bradstreet, bap. 1707-8, Feb. 15, and d. 1732, July 13. Her ancestry was Moses<sup>3</sup> and Hannah (Pickard); Capt. Moses<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Harris), and Humphrey<sup>1</sup> Bradstreet, an early settler at Ipswich, Mass., and who came in 1634 from Ipswich, Eng. John Manning m. (2d) 1733-4, Feb. 20, Elizabeth Wallis, who d. 1738, Dec. 21. Samuel and Anna (Porter) Wallis had a daughter Elizabeth b. 1706, Aug. 18, at Ipswich; possibly the same, although one account says Elizabeth, wife of John, died aged 33, which would place her birth in 1705. John Manning m. (3d) 1739, June 14, Ruth Potter,* b. 1709, Aug. 4, and d. 1791, July 13. John Manning's death was not recorded, but he died in 1775, between July 18, the date of his will, and Sep. 18, when it was presented in Court and duly "proved." All his children were born at Ipswich.

35. JOSEPH<sup>3</sup> MANNING (Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1703, Mch. 16, at Ipswich, Mass. He graduated at Harvard College in 1725; the first of his name to enter that institution of learning, and, settling in his native town, was for more than 50 years a physician. As such he was eminent, and long and favorably known. Younger men, preparing for the medical profession, studied under his instruction. It is fortunate that the inventory of his estate, taken after his decease, names in detail sundry books which constituted his medical library, and it is safe to believe that, for that period, it was a very extensive equipment, comprising, as it did, twenty different works which were mentioned specifically, and of which eight were of two volumes each. The list is valuable, too, in that it shows what authors were then of good standing. Some other items of the inventory are in the line of his profession, and carry us directly to the typical old-time doctor's office — the eleven pill pots; the iron mortar, the bell metal mortar and the lignum vite mortar, each with its appropriate pestle; the gallipot; the three-gallon glass bottle, the five-quart and 30 smaller bottles, and the eleven bottles of "white flint with flint 'stopples.'" His library was not confined to what has been indicated above, for he had "120 bound books on Different subjects" and "a large number of pamphletes," the nature of which cannot be known. A doctor of that day was a man second in importance only to the local minister, and one much respected, looked up to and consulted.

His education was far superior to that of his neighbors, and he was credited with profound wisdom. He was the learned associate of the minister, and often called upon in public and private business affairs. Such was the typical doctor, and we may be sure that Dr. Manning filled a like position in his own community. Furthermore, the testimony of those who knew him personally has been handed down through the generations, and is to the effect that "he was above the average, both in bodily and mental endowments; a skillful and trusted physician, and withal a very good man. He had a spice of roguish slyness, and was not averse to exciting, sometimes, the puzzled amazement of his less acute and more credulous neighbors. An example may be given. Dr. Manning owned the lot which is nearly opposite to the present town house, and put up the square edifice still standing there. To make a substantial wall upon the river side he needed large stones. In the river-bed, a mile or two down, there were boulders in abundance. Selecting at low tide one of these, he would put a chain about it and so mark its position as to be able to find it with no other light but the stars and moon. At night, the ebbing tide would find the wily doctor with his boat anchored over the rock, which would soon after be grappled to the little skiff. Then as the sea wave came, the lifting and wafting force of the water was all that was needed to place the boulder in the very spot where he wished to have it. Small wonder that passers by on the following morning, seeing a large stone lying where no stone had been the night before, and looking like a vast meteorite which had fallen from the sky, should turn their eyes askance as the young doctor passed, and almost fancy they detected a whiff of brimstone in the air." His attention was not all given to medicine; he owned 75 or more acres of land, and must have engaged, though perhaps indirectly, at farming. Another industry is suggested by an entry in the Ipswich town book for the year 1732, as follows: "Joseph Manning is allowed to erect a wharf. The town agree to have one at their expense, as a landing place, at 6d. a load." Administration on Dr. Manning's estate, he having left no will, was granted by the Court, 1784, June 7, to his son Dr. John Manning, who gave bond for the faithful discharge of his duties, with Francis Cogswell and Jacob Manning as sureties. The inventory was taken July 30, by William Story, Jr., Samuel Adams and Nathaniel Fitz, and was as follows:

The total of the real and personal estate was £796.11.3 (also given as "3185 2/3 dollars of old money"). The outstanding debts against the estate, at the time of the first accounting, amounted to £77.11.6. The land was divided into six parts, of which John Manning, as the older son, received two parts, and Jacob Manning, Anstice Cogswell, Priscilla Abbot and the heirs of Sarah McKean, deceased, one part each. Dr. Manning m. (1st) 1726-7, published Jan. 22, Priscilla Boardman,* bap. 1707, July 25, and d. 1730-1, Jan. 11; and (2d) 1732, Nov. 14, her cousin, Elizabeth Boardman,* who d. 1779, Jan. 30, in her 71st year. Dr.

Near these graves are those of their two daughters, Mrs. McKean and Mrs. Lord, and except for those here enumerated there is a dearth of early gravestones to Mannings in the town of Ipswich.

It is not known that he ever married, but it may be worth while to read No. 106 of the Miscellaneous Families, on a later page. There is no reason to believe that the Thomas of this section was the same as the above-mentioned No. 106, except the fact that 106 was from Ipswich. Otherwise, the possibility is improbable.

FOURTH GENERATION.

93. HANNAH, date of birth unknown; intention of marriage at Salem, 1764, Oct. 20, with George Oliver, "late of Madeira, now of Salem." No children have been found on record, nor is more known of Hannah. Samuel Manning, her grandfather, in his will, mentions his granddaughter "the widow Hannah Weld, of Salem." Possibly she was this Hannah, twice widowed in 1773, but Mrs. Weld is, perhaps, more likely to have been the child of a daughter of Samuel of whom we know nothing. A certain Edward Weld and wife Hannah were of Marblehead in 1766. No known connection exists between them and the widow Hannah Weld of the year 1773, yet there may have been one.

94. ROBERT, b. about 1746, at Salem.

95. ? SARAH. Perhaps no such child. In his will the above Samuel Manning mentions his great grandchildren, Samuel, Matthew and Robert Martin. Whether they were grandchildren of one of his sons or of a daughter, does not appear. There was a Samuel Martin, of Marblehead, who d. 1789, Dec. 28, aged 38, hence, born 1751; and Sarah, his wife, d. 1779, Dec. 23, aged 31, hence, born 1748. These are the only persons yet found who could have been parents of the three brothers named above, but it is considered very unlikely that they were the parents. After Samuel Manning, the younger [92], removed to New Salem, Mass., he sold 46 acres of land there, 1789, Aug. 3, to Matthew Martin, of that town, probably the same man mentioned in the will of Samuel Manning, the elder [27].

96. ?BETTY. Perhaps no such child. One Betty Manning and Philip Gilbert, 4th, were m. 1770, Jan. 11, at Brookfield. The fact that the latter town lies very near Oxford, to which place Samuel Manning [27] and several of his grandchildren had removed, and that the name of Gilbert soon reappeared in this branch of the family, leads to the belief that this marriage has been correctly placed, but this cannot be asserted.

55. JACOB<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>). Neither the date of his birth nor that of his death is known, as they are not on record. He resided at Salem and m. there 1745, July 2, Mary, dau. of Joshua and Margaret (Lambert) Tyler, bap. 1727-8, Jan. 21, at Salem. Mary was a niece of the Hannah Lambert who married Jacob's uncle, Benjamin Manning. Mary m. (2d) 1750, June 7, Stephen Webb, which shows that Jacob Manning had died before that date. It is not known that he left children, as far as actual records show, for no birth is recorded; but the will of his father mentions grandchildren who, it would seem, must have been daughters of Jacob, since we are not prepared to allot them to his brother Robert. On this evidence they are included here.

97. ?ELIZABETH; mentioned in the above will; probably a daughter of Jacob. Single in 1773, and living in Salem; possibly the same whose marriage intention with John Flein [Flynn?] was "published" at Salem, 1774, Oct. 8.

98. ?SARAH; mentioned in the will; probably daughter of Jacob. Single in 1773, and residing in Salem. Was she the same whose marriage intention with John Curtis was published at Salem, 1780, Jan. 15?

64. ANSTICE<sup>4</sup> MANNING (Richard,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1725, Oct. 23, at Ipswich, Mass.; m. 1744, published June 30, Capt. Samuel, son of Rev. John and Rebecca (Hale) Chipman, b. 1726, Dec. 11, at Beverly; a shipmaster. He d. 1761, Sep. 19, at St. Martins, West Indies; Anstice d. 1789, Apr. 25. Ch.:

76. JOHN<sup>4</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1741, June 14, at Ipswich, Mass. He was a farmer in his native place. As a soldier he served in two wars. In the French-and-Indian war he served 39 weeks and 5 days, in 1760, in Capt. Israel Herrick's company. In the Revolution his name appears three times on the Rolls. He marched on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, under Capt. Thomas Burnham; served in 1777 from Sep. 30 to Nov. 7 under Capt. David Low and Col. Charles Smith, and in 1781 from July 13 to Dec. 1 under Capt. John Robinson and Col. William Turner. In both of the latter terms he held the office of sergeant. By his will, drawn 1811, Jan. 22, he gave to his wife (not mentioned by name); to his daughters Mary and Sarah a room in his house, and to each $80 to be paid them by his son William when the latter became 21 years of age; to his said son William his "horse and shay," and a wood-lot lying in Chebacco woods "over the ponds;" to his sons John and Joseph $100 each, to be paid them by his son Richard, who was made executor of the will, and the residue of the estate to his sons Richard and William. He m. 1764, Feb. 16, Mary, dau. of Joseph Proctor, bap. 1747, May 17, at Ipswich. She d. 1827, May 28; Sergeant John Manning d. 1814, Feb. 5, both at Ipswich. Ch. :

- 128. JOHN, b. 1765, Feb. 15.
- 129. JOSEPH, bap. 1767, May 31.
- 130. MARY, bap. 1769, Sep. 17; "lived unmarried in Ipswich," says the family report.
- 131. THOMAS, bap. 1775, May 7. Not mentioned in his father's will, and not remembered by collateral descendants. It seems safe to believe that he was the subject of the following entry in the Ipswich records: 1797, Nov. 14, "Thomas Manning died with Capt. Hammon." Probably a sailor and died at sea.
- 132. RICHARD, bap. 1777, May 4.
- 133. SARAH, bap. 1787, July 15.
- 134. WILLIAM, b. 1793, May 20.

78. JANE<sup>4</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) bap 1745, Dec. 15, at Ipswich, Mass.; m. 1769, June 1, Elisha Perkins, of Topsfield, b. 1745, Apr. 7, son of Jacob and Hannah (Boardman) Perkins. They removed to Rindge, N. H. He was a Revolutionary soldier, and died in consequence of heat and excessive fatigue experienced on the day of the battle of Bennington, 1777, Aug. 31. Jane d. 1822, May 27. Ch.:

135. ELISHA (Perkins) b. 1770, July 18, at Topsfield; d. 1777.

138. ELISHA (Perkins) b. 1777, Oct. 5; a farmer; d. unm. at Rindge, 1851, Aug. 4.

80. THOMAS<sup>4</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1750, Jan. 23, at Ipswich, Mass. He went to Charlestown when a young man, and resided there and in Medford for a few years, but removed to Salem as early as 1780, and there passed the rest of his life. He may have been a Revolutionary soldier. There is service on record in that war which cannot be allotted positively, but which, theoretically, seems to apply to him. He m. 1774, Apr. 13, Rebecca, dau. of William and Rebecca Tufts, b. 1754, July 1, at Medford; d. 1813, Oct. 19, at Salem. Mr. Manning d. at the same place 1808, July 28; instantly killed by a fall from a building. Ch.:

139. THOMAS, b. 1776, Oct., probably at Medford; d. there 1778, July 2, and is buried there.

140. REBECCA, b. 1778, Sep. 28, probably at Medford; m. at Salem, 1802, Dec. 5, Capt. Joseph Cook, a mariner. She d. 1851, Apr. 25. Efforts to locate descendants have failed to produce results. An old MS. record names these children: I. Joseph. II. Lydia. III. George. IV. Lucy. V. Edward. Another old MS. names: I. Rebecca Manning, bap. 1805, July 21. II. Joseph, bap. 1806, Aug. 3. III. George Washington, bap. 1809, July 30. This second MS. says there were one son and two daughters more.

141. LUCY, b. 1780, Aug. 21, at Salem; d. 1813, Oct. 25; m. 1804, Oct. 22, Jacob Peabody, b. 1778, May 14, at Boxford, and d. 1856, Nov. 12. Ch.: I. 142. ABIGAIL, b. 1782, Oct. 4, at Salem; d. 1865, Mch. 14; m. Theodore Morgan, b. 1778, Nov. 19, at West Springfield, and d. 1845,

- Dec. 10. Efforts to obtain full birth-dates have failed. Ch.: I. Theodore Sedgwick, b. 1807, Apr. 2. II. Abigail Manning. III. Rebecca Tufts. IV. Luther S. V. Roswell Smith. VI. Lucy Peabody.
143. THOMAS, b. 1784, Nov. 2, at Salem; d. nnn., 1813, May 22, at Charlestown, in the U. S. Marine Hospital, from which it would seem he was engaged in the war of 1812.
144. LYDIA, b. 1786, Sep. 15, at Salem; d. 1845, Jan. 12; m. 1814, Oct. 26, Jacob Peabody, who had previously married her sister Lucy. One child: William Augustus, b. 1816. Dec. 6; a clergyman; d. 1850, Feb. 27; m. Margaret Russell Codman.
145. ELIZABETH, b. 1788, Nov. 25, at Salem; d. 1846, Dec. 1; m. 1807, Jan. 25, Capt. John Peabody, b. 1781, Jan. 16, who d. 1821 at Batavia, E. I. Ch.: I. Elizabeth. II. Mary. III. Ann. Another account names but two children, and calls them Elizabeth and Mary Ann. The former account seems the more reliable.
146. HARRIET, b. 1790, Nov. 23, at Salem; d. 1835, Feb. 2; m. 1813, Dec. 14, John Brooks, b. 1789, May 22, and d. 1836, Sep. 22. Ch.: I. Harriet, b. 1816, Nov. 1. II. John, b. 1820, Aug. 1. III. 147. WILLIAM TUFTS, b. 1793, Nov. 8, at Salem; d. 1813, June 11.
148. JACOB, b. 1795, Oct. 6, at Salem. Before 1818 he went to Boston and began as a dry-goods merchant at No. 47 Cornhill, but seems to have continued there only a year or two. He probably left Boston in 1820. He then went to New York City, where he d. 1827, July 25. He m. in Boston, 1819, Aug. 30, Sophia, dan. of Jacob and Lucy (Brooks) Potter, b. 1791(?), Jan. 15. "No children survived." She m. (2d) 1840, June 2, William Lambert Cogswell, b. 1803, Aug. 17, at Brunswick, Me., and she d. 1877, Jan. 30 (another account says 1879).
149. JOHN, b. 1798, June 4, at Salem; resided at Waite, Me., where he d. 1880, Oct. 23. He m. Anna Yeaton. One child, Rebecca M., who d. 1882, June 30. She was married and had one son.

81. RICHARD<sup>4</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1755, May 29, at Ipswich, Mass. He was, it is believed, the Revolutionary soldier of his name under Capt. Jedediah Goodwin and Col. Joseph Prime, having enlisted 1780, May 17, for eight months. Perhaps he served further. He early settled in Salem and engaged as a blacksmith, but business enterprise led to an extension of his undertakings. He established the Salem and Boston stage company, a feature of life in the town at that time which finds frequent mention in local publications relating to the Salem of that day, and an enterprise in which some of his children shared. He purchased, 1795, Sep. 23, for $300, land in Raymond, Cumberland Co., Me., of Samuel Symonds, of Danvers, and, the next month, made two additional purchases at a total cost of $906 in the same town. Other like acquisitions followed until he became the owner of a very large tract. His and his children's transactions there fill several pages in the index-volume of the Cumberland county Registry of Deeds, and, in later years, their operations became so extensive that his son Richard removed to Raymond and became manager of the business. The land lay near Sebago Lake. The subject of this sketch was probably the Richard Manning, Jr., who was one of the subscribers to build the ship Essex about 1800, as he used his name as here given. He was in the midst of his active life when, in 1813, he started for Raymond and lodged for the night at a house on an island in the Merrimack, where the chain bridge crosses, and was found dead in his bed in the morning. This island is now the property of Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford, and is the site of her residence. The Salem Gazette for Apr. 20 contained the following obituary notice: "In Newbury, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Richard Manning, aged 59, a very respectable citizen of this town. He left his family in perfect health on Saturday, on a journey to the eastward, and proceeded as far as Newbury, and on the following morning was arrested by the hand of death, being found in his bed in a fit of apoplexy. His funeral will be this day at 5 o'clock from his late dwelling in Herbert street, which his relations and friends are desired to attend." Mr. Manning m. at Ipswich, 1776, intention May 4, Miriam, dau. of Thomas and Elizabeth (Clarke) Lord, bap. 1748, Dec. 4; d. 1831, Oct. A manuscript which seems to be reliable gives her further ancestry as John<sup>3</sup> and Elizabeth (Clark), her grandparents; Robert<sup>2</sup> and Hannah (Day) and Robert<sup>1</sup> and Mary (Waite) Lord, all of Ipswich. Mr. Manning d. 1813, Apr. 19, at Newbury. Ch., b. at Salem:

150. MARY, b. 1777, June 1; d. unm., 1841, Oct. 25.

151. WILLIAM, b. 1778, Nov. 27; a merchant in Salem; d. unm., 1864, Sep. 5.

152. ELIZABETH CLARKE, b. 1780, Sep. 6.

153. RICHARD, b. 1782, July 31. He resided in New Hampshire a number of years on account of ill health, and then removed to Raymond, Me., and became manager of the family estate near Sebago Lake. There he was a justice of the peace. His health continued poor, and he was never again able to visit Salem. In the latter part of his life he could go about only in a wheel-chair. He d. at Raymond in 1830; an old almanac contains notes on the weather in his writing up to July 31. He m. in 1816, Susan Dingley, of Raymond. No ch. She m. (2d) Francis Radoux.

155. MARIA, b. 1786, June 18; d. unm., 1814, May 20.

156. JOHN, b. 1788, Feb. 10. He had a passion for the sea and early became a sailor. Where he sailed is not now known. When on one of these voyages he probably lost his life, for he was seen no more and never heard from afterwards. The faces of sailors temporarily in Salem were long scanned, but without results. While some reports say he was "lost at sea" the belief of survivors of his family is that he was lost on some lake, and there was, at one time, a report that a vessel had gone down "on the lake" with a man of the name of Manning at the helm, but the report could not be verified. A letter written 1814, Feb. 25, from New York, by one Joseph Lakeman to Nathaniel Wells contained this passage: "I have the pleasure to inform you that I saw John Manning about six months ago in the city of New York. He informed me that he was going to the lakes to work at his trade." The term "the Lakes," in this letter, would seem to mean the Great Lakes, and may determine approximately the time and the place where John was lost. A manuscript written before 1850 has the following words after John's name: "L<sup>t</sup> N. of Peru." The only interpretation yet put upon this puzzling abbreviation is "Lieutenant, Navy of Peru." Nothing is known of this by surviving relatives.

May 8, after a course of six months training in the hospitals and lecture rooms of London, his practice soon became extensive. On the 19th of April, 1775, the day of the battle of Lexington, he drove to Boston to bring his sister, Mrs. McKean, to Ipswich. When near Boston he overtook a British officer, severely wounded, to whom he freely gave the medical attention which he greatly needed. For this humane act the officer gave Dr. Manning a pass which enabled him to enter Boston and depart with his sister. He arrived at Ipswich at night, aroused his family, and, when he had collected such articles as he knew would be needed, hastened to the relief of those wounded in the battle, giving to his suffering countrymen such aid as his skill and medicine could accomplish. His grandson, Joseph Bolles Manning, Esq., is authority for the further statement that, when this was done, he assisted the British surgeons in caring for their wounded, "and by his direction both parties [of wounded] were removed to Cambridge, where he attended six weeks until they were discharged." This was, on his part, an early application of the doctrine, since common to all civilized nations, that in the presence of those suffering after battle, all partisan feeling should be forgotten. Later in the war he served as surgeon at Newport, R. I. In 1777 he strongly advocated inoculation for the prevention of small pox, which caused so much opposition and hostility that, for a time, it is said, his life seemed in danger. He was active in business enterprises. He bought and sold real estate outside of his own county, having transactions of this kind in Worcester Co., Mass., Hillsborough Co., N. H., and Cumberland Co., Me. In 1788 he, with others, made proposals to the Legislature for taking the poor of the Commonwealth which were in the almshouse at Boston, and removing them to Ipswich, where, with the selectman of that town to act as overseers, the projectors of the plan would supply them with lodging, good, wholesome food, medical attendance, etc., for three-fourths of the then present expense. A paper was drawn up by the House to accept the proposal, but shows no sign of having been acted upon [House Document, 2640]. Ten years later, however, the doctor petitioned for the payment of expenses which he had incurred because, by direction of the selectmen of Ipswich, he had during the past year "supported several of the poor of the Commonwealth," proving that his plan had in some degree been carried into effect. The Acts and Resolves of Massachusetts for 1790-1 show that he petitioned for payment of certain dues from the Commonwealth to enable and encourage him to carry on a woolen manufactory at Ipswich. The State agreed to pay from its treasury the interest due him on the State notes he held in his own name, and so much of the principal as should amount, with the interest, to £1,000, he first giving bond that the £1,000 should be within one year employed in a woolen manufactory in Ipswich. Whether this official action was satisfactory, and was accepted, has not been learned, but the enterprise was consummated. In 1792 the town of Ipswich granted Dr. Manning land for the erection of the factory. This was, perhaps, the first woolen mill in the country. It stood upon the bank of the river, and was run by a windmill. It was a two-storied building, about 60 x 30 feet, and was at the foot of the hill, at the northwest corner of Choate Bridge. The structure now on the site is called Caldwell's Block. On the end of the building, away from the bridge, was a sign-board, about 5 x 2½ feet, with "Massachusetts Woolen Manufactory" painted upon it, this being the name by which it was known. Blankets and flannels were made at the factory, which went into operation in 1794, but the enterprise was not a success, and it was closed in 1800. The doctor's son, Capt. Richard Manning, was superintendent of the mill, and his pattern-book is now in the possession of Mr. Francis H. Manning [348]. Dr. Manning's hospitality was widely known. The house he built on High street, Ipswich, still standing, was constructed with a view to indulging this characteristic. The partitions of the lower story were hung upon hinges at the ceiling, so that they could be raised, thus making one room of the hall and the rooms on each side. As an illustration of this hospitable proclivity his grandson, Richard H. Manning, related this incident: "Dr. Manning was riding one summer afternoon, about 1818, toward Hamilton, when he met a Company of Horse, known as the Salem Troop. Drawing up before the captain, whom he saluted as only he could do it, for he was an exceedingly courteous gentleman, stately, and venerable withal, he invited the Company to ride on to his house in Ipswich and take supper with him. The invitation being accepted, the doctor turned his horse and rode back to Ipswich at the head of the Troop, which soon drew up in front of the mansion on 'Pudding street,' now High street. This was the first intimation the family had of the intended feast, and I, a slaver of eight or nine years, was dispatched to all the neighbors for spoons and cooked food to eke out the entertainment." Dr. Manning was elected representative from Ipswich 1781-2, '84, '87, '89-92 and '94, or a total of nine years. His skill and experience rendered him for a long time eminent in the medical profession; all publications dealing with his county mention this fact. He had his own opinions upon politics and religion, and was fond of power and resolute in carrying out his purposes. His character was marked by unvarying courtesy, a broad charity and great kindness of heart. In person he was tall and slender. His dress-sword descended through the family of his eldest son, and was presented about 1890 by his grandson, James Manning [239] to the latter's nephew, Dr. Joseph Manning [333], and was by Dr. Joseph given to his own grandson, John Manning [578]. 92. SAMUEL<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Robert,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. about 1739, at Salem, Mass. At an early age he went to Oxford, Worcester Co., and in the French-and-Indian war began, to the credit of that town, what was to be a long military career. In 1756 he was under Capt. Ebenezer Larned and Col. Timothy Ruggles in the expedition to the northern part of New York, and was in camp with his command at Lake George in September. The duration of this service does not appear, and it can only be said that it began as early as May 10 and continued after Oct. 12. He also served in 1757, and probably in 1758. In 1759 he served under Capt. Jeremiah Learned from May 7 to Dec. 11, or 31 weeks and two days. In this campaign he was a sergeant. In the Revolution he marched from Oxford in Capt. John Town's company on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, and afterwards saw long service. He was under Capt. Jeremiah Ballard and Lt. Col. Samuel Williams, having enlisted 1776, May 10, and was still in service 1778, Dec. 30. The term may have continued much longer. In this campaign he was a first lieutenant. There are times during his early manhood that his residence is not certain. He married at Oxford in 1759. In 1763 some one named Samuel Manning and his wife Sarah united with the church at Sutton. It is believed that they were the subjects of this sketch, as no one else is known to fit the case. A Revolutionary roll of 1778 gives Samuel's residence as Montague, but it is believed that this was an error, for in 1773, in his grandfather's will, Samuel is said to be of New Salem, and the latter was long his home. Montague and New Salem are adjoining towns; probably he enlisted at the former place, which supposition would explain the statement of the roll. From a date as early as 1773, then, to the close of his life, he resided in New Salem. There he was a church member, and this, with his military record (something that counted for more at that time than now), probably made him a prominent man locally, but the unfortunate fact that all of the New Salem town records were destroyed by fire in 1855 makes it impossible to learn what offices he held. He was a large landholder. His first acquisitions in this line are not to be found on record, as they were lots "originally drawn" by his grandfather Manning. It is probable that said lots were deeded to him by his grandfather, and recorded in the proprietors' book (which doubtless shared the fate of the other records in 1855). He sold certain "rights" in 1787; a 46-acre lot in 1789 to Matthew Martin; 50 acres in 1793 to Jeremiah Meacham, "and it is a fourth division of Lot No. 175 originally drawn by Samuel Manning" (his grandfather); 50 acres in 1794 to Sampson Marvin, "it being Lot No. 161 in the 4th division," and similarly acquired. Other sales followed. He purchased 100 acres in 1791, and 75 acres in 1793. He m. (1st) at Oxford, 1759, Apr. 22 (another account says Jan. 13) Sarah Pratt, b. 1740, Aug. 15. Her ancestry was Joseph<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Hunkins), her parents; Jonathan<sup>2</sup> and Sarah (Gale), all of Oxford, and Thomas<sup>1</sup> Pratt, who was of Watertown 1647 and, later, of Framingham. When Sarah died has not been learned. Lieut. Manning m. (2d), before 1786, Lydia Thompson. She was living 1835, July 8, but when she died is unknown. Nothing has been ascertained as to her parentage; she purchased land in 1834 that had formerly been owned by Ezra Thompson, who may have been a near relative. Lieut. Manning was living 1811, Mch. 9, but died before 1818, Dec. 8. He had one child by his second marriage. Tradition says that there were no children by the first marriage, and as none have been found in the list of church baptism of infants by those who have searched there for the present writer, this statement seems to be confirmed in a degree. No estate of Lieut. Manning appears in the Probate Office, and he seems to have conveyed his property to his son. Ch. :

in 1761 under Capt. Thomas Cowdin from May 18 to Dec. 2, or 28 weeks and 3 days, and in 1762 from Mch. 15 to Nov. 13, or 8 months and 20 days. In the Revolution he served at times from 1775 to 1780. He marched with Capt. John Town's company on the Lexington alarm, 1775, Apr. 19, and, the same year, was under Capt. Samuel Curtis and Col. Ebenezer Learned for at least two months. In 1777 he served under Capt. John Nichols and Col. Jonathan Holmes. In 1779 he enlisted for nine months, serving first under Capt. Tucker and, later, under Capt. Wiley, in the 8th Regt. Near the end of this term of service he was reported as having been taken prisoner, but of this no more appears. At one time he was a corporal. A slight description of him appears on a Roll of 1779 — "Age 33 years; height, 5 feet, 9 inches; complexion, light." In private life he was a farmer. He never purchased land, but unquestionably lived with and operated the farm of his grandfather Manning. This was sold in 1776, and in the same year his wife received by the will of her father, Nathaniel Eustes, 38 acres of land, with the buildings thereon, in the adjoining town of Charlton, whereupon they removed to that place. This Charlton estate she, then a widow, sold 1791, Aug. 30, to their son Jacob, who conveyed the same, 1798, Apr. 10, to Luke Converse. Mr. Manning survived but five years after this removal. His death is not recorded, but it was shortly before 1781, Apr. 17, when the inventory of his estate was presented. He had "one pair of oxen, one red cow, one black cow, one white faste cow, one two year old heffer, one yearling, eleven sheep and six lambs, two swine and one horse," and indoor and outdoor movables to the total value of £132.12.7, exclusive of divers notes of hand which aggregated nearly £75. The later accounting of the administratrix, his widow, showed a total of £227.18.5, which was reduced by offsetting items to £174.5.11, but the sum divided eventually, in 1784, was but £153.5.1. Of this the widow received £58.2; the eldest son £33, and each of the other children, £16.12. Mr. Manning m. at Charlton, 1765, July 11, Abigail, dau. of Nathaniel Eustes, of that town. In her later years she resided at Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y., with her son Samuel, by whose side she lies buried. She d. 1833, Feb. 9, aged 87 years, 7 months and eleven days, which places her birth about 1745, June 28. Ch. :

193. JACOB, b. 1767, Aug. 26, at Oxford.

194. NATHANIEL, b. 1769, Sep. 27, at Oxford.

195. JOHN, b. 1772, Aug. 6, at Oxford. Not traced. He was living 1784, Oct., when he shared in his father's estate.
196. SAMUEL, b. 1774, Dec. 22, at Oxford.
197. ABIGAIL, b. about 1777, at Charlton; not traced.
198. ELIZABETH, b. about 1779, at Charlton.

128. JOHN<sup>5</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1765, Feb. 15, at Ipswich, Mass. He was a farmer in his native town. Details of his life are lacking. On his death Jeremiah Lord was appointed administrator. At a Court held the second Tuesday of December, 1841, it was ordered that all his personal estate should be sold at auction. An inventory was taken by Jacob Brown, Daniel Appleton and Daniel Whipple of his real estate. The "house and homestead" was appraised at $1,350; a woodland at Essex, $10; "one lot thatch banks, cross bank," $53, and "one lot marsh and thatch bank in Hundreds," $30, making a total of $1,443. He m. 1793, Jan. 24, Sarah Lord, of Ipswich, who d. 1831, July 8, aged 64. Her parentage is not certain. Mr. Manning d. at Ipswich 1844, Aug. 25. The birth-dates of his children have not been found on record, and efforts to secure them from other sources have been little more successful. Repeated efforts enable the writer to give only this imperfect list:

199. SALLY, bap. 1793, May 27; was the second wife of John Woodbury Dodge. No ch. She d. 1860, Oct. 8.
200. LUCY, b. 1801, Aug. 21; m. 1825, May 30, Daniel, son of Stephen and Mary (Boyd) Story, b. 1798, Sep. 12, at Ipswich. He d. 1877, July 4; Lucy d. 1883, Mch. 9, both at Essex. Ch., b. at Essex: I. 129. JOSEPH<sup>5</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) bap. 1767, May 31, at Ipswich, Mass. He early settled in New Gloucester, Me., where he was a blacksmith. He purchased there 1793, Dec. 30, for £48, one acre of land with house, barn and blacksmith shop, and made other small purchases in 1795 and 1796. He m. at Ipswich 1792, Apr. 4, Elizabeth, dau. of John and Mary Smith, b. at Ipswich. After his death she went to Boston to live with her children, where she d. 1858, Oct. 22, aged 93. Mr. Manning d. at New Gloucester 1843, Apr. 27. The exact order of birth of his children is unknown. Ch. :

205. JOHN, b. about 1800; was of Boston 1843; d. 1885 at Calais, Me.; m. at Ipswich 1845, published Mch. 6, his cousin Mary Lord Manning [202]. No ch. She d. 1892, Nov., at Calais.
206. JOSEPH, b. 1803, Sep. He resided somewhat, and perhaps continuously, in manhood, in Boston, though his name is not always found in the directory. He was probably the Joseph, machinist, who appears in that volume 1829-38, inclusive, and, also, the blacksmith of 1839 and 1840. He m. in Boston 1828, May 29, Sarah Moody Kimball, b. 1806, Nov. 2; dau. of Joseph and Mary (Hall) Kimball. She d. 1855, Apr. 10; Mr. Manning d. 1855, Apr. 11, both in Boston, and separated by death but one day. No ch.
207. JOSHUA, b. about 1808. He located in Boston and was a dealer in provisions, first with George C. Ripley as a partner, but, after a few years, with no partner. During the last twelve years of his life his place of business was at No. 99 Summer street. He d. unm. 1851, Apr. 10, in Boston.

 221. MARY ABBY (Nelson) b. 1827, Oct. 30.

222. WILLIAM AUGUSTUS, b. 1816, June 28.
 223. JOHN HENRY, b. 1818, Apr. 29. He early located in Boston, and was an artist. The Boston directory shows him as a "designer and engraver" from 1851 to the time of his death. In 1852 he is called a "designer at Gleason's Publishing Hall." Frederick Gleason was at that time the publisher of the most successful literary periodicals of the popular class in the country. He published "The Line-of-Battle Ship." His most successful paper was, unless the writer's memory is at fault, called "The Flag of Our Union." It seems that Mr. Manning was illustrator of these publications. His address was for the greater part of the time No. 156 Washington street (this was before the extension and renumbering of the street). In 1856 he had as a co-laborer S. E. Brown, and the firm was called Manning & Brown. Mr. Manning d. unm., 1860, Dec. 12, at North Stoughton.

152. ELIZABETH CLARKE<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Richard,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1780, Sep. 6, at Salem, Mass. She m. Nathaniel Hathorne, a sea captain, b. 1775, May 19. His ancestry was Daniel<sup>4</sup> and Rachel (Phelps), his parents; Joseph<sup>3</sup> and Sarah (Bowditch); John<sup>2</sup> and Ruth (Gardner), William<sup>1</sup> and Anne Hathorne. The last-named couple came to this country in the ship Arabella in 1630, and soon settled at Salem, where William<sup>1</sup> achieved wide celebrity. He was a deputy, Speaker of the House, an Assistant in the Council, and major in the Indian wars. Capt. Nathaniel Hathorne d. in Surinam, in 1808, before 19 Apr. His widow, left with her young children, found an able helper and friend in her brother, Robert Manning, who cared for the children. She d. 1849, July 31. The name, Hathorne, still used in other branches of this family, was, in this particular line, changed by the son Nathaniel [228], by the insertion of one letter, to Hawthorne. He, by his talents, made it a household word, and the form will be used here. Ch. :

227. ELIZABETH MANNING (Hawthorne) b. 1802, Mch. 7.

228. NATHANIEL (Hawthorne) b. 1804, July 4. It is wholly impossible to give within the limits of this volume anything like such a sketch as the genius of Nathaniel Hawthorne demands. He shares with James Fenimore Cooper the honor of standing at the very front of American novelists, with no rival who approaches them. Cared for and protected in his youth by his uncle, Robert Manning, and afterwards being sent to college by that same friend, he was thereby given chance to lay a sound foundation for his subsequent brilliant career. He was for a time connected with the Custom House at Salem as Surveyor of the Port, and was United States Consul at Liverpool, England, 1853; but his greatest gifts lay in another direction. He turned to literature, and from his magic pen flowed such works as "The Scarlet Letter," "The House of Seven Gables," "The Blithedale Romance," "Mosses from an old Manse," "Fau-shaw," "Septimus Felton," "The Marble Faun," "Dr. Grimshaw's Secret," "The Dolliver Romance," etc. If he had written only "The Scarlet Letter," the popularity of which remains undimmed to-day, he would deservedly have been famous, for, in its inimitable style, power and intense interest, it is a monument to his genius. His work gave him wide celebrity, and he became the companion and friend of Longfellow, Emerson, Thoreau, and the others of that group of literary lights of that period. In 1841 he was associated with others in the well-known "Brook Farm" enterprise at West Roxbury. His residence was, at different times, Salem, Lenox and Concord. His health failed, and he was on a journey with the hope that changed conditions would bring improvement, with his friend, Franklin Pierce, ex-President of the United States, as a companion, when he died suddenly at Plymouth, N. H., 1864, May 19. He was buried at Concord, Mass. He m. 1842, July 9, Sophia Amelia, dau. of Dr. Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Palmer) Peabody, b. 1809, Sep. 21.

229. MARIA LOUISE (Hawthorne) b. 1808, Jan. 9; lost on the steamer Henry Clay, on the Hudson River, 1852, July 27, when that vessel was burned.

154. ROBERT<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Richard,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1784, July 19, at Salem, Mass. In early manhood he opened a broker's office in Salem, and was also agent of the Salem and Boston Stage Company, established by his father. His connection with the large tracts of land in Maine has been mentioned in his father's sketch. At the age of twenty-four he assumed charge of his widowed sister's family, afterwards sending the son, Nathaniel Hawthorne, to Bowdoin college, where the latter laid the foundation of his brilliant literary career. The last twenty-five years of Mr. Manning's life were devoted to pomological pursuits, in which he became the leading authority at that time in this country. After his death lengthy sketches of his life appeared in newspapers and journals, and of these a necessarily brief abridgment is here given. Before 1817 he began a collection of fruits, and a few years after established his pomological garden. At that time the varieties of pears in cultivation here were limited, and of these some were beginning to show the blight and decay that soon rendered it necessary to discontinue their growth, and he saw that new kinds must be added or the cultivation of the pear be given up. The importation of fruits was something little known at that time, and in the long passages of the packet ships from Europe trees were so liable to perish that few would hazard the risk and expense of bringing them to this country. Knowing these obstacles to success, Mr. Manning resolved upon making a collection at his garden of all the newly-raised and highly-esteemed fruits. It was his plan to make a specialty of pears, as they most needed attention, but his attention and its consummation included all desirable varieties of fruits. He endeavored to open a correspondence with the leading European cultivators, and more particularly with Mr. Knight, late president of the London Horticultural Society, Mr. Thompson, Dr. Van Mons, of Louvain, the Chevalier Parmentier, and others who were known as the possessors of fine new fruits, for the purpose of procuring scions and trees. After repeated disappointments, sufficient to discourage one of less perseverance, he succeeded, after years of effort, in forming a collection of very many of the varieties it had so long been his wish to obtain. Of these he received specimens from Messrs. Baumann, DeWall, Vilmorin, and others, in addition to what were obtained from the cultivators before named. As a whole, his collection was such as was long unequalled by any other in this country. Besides procuring all the best foreign fruits he spared no pains to add every native American variety which had the reputation of being worth cultivation. With a liberality which had but little regard for his own pecuniary interests, Mr. Manning by distributing scions among his friends, and disposing of them on accommodating terms to nurserymen and commercial gardeners, placed the choicest and newest fruits of Europe and America within reach of almost everyone. He grew some trees from seeds, and raised several superior varieties of cherries, one of which bore his name, but he did not make a specialty of originating new fruits, nor the mere cultivation of trees or their products; that branch of horticulture he chiefly left to others, though he exhibited large and fine fruit, and was a regular attendant and liberal contributor to the exhibitions of the Mass. Horticultural Society. His principal object was to introduce new and valuable varieties into the United States; to test the peculiar adaptation of such to our country; to identify the different kinds, and to correct the nomenclature, which had been in great confusion. It was believed, said the New England Farmer, that Mr. Manning proved and tested a greater number of fruits than any other individual in this country or Europe. He was so familiar with the names and habits of the trees and the qualities of fruits that he could identify at sight even the most rare kinds, and in this respect he was without a rival. When he began his work the various kinds of each fruit in cultivation here were few, but, with no especial facilities and limited pecuniary resources, and at the cost of patience, time and large financial outlay, he added to his collection until, at the time of his death, his garden contained nearly one thousand varieties of pears alone, and, of apples, peaches, cherries and plums a number in excess of five hundred more; making a collection greater by far than was elsewhere to be found in this country, and equalled by but few in Europe. His efforts made fine fruit available to the general public, and the obituaries printed on his death unite in terming him a public benefactor and his decease an almost irreparable loss to horticulture. He was modest and unassuming in his manners, and of an unobtrusive and retiring disposition. He freely imparted to others information obtained by him with much time and labor, never attempting to appropriate to his sole advantage the benefits to be derived from an exclusive possession of his choice fruits. He was an extensive reader, a contributor through many years to horticultural journals, and one of the original members of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. His last illness was prolonged, and for a year severe, but was borne with patience, and his interest in his pomological garden endured to the last. The territory of the garden remains, having never been built upon, and is now in the possession of the older son and his sisters, who occupy the old homestead built by Robert Manning just before his marriage. A few of the original fruit-trees are still standing. He m. 1824, Dec. 20, Rebecca Dodge Burnham, b. 1797, Apr. 21, of an old Ipswich family. Her ancestry was Ebenezer<sup>5</sup> and Mary (Dodge), her parents; Thomas<sup>4</sup> and Judith (Lord); Thomas<sup>3</sup> and Priscilla (Appleton); Lieut. Thomas<sup>2</sup> and Hester (Cogswell) Burnham. There is, it seems, a doubt as to the name of the Burnham ancestor of the first generation, concerning which the reader is referred to the Burnham and Cogswell genealogies. 231. ROBERT, b. 1827, July 6. At the death of his father, though only about fifteen years old, he took charge of the pomological garden and carried it on for many years. Afterward for three years he was editor of Tilton's Magazine of Horticulture, and in 1874 was chosen Secretary of the Massachusetts Hor-

164. THOMAS<sup>5</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>4</sup> Joseph,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1775, Feb. 7, at Ipswich, Mass. He was a physician, and a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society. It is believed that he practiced for a short time in Marblehead, at the beginning of his career, but he soon located in Ipswich and remained a successful physician there to the time of his death. He was among the progressive members of his profession, and the first doctor who introduced inoculation for kine pox in his vicinity, his experiments being completely satisfactory. He was a justice of the peace, and, 1802, June 1, was commissioned surgeon of the 2d regt., 2d brigade and 2d division of the State militia. In advancing the business interests of the town he was energetic. By will he left a large sum of money to found the Manning School, at Ipswich, and this, under the wise oversight of his nephew, Richard H. Manning [263] and others, became an established and highly successful institution which has enjoyed an excellent reputation to the present time. He m. 1807, May 24, Margaret Heard, b. 1783, probably at Ipswich, and d. 1829, Aug. 13. She was a dau. of Hon. John Heard; her mother's maiden name, according to an old manuscript, was Sarah Staniford. Dr. Manning d. 1854, Feb. 3, at Ipswich. Ch.:

was of Ipswich as early as 1643. Capt. Manning d. at Ipswich, 1815, June 16. As the year of his death has been given in manuscripts as 1816, it may be stated that a notice of his death was printed in the Salem Gazette of 1815, June 23, thus showing the true date conclusively. 192. SAMUEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Samuel,<sup>5</sup> Robert,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1786, Feb. 3, at New Salem, Mass. He was a farmer in his native town, but further than this nothing has been learned of his life. The town records of New Salem have been destroyed by fire, and the family record does not give the date of his death, but this occurred shortly before May 11, 1834, when the inventory of his estate was taken. This was appraised at $1,125.65. Jacob Haskell was appointed guardian of the two older sons, upon their choice, and the widow was guardian of the two younger sons. Mr. Manning m. 1811, Feb. 3, Lucinda Wheeler, b. 1787, Meh. 10. After his death she removed to Little Valley, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., where she d. 1873, Feb. Ch., b. at New Salem:

278. SALLY, b. 1817, Dec. 29; d. in infancy.

280. SAMUEL GREEN, b. 1821, Apr. 11.

281. ATKINS A., b. 1825, Aug. 13.

he purchased a farm July 9 of the same year, of Abraham Lackey. He made additional purchases there from David Hammond and Levi Baldwin. He sold his entire holdings there 1814, June 15, and removed to Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y. It seems that the rest of his life was passed there, for he and his wife d. there, but efforts to learn more of him from his descendants have failed, except that they say "he was in poor health for thirty years before he died." Many descendants have been asked to estimate the date of his death, but this has not been done. The Surrogate's office has no record of his estate. He m. at Charlton, 1790, June 29, Abigail Morey. Persistent inquiry and research have failed to furnish any date or fact relating to her. One Ephraim Morey and his wife Abigail had children born in Leicester, near Spencer, between 1737 and 1757. He can hardly have been father of our Abigail. Was he her grandfather, or otherwise a relative? Ch. of Jacob and Abigail Manning:

282. ALPHEUS, b. 1793, Oct. 15, at Charlton.

283. DANFORD, b. 1795, Apr. 6, at Charlton.

284. CLARISSA. This name is from descendants of one of her brothers.

In her father's deed of 1814 one Clarissa Manning appears as a witness. Undoubtedly, this was our Clarissa. This would indicate that she was older than Alpheus, for otherwise her signature would be that of a minor. Despite this, it is probable that she was the youngest of the three children. She m. John Hammond, perhaps a relative of the David Hammond of whom her father bought land in 1801. After her marriage she lived for a time in Chautauqua Co., it is said, and then "went West." Report says she had seven sons, of whom Joseph studied for the ministry and is reputed to have preached in New Jersey, later.

194. NATHANIEL<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Robert,<sup>5</sup> Robert,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1769, Sep. 27, at Oxford, Mass. He early went to the State of New York, and, at the time of his marriage, was living at Rensselaer, Albany Co. About 1799, if the recollection of his descendants is correct, he went to Chenango Co. There he settled in Coventry, on what was then known as the Harper Tract, about two and one-half miles south of the present village of Coventry. He owned about two hundred acres of land, and was a well-to-do farmer. He held several town offices, of which one was that of justice of the peace. The last year of his life he resided with his son Lewis on what is now known as the Joslyn farm, where he died. He was buried in the Wylie cemetery. He m. at Charlton, Mass., 1792, Feb. 12, Anna, dau. of Ebenezer and Christian White, b. 1771, Oct. 5 (another account says Oct. 20), at Charlton or Brookfield, Mass. In 1813 she and Nathaniel sold her rights in her father's estate (Worcester Co. Deeds, 188-271, 343). She d. 1818, Mch. 5; Mr. Manning d. 1849, Aug. 6, both at Coventry. Ch.:

196. SAMUEL<sup>5</sup> MANNING (Robert,<sup>5</sup> Robert,<sup>1</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1774, Dec. 22, at Oxford, Mass. He removed to Coventry, N. Y., where he afterwards resided. He was a farmer. Of his land a tract of twenty-five acres was given to him by the town for services rendered to said town, and it is believed he was in some way a land-agent. He m. at Coventry, 1827, Oct., Mrs. Fanny (Osborn) Woodward, b. 1787, Apr. 19, in Vermont. She d. 1868, Mch. 6; Mr. Manning d. 1845, Mch. 18, both at Coventry. Ch.:

- 294. ROBERT (Holmes); d. in Binghamton.
- 295. LOUISA (Holmes) b. 1812, June 1; living at Lawsville, Pa., 1896.
- 296. SYLVESTER (Holmes) d. 1854, Feb. 27, aged 42, 23, at Great Bend.
- 297. JOHN (Holmes); had a son John, and a dau. Sarah who m. George Wellman and res. not far from New Milford, Pa. The latter's dau. Mrs. H. S. Millard, of Halstead, Susq. Co., has failed to answer letters of inquiry.

298. ABIGAIL (Holmes) d. 1853, Sep., aged 40(?).
 299. POLLY ANN (Holmes). No report.
 300. REBECCA (Holmes) b. 1820, July 19; d. 1891, July 27, at Upsonville, Pa.; m. John Dunn McKinney. Their dau. Ellen res. Lawsville.

208. THOMAS<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Joseph,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. at a date not learned, at New Gloucester, Me. He graduated at Bowdoin College, after which he taught school at Germantown, Pa., and later had charge of a seminary in that State, at Hartsville. On account of ill health he next had an agency from the Sunday School Union, which took him to Alabama, where he again taught, residing at Tuscaloosa. After about three years he returned North and went on an agency through New York and some of the Western States. Later, he settled in Kingsport, East Tenn., where he taught children, studied medicine, began to practice, raised mulberry trees, married and had two children, and died in March, 1839. This is from a printed sketch of his life. Relatives in the East say "he was a minister in the South," which indicates that the sketch is not complete. The name of his wife has not been learned. 232. RICHARD CLARKE<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Robert,<sup>5</sup> Richard,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1830, Jan. 8, at Salem, Mass.

At the age of fourteen he left school to assist his brother in the care of the pomological garden at North Salem. When seventeen he went as clerk to John Dike in the coal and wood business, and at the age of twenty-one became a partner, and has continued in that business ever since. He has been a member of the Common Council, and of the Board of Aldermen of the city of Salem, and, for many years, one of the trustees of the Salem Five Cents Savings Bank. He has been much interested in the charitable and literary institutions of his native city. One of the Board of Managers of the Home for Aged Women from its formation in 1860. One of the trustees of the Salem hospital for fifteen years from its foundation in 1873. One of the Board of Directors of the Essex Institute. President of the Salem Athenaeum. He m. 1865, Oct. 11, Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth (Yeaton) Gould, b. 1833, June 12, at Exeter, N. H., widow of Oliver H. Gould. 329. RICHARD CLARKE, b. 1867, Aug. 7, at Salem. On graduating from the Salem High School in 1884 he entered Harvard College and graduated there in the class of 1888, summa cum laude; taught Latin for three years in a private school at Worcester; then continued his studies of the classics at Harvard and at the German universities of Bonn and Leipzig, receiving the degree of Ph.D. from Harvard in 1896; was tutor of Latin in Harvard from 1896 to 1899, and, since the latter date, has been Assistant Professor of Latin and Greek at Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y. Unm., 1900.

234. JOSEPH BOLLES<sup>6</sup> MANNING (John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Joseph,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1787, Mch. 5, at Gloucester, Mass. He graduated at Harvard College in 1808 and became a lawyer. Perhaps he first located in Ipswich, as a list of professional men in the State shows him to have been there in 1811, but he soon removed to that part of Gloucester which is now Rockport, and where, in addition to his practice, he was a justice of the peace. He also devoted considerable time to philological pursuits, and embodied the results in two published volumes, the first of which was entitled: "Epeögraphy; or Notations of Orthoepey. To which is prefixed Lektography; an Improvement in Alphabetical Writing for representing Sounds of Words, as described in Letters-Patent of the United States." The second book bore the title:

“The Voice of Letters: Ancient Proprieties of Latin and Greek; the Standard of English Letter-Customs, their Inherent System, and preferred Orthography.” He made a collection of genealogical data relating to the families in which he was interested, including not only his direct line of the Manning family and certain connecting branches, but an in-gathering relating to the ancestry of those who had married into the Manning family, which, in the aggregate, was probably ten times greater than what he had of the Mannings. The names most considered were Giddings, Goodhue, Boardman, etc. Relating to these intermarrying families he had a collection which, for that time, with its limited facilities for such work, was large. The Manning family he did not attempt to follow beyond Essex Co., but he had probably one-quarter of the records of those who resided there, sometimes in full, and sometimes in partial form. On his death his book of records descended to his nephew, Dr. Joseph Manning, and, later, to the son of the latter, Dr. Charles B. Manning. The present writer had long had knowledge of the above book, and when, a few months before the printing of the Manning genealogy, he found his own collection ready for the press, he borrowed Joseph B. Manning’s collection for comparison. The result was very gratifying, as there was no conflict between the two, all of which speaks highly for the gentleman who made his gathering half a century ago, when genealogy was in its infancy. In the years succeeding Joseph B. Manning’s death there have been several manuscript records of certain branches of the family in Essex Co., the compilation of which has been ascribed to various persons, but when they are compared with Esquire Manning’s book one must conclude that all were drawn therefrom, directly or indirectly. Mr. Manning did not marry. He d. 1854, May 22, at Ipswich, while on a visit.

patients in competition with a Dr. Brown, then of Waldoboro, was not flattering in the first three or four years, and he obtained appointment as surgeon in 1815 on board the privateer "Mammoth," sailing from Portland. He made but one voyage, and returned to Waldoboro, where he gradually secured standing and the good will of the older physicians of that place and the surrounding towns, and was frequently called in consultation. He continued practice, and meanwhile acted as town clerk. In 1834 he was chosen Senator for Lincoln county, and, as the manual shows, was on four or five of the most important committees while a member of that body. In 1842 he removed his family to Rockport, Mass., where he practiced until his death, though less laboriously than before. There is still preserved among his descendants a daily record of his voyage in the "Mammoth," as surgeon, from the cockpit. He m. 1819, Apr., Elizabeth Thomas Thomson, b. 1797, July 29, and d. 1848, Oct. 29; dau. of William H. and Mary (Schenck) Thomson. Her sister Mary m. He was appointed Collector of Customs for Gloucester by President Pierce, and held the office six years. In June, 1859, he entered into partnership with his brother Charles B. Manning, in Boston, and continued thus until his death, having removed his residence to Lynn in 1859, or early in 1860. He m. in 1849 Mrs. Ruth Ann (King) Larabee, widow of Giles R. Larabee, and dau. of —— King, of Whitefield, Me. No ch. Mr. Manning d. 1882, Nov. 22, at Lynn. his paternal grandfather until 1821, when he removed to Boston and entered the store of Charles White, druggist, No. 1 Marlboro street. In 1822 he was employed by Howard & Gordon, of No. 30 State street. In 1832 he succeeded to the business, in company with Robert Howard (son of Jonathan Howard, of Howard & Gordon). Mr. Manning remained in active business until his death. He was closely identified with many financial, charitable and public institutions, and at one time was a member of the Boston City Council. In manner he was ever courteous to all, and strictly considerate of the comfort of others. In business circles his word was as good as his bond, and, famed for his love of justice and his ability to look upon both sides of a question with fairness, he was often called upon to decide a misunderstanding in the matter of a trade. He had a keen sense of humor, and a ready wit, and by nature he was kind-hearted, generous and hospitable, and always quick to excuse the shortcomings of his neighbor. He had the respect and confidence of all who knew him, and being easy to approach, he was in close touch with younger men, who often sought his counsel in business or personal affairs. To them his ears were always ready to listen, and his advice often ended in a favorite motto: "Never be afraid to do what is right." He m. 1839, Meh. 20, Abby Howard, b. 1811, July 18, in Boston; dau. of Jonathan and Joanna (Rust) Howard. Her further ancestry was William,<sup>3</sup> her grandfather; Jonathan<sup>2</sup> and Sarah (Farwell); and Nathaniel<sup>1</sup> Howard, who was of Charlestown in 1676, and removed in 1702 to Chelmsford. The ancestry of Joanna Rust, above, was Dr. Wallis,<sup>5</sup> Nathaniel,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> and Henry<sup>1</sup> Rust. Mrs. Manning resides in Boston. 263. RICHARD HENRY<sup>6</sup> MANNING (Richard, John,<sup>1</sup> Joseph,<sup>3</sup> Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1809, Feb. 1, at Ipswich, Mass. After the early death of his parents he was reared by his grandparents until he was sent to Dummer Academy, in Byfield. Leaving this school in 1825, at the age of sixteen he went to Boston and began his business life. There he devoted his leisure hours to the reading of well-chosen books, and to various literary exercises and debates under the auspices of the Mercantile Library, of which he became a director. Attracted to people of literary tastes and liberal thought, he became one of a congenial group of young people, with several of whom his friendship lasted throughout life. In 1831 he went to Philadelphia, and after one year became a partner in the firm of Farnsworth & Manning; but established himself in New York as a dry-goods merchant just before the great fire of 1835 and the financial crash of 1836. After taking a year of leisure in 1851 he entered the business and partnership in which he remained until his retirement in 1883. During this period his partner was William C. Squier, and the firm name Manning & Squier. The business was the mining of zinc, and manufacturing it into white oxides; later, also, the production of spelter, and still later of speigeleisen. This partnership continued until within three years of Mr. Manning's death, a connection and a friendship which no cloud of personal misunderstanding ever dimmed. Mr. Manning was closely connected with the Unitarian church under Dr. Furness, in Philadelphia, and with the First Unitarian Church in Brooklyn; and, later, was an organizer and trustee of the Second Society in the latter city. An interest in the teachings of Fourier which dated from the years spent in Boston led him, with others, to induce the Rev. William H. Channing to go to Brooklyn as minister to the First Unitarian Society there. Mr. Channing was profoundly interested in the principles of industrial association, and his enthusiastic exposition of them was the great attraction for the little coterie he drew about himself. Nearly ten years later Mr. Manning and a few friends, with their families, made their residence in the summers of 1850 and 1851 at the North American Phalanx (the "Brook Farm" of the neighborhood of New York), and he always believed that the failure of these movements was owing more to accidental than intrinsic causes, and that our industrial and social order would be much improved if the principles of industrial association were better understood and more resolutely carried out. He identified himself with the anti-slavery movement from the beginning of the great debate, and during the war in which it culminated gave unwearied coöperation, with his wife and sister, for the alleviation of the suffering and sorrow of the time. He was a trustee of the fund left by his uncle, Dr. Thomas Manning, to found a High School in Ipswich. When, under his care, the original endowment had greatly increased, he immediately and subsequently contributed to it largely from his own means; but more and better than money he gave to the school his constant oversight and helpful counsel, and at the time of his death it was regarded as one of the model schools of New England. From 1840 until his death he was a citizen of Brooklyn, with full consciousness and performance of civic responsibilities. In his hospitable home was a welcome not only for the fortunate and happy, but equally for the weary and suffering. Margaret Fuller was for months a member of his household, and Madam Zulavsky found there a refuge in exile and a quiet place in which to die. Among his friends were Horace Greeley who, dying, made him an executor of his will, and Prof. E. L. Youmans, whose noble passion for the scientific method Mr. Manning fully shared. He was interested in political economy and scientific investigation. By nature he was cautious and conservative in practical affairs. He had a genius for friendship, and in his associations showed an old-fashioned courtesy and kindness that made and retained friends. One of those who knew him well said of him: "He was wisely economical that he might be nobly generous." Mr. Manning m. 282. ALPHEUS<sup>7</sup> MANNING (Jacob,<sup>6</sup> Robert,<sup>5</sup> Robert,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. 1793, Oct. 15, at Charlton, Mass. He was a farmer in Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y., nearly all his life. When of advanced age he went to live with his son at Windsor, Broome Co., and d. 1870, Mch. 25, a few days after arriving there. He m. Deborah, dau. of Nathan and Abigail Bassett, b. 1789, July 17, "at Cape Cod, Mass.," and d. 1872, Mch. 9, at Windsor. Ch., b. at Coventry:

402. POLLY MARIA; d. unm., 1854, Sep. 13, aged 33 years.
 403. MINERVA; d. unm., 1843, Oct. 14, in her 20th year.

Edward Carl, b. 1846, Feb. 15, at Coventry. II. William Alpheus, b. 1847, Dec. 1, at Union, Broome Co. She m. (2d) Thomas Jefferson Hyde. Ch.: Ira Dewitte, b. 1860, July 16, at Bainbridge.
 405. MELISSA CELIA, b. 1827, Aug.; d. 1893, Dec. 25; m. (1st) Andrew Bennett and (2d) Tyler Hull. No ch.
 406. CHAUNCY, b. 1831, Nov.; res. East Homer, Cortland Co. At various times in the last six years his record has been requested, but no reply has been received. He m. Melissa Andrews. Two children, one of whom was deceased in 1895, and the other living.

there was a failure to obtain the date of his death, they were asked to estimate the time when he died. None of them did so. With the notable exception of two of the younger descendants information has not been sent by them, and, generally, no replies have been received to letters. The compiler does not know whether Danford died in the East, or went to Wisconsin with his children. The latter were as follows:

407. SOLOMON, b. 1819, Nov. 20, at Coventry, N. Y.
 408. SUSAN, b. 1821, Oct. 14, at Coventry; d. 1893, at Marengo, Ill. Repeated inquiries have brought little information relating to her. One collateral relative says she "had no children." A younger member of the family says she m. ——— Miller, which cannot, however, be asserted here.
 409. OZIAS, b. 1824, Aug. 30, at Ellery, Chautauqua Co., N. Y.
 410. DANFORD, b. 1825, Sep. 16, at Coventry (?). In the submitted record his birth was given as here shown, but his name was placed second in the list. Possibly there is an error. The widow of his brother George states that Danford m. Florella Woodcock, and that he d. in Crawford Co., Pa. Is this correct, or has he been confounded with his father? Note the father's second marriage, as reported by the family.
 411. WILLIAM, b. 1827, Nov. 24, at Ellery.
 412. GEORGE, b. 1832, Jan. 28, at Ellery.

413. JOHN HENRY, b. 1824, Feb. 29.

He received his early education in small private and then the public schools of his native city until 1857, when he was placed in the boarding school of Theodore D. Weld, at Eagleswood, N. J., where he remained until he entered the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale College, graduating in 1862. This was followed by a post graduate course in engineering, which was not completed, as he entered the army, leaving New York in the latter part of 1863. His first commission was that of a second lieutenant in the 10th Regt., Corps du Afrique, which was the second colored regiment mustered into the United States service. Later, he was made first lieutenant, and afterward captain by brevet; was in a number of engagements in Louisiana, Miss., Georgia, Florida and Alabama, and was once quite seriously wounded. In the spring of 1866, retiring from the army, he commenced business life as a clerk, but in the fall of 1867 began the turpentine production in Florida, near Jacksonville, remaining there until 1870. He then entered his father's business, but, not finding it engrossing enough, in May, 1873, he started in New York the railway and machinists' tool and supply business as H. S. Manning & Co., the name of the firm being changed in 1880 to Manning, Maxwell & Moore. Having a taste for the military he, before the war, had joined the National Guard, State of New York, and on returning from the war renewed his connection. Entering as a private, he passed through various grades of regimental and staff officership, and retired about 1890 as Lieutenant Colonel by brevet. He resides in New York. He m. Repeated efforts have been made to obtain the records of his and his children's families, and care has been taken to explain that, as records of births, etc., were not kept in many parts of the West until very lately, it would soon be impossible to secure facts that might now be recorded in this volume so easily, but all efforts have failed. The responsibility for this apology for a record lies with George Manning's own family. Ch. :

MISCELLANEOUS FAMILIES.

NOTE.—Besides the two Manning families of New England which have been continued by representatives to the present day, there were several settlers of the same surname who early located within the limits of the above district, and had children born to them, but whose descendants in the male line either became soon extinct, or are supposed to have done so. There are also on record certain marriages of persons who have not been connected with any family, and of whom nothing can be said additionally. The latter, in most cases, were probably persons who had come to this country unaccompanied by any relative of the Manning name. In the following pages the compiler gives all he has been able to learn of these above-described families and persons.

I. FAMILIES AND UNCONNECTED MARRIAGES OF NEW ENGLAND.

SECTION ONE—GLEANINGS CHIEFLY IN BOSTON AND SOUTHWARD.

1. DENNIS MANNING was an early settler on Nantucket island, off the coast of Mass. With the exception of one item, knowledge of the family is derived from Savage's Genealogical Dictionary (see "additions" at the end of one of his volumes). I find no trace of any one in the male line after the third generation who is likely to have been a descendant, but have made no investigation "on Nantucket." The fact that several of the daughters married there is against the theory that the family returned to England; it may have become extinct in the male line, or the survivors may have removed to a distance. Mass. Archives [17-591] show a petition, 1739, May 30, of the selectmen of Sherborn, now Nantucket, and the paper relates that Dennis Manning gave to his son William a house and land on condition that the said son supported Dennis and wife during their lifetime, but father and son both having died, while Dennis' wife yet lived and had nothing to support her, the petitioners pray for permission to sell the house and land to procure funds for her maintenance. Granted. The paper also mentions that William left two "orphans," and that their mother had married again. Here knowledge of the family ends. Dennis m. 1678, Catherine Innis. Ch., b. "on Nantucket:"

2. BETTY, b. 1679, July 10; not traced.

3. JAMES, b. 1681, Jan. 20; not traced.
4. DAVID, b. 1683, Apr. 2; not traced.
5. EUNICE, b. 1685; m. 1712, Dec. 28, Thomas Newcomb, of Nantucket; lived in Conn., at Lebanon and Salisbury.
6. DORCAS; m. Nathaniel Barnard.
7. BENJAMIN; not traced.
8. DINAH; m. 1717, William Stubbs.
9. REBECCA; m. 1719, Dec. 19, Joseph Mott, of R. I.
10. WILLIAM; was of Nantucket, where he died 1730, July 20; m. 1726 Oct. 24, Hannah, dan. of Shubael Gorham, of Barnstable (Ch.).
1. David; may have been at Barnstable, 1746. II. Phebe.

11. GEORGE MANNING was a shoemaker and early resident of Boston, being there as soon as 1653. "Savage," in his Genealogical Dictionary, twice gives his children, once under the name of Manning, and again under that of Munnings, his two lists being identical as to names and dates, except that George "Munnings" is allowed a son Elisha, b. 1659, Dec. 15, in place of Mary, b. 1659, Dec. 15, of George Manning's family; a curious record. Otherwise, the lists are exactly alike. Despite the wayward spelling of that day the surname of this family, often given in town, church, probate and State records, holds fast to one form, Manning; the one lapse being when the first child was born, and then the record says Munnings, but the church record of baptism, the next day, set the error right. Before and after, the name was given as Manning. The suggestion has been advanced that George was a son of an old resident of Boston named George Munnings (see Munnings supplement here). This is possible, but very improbable. In support of the theory are the facts that both Georges lived in Boston and were shoemakers, and that, when the older George died, the father-in-law of George the younger, James Everell, was one of the men appointed to inventory the estate; but Mr. Everell was a prominent man, liable to be called upon in any case. On the other hand, though the two Georges lived in Boston contemporaneously, the younger was never styled "junior," though the word was in common use. Again, George Manning married in 1653, from which we may infer he was born about 1625-1632. George Munnings crossed the ocean in 1634. If he had a son of such tender years, where was the son? Not with the father on the ship "Elizabeth." In the lack of proof, but with the different form of spelling the surnames, and the absence of the word "junior," the opinion is reasonable that the two men were not related. Of George Manning's life little is known except that his later years were vexed by the course of the Colony in compelling his eldest son to serve long as a soldier. George, the father, d. between 1677, Sep. 24, the date of his will, and Oct. 22 following, when it was proved. He left his house, land, etc., to his wife, with the request that what remained at her decease should be divided among his "five children, George, James, John, Elizabeth and Mary," a double portion being allotted to the eldest, and the others to share alike. He m. at Boston, 1653, July 15, Mary Harroden, who probably died without issue; and (2d) 1655, Meh. 13, Hannah, widow of Wm. Blanchard and dau. of James Everell. She had several ch. by her first marriage, and her dau. Hannah Blanchard m. ——— Wakum [Robert?], as George Manning's will shows. The widow Hannah afterwards lived with her father, and probably had a thrilling experience in 1679, when, at midnight, Aug. 8, a fire broke out "at one Gross's house, the sign of the three mariners, near the dock<sup>e</sup> in Boston," and continued until near noon the ensuing day, consuming 80 dwelling houses, 70 warehouses and several vessels and their lading, entailing a loss of about two hundred thousand pounds. The town of Boston allowed James Everell and "his daughter Manning" 140<sup>l</sup>d "towards rebuildinge of their houses blowne vp, to stopp the fire." Suffolk County Deed 23-134, bearing date of 1706, June 10, is the sale by Hannah of a house and land, she having built said house since her husband's death on land purchased of her father, James Everell, and its location being on "the broad street leading from the town conduit towards the Mill bridge," etc. She had purchased the rights of inheritance of her daughter Elizabeth Brown (see below), by release dated 1705-6, Jan. 10, and the sale was in trust for her daughter Mary, wife of Thomas Hunt. It also included her household goods, but excepted her "shop goods and trading stock which I have already given to my grandson Abraham Francis." She was, perhaps, the Hannah Manning who, according to Boston records, died 1712, Apr. 14. A headstone in King's Chapel Cemetery is that of a Hannah Manning who, unless my figures are wrong, died 1721, Apr. 14. The two dates look like the same one with two figures reversed. Our Hannah's first child by Wm. Blanchard was born about 1647; baptized "9, 11 mo." Ch. of George and Hannah Manning:

12. GEORGE, b. 1655, Nov. 24; a soldier of King Philip's war, and under Capt. Samuel Mosely from 1675-6, Jan. 25, and in garrison at Westfield Sep. 23 of that year; was promoted to corporal. His parents were opposed to this service, and at least one campaign was the result of impressment. Three times the father petitioned for his release from service, the mother joining on the last occasion. The first petition was 1675, July 5 [Mass. Archives, 69-42]; the next, 1676, Oct. 9, when the father states that the family suffers for want of the son's aid at home [Archives, 69-68], and, lastly, 1676, Nov. 27, when the parents jointly pray for the discharge of their son "who hath been a souldger so long, and once returned home only to be prest again after four days." He finally reached home, but died, evidently unmarried, between 1678, Nov. 22, the date of his will, and 1679, Aug. 2, when it was proved. He left to his mother what his father had given him, the same to pass at her death to his brothers and sisters; his brother James to have a double portion, "if hee carry it dutifull to his mother." To James was also willed a musket, etc., and to his brother John a carbine and rapier. The testator also remembered his grandfather Everell, and his "cousin," Abiel Everell.
13. ELIZABETH, b. 1657, Mch. 19; d. 1660, Feb. 4.

14. MARY, b. 1659, Dec. 15; d. young.
15. ELIZABETH, b. 1661, Oct. 13; witness, 1706, June 10, to her mother's above deed of sale; m. ——— Brown. In several Brown families in Boston of due period the mother was named Elizabeth, but the writer cannot specify which was the subject of this sketch.
16. JAMES, b. 1663, Mch. 6; living, and "serving his time" with his grandfather Everell in 1678, when his brother George made his will, and Mr. Everell, in his own will, bequeathed him "five pounds" in 1683, after which no sign has been found of him. The fact that he is seen no further in records, together with his mother's above-mentioned deed of 1706 (which seems to show that the mother's only children in 1706 were two daughters), leads to the belief, doubtless reliable, that James and all his brothers were deceased: that they died unmarried or childless, and that with their death the family of George Manning, senior, became extinct in the male line.
17. HANNAH, b. 1665, Apr. 20; probably d. before 1677. In that year her father, in drawing up his will, mentioned his "five children, George, James, John, Elizabeth and Mary." This leads to the inevitable conclusion that they were the only surviving children, and that Hannah, Sarah and Joseph had died before that date.
18. MARY, b. 1666, Nov. 3; m. (1st) Abraham Francis and had ch. b. in Boston: I. Hannah, b. 1681, Dec. 19. II. Abraham, b. 1688, Sep. 10; a merchant in Boston, 1706. III. Elizabeth, perhaps, who was bap. 1691, Apr. 5. Possibly others. The mother m. (2d) 1704, Sep. 12, Thomas Hunt, and had a child James, bap. 1705-6, Jan. 26; d. 1709, July 13. She was living 1725, Dec. 11, when she was admrx. of Mr. Hunt's estate.
- 18a. SARAH, b. 1668, Mch. 19; probably d. before 1677; see note to her sister Hannah.
19. JOHN, b. 1671, Oct. 11; living in 1678; probably d. early and single; see note to his brother James.
20. JOSEPH, b. 1674, Nov. 6; doubtless d. before 1677; see note to his sister Hannah.

21. GEORGE MANNING, born about 1614 or 1645, according to his own statement, was a sea captain along the New England coast, 1674-83. In 1674 trading vessels sent out by Boston merchants were much troubled by so-called Dutch "pirates," and in Dec. of that year several small craft were captured at the "eastward" by the Dutch and sundry English associates. (N. E. Hist.-Gen. Register, Vol. 37, pp. 172-3). Of these, a "shalopp called Phillipp" belonged to John Frenke, of Boston, with George Manning as captain, and a crew composed of three persons, it seems, viz., James Debeck, "the Frenchman" and "the boy;" the last two being of unknown identity. A manuscript letter of Capt. Manning to "Mr. ffreake," now to be found in Mass. Archives [61-65], was dated 1674, Dec. 27, at St. John's River, Nova Scotia, where he was held prisoner. He had met the "duch," who seized his peltries and vessel, and "shot me throw the hand, and cutt James on the writt arme." They would have set him adrift, but, after much persuasion, allowed him to remain on and sail his own vessel, but held it as a prize and compelled him to keep in their company. A rescue party under Capt. Mosely went by water, came up with the pirates and gave them battle. Capt. Manning turned upon his captors and aided in their defeat. Taken to Boston in April, they were put on trial, Manning's testimony being "taken in open court," 1675, June 17, when he gave his age as "30 years or thereabouts." (Archives, 61, 117-20.) He explained that he had been sent on a trading voyage by "Mr. freke," and captured at "the eastward of Mount de Zart by Capt. Petter Rodrigoe and Capt. John Rodes in their duch cutters," and circumstantially described the harsh treatment to which he and James Debeck had been subjected. The accused made a stout defense, based in part on the alleged fact that the colonial vessels made a practice of trading with the French, with whom the Dutch were then at war; but five of the prisoners were condemned to death as pirates. Considerable sympathy was awakened for them, and the sentences were finally reconsidered, some being pardoned and others banished. Capt. Manning reappears in a deposition taken 1683, Jan. 24, when he was still in command of a vessel. He then gave his age as 38 years [Essex Co. Deeds, 13-73], agreeing closely with his previous statement of age. Of his origin and after history nothing has been learned. He may have been a relative, but was not a descendant, of the George Manning of the previous sketch. He seems not to have made any abiding imprint on land, and if he had children the fact does not appear. His home was in or near Boston, and he was married, for, in the letter to Mr. Freake, telling of his capture, he writes: "I desire you to acquaint my wife of itt, and tell her I am thanks be to god in good helth."

22. GEORGE MANNING, OR MUNNINGS. The Middlesex County records, at Cambridge, contain the marriage, 1680, Nov. 1, of "Mary Mixtur" and George Mannings, while Bond calls him George Munnings, Jr., and Barry says Manning. Mary was a dau. of Isaac Mixer, of Watertown, and b. 1656, May 18. George is an unknown. He cannot have been George, son of George Manning, the shoemaker, for this son died a year before the marriage. (See No. 12 here.) Whether he was the same as Capt. George [21] the compiler cannot undertake to say. Unless he was, no sign of him and Mary appears after their above marriage.

23. JOHN MANNING, a merchant, was in Boston as early as 1641, in which year he joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. He was appointed ensign in a few years, and, later, the Boston town records always call him "Captain," though the source of this title does not appear. His wife Abigail d. 1641, June 25, after which he m. (2d) Ann, dau. of Richard Parker, a merchant of Boston. The suggestion has been advanced that Capt. John was related to William Manning, the founder of the Cambridge family, but has not the support of one known fact. John was one generation the younger, and, if of radically near relationship, would naturally be a son of William, but this idea is too improbable to be entertained. William gave his property by will to his wife, and at her death it was to pass to certain of his heirs; and the final disposition, as he plainly indicated, was governed by the financial circumstances of those he left behind him, it being his purpose to distribute his money according to the needs of his descendants. Unless the writer greatly mistakes the condition of Capt. John's business in the later years of his life, his children had been left not only fatherless but heirs only to a seriously embarrassed, probably wrecked estate, as will appear later. If William had been grandfather to these children he would, in their financial difficulties, have been far more likely to aid them than to set his money aside to enable another grandchild to "learn a trade." Possibly John was nephew to William, but, if so, it is peculiar that not one document has been found to show business or other association between the two families. The writer does not believe there was any near relationship between them. Capt. John occupied a prominent position for many years. A merchant, an officer of the Artillery Company, the son-in-law of a citizen of high repute, and himself called to administer on the estate of at least one fellow townsman, he was doubtless much respected. The first sign of trouble appears in 1676, when Wm. Bradick, a merchant of London, gave power of attorney to another to sue for debt Edward Ting and John Manning, merchants of Boston. (Suffolk Co. Deeds, II, 296.) Again, 1663 (1663-12), Jan. 2, Capt. John covenanted with Nicholas Davison, a merchant of Charlestown, to deliver a quantity of sugar in Surinam, binding himself by bond to pay a forfeit of £120 for non-fulfillment of the contract. (Ibid., VI, 85.) To this last paper is appended the deposition of the witnesses thereto, who appeared 1669, Aug. 30, and swore that they saw Capt. John sign the original paper. It would seem the contract had not been fulfilled. This, taken in connection with the fact that John did not leave any estate to be settled (at least, none is on record), would seem to indicate that his business grew unprofitable and was closed out, and that he died without financial means. The date of his death has not been learned, the signing of the bond in 1664 being the last sign found of him. In 1655 he had been witness to the will of Nicholas Davison. When the other witness appeared, 1664, July 11, to make oath to the validity of said will, Capt. John was not mentioned in the papers of the estate. Perhaps this was the year in which he died. His second wife, Ann m. (2d), soon after, Wm. Gerrish, who came from Essex Co. to Boston in 1668, and they had a son Henry b. 1676, Aug. 18. (Hist. Col. Essex Institute, V, 22; also Savage, II, 241, and sketch of Richard Parker. Mr. Gerrish d. in 1687, adm. on his estate being granted to Ann, his widow.

July 16. As the suggestion has been made that Capt. John was the same man as a Capt. John of New York, reference may be had to the sketch of the latter here [132], where the point is more fully considered. Of Capt. John's ch., born at Boston, two were by his first wife; the others by his marriage with Ann. Ch.:

24. JOHN, b. 1643, May 2; d. young.

25. MARY, b. 1644, June 3; not traced.

26. EBENEZER, bap. 1647, May 16, "aged about 10 weeks and 3 days."

Doubtless d. in childhood. His grandfather Parker, in his will of 1674, Jan. 23, seems to mention all of his (Mr. Parker's) grandchildren, and does mention Ephraim and Ann of the Manning family. The fact that Ebenezer and the following John are not referred to seems to indicate that they were then deceased.

27. JOHN, bap. 1648, Sep. 24, "aged about 4 days." Probably d. young; see note to his brother Ebenezer.

28. ANN, b. 1652, Mch. 13; m. John Sandys (sometimes spelled Sands), perhaps a son of Henry and Sibil, and b. 1646, Aug.

28. A merchant. Ch.: I. Ann, b. 1671, Nov. 2; perhaps m. 1694, Sep. 21, Joseph Dowding. II. Sibella, b. 1673, Oct. 22. Adm. on Mr. Sandys' estate was granted 1676, June 2, to his widow, Ann, when he was "late of Boston."

29. EPHRAIM, b. 1655, Aug. 10. In 1674 he was in the employ of Mr. Brattle. In that year, too, he was bequeathed £500 by his grandfather Parker, to be paid when he became of age, but Ephraim, himself, d. in Boston, 1678, Dec. 7. Evidently he never was married, for, by his will, drawn five days before his death, he gave all his possessions to his mother, specifying that, at her death, what remained was to pass to his sister, Ann Sandys. The witnesses to the will were Wm. Gerrish, Hannah Paine and Ann Paine, and Mrs. Ann Gerrish was executrix. With Ephraim's death this family unquestionably became extinct in the male line.

30. ANN MANNING,* aged 17, servant to Henry Dow, came to the Colony 1637, from Ormsby, Co. Suffolk, Eng. After history unknown.

31. ANNA MANNING and Amasa Fisk m. 1771, Nov. 24, at Cumberland, R. I.

32. BATTERY MANNING and Eliza Powers m. 1733, Nov. 8, at Charlestown.

33. BELA MANNING is mentioned in an advertisement in the Windham, Ct., Phenix of 1792, Aug. 29, relative to men in Mansfield and Ashford

*In the brief notes immediately following, lack of comment indicates that no more has been learned of such persons. Those of date before 1750 cannot be of the Cambridge family; and those before 1700, and some of subsequent date, doubtless came to America without relatives named Manning, and had no such kindred here.

subject to militia duty. Undoubtedly an error for Billy Manning (Cambridge family), who then lived at Mansfield.

34. BETTY MANNING and Philip Gilbert. 4th, m. 1770, Jan. 11, at Brookfield, Mass. (See Salem-Ipswich family, No. 96.)

35. CLEMENT MANNING, 1638. "John Crosse being warned to appear about his servant, Clement Manning, who miscarried, the said Crosse was discharged." (Records of Mass., 1, 231.)

35*a*. DANIEL MANNING and Mary Davis, intention of marriage at Boston, 1803, June 6. Unknown. But read what is said of Thomas D. Manning, No. 82*a*.

36. DAVID MANNING and Christian Fairwether, intention of marriage at Boston, 1708, Apr. 3.

37. DOROTHY MANNING and Henry Wholman [Holman?], intention of marriage at Boston, 1732, Aug. 12.

38. ELIZABETH MANNING and William Thompson m. at Boston, 1741, Oct. —.

39. ELIZABETH MANNING and Daniel McNamara m. at Boston, 1744, Nov. 23.

40. GEORGE MANNING, of Dorchester, Mass., d. there 1829, Feb. 27, aged 71; hence, b. about 1758. The record of death of his son Russell states, and doubtless correctly, that he (George) was born in England. Whether the family he founded here has male representatives now is unknown. A shoemaker. His name appears several times in Norfolk Co. Deeds. He m. Ann Wiswell, 1788, Oct. 9, at Dorchester, where they had ch.: I. George, b. 1790, Mch. 2. II. Anna, stillborn, 1791, Nov. III. Russell, b. 1792; a shoemaker in Boston, residing chiefly in South Boston; d. 1867, Jan. 12; m. 1819, June 21, Mary Aleock. Imperfect records probably fail to show all his ch. Some of them were: 1. Robert A., d. 1825, May 10, aged 3 yrs. 2. Emeline A., d. 1839, July 20, aged 4 yrs and 10 mos. 3. Hannah M., b. about 1826; m. 1852, Aug. 31, at Boston, Charles H. White. Probably others. IV. Ann, b. 1795. V. Hannah, b. 1797.

41. HANNAH MANNING. The Boston First Church Records, under date of 1672-3, Feb. 23, say: "Hannah Maninge daughter of our sister Dinsdale and Adam Dinsdale, her sonne, were both baptized." This would indicate that "our sister" had first married some one named Manning (but whom does not appear), and (2d) Mr. Dinsdale. Town records show birth of Adam, son of Adam and Hannah Dinsdale, 1671, Mch. 29, and later ch.

42. JAMES MANNING was a seaman on the ship Resolute in 1780 and in that capacity serving the patriot cause in the Revolution. His residence was then Boston, and his age 24.

43. JEFFREY MANNING and Mary Coit, intention of marriage at Boston, 1775, Jan. 2.

44. JOHN MANNING was "commissioned by P. Warren, Esq., in conjunction with W. Pepperrell, Esq.," as surgeon in the expedition from Boston against Louisburg, 1745. There is no authoritative evidence that John was of Massachusetts, though it has been inferred that he was. It has been suggested that "John" was a clerical error for Joseph, and that the surgeon was, really, Dr. Joseph Manning of the Cambridge family [33], but no proof has been found of the theory. It can hardly be encouraged.

45. JOHN MANNING and Lydia Holcomb m. 1777, Dec. 29, at Windsor, Ct.

46. JOHN MANNING and Polly Filley were married. Place, perhaps Windsor, Ct. Date, probably about 1805-10. Perhaps they lived later at Fair Haven, Vt. (See histories of Windsor and Fair Haven.)

46*a*. JOHN MANNING was an inhabitant of Boston in 1790, and included in the census of that year. His family consisted of "one free white male of 16 and upward" (himself), and two "free white females," perhaps his wife and a daughter, though this is not certain. He is not found before or after.

47. MARY MANNING admitted to the First Church, Boston, 1673, May 18.

48. MARY MANNING and Wm. Ross m. at Boston, 1707, Oct. 29, and had a son William b. 1708, July 1.

49. MARY MANNING and Rice Gunter m. at Boston, 1714, Aug. 9.

50. MARY MANNING and James Barroughs m. at Boston, 1720, Aug. 30.

51. MARY MANNING and Nathaniel King, intention of marriage at Boston, 1734, Dec. 5. "Forbid by Elizabeth King, his mother."

51*a*. MARY MANNING and Henry Bayley, intention of marriage at Boston, 1802, July 21.

52. MEHITABLE MANNING and Alford Green m. at Windsor, Ct., 1800, Feb. 17. See No. 877, of the William Manning family.

53. MICHAEL MANNING, Boston, was a soldier under Capt. James Gray, 1760, in the expedition against Canada.

54. PATRICK MANNING was at Dover, N. H., as early as 1741, when, May 29, he was dismissed to the church at Berwick, Me., where he was living in 1758 when he petitioned [Mass. Archives, 77-638] for the payment of wages due his servant who had served as a soldier in 1757. A tailor. This is the same family, no doubt, of which descendants give the following account, which is as near correct as can be remembered by them. They say the first of their line here was Alexander Manning, a tailor, from Limerick, Ireland, who settled at South Berwick; m. Mary White and (2d) Sarah Barnes. "There were two sons." 1. John, a surveyor; laid out many towns in Carroll Co., N. H.; d. insane. [Resided at Wakefield, N. H., 1789 and 1797; vide York Co. Deeds.] 2. Patrick, who m. and had ch.: 1. Samuel; m. Lydia ——. He d. before 1789. One child, Polly. Lydia, the widow, m. (2d) Dodovah Seates. 2. William; served in war of 1812, and was in the fight when the Enterprise captured the British brig Boxer. 3. Alexander. 4. John. 5. Sally; m. ——— Wilkinson. 6. Rachel; m. Mr. Wilkinson after her sister's death. 7. Martha. Several of these sons settled in N. Y. State. John, fourth child of above list, m. Sally Fordrick and had 5 ch. Here the family report ends. Some of the last mentioned ch. seem to have been. 1st. John A., b. at Berwick; a soldier of the Rebellion, who d. at Medford, Mass. 1899, July 13, aged 52 yrs., 6 mos.; m. at Medford, 1867, May 29, Hannah J. Currell. 2d. George F., b. at Berwick; m. 1867, Aug. 17, at age of 22, Sarah, dau. of Joseph and Sarah Doc. Patrick, above, m. Mary Dyer, and also had a dau. Betsey, who was in 1789 of Berwick, and then single [York Co. Deed, 51-238], and perhaps Mary, who m. Col. Hamilton, 1771, Feb. 8. Patrick was probably the same person of Colonial days enrolled in the Berwick militia company [rolls of Colonial soldiers, 95-370].

55. PATRICK MANNING had a son William baptized in Trinity church, Boston, 1775, June 11. Whether he was identical with the former Patrick has not been learned.

56. PETER MANNING, butcher, was in Boston, 1729, and the sheriff was ordered to levy on his goods to satisfy a debt due to Thomas Clark of Marblehead. The sheriff took Peter in custody, but carelessly allowed him to escape, after which another sheriff received the same orders but made report: "I have found neither person nor estate & return this Writ in non Est Inventus." Evidently Peter had left Boston. The items of the debt were 7 yards of kersie; 8 yards shalloon; silk, thread, etc. Evidently Mr. Clark was a merchant, and Peter may have been from Marblehead, formerly.

57. RICHARD MANNING and Elenor Mitchell m. 1737-8, Mch. 11, at Boston, where they resided for some years, and where she d. 1749, aged 32; buried Sep. 11. No children are recorded either in town or church records, but Richard appears three times (in 1747, and twice in 1749), and Elenor once (1747), as "sponsors" at the baptism of children of sundry other persons in King's Chapel Episcopal Church. Perhaps they had no children of their own. The name of this Richard, the time in which he lived and his affiliation with the Episcopal Church, led the compiler to believe, for a time, that he was a son of John and Joanna Manning of the Salem-Ipswich family. (See No. 12 in genealogy of that family.) On the other hand, the fact that Richard and Elenor had as associate sponsors, on the above occasions, individuals named Hogan, Kelly and Brian might point to Irish extraction for Richard. This idea is not conclusive, for other sponsors were named Howard and Abraham. The parents of the three children baptized, as above, were named Hogan, Mathews and Field.

58. SAMUEL D. MANNING was in Dorchester, Mass., as early as 1828, and often appears in land transactions in Norfolk Co. Deeds. Later than 1838, Sep., and before 1844, Sep., he removed to Fall River. He was again in Dorchester in 1850, after which no more is found of him. A mason by trade. He m. Julia Ann Arnold, probably a dau. of Elisha Arnold, of (or near) Pawtucket, R. I. (Providence, R. I., Deed, 246-276). Ch.: I. Elisha A., above the age of 11 in 1850 [Norfolk Co. Probate Records, 12-254]; resided, 1856, at Stoneham, Mass. II. Marcus Morton, b. 1841, Oct. 28, at Cambridge; resided, 1856, at South Danvers, Mass.

59. SARAH MANNING admitted to the First Church, Boston, 1692-3, Feb. 26, on which day her daughter Sarah was baptized in infancy.

60. SARAH MANNING and Samuel Barrett m. at Boston, 1694, Mch. 8.

61. SARAH MANNING (?) and Edward Winship (he of Lexington) m. about 1705. The marriage has not been found on record by the present writer, nor has he found the authority for the statement that Sarah, the wife, was surnamed Manning before marriage.

62. SARAH MANNING and Loruana Fitch Patrick [Fitzpatrick?], intention of marriage at Boston, 1732, Mch. 16.

63. SARAH MANNING and Edward Gray m. at Boston, 1737, Dec. 29.

64. SARAH MANNING and William Hawley Hinman (he born 1768) m. 1790. Mch. 16, at Southbury, Ct. (Hinman's Early Puritan Settlers of Ct., p. 829.)

65. THADDEUS MANNING was a Revolutionary soldier. He enlisted at Sharon, Ct., 1777, Jan. 18, as a private; promoted corporal 1778, May. He was previously a farmer. Was in the 3d Troop, Col. Elisha Sheldon's Light Dragoons, 1777-80, of which the adjutant was Jeronimus Hoagland. The above is from the Revolutionary Rolls of Ct., which, in addition, thus describe him: Height, 5 ft, 8 1-2 in.; complexion light; eyes gray; hair brown; killed 1780, Aug. 18. More light is thrown upon the rank he attained, and on the particulars of his death, by a letter written at the time by a fellow officer to Thaddens' widow, and of which a copy was furnished some years ago by his grandson of the same name [Thaddeus Manning, born 1809, Dec. 19], and which is here given:

North Castle Aug. 18, 1780.

Madam. It is with extreme sorrow that I am obliged at this time to open a Correspondence with you on a subject that gives me the greatest pain. I cannot without dropping a sympathetic Tear Inform you that by a most unlucky accident your husband Thaddeus Manning (a Capt. in my Troop) was killed last evening by a buckshot which entered an artery in the back of his head and Penetrated his brains—he was last night on Duty below our lines, where he Commanded a party & there fell in with Serj. David Hamilton who was also out with a party, they each mistook the other for the Enemy & when poor Manning was hailed and desired to stand, he Immediately ordered his party to charge, and gave Hamilton's Party a fire & push'd through them Supposing them to be the Enemy; on which Serj. Hamilton's party who likewise took him to be the Enemy fired & killed poor Manning & Wounded Dan<sup>l</sup>. Patchen before they Discovered who each other were—Hamilton had one ball & one buck shot fir'd through his Jacket but was not hurt—This afternoon your husband will be buried, the whole Reg<sup>t</sup>. will attend & we shall shew him every mark of respect that (in our present situation) Can be Confer'd on a brave worthy man—I hope it will be some consolation for you to hear, that he has at all times behaved well. I assure you from the Colonel to the private Soldier, all lament the loss of so brave & Good a soldier. I shall take particular care of his property in your behalf & by the next Conveyance shall Send you his Property; the Necessary Certificates &c &c. If I Can Do you any Service pray Command me—I am in haste your Real friend,

From this letter it will be seen that Thaddeus had reached the rank of captain, and if the letter was correctly dated, the date of his death was Aug. 17, not the 18th, as given in the Rolls. His home, at the time of his death, was Durham, Ct., and descendants know he was "young," then, but they do not know where or when he was born, nor what was his parentage. The present writer long entertained the belief (and has not wholly abandoned it) that he was a son of David and Anne Manning, of Sharon, Ct. [Cambridge family, No. 121]. His probable age and the fact that he enlisted at Sharon favor this theory. The name of "Thaddeus Manning," so spelled, occurs, in 1775, in the list of patriot "Associators" in Northeast Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. (which lies adjoining Sharon), and is, it might seem, that of the same Thaddeus. He may have continued to reside there, and have gone to Sharon to enlist, in which case his motive was either that Sharon was the home of his family or that he took the step simply because enlistment was in progress there, and not because of any family tie. He married (probably during the war, though the date is lacking) Elizabeth Parsons, of Durham, Ct. This place is remote from New York, and, while the circumstantial evidence is not conclusive, the fact appears to point to affiliation with the State of Ct. and its people, such as would be natural if it were the home of his ancestors. The uncertainty which exists as to the full number of the children of the above David Manning [121] leaves room for Thaddeus, as far as is known, but the compiler has failed to find, among David's known descendants, any one who remembers a Thaddeus by tradition, or the tragic death in war of any member of the family at that time. Capt. Thaddeus had but one child (see below).

71. SARAH G. MANNING, dau. of Thaddens 66, b. 1820, Apr. 17; m. Albert McNary, of Middletown; located in Cleveland, Ohio.

72. CHARLES P. MANNING, son of Thaddens 66, b. 1823, Apr.; married, but had no ch. in 1871.

73. THOMAS MANNING and Rachel Bliss m. 1674, Oct. 28, at Swanzey, Mass.

74. THOMAS MANNING and wife Dorothy had a dau. Bridget b. 1727, May 9, at Boston; baptized May 21, King's Chapel, in the records of which church Dorothy Manning, presumably the same as above, appears, 1753, 58, '59, '61 and 1763 as "sponsor" when ch. of other families were baptized.

75. THOMAS MANNING and Elizabeth Eliot m. 1738, July 10, at Boston.

76. THOMAS MANNING and Eleanor Ireland, marriage intention 1746, June 27, at Boston.

77. THOMAS MANNING and Mary Franks m. 1748, Aug. 18, at Boston.

78. THOMAS MANNING and Esther Nicholson, Boston, 1749. See repetition as No. 106.

78*a*. THOMAS MANNING, born at Sudbury, Mass.: resided at Grafton in 1756-7, when he was a Colonial soldier, under Capt. John Taplin, 1756, and, secondly, was on training-band list, 1757.

78*b*. THOMAS MANNING, Halifax, Mass., was a Colonial soldier, 1762, under Capt. James Reed.

79. THOMAS MANNING and Mary Davis m. 1752, Aug. 27, at Newport, R. I.

80. THOMAS MANNING and Martha Pryor m. 1762, Aug. 1, at Newport.

81. THOMAS MANNING and Susanna Foot, marriage intention 1790, July 7, at Boston.

82. THOMAS MANNING, Revolutionary soldier. War Rolls give his residence as Boston and Dedham at various times; enlisted for 3 years 1777, Apr. 27, under Capt. David Allen and Col. John Crane; killed at Mounmouth, 1778, June 28. Adm. on his estate was granted 1793, May 20, to Florence Crowley. Mass. Senate Document, No. 1726, says: "This certifies that it appears by the books of the army that there remains due to the heirs of Thomas Manning, late a mattress in Col. Crane's regiment of artillery, who was killed at the battle of Monmouth," £20.0.0. Does the name of the administrator suggest that Thomas was of Irish origin?

82*a*. THOMAS DANIEL MANNING was long a resident of Susan, where he d. 1868, Oct. 14, aged 62-9-21. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Simon and Rachel (Gould) Jordan. Ch.: I. Elizabeth. II. Charles; m. Elizabeth Wilkins. III. Lydia S., b. 1834, Dec. 20; m. Benj. F. Arrington. IV. Thomas Henry; m. Irene Wagoner. V. Susan C.; unm. VI. William Harrison; d. aged 18 years. VII. Joseph Albert; m. Caroline E. Needham. VIII. Eliza B.; d. young. Tradition and the record of Mr. Manning's death say he was born in Boston. Tradition further says that his mother died when he was a very small child, and his father when he (Thomas D.) was 20 years old; that the father m. (2d) a Mrs. Bryant and had a second child, a daughter; and that this daughter and her mother finally went to a more westerly place to reside. All efforts to learn the names of Thomas Daniel's parents have failed. Not as an asserted connection, but as a suggestion, it may be asked: Can Daniel Manning, No. 35*a* in this appendix, have been his father? and was the Daniel just named the same man as Daniel Manning, No. 586 of the Cambridge family? The compiler of this volume has made a long investigation along this line of theorizing, but has failed to find reliable confirmation of his surmise. The theory may have no foundation of fact.

83. WILLIAM MANNING, a sailor, came to Boston in 1760 from Lisbon, in a vessel whereof one Marshman was captain; was taken sick and was unable to continue the voyage, whereupon the selectmen voted to harbor him at the alms-house on the Province account. He was there as late as 1762, June 30, and may have died there.

84. WILLIAM MANNING, of Norwich, Ct., bought a house and 13 acres of land there, on Trading Cove brook, 1771, Aug. 17, and probably was the same who, with wife Martha, had the following ch. born in Norwich. I. Anne, b. 1766, Sep. 15. II. Olive, b. 1769, Oct. 15. III. Lucy, b. 1777, Aug. 17. IV. John, b. 1780, Aug. 28. V. Samuel, b. 1783, May 10. The names in this family are strikingly like those current in the Cambridge race, and this may be a lost tribe, of unknown root. (But compare with the Gloucester-Marlborough family, Nos. 115, 116, 117, on a later page.)

85. WILLIAM MANNING, a minor aged about 19 years, of New Haven, Ct., chose a guardian, 1804, Apr. 20.

86. AN UNKNOWN. The will of Daniel Kittredge, of Bitterien, drawn about 1742, mentions, among his other heirs, his "daughter Elizabeth Manning." She was born 1699-1700, Jan. 12. Investigation and speculation have alike failed to prove or indicate whom she married to acquire the surname of Manning. No one is known who, even inferentially, may have been the Mr. Manning of the case. Possibly she was a second wife to some member of the Billerica family, but there is no evidence to that effect.

SECTION TWO—GLEANINGS CHIEFLY IN ESSEX CO., MASS., AND NORTHWARD.

NOTE—From a very early date there were families and, it would seem, unconnected individuals in Essex Co. who bore the name of Manning. As a rule they do not appear on records of births, marriages and deaths, and only vague signs can now be found of them. The earliest family of all may have become extinct. In the Eighteenth Century certain persons of the name were in the county, but all efforts to ascertain their origin and after history have failed, and, on the whole, it would be hard to find a more complete and puzzling state of confusion than the unconnected Mannings of said county present. What follows is very unsatisfactory, and, in its lack of definiteness, gives little indication of the time and labor vainly given to the clearing up of the mystery of the links that cannot be welded into a chain.

87. JOHN MANNING was at Ipswich in 1634, when, Jan. 26, he was granted 6 acres of land in equal shares with Thomas Howlett and others. He had a house in that town in 1635 [Hist. Col. Essex Institute, XIX-223], and was probably the same John paid, in 1639, for helping Goodman Woodward in "ruining up Merrimack" [Records of Mass., 1-261], or surveying that district. No more has been found of him, nor is it known whether he had children or was married.

88. MOSES MANNING is mentioned in a letter written by John Manning to John Devereau, dated 1651, 1st month, Ipswich [Essex Co. Court Records], in which Moses is called his brother; and John, the letter writer, was doubtless John, No. 87, here. No more is known of Moses.

89. THOMAS MANNING was in Ipswich, 1636; commoner, or part owner of common lands, 1641; called a tailor in 1653; d. 1668, Dec. 19, aged 74; hence, born about 1594. Valuation of his estate, Jan. 6 after, was £38.8.2, no heirs being mentioned. Doubtless a near relative of John [87]; perhaps a brother. John was old enough in 1635 to own a house; Thomas was then but 41, so they cannot have been father and son. What children he had is unknown. Later, there was a generation in which there were three brothers, Thomas, b. about 1645; John, birth unknown, and Daniel, b. about 1648. The father of these brothers was named Thomas, but whether he was the first Thomas (89) does not appear. There may have been an intermediate Thomas. The above Daniel, in a paper of 1704 (see his own sketch), refers to his father's "last will and testament." No such paper has been found. He also states that he (Daniel) was administrator of his brother Thomas' estate, and that the latter was executor of their father's will. Radically different deductions may be drawn from this. First, as the brother Thomas probably died in 1675, and the only other known Thomas Manning estate is that of the intestate of 1669, before mentioned, it may be accepted as fact that the first Thomas was father of the three brothers because there was no now-findable estate for brother Thomas to settle. Secondly, Daniel distinctly states that his father left a will, and this suggests that there was an intermediate Thomas, and that, in the passage of time, the will has been lost from among the Probate Records. However, human memory is not infallible, and in the lapse of 35 years Daniel may have forgotten that there was no will, or, more likely yet, the recorder of 1701 may have made a slip and confused a will with an intestate estate. Two contradictory facts remain to be mentioned. First, if the first Thomas was father of the three brothers he was, when his children were born, from 51 to 56 years old—a possibility rare in those days, but not improbable, especially as he may have made a second marriage. Secondly, no use of the term "senior" has been found at a date which would prove that he had a son Thomas prior to 1645, whereas, if he had, we should expect the word. "Senior" was often, but not always, used in such instances. The compiler will not undertake to say whether there was an intermediate Thomas.

90. THOMAS MANNING, b. about 1645, mentioned above, was in Ipswich in 1669, when he and his brothers John and Daniel quarreled with and assaulted one Mark Quilher [Ipswich Court Records], and in 1671, he testified that he was 26 years old. In 1674 some one of his name (doubtless he) bought land in Wells, Me. [York Deeds, n. 161], but if he removed there he soon returned to Ipswich. He was the Thomas Manning, "of Ipswich," who, as a soldier, marched under Capt. Lathrop, and was one of the victims, 1675, Sep. 18, when that unfortunate command was ambushed and slaughtered by the Indians at Bloody Brook, Deerfield. Inventory Sep. 30 after; valuation upwards of £107; Daniel Manning [92], administrator. Probably Thomas died unmarried; in 1701, Daniel states that he was then his only surviving heir; hence, Thomas left no descendants in direct line who were living in 1701.

91. JOHN MANNING, brother of Thomas 90, early became a resident of Wells, Me. York Co. deeds mention him in 1671 and 1673. He left no descendants who survived in 1701 (see sketches of his brothers), and perhaps never married; d. before 1671, Oct. 5, when "inventory of his estate was returned" [Savage].

92. DANIEL MANNING, brother of Thomas 90 and John 91, b. about 1648; testified in 1669 that he was 21 years old. Administrator, 1670, of his brother Thomas' estate. He inherited land in Wells, Me., formerly owned by his brother John, and probably that of his brother Thomas. He may have resided at Wells for a time, but, if so, returned to Essex Co. In 1703-4, Mch. 23, he, then residing at Ipswich, sold the commonage right which had been a family possession since 1611 [Essex Co. Deeds], and, in this paper, he states that he had been admr. of his brother Thomas' estate, and that Thomas "was executor of the last will and testament of my father Thomas Manning, being the sole and only surviving heir of my said father and said brother." In 1721-5, Feb. 9, Daniel, still living at Ipswich, sold, etc., to his "cousins," Abraham and Thomas Redington, of Rowley village in Boxford (Essex Co. deed). After that no more has been found of him. Abraham Redington, senior, had sons Abraham (b. 1647) and Thomas (b. 1649). There are several different ways in which the above consinship could have come about, and, in the lack of further evidence, the point need not be considered here. Did Daniel leave children? If not, his father's family in the male line became extinct with him, but the compiler is inclined, reasoning from theory, to believe Daniel did leave children. The Mannings of Portsmouth, N. H., of later period [see Nos. 112 and 113], may have been descendants, and so, too, may William Manning, of Gloucester [see 115]. If so, no actual evidence has been found to support the theory.

93. CHARLES MANNING* and Elizabeth (or Eliza?) Merrifield were m. 1718, Oct. 25, at Ipswich. No more is known of them. If Charles was a descendant of any family before mentioned he would seem to have been either of the very early Ipswich family, and probably descended from Daniel [92], or else of the more modern Richard Manning family of Salem-Ipswich, and a son of John and Joanna [Lash] Manning. (See No. 12, Richard Manning family.)

93a. CYRUS MANNING. The compiler's entire knowledge of the origin of this family is due to the report to him by the Major Manning mentioned below. Cyrus, says this report, was born in Essex, Mass. (Essex was established as a town in 1819, having previously been a part of Ipswich. Was the birthplace Ipswich, or should it really be, not the town, but the county of Essex?) "About the year 1800 he returned to Essex, and was never again heard from by his family." His widow m. a Mr. Monson. The only child of Cyrus which was mentioned in the above report was James, b. in or near Eastport, Me., in 1794; d. about 1866; m. Jane Bowness, and had children: I. Betsey. II. Mary Ann. III. Sarah. IV. Cyrus. V. Hamilton. VI. George A.; a commissioner to the Chicago World's Fair, and was at Post Falls, Idaho, 1891; a soldier of the Rebellion, 2d Mass. Cavalry; a captain; prisoner in Libby. VII. William C., b. about 1839; a soldier of the Rebellion in the 2d Mass. Cavalry; reached the rank of major; a captive in Libby prison for 14 months; afterwards settled at Newport, Me., where he d. in 1891; m. Ellen M. Fletcher; had two children, of whom Cora L. survived. Maj. Manning's war record was notable, and his prison experience thrilling. (See N. Y. Sun for 1891, Oct. 23.) VIII. Lydia. IX. Louisa. X. John. The present writer has searched long and carefully for some sign of the Cyrus Manning whose name stands at the beginning of this section, but nothing has been found, and nothing can here be said as to his origin.

94. DANIEL MANNING was a Colonial soldier, 1756, in Capt. Israel Davis' co. of Col. Bagley's regt. He is credited to Ipswich, but his birth-

* The connection, if there was any, of the subjects of the brief notes immediately following, with other families, has not been learned.

95. DOROTHY MANNING and Samuel Green, both of Marblehead, m. there 1713, Oct. 24.

96. ELIZABETH MANNING and Nathan Perkins m. 1731, Oct. 23, at Ipswich.

97. GRACE MANNING and Peter Trevally m. 1705, Aug. 15, at Marblehead.

98. HANNAH MANNING and John Chappell m. 1701, June 4, at Marblehead.

99. JACOB MANNING. Mr. Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, says: "Jacob [Manning], son of Return, was deputy marshal in the doleful days of 1692." The authority for this statement is not found, and, with due respect for the statements of the eminent antiquarian, the present writer is inclined strongly to question its correctness. The reasons are: First, at that date there was living in Salem one Jacob Manning, of the Richard Manning family of Salem-Ipswich [No. 6], who was constable in 1694, and might very naturally be the marshal's deputy of 1692. Secondly, because this Jacob was the only man of his name whom the compiler has found trace of at Salem at that period. Thirdly, because Return "Manning's" surname was not properly Manning but Munnings (see No. 127, after). Fourthly, because Mr. Savage does not himself credit Return with a son Jacob in his sketch of said Return. Fifthly, because the compiler has not found any such son Jacob, and, also, because, in the list of Return's children, there does not seem to be chronological room for such a son who could be old enough to be a deputy marshal in 1692. It is respectfully submitted that Mr. Savage was in error.

100. JOANNA MANNING and Richard Lee were m. 1691, July 18, at Marblehead.

101. JOHN MANNING and Elizabeth Stone m. 1769, Oct. 28. Probably both were of Salem, where they were baptized "in adult age," 1750, Feb. 4, at Salem Middle Precinct (afterwards, South Danvers). John probably soon died, for she m. (2d) 1777, Feb. 18, Wm. Reed, unless the compiler mistakes the identity of the Mrs. Elizabeth (Stone) Manning whom Mr. Reed married. If John had children the fact has not been learned: by her second marriage his widow had six.

102. JOSEPH MANNING, Salem, 1679. When Mrs. Anstice Manning and her children, of the Salem-Ipswich family, came to America in 1679, one name on the ship's list of passengers was Joseph Manning. He broke a "shinn" on the voyage. No more has been found of him. He was not of Mrs. Anstice's immediate family, but perhaps was a relative.

103. JOSEPH MANNING, "of Nantucket," m. at Salem, 1707, July, Hannah Becket. She was b. 1686, July 17. They had a dau. Hannah who m. 1726, Feb. 9, Ephraim Ingalls, and (2d) Richard Bethel, but no other ch. appear. After history and origin unknown.

104. MARY MANNING and Nicholas Holt m. 1708, Sep. 16. He was of Andover, where they resided and had several ch., as duly set forth in the Holt Genealogy.

105. MARY MANNING of Newburyport and Benj. Eaton m. 1778, Nov. 26.

105*a*. SAMUEL MANNING, of Marblehead, d. 1859, May 28, aged 66 years. The record of his death says he was born in Spain. Tradition also says he was a Spaniard, and that his original name was not Manning, but Manuel. He m. Elizabeth —— (Preble?), and some of his ch. were: I. Samuel; killed on the Eastern railroad 1848, Nov. 3; m. Elizabeth W. Stevens, and had a dau. Caroline who m. John H. Knight. II. Mary A.; m. John Walton. III. Rebecca; m. Edwin R. Goodrich. IV. Elizabeth, perhaps, who m. Calvin H. Lake.

106. THOMAS MANNING and Esther Nicholson, marriage intention 1749, Apr. 2, at Boston, and, if No. 64451 of Suffolk Co. Court Files is correctly understood, both had gone to that town in 1748 from Ipswich. A daughter Elizabeth was b. 1750, Nov. 1. Comparison with No. 83 of the Salem-Ipswich family may be made, though any seeming connection is liable to be deceptive.

107. WILLIAM MANNING and Sarah West m. 1798, July 1, at Salem. A gravestone by St. Peter's Church, in that city, is to the memory of Sally, wife of William Manning, who d. 1798, Aug. 21. Probably the same.

108. WILLIAM MANNING and Martha Teague m. 1798, Nov. 12 (at Salem?), according to report. The compiler has not found this item.

109. WILLIAM TAYLOR MANNING, born in Charles City county, Va., according to his obituary in the Salem Register of 1838, June 7; went to Essex Co., Mass., when twelve or fifteen years old, but soon settled in Beverly and made that place his permanent home. He was a Revolutionary soldier of long service. A part of the time he was a drummer, and in Col. Rufus Putnam's regt., with Capt. Job Whipple commonly his company commander. In 1818 a pension was granted to him for 6 years actual service. He m. 1787, Feb. 28, Elizabeth Woodbury. Evidently resided wholly in Beverly, where he d. 1838, June 1. In 1818 he gave his age as 60 years, which fixes his birth in 1757, or 1758. By will he gave to his wife Betsey, and his daus. Betsey Manning (afterwards m. —— Homans), Mary Patch and Alice Manning (later m. —— Cox). His widow d. 1840, Apr. 3. These were the only ch. who survived her, but whether others were born to the parents has not been learned.

110. UNKNOWN. The Abbot Genealogy states that Rachel Abbot, b. 1720, m. —— Manning. Neither known facts nor inference suffices to afford grounds for even a surmise as to his identity.

111. UNKNOWN. A letter, 1631, Apr. 12, from John Endicott to Gov. Winthrop, says: "I could wish when Manning hath recovered his strength that you would free him for he will never do you or Mr. Hewson service, for when he was well he was as negligent as the worst of them." (Felt's Annals of Salem.) This very early Manning is of unknown identity. Was he the same as No. 87?

112. JOHN MANNING, of Portsmouth, N. H., 1756, sold land in that year to Thomas Parker, and soon died, if he was, as seems likely, the same John of Portsmouth whose widow, Sarah, admrx., petitioned, 1757, for permission to sell a part of his land to pay his debts. No ch. are mentioned, and no more is known of him.

113. THOMAS MANNING, Portsmouth, innholder, deceased 1777. He may have been related to the subject of previous sketch (John 112), and he, this Thomas, may have been a descendant of Daniel Manning (92), of Ipswich. Mary, wife of Thomas, d. in 1773, aged 56, according to death notice in Boston News Letter of 1773, Nov. 4; after which he m. (2d) 1774, Feb. 3, Sarah Seward. She m. (2d) before 1780, John Aine (Orme?). The known ch. of Thomas were: I. James, bap. 1749, July 16; a mariner, and at one time captain of the privateer "General Sullivan," in the Revolutionary war; not further traced. II. Elizabeth, bap. 1753, July 29. III. Mary, bap. 1753, July 29. IV. Thomas; see below, No. 114. V. Augustus, probably, of whom I know no more than that he advertised in the N. H. Gazette, 1783, May 17, and after, that he had goods for sale at Capt. Thomas Manning's store; dress goods, nautical goods, sugar, tea, etc.

114. THOMAS MANNING, son of Thomas 113, admr. of his father's estate, was a sea captain and, in the Revolution, at one time commanded the privateer "General Sullivan." He seems to have continued as a mariner as late as 1787, sailing to St. Christophers, London, Martinico, etc., but, as early as 1783, had a store in Portsmouth, and, later, retired and devoted his time to mercantile pursuits. He was also a bank officer and prominent citizen. He m. Statira, dau. of Jonathan Ayers, who d. 1807, June 8, aged 54, and (2d) 1808, Jan. 9, Margaret Purcell, who d. 1830. Capt. Manning d. 1819, Feb. 24, aged 72. Ch.: I. Statira, bap. 1777, Apr. 6. II. Statira, again, bap. 1781, July 1; d. 1820, June 5; m. James H. Pierpont. III. Elizabeth Bennett, bap. 1783, June 1; m. Capt. Andrew W. Bell. IV. Mary Peirce, bap. 1785, Nov. 6; m. James Kennard; several ch. bap. in Portsmouth. V. Thomas Augustus, bap. 1787, June 3; a mariner in 1815, residing in Portsmouth; d. as early as 1821, when his estate was settled; evidently unm., as his heirs were his sisters and their ch. VI. Alice Sherburn, bap. 1789, Sep. 27; m. James H. Pierpont. VII. Sarah Ann, bap. 1792, Sep. 30; m. Andrew Halliburton. VIII. William, bap. 1791, Aug. 13; probably d. young. IX. Edward Sherburn, bap. 1795, July 19; a merchant; d. 1821, June 16; m. 1820, June 25, Mary Ann Shaw, who m. (2d) Thomas Stanhope English, of Boston. Edward gave all his property to his wife by will, mentioning no other heirs. Perhaps no child was born to him before or after his death. When Edward and his brother Thomas died the family of Thomas 114 undoubtedly became extinct in the male line. The evidence to that effect already given seems conclusive, but it is confirmed by the fact that, in 1829, the heirs of said Thomas were claimants for awards under the French spoliation act, and that, on reaching a successful termination, the case came before the Court holden at Exeter in that year, in October, with Woodward Emery as administrator of the estate. The notice thereof was printed in the Portsmouth Journal, following the Probate citation of Aug. 16, with the names of the 26 heirs. Among these appear the names Halliburton, Emery, Wise, Salter, Ingraham, etc., but no Manning is in the list.

115. WILLIAM MANNING, Gloucester, Mass., was in that town as early as 1702, Feb. 16, when he had a son William born by his wife Sarah (said to have been formerly the widow of Thomas Rowe). She d. 1702, Mch. 3, and he m. (2d) 1702, Dec. 4, Mary Smith, at Ipswich. The fact that he sought his second wife in that town may be taken, perhaps, as an indication that Ipswich was his own early home, but it is a faint and unreliable ray of evidence; yet, if we assume that he was of an established New England family, we can most reasonably assume that he was a descendant of the early Ipswich family, and probably of Daniel [92]. There is, however, no evidence to that effect. He was in Gloucester as late as 1704 [Essex Co. Deed]. He soon died, and his widow m. (2d) 1706, Mch. 22, Caleb Kimball, of Ipswich, and, after he d. in 1714, (3d), Joseph Pillsbury. She was a dau. of Joseph Smith, in whose family William Manning, junior, was reared. See below.

116. WILLIAM MANNING, Gloucester, fisherman, may be believed, theoretically, but, it would seem, safely, to have been the son of William 115, and himself the child b. 1702, Feb. 16. He m. at Gloucester, 1723, Apr. 1, Mary Boyles, doubtless dau. of Richard and Mary Boyles, who were of Beverly in 1741. William lived in Gloucester as late as 1737, but removed to Souhegan West [Amherst, N. H.] before 1741, and engaged as a carpenter and farmer. In that year, Nov. 20, Richard and Mary Boyles, above, sold to him a lot of land they owned in Amherst, which Wm. was then occupying, and had "settled" for them in conformity with the provisions of the original grant (Middlesex Co. Deed, 42-497). In 1749 a committee was chosen to dispossess him of land belonging to Deacon Bowtle which he had inclosed (history of Amherst). The compiler finds no more of William. In 1753 his wife, then a widow and residing at Gloucester, bought 9 acres of land, with dwelling house and two shops in Marlboro, and in 1754 she went to the latter town accompanied by her dau. Hannah (Middlesex Co. Court of Sessions). No more has been found of the widow, nor is the disposal of her homestead known. If it was sold by any person named Manning the deed was not recorded; possibly she married a second time. Ch. of William and Mary, b. at Gloucester: I. Sarah, b. 1724, Dec. 3. II. William, b. 1726, May 23; see No. 117, below. III. Martha, b. 1728, Mch. 5. IV. Mary, b. 1730, July 10. V. Elizabeth, b. 1732, Apr. 28. The Willard Genealogy says she m. (1st) — Bailey, and, (2d) Daniel Willard, and that she was of Marlboro at the time of her last marriage. In Merrimack Valley Genealogies mention is made of a Moses Bailey, b. 1730, Sep. 11, who m. Elizabeth —, and the two may connect, but this is a suggestion without known support. VI. Hannah, b. 1734, Apr. VII. Esther, bap. 1737, May 8.

117. WILLIAM MANNING, son of Wm. 116, and himself b. 1726, May 23, was of Gloucester in 1750. Perhaps he was the same Wm. who was a Colonial soldier, 1715, as one of Capt. John Goff's scouts in the service of New Hampshire [N. H. Provincial Papers, Vol. 16], and possibly he was one of the grantees of Brattleboro, Vt., 1753, Dec. 27 [N. H. Provincial Papers, 26-55], in which case the grant was, it may be, in reward for the above service. He m. in Gloucester, 1750, Aug. 24, Elizabeth Stone, and they had two children born there. In 1756 they removed to Marlboro; in 1759 to Townsend; and in 1761 to Middleton. In the same year Elizabeth returned to Marlboro with two children, but not accompanied by her husband. He may have been the William in Andover, 1767. (Courts of Sessions of Middlesex and Essex Counties.) When at Marlboro he was a Colonial soldier, 1756, in the expedition against Crown Point, under Capt. John Nixon, in Col. Timothy Ruggles' regt. In this year he served from Feb. 20 to Sep. 16 as a corporal, and from Sep. 17 to Dec. 3 as a "clerk" (unless there were two Williams of Marlboro, which does not seem likely; it will be noticed that one term immediately follows the other.) In 1757 he was again in service. His history after 1761 cannot be given. It may be worthy of mention that there was a Wm. Manning and wife Martha at Norwich, Ct., 1766 and after (see No. 84 here). No connection is known to exist between the two, but the Andover item may not apply to Wm. of Marlboro, and he may have lost his wife and married again, and have been the Wm. at Norwich; a possibility rendered the more likely by what is inferred concerning his son of the same name (see below). Ch. of Wm. and Elizabeth: I. Elizabeth, b. 1751, Aug. 22, at Gloucester; living in 1756, but not mentioned as accompanying her parents to Townsend in 1759; perhaps then deceased. II. William, b. 1754, Aug. 11, at Gloucester; living in 1761; history unknown. It is, however, worthy of notice that the U. S. Pension Rolls of Revolutionary soldiers, printed in 1834, mention a Wm. Manning, pensioner, aged 80 years, whose service had been in the Connecticut troop. The latter was living in Franklin Co., Ohio, in 1834. It will be seen that his age, then, exactly corresponds with that to which Wm. (born 1754) would have attained if then living. The pensioner's exact residence was not given by him, nor do his pension papers give it, and all efforts to trace his descendants have failed. In his application for a pension in 1820 he says that he enlisted in 1775 for seven months in Col. John Durkee's regt. of Gen. Israel Putnam's brigade, and, in 1777, enlisted for three years and served under Capt. Shunway and Cols. Prentice and Starr. Col. Durkee was of Norwich, Ct. William also resided in Franklin Co. in 1820. He then gave his age as 66, and his wife's as 70. Her name was not given. III. Mary, birth not found, but went with her mother to Marlboro in 1761.

MUNNINGS FAMILIES.

NOTE.—Persons bearing the above surname do not properly belong in this volume, and would find no mention here were it not that the names of Manning and Munnings have been so widely and extensively confused by historians and genealogists, not to mention town clerks of the Seventeenth Century. Mistakes made over 200 years ago have been repeated to the present day, and the name of Manning appears even in recent genealogies when Munnings should have been used. The present writer is not sanguine enough to think he can put an end to these errors, but it is worth trying; and, as he has made considerable study of the Munnings families (long since extinct, it would seem, in Massachusetts), a second reason exists for including the records in this place.

118. GEORGE MUNNINGS came from Ipswich, Co. Suffolk, Eng., in the ship Elizabeth, 1634, aged 37, with wife Elizabeth, 41, and ch., Elizabeth, 12, and Abigail, 7; was a freeman 1635, Mch. 4; resided in Watertown 1637; was an original proprietor of Sudbury, 1640, but removed to Boston as early as 1646. It does not seem that any mistake need be made in the spelling of his name. Munnings is the form observed in the records of the General Court. He was frequently a witness to deeds drawn by one Wm. Aspinwall, notary public, and there the form is the same. The latter should be authoritative. He can properly be given no other surname than Munnings. He was a soldier in the expedition to Block Island against the Narragansett Indians, sent to avenge the death of Capt. John Oldham, who was murdered by them, in the early stages of the Pequot war, and the records of the General Court, 1636, Sep. 2, say: "George Munnings is graunted 5<sup>l</sup> in regard to the losse of his eye in the voyage to Block Island." And, "the fines of this weeke are agreed to bee given to George Munnings, who lost an eye in the countryes service. & this to bee added to the 5<sup>l</sup> given before." He appears in a less lofty light in the next record of said General Court, 1637, June 6: "George Munnings was fined 20 sh<sup>s</sup> for seling beare and keeping a house of intertainment without license;" and, the next Nov., "Munings of Watertown is put downe from keeping an ordinary, or house of intertainment." Brighter days were in store for him, and, in 1646, "It is ordered, y<sup>t</sup> George Munnings shalbe allowed 15<sup>l</sup> p@ for his service in y<sup>e</sup> place of a keeper of y<sup>e</sup> countryes prison, to w<sup>ch</sup> he is chosen ov<sup>r</sup>, & beside y<sup>e</sup> appointed fees belonging to y<sup>t</sup> place, & y<sup>t</sup> he is freed fro<sup>m</sup> executing publike correction & execution." After some years he had fresh trouble. The prison did not always prove secure, and prisoners had a disagreeable way of taking unceremonious leave, for which the keeper was blamed. In 1654 one Benj. Sancer was incarcerated for blasphemy, but made his escape. When so dangerous a person was allowed to get away the wrath of the General Court fell upon Munnings, and he was fined and discharged from his office. A new prison would probably have been more to the point than a new keeper. George d. 1658, Aug. 24. His wife Elizabeth was living in 1651 [deed]. Later he m. (2d) Johanna, widow of Simon Boyer. She survived him, and, despite the difference of name, may have been the "Johannah Mullings," widow, who m. John Loughton, 1659, Sep. 4. In his will George mentions only his wife, though the inventory refers to Theophylus Munnings, of Dorchester (perhaps a relative). It is not known that George had more than two children. It has, however, been suggested that he was possibly father of George Manning, of Boston [No. 11 here]. The improbability of this is considered in the sketch of the other George, which see. Known ch.:

119. ELIZABETH, b. about 1622, in Eng.; not traced.
 120. ABIGAIL, b. about 1627, in Eng.; m. John Sawin, of Watertown, and had ch.: I. John, birth not recorded. II. Munnings, b. 1655, Apr. 4. III. Thomas, b. 1657, Sep. 27.

121. EDMUND MUNNINGS came in 1635, in the ship Abigail, and settled at Dorchester, Mass. For 265 years spelling has been running riot as to his surname. He is often mentioned in the Dorchester records, and generally as Munnings, but occasionally as Monings, Moninges, Mannings, etc.; while a tract of land to which his name was given was, it is said, popularly known as "Manning's Moon." The shipping clerk in England, in recording the departure of the family, distinguished himself by spelling the name in five different ways for the five persons named. Town clerks in the Colony recorded the name as both Munnings and Manning, whence has resulted endless confusion in historical and genealogical volumes ever since. On the other hand, court records, deeds and estates in the Colony use the form, Munnings, and that is the spelling of Edmund's will in England. Sift the evidence and it appears that irresponsible recorders spelled the name in all sorts of ways, but that official documents held fast to what was unquestionably the correct orthography, Munnings. When Edmund came in 1635 his age was 40, and he brought his wife Mary, 30, and ch., Mary, 9; Anna, 6, and Mahalaleel, 3. He long resided at Dorchester. He was a proprietor as late as 1658, but had then, perhaps, returned to England. He did return at some date, and d. there, in Denge, Co. Essex, shortly before July, 1667, leaving a wife Markiet. In his will he calls himself "the unprofitable servant of God." He bequeathed to his wife; to his sons Hopestill, Return and Takeheed, and to his daughters, "Harry" and Rebecca. At that time Return was his only son in America, and it is probable that the family soon became extinct here in the male line. Ch. of Edmund:

122. MARY, b. about 1626, in England.
 123. ANN, b. about 1629, in Eng.
 124. MAHALALEEL, b. about 1632, in Eng.; a merchant in Boston, and the inventory of his estate, following his death, indicates that he did a large business; but when he was accidentally drowned 1659-60, Feb. 27, by falling from a bridge into "ye mill creek" in Boston, at night, he left an insolvent estate, the final settlement of which was long delayed. He m., 1656, Hannah, dau. of Elder John Wiswall, of Boston. She m. (2d) Wm. Read, and (3d) Thomas Overman. She seems to have had two ch. by Mr. Read (Wm., b. 1665, Mch. 26, and John, b. 1669, Apr. 25).

She d. about 1694 when, June 5, adm. on her estate was granted to Matthew Johnson, of Woburn, husband of her sister Rebecca. Ch. of Mahalaleel and Hannah: I. Hannah, b. 1657, Sep. 23; m. 1675, Oct., Josiah Willis; went soon to England; reputed to be alive in 1695 [Suffolk Co. Court Files, 4180], and was the only surviving daughter and heir of Mahalaleel. II. Mahalaleel, junior; died 1659, Nov. 22. III. Mehitable, b. 1659-60, Jan. 20; see note to her sister Hannah.

125. REBECCA; mentioned in her father's will. Some one named Rebecca Munnings m. 1652, Jan. 14, Edmund Madocks, of Boston, and had Mary, b. 1655, Jan. 4, and John, b. 1657, Mch. 12.
126. HOPESTILL, b. 1637, Apr. 15, in Dorchester; returned to England and was executor of his father's will; m. a dau. of Richard Fouldger, of St. Lawrence, Essex, England.
127. RETURN, b. 1640, Sep. 7, in Dorchester. He m. at Hingham, 1664, Dec. 9, Sarah, dau. of Edmund and Elizabeth Hobart, of Hingham, where they resided until after March, 1668, when they removed to Boston. There the spelling of the surname was erratic, some of the children being recorded as those of Return and Sarah Munnings, and others as of Return and Sarah Manning. Return sold land in 1683, and again in 1689, which had previously belonged to his brother Mahalaleel (Suffolk Co. Deeds). He also brought suit in 1693 to secure possession of land in Dorchester formerly Edmund Munnings,' but then in possession of one Clapp, and, judgment being rendered against him, appealed, and gave as grounds for his contention, first, "Because I have sufficiently proved that I am the undoubted heir of Edmund Munnings as his only surviving Son, and heir to Mahalaleel Munnings as his only surviving brother;" secondly, because the deed by which Edmund purported to sell to Clapp was never executed or acknowledged (Suffolk Co. Court Files, 2804). He brought a like suit in 1695 against other Dorchester persons concerning land that had first been Edmund's, and then Mahalaleel's, but was occupied at time of suit by the defendants. This case was defended upon the claim that Hannah Willis, dau. of Mahalaleel, was living and, consequently, the actual heir; and judgment was again against Return. Boston records show the death, 1705-6, Mch. 24, of "Return Mullings," and, as this name has been found confused with Munnings in other cases, it seems safe to believe the deceased was the Return of this section. His ch. were: I. Edmund, b. 1665-6, Mch. 22, at Hingham. II. A Daughter, b. 1667-8, Mch. 2, at Hingham; doubtless died in a few weeks. III. Sarah, b. 1669, Apr. 7, at Boston. IV. Rebecca, b. 1670, Sep. 21, at Boston. V. Mary, birth not recorded, but mentioned in her grandfather Hobart's will; perhaps belongs here in the list. VI. Jeremiah, b. 1674, Apr. 5. What became of these children is uncertain, but not the slightest evidence has been found that the sons lived to manhood, and, unless they survived and removed to a distance, it is certain that Return was the last survivor of the male line in this country.

128. TAKEHEED, b. 1642, Oct. 20, at Dorchester; was living in England, in 1666, when he witnessed his father's will.

II. FAMILIES AND MARRIAGES CHIEFLY OUTSIDE OF NEW ENGLAND.

129. CHARLES MANNING was of Clinton, Dutchess Co., N. Y., in the Eighteenth Century. It is said that his father (name unknown) was buried in that part of the old Poughkeepsie cemetery which was destroyed to make room for the present Court House. Charles died, as reported to me, in 1810, aged 67; hence, born about 1743; and is buried at Pleasant Valley. At the same place is the grave of John Manning, who d. 1806, aged 66; hence, born about 1740. In their day there was also a Joshua Manning there, and two of his wives are buried at Pleasant Valley, viz: Mary, b. 1750; d. 1774, Mch. 10; and Betty, b. 1751, Jan. 15; d. 1784 (so the dates were sent to the compiler). It is believed this was the same Joshua (grandfather of Mr. A. R. Manning, of Alburgh, Vt. who removed to some place adjacent to Lake Champlain (the compiler is not informed where). This latter Joshua was b. 1751, Sep. 15 (place unknown), and was three times married. By his first wife he had sons Jacob, Joseph and John; by the second wife, Harry and Thomas; by the third wife, Absalom, Joshua, Gabriel and Richard, the last named being father of A. R. Manning. From Mr. Wm. J. Manning, Muskegon, Mich., the following report has been received: At the close of the Revolution his great grandfather (name unknown) went from or near Dutchess Co. to Canada, accompanied by his sons Joseph, Gabriel, Jacob, Isaac, Joshua, Thomas and John. The first five finally removed to near London, Ontario; the last two remained near Lacolle. The sons of the above Isaac were Jacob, John, William, Harry, Alpha, Wilsie and Isaac. That the families mentioned by these two correspondents were closely related is certain; whether they were one, and of the same generation, in which case allowance must be made for the brevity of human memory, is not certain, as the names do not exactly correspond. Descendants are very numerous in Canada and Michigan. The Charles Manning first mentioned in this section was, perhaps, the same Charles of Dutchess Co. of whom descendants say he had ch. Charles, Caleb, John, Levi, Samuel, Joseph.

* In newspapers and geographies the name of this county (of Dutchess Co., N. Y.) is spelled "Dutchess." Historians who have given special importance to the subject omit the "t." It seems so certain, despite some denial, that the name was bestowed in honor of the Duchess of York, as New York County was named for the Duke of York, that the present volume will take its chances of being wrong on the side of logic rather than to adopt so remarkable a spelling as Dutchess.

Mercy, Mary, Lucy and Ruth Ann. Of this branch of the family a chart has been drawn by William M. Du Boies, Esq., of White Plains, N. Y. A tradition in one branch is that the family went to Dutchess Co. from Smithtown, L. I. Despite wide inquiry and investigation the origin of the family is unknown to the present writer, but the occurrence of the names John, Thomas, Jacob and Richard cannot help directing the inquiring mind to the Salem-Ipswich family, and, studying that family, the inquiry is unavoidably awakened, Did John Manning [Salem-Ipswich, No. 12], son of Nicholas [2], leave descendants, and, if so, were the Mannings of Dutchess Co. descended from him?

130. EDWARD MANNING. His name appears in the county records at Albany, N. Y., 1746, as purchaser of land at Covey's Brook [deed; index says Curry's Brook]. The place may now be extinct under that name, but descendants place the early home as Princetown (now in Schenectady Co.). The most likely theory seems to be that this family is not related to any other herein. According to descendants, Edward's ch. were: I. John. II. Christian, who had sons (names not learned). III. Samuel; had a son Edward S. IV. Abram; had sons Abram, Solomon and John. V. Edward, b. 1771, at Princetown, and had ch.: 1. John, who had Wm. H., Edward and Ralph. 2. James, b. 1801; d. 1867; had sons: (a) Delevan, of Albany and Buffalo, whose sons are James D., Wm. L., Henry E. and Romeyn L. (b) Gilbert H. 3. Solomon; never m. 4. Henry, who had a son Edward Andrew Morrison.

131. JOHN MANNING was owner and captain, as early as 1653, Nov., of a vessel in which he made trading voyages along the coast of Conn., N. Y. and Va., and probably other places. It was a time when the troubles between the English and Dutch were in full force, and trade with the latter was prohibited by royal decree of England; but when Manning brought his vessel into the harbor at Milford, Ct., in the spring of 1654, he was detained and brought before the General Court at New Haven, the vessel being left at Milford. Being formally put on trial he was charged with having traded with the Dutch at Manhatoes [New York], "and so furnishing the enemies of the comonwealth of England wth provissions;" but he defended himself so energetically that, being also favored by an influential witness, who intended going with him as a passenger, he was about to be released under bonds when news was received that Manning's men had "wth a high hand and threatening speeches, caryed away" the vessel out of Milford harbor, but had been "pursued by a shalopp well manned and armed," and the vessel recovered. Manning denied all knowledge of this defiant step, but when witnesses testified that the crew had acted under his explicit orders, the trial went on. It was shown that he had on several occasions carried cargoes of bread, tobacco, wine, etc., from Va. to N. Y. He produced papers showing that he was in good favor with Sir Henry Moody and others of Gravesend, near New York, and, in the face of strong evidence, persisted in denying that he had in any way traded with the Dutch; but the finding of the Court was against him. He was fined 20 shillings for "two lyes (at least)," and his vessel, being adjudged a lawful prize, was confiscated and ordered to "be sould at Millford on Tuesday next, at three a clock, in ye afternoone, by an inch of a candell, he that offers most to have her." [New Haven Colonial Records, 1653-1665, p. 69.] This Capt. Manning was undoubtedly the same as the next, which see.

132. JOHN MANNING, Capt., an early resident and prominent figure in New York City was probably the same man as the subject of the previous sketch. His career on land was as striking as on water. He was witness to an Indian deed in 1661; one of the commissioners of Esopus, 1669; sheriff of New York, 1667-72, and was commonly known as Captain Manning. He was in favor with Gov. Lovelace, and during the temporary absence of the latter from the city was often placed in command of Fort James. He was thus in command in 1673 when a hostile Dutch force appeared in the neighboring waters and demanded a surrender. After some parley the fort was delivered up to the enemy; a serious loss to the English. Capt. Manning soon sailed for England to explain the matter to the King. At that time he was still a sheriff as appears by steps taken by the authorities to "pitch" upon a "new Sheriff for Long Island East Riding." He left "divers debts and bills" and proceedings were begun to "wind up his estate." On the voyage to England his wife died. He appeared before the King and the Duke of York, who exonerated him, deciding that Fort James could not have been held with so small a force; but he did not find such clemency on his return to New York. Citizens who had suffered financial losses by reason of the surrender clamored for satisfaction, and Capt. Manning was put on trial on charges of treason and cowardice. Of the first he was acquitted, but was adjudged guilty of cowardice and sentenced to have his sword broken over his head and to be forever debarred from holding public office. Modern writers incline to pronounce the sentence severe and unjust, and agree with the royal powers that the strength of the Dutch was not to be defied. However, the citizens of that day had suffered money loss; a victim was wanted; they found one. After this Capt. Manning retired to an island owned by him and situated in the waters of the East River, where he passed his remaining years, entertaining freely and probably enjoying himself quite as well as in his days of power. He died later than 1685. It is not known that he left children of his own, and his island passed into the hands of Mary Manningham, said to have been a daughter of his wife by a former marriage. She m., 1676, Apr. 26, Robert Blackwell, whose name became permanently fixed upon the estate that had been Manning's, and which is now widely known as "Blackwell's Island," being the seat of many of the corrective institutions of New York county. An attempt has been made to connect Capt. John of New York, by inference, with Capt. John Manning of Boston [No. 23]. The known facts are decidedly against the theory and, indeed, seem to render it impossible. The writer who advances the theory [vide Appleton's Cyclopaedia of Am. Biography] seems to base his suggestion upon a statement which may be quoted from his article on John of New York; as follows: "His employment in New York came through the recommendation of Samuel Maverick, who, in a letter of 16 Sept., 1663, to the Earl of Clarendon, lord high chancellor of England, commended Manning as one 'who hath many years been a commander under Maj-Gen. Morgan, who hath given him a large and ample certificate, which he will show you . . . He is well known and beloved in New England.'" The present writer supposes this Samuel Maverick to be the same who had dwelt at Noddle's Island [East Boston], and, perhaps, the same of the name who was commissioner in New York; and his first-mentioned residence, together with the statement that Manning was "well known" in New England, might seem to bear out the inference, but all further facts are against it. According to Lamb's History of New York, Capt. John of the latter place "had formerly commanded a trading vessel between New Haven and New York" (from which we may well believe he was the Capt. John, mariner, of the previous sketch [see 131], in which case he had been navigating the coast waters during a period beginning as early as 1653). We have seen that he sailed to Virginia, as well as New York and Connecticut, and, in pursuing his sea ventures, governed, it would seem, in his choice of ports solely by the advantageous circumstances of the hour, he would naturally include Boston as a port, and may thus have met Mr. Maverick, or the latter may have seen him in New Haven. Again, he is not mentioned as one "well known" in Boston, but "in New England." Other reasons exist for believing that John of New York and John of Boston were entirely different persons. First, the wife of John of New York died at sea in 1673, whereas, the wife of John of Boston continued to reside in Boston until her death at a date later than 1687. Secondly, John of New York died after 1685, and the wife of John of Boston had married (2d) William Gerrish before 1676, Aug. 18. Thirdly, John of New York had "many years been a commander under Maj-Gen. Morgan." The most careful search has failed to discover any such high military officer in the Colonies at that period, and the only one known to history was in England, being Sir Thomas Morgan, who followed the calling of arms from at least 1645 to 1667, and was, during the final years of his service, Major-General of the English troops; and he it must have been, it seems, who was alluded to in Samuel Maverick's letter. John of Boston arrived in the Colony in 1640, and engaged as a merchant; and was following that peaceful calling at a time, it would seem, when John of New York was serving in the English army as a "commander" under Gen. Morgan. John of Boston associated himself with the local militia and was styled "captain" in 1655, but had previously been plain Mr. Manning. Moreover, John of New York appears to have been a sea captain as early as 1653, and John of Boston was certainly a merchant later than that date; and, finally, to assume that the two were one would necessitate the assertion that John and Ann of Boston, husband and wife, had each taken a new matrimonial partner while the other was living.

133. JEFFREY MANNING was in Piscataway township, New Jersey, as early as 1676, in which year he purchased land. He was one of three commissioners to lay out land grants, 1682, and was marshal of the first County Court of Middlesex, held at Piscataway, 1683. He d. in 1693. He was the ancestor of a family that has been large and influential in and beyond N. J., and is evidently extensive to the present day. Mr. O. B. Leonard, of Plainfield, N. J., has collected the records of many descendants. Jeffrey m. Hepsibah, dau. of Joseph Andrews, of Hingham, Mass., and granddau. of Sir Thomas Andrews, Lord Mayor of London. As to the possibility that Jeffrey was related to one of the Manning families of New England, read what is said in the sketch of Capt. Nicholas Manning [2], of the Salem-Ipswich family. Jeffrey's children were: I. John, b. about 1670; m. Elizabeth Dennis and had ch.: 1. Gershom, b. 1694. 2. Elizabeth, b. 1695. 3. John, b. 1697. 4. Mary, b. 1700. 5. Ephraim, b. 1701; m. Elizabeth, dau. of Benjamin Fitz Randolph. She was a sister of Nathaniel Fitz Randolph, who, born 1703, Nov. 11, at Princeton, N. J., is believed to have been the same man of his name mentioned in the sketch of Capt. Nicholas Manning [2], of the Salem-Ipswich family. 6. Ruth, b. 1703. 7. Martha, b. 1705. II. Benjamin, b. about 1674; m. Ann Blackford. III. James, b. about 1676; m. Christiana Laing. Ch.: 1. James, b. 1700. 2. Margaret, b. 1701. 3. Ebenezer, b. 1703. 4. Isaac, b. 1705. 5. Nathaniel, b. 1707. IV. Elizabeth; m. Thomas Fitz Randolph. V. Joseph, b. about 1678; m. Temperance Fitz Randolph. Ch.: 1. Joanna, b. 1705. 2. Trustrum, b. 1710. 3. Mary, b. 1712. 4. Elizabeth, b. 1713. 5. Eunice, b. 1715. 6. Rachel, b. 1715. 7. Jeffrey, b. 1719. 8. Grace, b. 1721. 9. Ruth, b. 1726.

134. JOHN MANNING of Pennsylvania. The following account is exclusively from family tradition, which says he was reared in London, Eng., and came to this country "before the Revolutionary war." The exact date is unknown, but about 1770 he became owner, by original entry and purchase, of a tract of land in Manor township, Lancaster Co., Pa. Descendants are yet living in Highville, Ephrata, etc., while early emigrations to Ohio and Indiana have liberally peopled those States, the family being numerous. John lived, it is said, to be 94 years old. A family estimate of his birth-date places it about 1720, but this may be too early. He m. (1st) Miss Groover; (2d) Miss Mellinger, by whom he had three sons; and (3d) Miss Zeigler, "by whom he had five or six sons." There were also two daughters. The sons, it is said, were: I. John. II. David. III. Jacob; lived to be nearly 89; m. Miss Seldom-ridge and had issue, Elizabeth, Mary, Mattie, George, John, Jacob, Benjamin, Joseph, Catherine and Henry. The latter, b. about 1804, was living at Highville in 1891. IV. Samuel. V. Jacob. VI. William.

135. HANNAH MANNING and John Smith, m. 1665, Feb. 13, in New York State; place not learned.

136. ROBERT MANNING and Mary Fforgison m. about 1676, Apr. 1 [date of license]. Both were "of Westchester." N. Y.

137. THOMAS MANNING and JOHN MANNING sailed from England for Virginia in 1635. Their after history has not been learned. Persons of the name of Manning have been well represented, perhaps numerous, in Virginia, Maryland and other Southern States. Whether they were descendants of the above two settlers, or from some other source, is unknown to the compiler of the present volume.

CORRECTIONS.

THE CHRISTIAN NAMES IN THE WILLIAM MANNING FAMILY

The first number is the year of birth; the second, the distinguishing number of the individual whose name precedes it. Page numbers do not appear in the index; all records are to be found by recourse to individual numbers. The surnames show whom each Manning married.
